Don't "trust to luck" Bake with Quaker Flour

It always acts right and always the same

YOU never trust to luck when you bake with Quaker Flour. You know that it will act exactly right because it has passed practical home-baking tests at the mills before it can bear the Quaker name.

Quaker Flour is milled from wheat which has shown the highest milling qualities and food value under rigorous tests. It is further tested every hour in milling to ensure a flour constantly up to the rigid Quaker Standard.

These three tests assure you that you will always have bread, cakes, and pastry of fine, even texture and enticing flavour. Every sack backed by our sweeping guarantee. If Quaker Flour does not give you the most perfect satisfaction the dealer is authorized to return your money.

Packed in machine sewn sacks, Quaker Flour is not touched by human hands.

EVERY MONTH MANY WOMEN

Take ZUTOO Tablets and are free of the Griping Pain and Sick Headaches.

Read what Mrs. Wright says: "I received your sample of Zutoo Tablets, and took them for severe pain (monthly) and headache. At the end of 30 minutes, I was entirely free of pain and experienced no more throughout the period. I suffer a great deal at times and feel grateful that I have a remedy which affords quick relief. Every woman in the land should know about Zutoo Tablets and what they will do."

TAKE ZUTOO

There is no mystery about this

Many people feel that arranging a long distance talk is complicated.

And it is really so simple!

Your local operator will connect you with certain nearby points listed in the front pages of your directory. If you do not know the number, ask "Information."

In calling more distant points, ask for "Long Distance". Tell her your telephone number, your name, the city you wish to reach, the distant telephone number if you know it. If you do not know it, "Long Distance" will look it up.

The operators are always courteous and helpful, and the experience will convert you to the regular use of a wonderful service.

Why not try it?

Herbs That Heal When Lungs and Bronchial Tubes Seem all on Fire

Fifty years ago, a quiet-going soul, James Gallagher, came to Peterborough County. He was a marvelous skill in compounding herbal medicine.

One of his many prescriptions—for folk subject to Bronchitis or similar ills and nasty coughs and colds—was his Indian Lung Remedy, full of the health-giving power drawn from Mother Nature, herself. Wonderfully healing to inflamed tissues. A builder of good, red blood. Make the acquaintance of this tried, reliable remedy. Keep well this Winter. Together with the other fine Gallagher Herbal Household Remedies, now obtainable from

Keep an eye on your "Spare"

WHAT'S the good of a "spare" if it won't take you home when you need it?

Just because it hasn't been on the road much is no guarantee that it is fit for work. The rain may have run inside and rusted the rim. The dust may have crept in. The tire may have picked up nail ends or flints when you used it last, and a few more miles will force them through the casing. It may not be inflated up to its correct running pressure.

Drop in for a free inspection of your tires, including the spare.

Thousands of Mothers Use No Other Medicine

Baby's Own Tablets Are the Ideal Remedy for Babies and Young Children

Canadian mothers are noted for the care they give their little ones — the health of the baby is most jealously guarded and the mother is always on the lookout for a remedy which is efficient and at the same time absolutely safe. Thousands of mothers have found such a remedy in Baby's Own Tablets and many of them use nothing else for the ailments of their little ones. Among them is Mrs. Howard King, of Truro, N.S., who says:—"I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers of young children as I know of nothing to equal them for little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Father," said a young man, "I have made up my mind to paddle my own canoe hereafter."

"I'm certainly delighted to hear it, my son!" said the old man.

"And, father," went on the young man, "I want to begin at once, so kindly let me have ten pounds to buy a canoe to paddle with."

OBITUARY

Esther V. Harrison.

The funeral took place at Adolphustown, on Friday afternoon last of Esther Clark, widow of the late George N. Harrison, in her eighty-fourth year. She was the daughter of Gershum Clark, of Athol, Prince Edward County, in which county she taught school for many years. After marriage, she spent the remainder of her life in Adolphustown. She worshipped with the Brethren. Hers was a life of service to others, taking as her example her Lord and Saviour, who became her Redeemer and whose shed blood she trusted in. Many times did she express hope of living to see the second coming of her Saviour to earth. She had been in declining health for the past three years, but the end came suddenly. Left to mourn her loss is her only surviving sister, Mrs. Hattie Mackman, of Picton; her only son, E. Blake, and two grandchildren, Ralph and Winifred. Interment took place at Glenwood, Picton, Ont.

The Woman's Institute Work.

It will be of interest to the parents of the town to learn that the Women's Institute have secured the services of Mr. Kendall, organist in Trinity Church, to teach singing in the Public Schools of our town. Parents have expressed a wish for this work to be taken up for some time, and it is with confidence that W. I. takes up this work, that the people will support their effort, and when the W. I. comes before the town with an entertainment to raise funds it will have the full support of the whole community.

Carnival! Carnival!

Everybody come to the Armouries, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 6th, and help to make the Carnival a great success. Bear in mind that all money goes to the relief of the poor and needy, so make this a real thanksgiving time by doing your part. In addition to the games, there will be booths for cooked food, candy, fruits, vegetables, and fancy work, and donations of articles for these different booths are asked. Let this be your invitation and get your contributions ready. Bring or send them to the Armouries, Monday, Nov. 5th.

Your booths have been filled with plenty
Your table has felt no lack.
In safety you seek your slumbers,
Your purse is in nowise slack.
You follow your daily pleasures,
But what would the story be
If the nightmare that clutches the needy
Settled its hold upon thee?

SAD DROWNING IN THE NAPANEE RIVER

On Friday morning, Oct. 26th, a sad accident occurred in Napanee, when Clifford Leary met his death by drowning in the river just below the bridge at Robin Hill. Clifford, along with several others of his little schoolmates, was on his way home from school after the morning session. On the way they stopped to play along the water's edge and on top of the retaining wall on Dundas street.

There seems to have been only one person who saw the accident. Lily Alcombrack, a little girl, was crossing the new swing bridge at Springside Park, and saw Clifford throwing pebbles into the water, then lose his balance on the wall and fall in. She ran to help him out, but could not get him, so she called for help. The father, working in Gibbard's, was notified and soon a number of men were on the spot. But after this point is not deep, and the body was speedily recovered, and although an hour and a half was spent trying to resuscitate life, the effort proved vain.

Clifford Leary was just 5 years and 11 months old, his father being John Leary, an employee in Gibbard's furniture factory.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon. Rev. Gus Dellino conducted the service from the residence in Clarksville, and six of Clifford's playmates acted as pall-bearers. Interment took place in Riverview cemetery.

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERY DISCUSSES READING

On Thursday of last week the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church met in special session at Deseronto. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the "Cultural and Spiritual Aspects of the Presbytery's Work".

The morning was given over to a discussion of the reading habits of the people. In view of the multiplicity of books and the difficulty of choosing the best ones, it was decided that the ministers of the church urge the woman's organizations to consider the problem of reading for children; that the Young People's Societies deal with the reading of the young people, and the Official Board tackle the problem of the adult reading.

After lunch in the church, the afternoon was given over to a consideration of the place which evangelism in its broadest sense should have in the church's life. Rev. Geo. A. Brown, of Chalmers Church, Kingston, led in a deeply spiritual discussion of this vital problem.

Besides Rev. Geo. A. Brown, the Presbytery had to assist them with their discussion, Dr. Solandt, Associate Manager of the United Church Publications; Dr. Watts, of the chair of Practical Theology in Queen's Theological College, and Dr. Gunn, Moderator of the General Council.

—The regular meeting of Eastern Star, L.O.B.A., No. 245, was held in the lodge room, which was beautifully decorated in honor of the Provincial Grand Mistress of Ontario East, Mrs. Beaven, of Ottawa, who commended the lodge on the general way in which they had provided in money, clothing and quilts for our Orange home at Richmond Hill, which is kept solely by the Orange Association. The speech of the Grand Mistress was listened to attentively by the members of the Association. After the meeting was closed in the usual way, all repaired to the Paisley House, where a bountiful banquet had been prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick, in their dining hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

BETHEL

The farmers are nearing the completion of their fall ploughing in this vicinity.—The severe cold spell of Monday and Tuesday last week, which ended in a solid freeze up on Tuesday night, freezing the waters of Varty Lake completely over, made one think that our nice fall weather was over for this year; but on Wednesday another change of weather took place, and we are once again at time of writing favoured with mild fall weather.—Mr. Levi Salsbury is leaving on Sunday, with his usual chums, for their annual deer hunt in North Addington and Frontenac counties.—The Moscow Women's Institute held their annual Hallowe'en social at Mrs. William Jackson's on Wednesday night of last week, and proved a most decided success, over eighty friends were present, and so many and varied were the costumes present that the judges had some difficulty in deciding the winners for the prizes.—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dunn are spending a few weeks with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Salsbury.—The Anniversary services were well attended at Colebrook United Church, on Sunday a week ago, a liberal offering received, which was thankfully accepted, as there was no entertainment on Monday night, following the services.—Mr. and Mrs. Russel Gilligan and son, Ernest, of Shannonville, were with their parents over Sunday, for our Anniversary services.—Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warren on the arrival of a son —Reid Alvin.—Mrs. Jack Adams, of Belleville, with her sister, Mrs. Percy Galbraith, for a few days last week.—Mrs. Ed. McKnight spent a few days recently with her mother at Piccadilly—a number from this vicinity attended the Hallowe'en socials held at Camden East in the United Hall, and the Anglican Hall.

DORLAND.

A very lively scene was enacted in school room of the United Church on Friday evening, when numerous spooks, witches, and various other hideous figures and faces, as well as some plain masks and pretty costumes gathered there. Mr. J. L. Haycock, elected as master of ceremonies. First came the judging of costumes. Each class paraded around the room. The ladies in fancy costumes made a pretty picture, but those in comical dress called forth spirited applause. It was rather hard to regulate the gentlemen to their proper classes, but the children created the greatest interest. When the masks were removed it was discovered that several ladies were gentlemen and vice versa. Then followed various stunts, and last, but not least, lunch, which consisted of sandwiches, fried cakes, pumpkin pie and coffee. Seasonable decorations were tastefully arranged.—Rev. J. A. Plant, B.A., conducted Anniversary services at Queensboro' on Sunday. In his absence Rev. Wm. Parker, of Queensboro', presided on this circuit.—Mr. and Mrs. B. Sanderson, of Yarker, were recent visitors at W. J. Magee's.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rombough are visiting relatives in New York State.—Bobbie Templeton, Napanee, was a week end guest of Mr. Jack Roblin.

TAMWORTH

Sincere regret was expressed in the village and surrounding country on Saturday, when it was known that Mr. James Wheeler received a message that his brother had passed away in Watertown. Johnnie, as he was familiarly known, was beloved and respected by all classes, old and young, for his bright, genial and happy manner. Mr. Wheeler left immediately for Moscow, where he was joined by Major and Mrs. Amey, to attend the funeral. We extend our deep sympathy to the bereaved family.—The Women's Institute gave a very successful Hallowe'en party on Wednesday evening.—Donald Wells and mother are visiting friends in Toronto and Buffalo.—A number of radiators were frozen during the cold spell a few days ago.—E. J. Courneya, our local auctioneer, is kept busy.—Quite a number of young people attended the masquerade party in Enterprise on Friday evening.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chamber,
Nov. 6th, 1928.

Council met in regular session, with Councillors Austin, Loucks, Daly Simpson, Kimmerly, Reeve Boyes, and Mayor Roy in the chair.

Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Letter was read from Mrs. S. H. Thompson, in regard to a tree on town property, asking it to be removed. Moved by Coun. Simpson, that it be left in the hands of Streets Committee with power to act. Seconded by Coun. Loucks. Carried.

Letter was read from the Orillia Board of Trade, regarding exhibition dates. Moved by Coun. Tustin, seconded by Coun. Simpson, that it be referred to Chamber of Commerce. Carried.

An application for position of caretaker of Town Hall was received, and referred to Town Property Committee.

Letter from Inspector of Public Health, stating there has been no real case of Rabies in Napanee or district in the last two months or so, and the by-law regarding dogs could be safely repealed. Filed.

Reeve Boyes entered and took his seat.

A deed regarding the Wallace property and Town of Napanee, was shown, and was accepted with thanks. Also that taxes on this property be lifted.

Moved by Councillor Tustin, and seconded by Coun. Simpson, that the Finance Committee's report be adopted. Carried.

Streets Committee reported that the streets were being kept as clean as could be on account of the leaves being very thick on the streets at present. Also investigate into the matter of a road leading from the town plant on Roblin's Hill, onto the highway. Referred to Streets Committee with power to act.

Parks Committee's report was read, and adopted. Also that some protection be placed on north bank of river between R. R. bridge and highway bridge. This was left in the hands of Streets Committee to investigate and report.

Moved by Reeve Boyes, seconded by Councillor Daly, that the County Rate be referred to Reeve to investigate and report.

Moved by Councillor Simpson, seconded by Reeve Boyes, that an Assessment Manual be purchased for the Treasurer. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Simpson, seconded by Reeve Boyes, that the placing of insurance on the Town Hall be left in the hands of Town Property. Carried.

Town Property Committee recommends that :—

1. Mr. Masters continue on as caretaker until the new council meets in January, 1929.

2. That the Town Property Committee make arrangements with County Police in regard to the use of Magistrate's office and Court Room.

3. That on no account allow special meetings to be held in the Council Chamber during day.

4. That the fee for use of Town Hall for charitable institutions or churches be $10.00.

5. That the rent of the Assembly Hall for concerts or entertainments be $20.00.

6. That the rent of the whole building be $30.00.

7. That when only the upper floor be used, with equipment, if desired, the fee be $20.00.

8. That no refund be made to anyone.

9. That all damages and losses incurred by parties using Town Hall, be paid by them.

10. That no chairs be loaned or rented.

The report was adopted.

The Rev. A. J. Wilson appeared before the Council. He pointed out that Armistice Day comes on Sunday this year, and that it is ten years since the armistice was signed. This fact along with the new interest in peace which has come to the front this year, he said should make the community more anxious than usual to participate in remembrance of those who died to secure peace and liberty to the world. He ventured the suggestion that the Council, representing the town, should officially seek to make the service on Armistice Day as general and widespread as possible. Mr. Wilson complimented the Council on their progressive views and spoke in high praise of the improvement of the town under their guidance, and expressed his appreciation of the courtesy of the Council in permitting him to address them. After Mr. Wilson had left the Council discussed the matter, decided to purchase a wreath and co-operate with other bodies in observing Armistice Day on Sunday afternoon.

Councillors Simpson and Tustin reported that the Poultry Fair dates were set, and that half of the expenses are being paid by the Board of Commerce, and half by the municipality.

Light and Social Welfare Committee reported that lights are to be placed on every pole between Wales' corner and Unger's garage, and that two standards are being placed in front of Harvey Warner park.

Moved by Reeve Boyes, that the question of Hallowe'en be left in the hands of the Fire and Water Committee. Seconded by Councillor Simpson. Carried.

CANADA'S WAR DEAD SPEAK

To-day you vision distant graves
Among the poppies set;
The pain, the anguish, and the tears
All these are with you yet;
But these be futile memorizings
We plead you to forget.

Scarce had our homes been pioneered
When came the Mother's cry;
And we, we were her rightful sons,
Who held her banner high.
Who had been schooled to sacrifice
Beneath a western sky.

We answered, and on Flemish fields,
We set our slender line.
Proud that, we tarried not to ask
For further word or sign;
To-day our dead and living leave
An heritage divine.

At St. Eloi and Vimy Ridge,
At shell-swept Passchendaele,
We held our thinning lines of men,
We held! . . . and did not fail;
At Courelette we held the foe
With lips faith-set and pale.

These are but memories; to-day
Our blood-stained bayonets rust;
Our earthly forms have mingled with
Old mounds of valiant dust . . .
To you who mourn let now be born
Inviolate our trust.

Our war-torn souls are like the stars
That ride the silver night;
For death has cast her gentle spell
Upon our feeble sight;
While God completes His masterpiece
Of beauty, hope and light.

Think of us only when the dawn
Comes with the wind's soft cry,
As silent marchers in a host
That arise the morning sky,
For we are happy in our lot
And would not hear you sigh.

To-day you vision distant graves
Among the poppies set;
The pain, the anguish, and the tears
All these are with you yet;
But these be futile murmurings
We plead you to forget.

For Swollen Joints

Most remedies fail but Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's for joint troubles only, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, finger or spine—whether rheumatic or not.

It limbers up stiff, inflamed, painful, creaky joints so quickly you'll be astonished.

Two seconds' rubbing and away it goes through skin and flesh right down to the bone and ligaments—that's why it succeeds. Ask Wallace's Drug Store or any reliable druggist.

LETTER OF SYMPATHY

Marlbank, Oct. 26th, 1928.

To Mrs. James Marlin and Family.

We, the officers and members of Lime Lake L.O.L. No. 1113, wish to convey to you our sincere sympathy in the sad bereavement that has come to you.

Bro. James Marlin has been a highly respected member of our Lodge, and also one of our earnest workers, having joined the Lodge in the year 1885, and continued a faithful member for thirty-five years, when he transferred his certificate to L.O.L. No. 159, Tamworth.

Signed on behalf of officers and members of L.O.L. No. 1113.

Presentation and Address

On Thursday evening, October 18th, the friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. James Booth met at their home to show their love and esteem for them before leaving the neighbourhood for their new home in Selby. The following address was read by Mrs. T. J. Russell:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Booth,—We, your neighbours, are gathered here to-night to express our friendship to you and our regret at your departure from our neighbourhood. It is always the case that the time we say farewell is the time we realize most keenly what our friends have filled in our hearts and lives. So we realize to-night, dear friends, that your kind disposition and hospitality have endeared you to us all. We cannot permit your departure from our midst without expressing in some tangible way our sincere esteem and good will. Therefore we ask you to accept this-form stand and cuff links, not merely as a farewell gift, but as a link which shall serve to bind our friendship closer together.

Signed on behalf of your neighbours.

MRS. ARTHUR McKNIGHT.
MRS. WM. T. WINTERS.

Mr. Booth, in his quiet kind way, made a reply, thanking his friends for their kindness, and inviting them all to visit them in their new home. After lunch was served, all left with a hearty hand shake with Mr. and Mrs. Booth.

Tonic Treatment For Indigestion

Indigestion Comes With a Run-Down Condition — Relief Comes Through Enriching the Blood — Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood.

There are many symptoms of indigestion such as acute pain after eating, belching of wind, nausea and vomiting, bloating and pains in the region of the heart, a dread of food for the misery it causes. Dieting and the use of pre-digested food may give ease, but that is all, and meanwhile the stomach grows steadily weaker. The work of digestion depends upon the blood and nerves and the only way to get rid of indigestion is to tone up the stomach through the blood, to do the work nature intended it should do. The one thorough way to do this is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renew the blood, strengthen the nerves and enable the stomach to do its work with ease and comfort. Neglected indigestion means prolonged misery. If you have any of the symptoms of this trouble try the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once and you will be gratified with the results.

Among the many who have found health through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. Ada Webb, R.R. No. 3, Prescott, Ont., who says:—"For a long time I went through the tortures of nervous indigestion; I call it torture because no other word can describe what I endured. If my stomach was empty I retched. If I took food I vomited. I did not sleep, and I was steadily growing weaker. I doctored for months but with no benefit. One day my husband said, as the treatment you have had has not helped you, why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I consented and he got me a supply. After I had been taking the pills for a while I knew they were helping me as the pains and retching grew less and I slept better. I gladly continued the use of the pills and in a few months I felt like a new woman, better than I had felt for years, and able to work for my husband and children again. After such a wonderful experience how can I do anything else but recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

If you need a blood-building tonic begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to-day. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERIAL EXECUTIVE MEET

The Executive of Belleville Presbyterial W. M. S. of the United Church met in Bridge St. Church, Belleville, on Friday, October 26th.

The Devotional Exercises were conducted by Mrs. (Rev.) T. H. P. Anderson, and she chose as the Scripture lesson 12th chapter of Romans, one to 8 verses.

The President, Mrs. S. C. Gay, took charge of the business, and several important matters were enacted in speedy time. Many suggestions and new ideas were handed down from the recent Branch Executive, and in turn will be sent on to the various auxiliaries, among them being a drive for the use of envelopes during the coming year.

Very successful reports were given by the Secretaries of the various departments, and sometime was given over to the discussion of ways and means of reading allocations, creating and promoting interest, giving systematically by envelope, constructive and uniform report forms, and the education of women to the work and need of the missionary cause.

Sincere congratulations were sent to Mrs. George Pindlay, Napanee, who is the proud mother of a ten day old son.

A committee was named to appoint an assistant Treasurer, as Miss Lazelle Brown has been given the honour of an office in the Branch. Mrs. H. Hill was appointed Assistant Literature Secretary, owing to the resignation of Mrs. Yullett, of Picton.

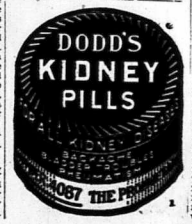
The allocation for 1929 will be $26,000, as formerly.

Arrangements were made for the Presbyterial to be held in Trenton the last of January, and the following were appointed Programme Committee:—Mrs. S. C. Gay, Mrs. James Laughland, Mrs. E. T. Fraser, and the Presidents of King St. and Grace United Churches Trenton.

Two other subjects discussed were that each Presbyterial be responsible for its own missionaries who are retired or on furlough, and for any travelling secretary in our midst during the week of Branch Conference, and that each Presbyterial be responsible for sending delegates to Summer School.

It was moved and seconded, that this Presbyterial have an extra department next year for G. Y. W. work, and that the Recording Secretary send each absent member a copy of the minutes.

Members present were:—Mrs. S. C. Gay, Foxboro'; Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburgh; Mrs. E. T. Fraser, Trenton; Mrs. P. L. Hooper, Napanee; Miss Lazelle Brown, Belleville; Mrs. F. O. Bennett, Shannonville; Miss Alice Hume, Stirling; Mrs. W. H. Hicks, Tweed; Mrs. H. Hill, Belleville; Mrs. Percy D. Monkhouse, Mount Pleasant (Rawdon); and one visitor, Mrs. J. W. Kingston, Tweed.



FATTENING POULTRY.

How to Get Big Price on Poultry Day.

The poultry industry has made great development in Lennox and Addington. There are constant returns from the sale of eggs and fowl, and at last year's Poultry Fair almost one hundred thousand dollars was paid to producers of dressed chickens, turkeys, geese and ducks. There is a wonderful demand for poultry products if the quality is right. The Poultry Fair is not far distant and some attention should be given to finishing birds that are to be marketed. Nobody wants a thin chicken. Young stock that has had free range all summer should be put in crates for two or three weeks and given a fattening ration. They can often be made to gain a pound each during this time and will bring a higher price by reason of the extra weight and better quality. Chickens that have been running at large with plenty of exercise must be fed carefully when they are first put into crates. They should not be given quite all they will eat. Feed twice daily.

What to Feed Crated Fowl.

One of the best rations to use is two parts finely ground oats, two parts finely ground buckwheat, and one part finely ground corn fo which has been added sufficient sour milk to make a batter. Another good ration is:—Equal parts of finely ground corn meal, middlings and buckwheat meal with milk. Finely ground barley may be substituted for the buckwheat. Milk is very important, but if not available 10% to 15% of beef meal should be added to the ration. The birds should be kept with keen appetites and the amount of feed gradually increased as they become accustomed to being in the crates. A little grit once a week is necessary. All feed should be sufficiently moistened so that it will just pour nicely. Three weeks is usually long enough to have chickens in crates, some will fatten in less time. Any farmer who does not understand the best method of killing and dressing poultry should get instruction from a neighbour who has become expert or get a group together and arrange with the Agricultural Representative to give a demonstration.

Do It Now!

To insure prime chickens and top price for Napanee Poultry Fair, chickens should be crated wnthin the next week.

NOVEMBER ROD AND GUN

Replete with a fine collection of well illustrated stories, the November number of Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News is one of the most attractive issues of the national sporting magazine that has appeared on the news-stands.

All fields of outdoor sport and recreation are covered in interesting stories and articles by such well known outdoor writers as Bonnyeastle Dale, A. Bryan Williams, Robert James and J. W. Winson. In addition to there the Guns and Ammunition department, edited by C. S. Landis, Outdoor Talk by W. C. Motley and Fishing Notes by G. P. Sladen are especially good this month.

The Canadian Silver Fox News section, edited by J. R. Barr, also contains a selection of very timely and informative material.

Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

If you have varicose veins or bunches you can get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days, should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is such a powerful, penetrating antiseptic oil that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. Wallace's Drug Store sells lots of it.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Henry McKeown.

A splendid type of the true Christian mother and wife passed peacefully away, in the person of Mrs. Henry McKeown, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Donoghue, Lake Enterprise, on Sunday, October 7th, in her seventy-ninth year.

Although Mrs. McKeown had been in poor health for several years, she was not seriously ill until the Saturday before her demise. Her death, though unexpected, was but the termination of a life spent in preparation for this last great sacrifice. Her gentle piety and gracious manner won for her a large host of friends, who were greatly shocked on learning of her death.

Mrs. McKeown was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McAlpine. She was born in Grimsville, and was married fifty-five years ago. Her husband predeceased her thirteen years ago. She spent most of her life in Centreville, and was a zealous member of the Catholic Church. She leaves to mourn her loss three sons and two daughters, Mrs. William Barrett, Niagara Falls; Frank, of Grand Rapids; John, of Waterford; Anthony, of Centreville; Mrs. Joseph Donoghue, Enterprise. Mrs. Joseph Murphy, died eleven years ago. Two brothers also survive her, James McAlpine, Maynooth, and Mike, of Grand Rapids.

The funeral took place on Tuesday morning to the Church of Annunciation, Chippewa, where a solemn Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. Father O'Sullivan, who also delivered an impressive sermon on praying for the dead, quoting the words of St. Ambrose, "We have loved her in life; let us not forget her in death". Interment took place in St. Anthony's Cemetery Centreville. Rev. Father C. Mea officiated at the grave. The funeral was largely attended, and the great number of spiritual offerings received from friends and relatives far and near, testified to the high esteem in which she was held.

NAPANEE

The New Model A Ford

We wish to announce that we have a number of the New Model A Fords including Tourings, Roadsters, Tudor Sedans and Sport Coupes, which have been used only a few weeks and run only a few hundred miles, which we can offer at great reductions, considering the small amount of service that has been taken out of these cars. Your inspection is invited before you consider the purchase of a new one.

We also have other makes of used cars including Ford Model T tourings, McLaughlin D45, Chevrolet Baby Grand touring and Ford Ton Trucks, which can be purchased at prices never before offered in this district.

We are also prepared to make immediate delivery on all models of the new Ford Model A.

ANNOUNCING A REMARKABLE NEW BUILDING MATERIAL

INSUL-BOARD

(INSULATING BOARD)

A Board that shuts out cold. Stops heat. Deadens sound. An extraordinary building and insulating Board designed to make home interiors more comfortable, more restful and more healthful the whole year through. An All-Canadian Board, made in Canada from the products of Canada's Forests.

INSUL-BOARD meets the need for a stouter and more rugged material for wall and ceiling insulation. Its greater structural strength has been proven under critical tests by Canada's leading engineers. It makes the walls more rigid, more enduring, more capable of resisting severe strain and stress.

INSUL-BOARD insulates completely, producing a sure and lasting shield against winter's cold and summer's heat, sealing the home interior tight against all atmospheric discomfort.

How one mother keeps young

"How splendid, that we can run away for a few days to visit your mother! Without Long Distance it would be of course quite out of the question, but it is so easy to call up our homes by Long Distance and make sure all is well that, really, there is no excuse for denying oneself."

"I suppose you use Station-to-Station calls. I do. By asking for the number I get the cheaper rate, and the Evenings rate after 8.30 is really most reasonable."

The rates to nearby towns, within a radius of say 25 miles, are so low that it is now possible to keep up a wide circle of friends at very slight expense.

Supplement to The Napanee Beaver, November 7th, 1928

ODESSA

Mr. and Mrs. John Watts and the latter's mother, Mrs. Fralick, of New York, are visiting the former's uncle, Isaac Wates.—Mrs. Sharp and family, of Kingston Mills, are spending a few days with Mrs. Charlie Babcock.—Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman and daughter, Vera, of Sydenham, spent Sunday with the former's sister, Mrs. Lewis Snider.—Robert Clancy, of Kingston, spent a few days with his nephew, Mr. Daniel McConnell.—Miss Laura Crowe, Cobourg, spent a few days with Mrs. S. J. Sproule.—Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Smith and children, Cyril and Shirley Jone, Kingston, spent Sunday with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Venton.—Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Robertson, Violet, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wylie McDonald.—Mrs. Cecil Woodruff and daughter, Myrtle, St. Catherines, recently visited the former's sister, Mrs. James Koen. Off their return home they were accompanied by Mrs. Koen and son, Augustine, who remained for a week in St. Catharines.—Mrs. Sidney Sproule spent the week end the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Huggard, Kingston.—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vrooman and Mr. and Mrs. James Boyce are visiting relatives and friends in Buffalo.—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Silver and Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Burley and son, Harold, left by motor Saturday to visit relatives in Rome and Watertown.—A baby boy arrived last week to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. C. Giddy.—The annual Masonic banquet was held last Monday night, and the lodges from Bath, Harrowsmith, and Kingston were well represented. The tables were laid for one hundred guests and every place was taken.—The Women's Institute put up the banquet and much credit is due the ladies for their untiring efforts in making it such a success. Rev. G. Swayne, Bath, acted as toast master. The different speeches and the programme were much enjoyed. The tables were laden with delicious eatables, and the manner in which the serving was done won many compliments for them.

A 1c. Sale at Wallace's! Here are the days and dates:—Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, November 15th, 16th and 17th.

EBENEZER W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of the Ebenezer W. M. S. met Wednesday afternoon, October 17th, at the home of Mrs. Alfred Masten. The meeting was opened by the hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains", followed by the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison, and silent prayer for the returned missionary Miss Vergo. Roll call was answered by a Bible verse. Minutes of the last meeting were then read. Devotional leaflet was read by Miss Mayel Whiteman. Another hymn. Leaflets on Africa were read by Mrs. Alfred Masten and Miss Freda Kerr. Collection. Hymn, "We Have Heard the Joyful Sound". The business of the meeting was then taken up. It was decided to hold a bazaar on the 11th of December, in the basement of the church. The meeting was closed by Hymn 97, "The Morning Light is Breaking", after which the hostess served a dainty lunch.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Mayel Whiteman, on Wednesday afternoon, November 21st.

BASKETBALL

The second game of the Bay of Quinte League was played in Picton last Friday night, when N. C. I. Seniors lost by 20 points, and P. C. I. Juniors were defeated by a score of 28-34.

The game was played in three ten-minute periods, and at the end of the second period Picton Seniors were only 2 points ahead. However, in the last period they gained a big lead, and the game ended 46-26, in favour of Picton.

Shirley Coldeigh and Dorothy Wilson played especially well for Napanee, while Marie Thompson was Picton's star, scoring in all 24 points.

The Picton Juniors were in the lead all through the game, except the last five minutes, when Napanee by a brilliant effort, gained the lead, and won by a score of 28-34, this being their first success.

Since the last game Napanee Junior team has been strengthened by the addition of three new players who played well in their first game.

Kay McFarland's shooting was excellent, and Madge Culhane, who went on as side centre the last period, helped largely in winning the game.

The Picton team served lunch to the visiting team after the game.

Picton Seniors—G. Minaker, K. Stevenson, M. Thomson, E. Titus, M. King, R. Clapp, R. Levens.

Napanee Seniors—D. Wilson, M. Douglas, M. Daly, S. Coldeigh, K. Dickson, D. Andersen, M. Culhane, L. Stalker.

Picton Juniors—R. Seeley, C. Lockwood, J. Rorke, C. Curtiss, G. Hubbs, M. McHoull, F. Williams, R. Levens, M. Powers.

Napanee Juniors—K. McFarland, J. McIlwaine, G. Joyce, V. Bernard, M. Walters, M. Smith, M. Loucks, M. Culhane, M. Exley, M. Jackson.

Guaranteed Floor Wax at 39c. per lb. at Hooper's One Cent Sale.

Bridget and Pat were studying the law of compensation.

"Accordin' to this," said Bridget, "whin a man loses one sense his others are more developed."

"Sure an' Oi've noticed it," exclaimed Pat. "Whin a man has one leg shorter than the other, begorra the other's longer."

"Old" Odell, that almost legendary Bohemian figure who recently died, was the subject of many stories, real and apocryphal. Once a member of the Savage Club objected to Odell's snoring, and told a waiter to wake him. The waiter did so, and formulated the objection to his snoring. "Oh," said Odell briefly, "tell him to go to blazes." The waiter delivered this message, and the incensed objector rose, and proceeding to Odell's chair, said, "Did you tell the waiter to tell me to go to blazes?" "Yes, I did," said Odell blandly, "but there's no hurry, my dear fellow."

Wallace's 1c. Sale, Nov. 13th, 16th, and 17th. Store open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night, 12 o'clock Saturday night. Come early and bring your basket.

OBITUARY

William Joyce.

Death came to Wm. Joyce on Sunday morning, Oct. 28th, 1928, after he had endured an illness that lasted about eighteen months. He had been in rugged health all his life. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 30th, at St. Mark's Church, Desoronto, being conducted by the Rev. Canon A. H. Creegan, at the request of the deceased. The text was "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord for their labors cease and their works do follow them". Mr. Joyce was born near Selby in 1853, and moved to Tyendinaga some forty years ago, where he engaged in farming. Since then he has been a resident of this neighborhood. Some years ago he bought the Rathburn farm on corner of highway and boundary Road, which he afterwards sold to Wm. Keeley. He is survived by his wife, Annie McCullough, of Tyendinaga, and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Heindl, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. Harry Oliver, Desoronto Road, and one grandson, Morley Oliver. One daughter, Genette, predeceased him about twenty-five years ago. An adopted son, Wm. Keeley, also survives; and three brothers, John and Clinton, of Deseronto, and Samuel, of Havelock. Mrs. Ed. Chambers, of Deseronto, is a sister, and Thomas Hendrey, who died some time ago, was a brother. Mr. Joyce was a lifelong Conservative, and a member of the Church of England.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William M. Clark.

Mrs. William Clark, Second Concession Ernestown, who passed peacefully away, after a few days' illness, of pneumonia, on October 8th, in her seventy-third year, was born in Ernestown. Deceased was a faithful member of the United Church of Odessa.

She leaves to mourn her loss a sorrowing husband, two sons, James on the homestead; D. A. M. Kingsley, three daughters, Mrs. John Hagerman, 4th Concession; Mrs. J. D. Snider, Maple Avenue; Miss Wilkens, at home, and three grandchildren, Misses Mona and Lena Hagerman and Murray Clark.

Mrs. Clark was the daughter of the late James and Catharine Caltier. An only brother, William, predeceased her seven years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Clark celebrated their golden wedding on Nov. 13th last, when many friends and relatives were present. Also Mrs. M. J. Wemp, Bath, Ont., who was bridesmaid at their wedding.

The funeral service, which was held at her home on October 10th, was conducted by her Pastor, Rev. Geo. McQuade, Odessa, and interment took place in the family plot at Wilton.

"PINKHAM'S COMPOUND IS WONDERFUL"
Read This Letter from a Grateful Woman

Vanessa, Ont.—"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is wonderful. I have had six children of which four are living and my youngest is a bonnie baby eight months old who weighs 23 pounds. I have taken your medicine before each confinement and have certainly received great benefit from it. I urge my friends to take it and I am sure they will receive the same help I did."—Mrs. Milton McMullen, Vanessa, Ontario.

"Well," said Edith's mother, when the child arrived home from the party, "did you have a good time?"

"Yes, thank you, mamma."

"And did you play nice games?"

"Yes, mamma."

"And did you have nice tea?"

"Yes, mamma."

"I hope, Edith, that you behaved yourself like a little lady. You didn't take any liberties, did you?"

"No, mamma. There wasn't any on the table!"

TAMWORTH

(For last week).

Everyone is glad to see a few bright days again, after so much rain.—The hot fowl supper held by the Ladies' Aid of Tamworth United Church, was largely attended. A sumptuous supper and a good programme are reported.—Mrs. Philip McKim has gone to Smith Falls to spend a few weeks with her daughter.—W. G. Richmond is improving his property by putting new siding on his house.—The hunters around here are getting ready for their fall trip to the mountains in search of the deer they did not get last year. Let's wish them luck.—On Mon. 19th there will be held in the R. E. building, a programme, entitled "A Trip to Victoria". When we arrive at Victoria, we will take in a comic play, "Aunt Fannie's Miracle", and other selections, and then return to R. E. Building and have light lunch. Now can you imagine a round trip to Victoria, a real play, and lunch, all for 25c? Come and see how it is done.—Rev. I. N. Beckstead attended a special meeting of Belleville Presbytery, held in Deseronto, on Thursday last.—Mrs. Jas. Donevan, Mrs. Beckstead, Miss Elsie Martin, Mr. W. G. Richmond and Rev. Mr. Beckstead attended the County S. S. convention held in Newburgh, on Tuesday, the 23rd inst.—The service held in the United Church on Sunday, the 21st inst., on behalf of the Bible Society, was largely attended, and proved a good success in every way. Mr. Kenneth Stinson remains President of the local branch, and Mr. S. B. White Treasurer, but Mrs. Moss having resigned from the Secretaryship, Mrs. Dale Donevan was elected to the office.—Next Sunday, services will be held on the United Church field at Marlbank, Reidville and Tamworth in the order named, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at Reidville.

BICKNELL'S CORNERS

(For last week.)

We have been having heavy rain storms with very frosty nights.—We are glad to hear that Mr. P. Scott is improving.—Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Simmons were in town on Wednesday afternoon.—Mrs. W. Dunn and Mrs. Hamilton with Mr. and Mrs. A. Moore, on Wednesday to dinner.—Quite a number from around here took in the masquerade in the United Church Hall, on Friday evening, and all report a pleasant time.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Fairbairn attended market in Kingston on Saturday.—Miss Ruby Simmons returned home on Saturday, after spending a week with her sister, Mrs. R. Slamon, Kingston.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson called on Mr. and Mrs. P. Scott on Sunday afternoon.—Mr. and Mrs. T. Hyland visited with friends at Reidville, on Sunday.

WESLEY

(For last week.)

Who said Wesley was dead? It is still very much alive.—Building champs and threshing buckwheat is the order of the day.—Mr. Andrew Burns built a chimney for Mr. C. S. Wartman on Saturday last.—Mr. Tommy McKeown and Miss Lillian Weese attended the theatre in Napanee one night this week.—Mrs. Ross Hannah has returned home, after an extended visit to Utica.—A number from Wesley attended the County Convention in Newburgh.—Mr. C. SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK DISCUSSED

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION COUNCIL MET IN NEWBURGH

The forty-sixth annual Convention of Lennox and Addington County Religious Education Council, convened in Newburgh United Church, on Tuesday, Oct. 23rd, 1928, at 1.30 p.m., the President, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, presiding.

The devotional period was in charge of Rev. George T. McKenzie, of Yarker, after which Rev. H. A. Bunt, of Enterprise, was appointed Press Reporter.

The Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Bruce Finlay, of Strathcona, reported that there had been five meetings of the Executive during the year, three of which had been held in conjunction with the Girls' Camp Committee, which led to the Varty Lake Girls' Camp being taken over by the County R. E. C. This camp was held under the direction of a committee consisting of Miss L. Rockwell and the Misses Wales. Further the Secretary-Treasurer reported beginning the year with only 43c. on hand. $173.90 was received from Mothers' Day collections and duly forwarded to the Treasurer of the Ontario Religious Education Council.

Ten Day Camp.

The reports presented by the various department superintendents were somewhat incomplete, yet they showed that the work was being done. The outstanding features were perhaps the reports of the Girls' Camp at Varty Lake and the Standard Training School at Napanee. The girls' camp committee report that a ten days' camp will be held next year at Varty Lake, and the Convention recommended that this autumn a Standard Training School be held at Enterprise as well as the one at Napanee.

A strong resolution regarding Temperance Education was presented, which strongly recommended the use of Miss Isobel McCorkindale's book, "Alcohol and Life", with accompanying charts. This was heartily endorsed.

Increase in Interest.

The President in his address expressed his gratitude for the support given him by the Executive Committee during his term of office. He told of a steady increase in interest during the past eight years but deplored the fact that many parents seem to be losing sight of the importance of the Sunday School, preferring a Sunday picnic instead. "But we ought to realize that though we are a proud and wealthy people, our boys and girls are our greatest asset," he said. "It is the business of Christian men and women to win these for God and His church else the next generation will see a Godless nation. Further, we are in the business of Sunday School work not only for our own children but also for the children of the strangers within our gates, and for the children who live beyond the seas."

Distinguished Visitor.

The outstanding personage present at the Convention was Rev. H. C. Priest, recently appointed General Superintendent of O. R. E. C. His wise counsel and timely words of advice were much appreciated in the afternoon session, and his address at the evening session will not soon be forgotten. He laid stress upon several features of the work among which was the importance and dignity of the task laid upon Sunday School teachers. He told of Dr. Hugh McGill, who said that there was no work in the world so important as the Religious Education of childhood and youth.

"We need a new consciousness of this truth for the greatness of a nation lies not in its material resources, or political institutions, but is measured by the quality of its citizenship", the speaker declared. "Our aim is to build up character, to mould young life into the image of God, and in so doing we are making our greatest contribution to the greatness of Canada. From the standpoint of the Christian church, we have the making of the church of to-morrow. To put great ideals into the Christian church we must put them into the hearts of boys and girls."

Evangelism in the Sunday School was another matter stressed. "The great objective of our work is not merely to teach a lesson but to lead boys and girls to commit themselves to God," said Rev. Mr. Priest.

Missions.

The speaker did not stress the raising of money for Missions in the Sunday School, but he reminded the Convention that the Sunday School that failed to plant deep into the hearts of the scholars the missionary spirit, failed in its task. Every member of the Sunday School had a great responsibility to forward the Kingdom of God. "No finer greater than missionary giving was a missionary life. Missionary education was necessary but money should come as an expression of life. Missions were not simply a means for enthusiasts when Jesus said, "Go ye". He was laying on every disciple of His the great commission to win men and women the world over for the Kingdom. All needed a new conviction of the absolute necessity of Jesus Christ for the salvation of the world. The human heart had been made for God and rested not till it rested in God.

The vital qualification for effective service in the Sunday School was a vital relation between the teacher and Jesus Christ. Teaching religion was a job, but religion had to be caught and scholars could not catch religion unless the teacher had it. "Let each teacher come into vital contact with Christ and then make that contribution of what he or she may be capable," said the speaker.

A pleasing feature of the evening session was a quartette, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought", rendered by four members of the Choir of Enterprise United Church.

Nominations.

The report of the Nominating Committee was as follows:—

Past President, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburgh; President, E. F. Purcell, Colebrook; 1st Vice President, A. C. Baldwin, Napanee; 2nd Vice President, J. E. Robinson, Napanee; Secretary-Treasurer, H. M. Jackson, Enterprise; Supt. of Children's Division, Mrs. R. J. Wales, Napanee; Boys' Work, Rev. W. P. Woodger, Napanee; Girls' Work, Miss L. Rockwell, Napanee; Young People's Work, Earl Craig, Napanee; Adult Division, W. H. Mills, Wilton; Home Religion Department, Jas. Richmond, Tamworth; Teachers' Training Department, Rev. Jas. Beckel, Napanee; Missions Department, H. E. Vannest, Enterprise; Temperance Department, J. C. Hudgins, Selby.

Denominational Representatives: Rev. H. Foley and Rev. Jas. Beckel.

The installation service was conducted by Rev. H. C. Priest.

The Convention will meet in Marlbank, in 1929.

Mr. Jas. Baines, of Morven, visited each the United Church and the Presbyterian Church Sunday Schools on Sunday last.—Miss Luella Peters and Mr. Keith Simmons, two of Wilton's most popular young people, were quietly married on Wednesday of last week at Belleville, Ont., by Rev. R. G. Stewart. Congratulations.—Mr. and Mrs. Guy Simmons tendered a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. K. Simmons, on Monday evening.—Rev. Mr. MacDuffie, of Boston, Mass. conducted service in the Presbyterian Church, on Sunday evening.—Misses Beatrice Forsythe and Hedie Hull attended the W. L. convention at Kingston, last week, as delegates from Wilton.—The United Church League held a social evening at the home of Mr. A. W. Babcock, on Thursday evening last.—Mrs. L. E. Clarke and Miss Kaltrecte spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Babcock.—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gallagher and Hull of Harrowsmith, with her mother, Mrs. Harvey Mills, on Sunday evening.

HAYBURN

(For last week.)

October 21st was the annual Anniversary at Hayburn Church. The Rev. Mr. Seymour preached the sermon both morning and evening, to two very attentive and appreciated congregations. Hay Bay Choir came across the Bay and furnished the music for the day. In the morning they sang a beautiful and appropriate anthem, and Mr. A. Sexsmith sang a solo, in his usual fine voice. In the evening the choir also sang two anthems, with Mrs. Earl Sexsmith taking the solo parts. Mrs. Sexsmith possesses a very fine soprano voice and sang the parts very sweetly.—We are sorry to say that Miss Flossie Brooks is ill at her home here.—Miss Marion Miller spent the week end the guest of Miss Doris Rikley.—Mrs. William Barrett is spending a short time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dickson.—Quite a number from this street attended the banquet and dance in Adolphustown, on Friday evening.—We are glad to hear that Hayburn Orchestra have again started for the season.—Mr. Wellington Loyst was a caller at Mr. J. T. Loyst's, on Wednesday last.

Presentation and Address.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 18th, about seventy of the friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gray and family, of Forest Mills, gathered at their home to bid them farewell before their departure for their new home in Oshawa, and presented them with the following address and a purse of money.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gray and Family.

We your friends and neighbours, have assembled here to-night to spend a pleasant evening with you before your removal to your new home in Oshawa. We shall miss you much from our community, but what is our loss will be another's gain, for in your new field you will find perhaps greater opportunities than were afforded you here, to make friends and neighbours.

The girls and boys have attended the Willing Workers Class of Forest Mills Sunday School whenever their chosen work permitted them to spend a week end at home. We trust that they will link up with Sunday School work and make their influence felt along this line.

You, Mr. Gray, have been a faithful member of fraternal societies, and your regular attendance is worthy of emulation. You will be greatly missed in those circles.

We hope that you will ever remember your old neighbours at and around Forest Mills, and at some future time renew acquaintances here. As a token of our esteem, we ask you to accept this purse, and may it ever serve to remind you of your old friends at Forest Mills.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours,

MR. ELBURN COOK.
MR. ROBT. COOK.
MR. ARCHIE RICHMOND.
MR. W. I. McCONNELL.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Customer—"It's tough to have to pay 50 cents for that steak."

Cashier—"Yes, but it would be tougher if you only paid 25 cents."

The Oil for the Athlete.—In rubbing down, the athlete will find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil an excellent article. It renders the muscles and sinews pliable, takes the soreness out of them and strengthens them for strains that may be put upon them. It stands pre-eminent for this purpose, and athletes who for years, have been using it can testify to its virtue as a lubricant.

"Did you know that Lawyer Rolls was lying very ill?"

"Oh, that's quite a change for him."

"A change?"

"Well, from what I've heard of Lawyer Rolls, most of his life he's been lying very well."

Always Ready and Reliable.—Practically all pains arising from inflammation can be removed with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Simply rub it on the sore spot and it is quickly absorbed by the skin. Its healing power is conveyed to the inflamed tissue which is quickly soothed. This fine old remedy is also a specific for all manner of cuts, scratches, bruises, and sprains. Keep a bottle handy always.

The small boy gazed at the stout man sitting opposite him in the train.

"Why are you staring at me?" demanded the man.

"Please, sir," said the boy, "there's nowhere else to look.

Wise mothers who know the virtues of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator always have it at hand, because it proves its value.

Bobbie was reading history, and, looking up suddenly, he asked: "What is beheaded, mother?"

"Having his head cut off, darling," she replied.

After a thoughtful moment, Bobbie remarked: "I suppose defeated is having his feet cut off?"

When Holloway's Corn Remover is applied to a corn it kills the roots and the callosity comes out without injury to the flesh.

First Youth—"I asked her if I could see her home."

Second Youth—"And what did she say?"

First Youth—"Said she would send me a picture of it.

Spare the children from suffering from worms by using Miller's Worm Powders, a most effective vermifuge with which to conquer these insidious foes of the young and helpless. It is an excellent worm destroyer, and when its properties become known in a household no other will be used. The medicine acts by itself, requiring no purgative assistant. It is safe and thoroughly that nothing more is desired.

Ponderous Uncle—"My boy, it will pay you to be diligent in your studies. Remember, what you have learned no one can ever take from you."

Small Nephew—"Well, they can't take from me what I haven't learned, either, can they?"

Attacked by Asthma. The first fearful sensation is of suffocation, which with which to conquer these insidious foes of the young and helpless. It is hour by hour becomes more desperate and hopeless. To such a case the relief afforded by Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy seems nothing less than miraculous. Its help is quickly apparent and soon the dreadful attack is mastered. The asthmatic who has found out the dependability of this sterling remedy will never be without it. It is sold everywhere.

"Have you ever been in a railway accident?"

"Yes, I once went through a tunnel and kissed the father instead of the daughter."

THE HAWLEY-MORVEN WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

The Hawley-Morven Branch of the W. A. held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Shetler, on October 30th. There were fifteen members present, and a number of visitors. The meeting was opened as usual by the members repeating the Lord's Prayer, and by the Rector, Rev. Mr. Swayne. Bath. Mrs. H. Gilbert, the President, then asked for roll call and the minutes of the last meeting to be read and approved. Much regret was expressed at the absence of many members, owing to sickness in their homes. Miss G. Withers gave an instructive reading from the study book on India. A few other clippings of interest were read and the business discussed, and the meeting closed with the Benediction by the Rector.

Mr. Swayne then invited the men to join the circle, and gave a short talk on the mission fund of the Parish.

Then came the exciting part of the programme, the drawing of the tickets. The first was on a spread which had been donated by Miss C. Hawley. The lucky number for this was held by Mr. John Aselstine. The proceeds, which amounted to thirty dollars, are to be used in furthering the W. A. work. Next were those on a bedroom set, which was made and donated by Miss Brandon, the lucky number for this was held by Mrs. D. Robinson, Bath. The proceeds from this amounted to twenty-two dollars and fifty cents, which is to be used in the Sunday School work at Xmas.

The ladies in charge of this part wish to thank all who helped to make them such a success.

Mrs. Shetler then served a dainty and delicious lunch, and a social hour was spent with music. Thus closed a very enjoyable meeting.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Robt. Fisher. All visitors are especially welcomed.

Childhood Ailments

Can Be Quickly Banished With Baby's Own Tablets

The ailments of childhood are many but nine-tenths of them are due to one cause and one cause only—a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. To quickly banish any of the minor ailments of babyhood and childhood the bowels must be made to work regular and the stomach must be sweetened.

No other medicine for little ones has had such success as has Baby's Own Tablets. They banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers; correct diarrhoea and colic and promote healthful sleep by regulating the functions of the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. L. M. Brown, Walton, N. S., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets as I have found them excellent for childhood ailments."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DESERONTO

A delightful gathering of the Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Parish of St. Mark, Deseronto—the Seniors, the Girls, the Juniors, and the Little Helpers—took place in the basement of the church, October 27th, Rev. Herbert and Mrs. Pringle, of Tyendinaga, with their Senior and Junior Branches, were also present. The Rector, Rev. Rural Dean Radcliffe, opened the meeting with the customary Bible reading and prayers, and heartily welcomed Mrs. Price, President of the Diocesan Board; Mrs. Lowe, Literature Secretary; Mrs. Morton, Secretary of the Juniors, and Miss Van-Straubenzie, Secretary of the Girls, in Deseronto. Mrs. Radcliffe presided, and introduced the speakers, who were full of information of the most interesting character, which was thoroughly appreciated by the large number of W. A. members present. Miss Rebecca Smith presided at the piano.

On motion of Mrs. Radcliffe, seconded by Miss Violet Smith, a cordial vote of thanks was tendered to all the speakers. After the speaking was over dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. George D. Smith, a life member of the Society, and Mrs. A. Harband poured tea, assisted by the young ladies present.

The Rector closed the meeting with the Benediction.

An after result of the meeting was the organizing of the Girls' Branch of the W. A. October 30th, at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Oliver. President, Mrs. Malcolm Oliver; First Vice President, Miss Rebecca Smith; Second Vice President, Miss Mary Gaylord; Recording Secretary, Miss Eva Harvey; Corresponding Secretary, Miss M. Harvey; Treasurer, Miss Vivian Oliver; Auditors, Miss Valeria Henderson and Miss Florence Lines. Mrs. Radcliffe was present, and wished the newly formed branch every success and God's blessing.

"Six Cups of Chocolate".

This little play, which was presented in St. Andrew's Church on Friday evening, under the direction of Mrs. Alice Preston, was most successful. The audience was large and appreciative, and well they might be, for never has the stage of the Sunday School room looked prettier or more attractive actresses graced it. The parts were splendidly taken by Mrs. Beattie, Mrs. Went, Miss Catherine Henderson, Miss Jean Lancaster, Miss Hoffman, Master and Miss Ruth Mayhew. The musical part of the programme was exceptionally good, the soloists being Mrs. Epplett, suprano; Mrs. Cameron Wilson, violinist; Miss Beatrice Baughan and Prof. Kendell, pianists; and Mr. Jack Caldwell, tenor. A hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Wilson for the kindness of all the performers in assisting with this very delightful entertainment.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES IN ST. ANDREW'S

On Sunday, St. Andrew's celebrated their annual Anniversary Services. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion. Dr. Kent, Principal of Queen's Theological College, was special preacher. The Choir was at full strength, and the congregation implemented by the congregation of Grace in the morning and Trinity in the evening, filled the church to capacity.

Dr. Kent in the morning preached on the text, "The meek shall inherit the earth", and by argument and apt illustration from biology and history, showed that in the long run it is not force but strength of character that persists. In the evening he preached from Isaiah, "A man shall be as an hiding place from the wind". Here the preacher worked out the theme that it is only as individuals and nations practise unselfishness and evangelness that they can continue.

Dr. Kent is a preacher of much force and power. In a quiet and scholarly manner he brings home to his congregation the great truths of life and religion.

In the morning, besides an anthem rendered by the Choir, Mrs. Epplett sang a solo, "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee". Her interpretation of this passage of scripture in music was sympathetic and artistically done.

In the evening an additional feature of the music programme was a mixed quartette, Mr. J. Caldwell, Mr. Gordon MacGregor, Mrs. Valkman and Miss Margaret Kane. Their voices blended well and their singing added much to the attractiveness of the evening service.

The congregation was asked for an offering of a thousand dollars, and the amount will be received when the canvass is complete.

GREAT VIOLINIST AT GRANT HALL, KINGSTON

The story of the acquisition of Mischa Elman's first violin is one of the sweetest domestic annals ever brought to the ears of the public.

When the great virtuoso, who plays at Grant Hall, Kingston, on Wednesday, November 14th, 1928, was only 10 years old his father, Saul Elman, was notified by Leopold Auer, Mischa's teacher, that some mysterious stranger had been so moved by the prodigy's playing that he had secretly purchased an alternative Amati violin for the boy. Mr. Elman was sent to the store to get the instrument, a rich antique, made in 1753.

The father relates the story with characteristic fondness and love for his brilliant son.

"It will not be difficult to imagine the scene when I brought home the violin. Mischa was the happiest child on earth and I the happiest of fathers. Our joy was so great that for some time we danced about the room, holding the violin like two children at play with some beloved toy. A three thousand rouble violin was something out of a fairy tale.

"My eyes still grow moist when I think of that night—when my boy was still the simple child, all mine; our pleasures and joys shared, with no devouring world to come between. I remember his little, pale, face as he lay fast asleep later, the violin clasped in his arms, traces of tears of excitement and joy still on his cheeks. A curious fatigue always brooded over him when he slept, as though the restless spirit which guarded his body's flame could not rest."

It became known later that the donor was the Grand Duke Michael Michaelbouk of Strelitz, a relative of the czar of all the Russias.

Though Elman, now the matured artist, is now the possessor of two Stradivari violins, that first Italian violin remains one of his dearest and most valued possessions.

One Stradivarius he owns is one of the first three violins in the world. It was presented to the great artist by his wife and was purchased in Paris. Its date is 1717.

The other "Strad" (1722) was once in the possession of Joachim, the eminent German maestro who pronounced Elman "a finished artist" when he was only 12 years old. It was purchased by Elman's father for the artist's American debut.

Mischa Elman opens at Grand Theatre, on Monday morning.

SELBY

The anniversary services of the United Church last Sunday were a splendid success. The church was filled, pews and aisles, at both services. The Rev. Ernos Farnsworth, of Belleville, a former minister, preached two powerful and timely sermons. The fine anthems and quartette by the choir were specially pleasing. Mrs. Finlay, of Strathcona, assisted in the morning with a solo. Altogether a most happy feeling of fellowship prevailed throughout, and a great many absentees and former neighbors and friends were present from all directions for the services. An impressive memorial service with two minutes of silence was observed in the morning. The plates were not adequate to hold the thankoffering, which was given on the day.—The Rev. W. P. Woodger, Napanee, will be a visitor at the weekly prayer service this Thursday evening, and give an address on John Bunyan. —The Young People's Society has got down to a good start in a friendly three months' contest in attendance and efficiency with the Devotional and Citizenship Superintendents and their supporters on one side and the Missionary and Literary on the other. — Miss H. W. Foley spent three days last week taking some psychological lectures at Queen's University, in Kingston.—The Rev. Enos and Mrs. Farnsworth were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Winter, for the Anniversary.

SOCIAL SERVICE FROLIC

ARMOURIES SCENE OF FUN

On Tuesday the Social Service Council of the Victorian Order of Nurses held a frolic in the Armouries. The object was two-fold—to secure funds for their work, and as well to give the people of Napanee a good time.

Fitz-skin Peters from Bird's Eye Centre, arrived on the scene early in the day and added a lot to the fun of the evening. He is the best type of entertainer, who is seeking not to make money but to amuse the people. He was paid a liberal fee, but after deducting railroad fare, he spent the rest in the Armouries, thus giving his time free to the work of the Order.

The school children met on the Market Square, in masquerade, and paraded through the town, led by the Napanee Band, landing at the Armouries, where a host of people had assembled.

Then on the spirit of good natured fooling took hold of the crowd, and they swarmed around the various booths and attractions, and whirled around the spacious hall like a lot of happy care-free children.

The prizes were given for various events, and the evening was prolonged well into the small hours, and those who had the energy and vitality enough danced the hours away.

The judges had a rather difficult task in choosing the three who were to receive prizes for the loveliest girls under eight years of age. After much searching of heart they awarded the prizes to the following little ladies who were all judged equally Beautiful :—

Marguerite Pidgeon.
Mary Kimmerly.
Jean Ford.

Those who had booths and gave of their time were :—Napanee Chapter No. 151, Order of Eastern Star, homemade candy; Salvation Army, vegetables; Women's Institute, home cooked food; Young People's Societies of the several Churches, fish pond; O. B. A., aprons and pictures; I. O. D. E., fancy work and poppies.

The amount taken in was about six hundred dollars. After expenses the Order will have slightly over four hundred dollars with which to begin their season's work.

Card of Thanks.

Miss Leamy and those associated with her in the Social Service Council, desire to express their appreciation to those who gave of their time and thought to the recent frolic, and to the general public which patronized the entertainment so generously.

WEDDING BELLS

Hambly—Hooper.

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at high noon, Thursday, Nov. 1st, 1928, in Munson United Church, Alberta, of Lyle Neota, an ex-student of Garbutt Business College, Calgary, and only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prestor Hooper, to John Rae Hambly, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Irvine Hambly, of White Star Ranch, Munson, Alberta, by Rev. J. V. Hewey, of that church. This was the first wedding in this new church.

The mother of the bride has been organist in two different churches. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, William, was charming in her wedding gown of white crepe romaine, daintily trimmed with pearl and silver kid slippers and stockings to match. Her costume was complete with a rope of pearls, the gift from the groom, and also embroidered silk, bridal veil and orange blossoms. With long white gloves she carried a bouquet of roses and lily of the valley, with maiden hair fern tied with a cupid bow.

The bridal organist, softly played the wedding march as the bride entered the church. Several guests and friends in attendance. After the ceremony pictures were taken, and a dainty luncheon was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gibb, cousin of the groom, a former Picton, Ont., girl.

The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake; other decorations being yellow roses and yellow lighted candles. Friends, Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Lavers, were in attendance, cutting the ices. Here the guests had an opportunity of viewing the handsome array of gifts, testimonies of the popularity of the bridal couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Hambly left for Calgary and other points, amid showers of rice and good wishes. The bride's going away costume was a smart attire of blue and gold.

ARMISTICE DAY IN NAPANEE

Armistice Day was fittingly observed in Napanee on Sunday. The Mayor of the town had issued a proclamation calling on the citizens to participate in the manner, and by 1.30, the time specified in the proclamation, a large crowd had gathered at the Armouries.

Headed by the Danforth Salvation Army Silver Band, which was in town over the week end, a procession formed. First came the returned men, then the "B" Company, Prontenac Regiment, Town Council, representatives of the various organizations in the town, the Public School children and the citizens.

At the monument the following order was observed :—

1. "God Save the King".
2. Address by Mayor E. J. Roy.
3. "O Canada"—Danforth Salvation Army Band.
4. Placing wreaths on the Soldiers' War Memorial.
5. Hymn, "Abide With Me".
6. Prayer—Brigadier Macdonald, of Montreal.
7. General Salute—Prontenac Regiment.
9. Last Point.
10. Reveille.

It was one of the most widely attended and impressive of the many observances held since the war. Among the wreaths placed on the cenotaph were the following :—

Canadian Department Stores.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laughlin, for their son, Arthur, who was killed in action.

Mrs. Perry Detlor, for her son, Walter, killed in action.

Mrs. Catharine Powell, for her husband, W. E. Powell, killed in action.

Mrs. H. E. Smith, for her son, Donald, killed in action.

For Alvan E. Wartman, killed in action.—(Parents and Brothers).

The address which Mayor Roy gave was as follows :—

Mayor Roy's Address.

"Ten years ago to-day, the signing of the Armistice brought to a close the greatest war in history. We do not need to prove to-day that we were justified in entering that war for every British subject is convinced that the British Empire, that great commonwealth of freedom-loving people, entered the war in 1914 on the side of justice and humanity against the forces of injustice and oppression. Over 50,000 of our brave Canadian sons sacrificed their lives in that great struggle in order that we might continue to live in peace and security, in order that the smaller nations of Europe might have their territory guaranteed against invasion by the armed forces of their stronger neighbours.

It is our duty, therefore, as Canadians, and as citizens of this town of Napanee, to publicly commemorate the sacrifice of these noble young sons of Canada on this the tenth anniversary of the peace purchased at such a price for us. If we have been negligent in our duty in the past years, let us today turn in this service with hearts full of gratitude, for the heritage which our fallen heroes have passed on to us. And let us not stop with just this service, but let us continue throughout the whole year to commemorate their sacrifice by true service to our country. It was their glory to die for their country, let it be our privilege to live for our country in such a way that justice, liberty and peace shall reign from one coast to the other.

We need not recount the brave exploits of these noble young sons as written here in stone, upon this cenotaph, for their deeds are indelibly written forever on the pages of our history. Yes, more than that, they are written on the hearts of their fellow-countrymen. But we must see to it that we teach the story of their devotion to our children and our children's children. It is partly for that purpose that we have gathered here to-day as citizens of this town and county. Not only do we wish to pay our loving respect to their memory, but we wish to keep that memory green and fresh before us.

The Rights of the Small Nations.

There is a peace which can be secured without sacrifice, a peace that means slavery and subjection. Britons will never accept such a peace as that. Than was the kind of peace that Germany offered Belgium, and which that little country scorned. She gave thousands of her best lives to fight against such a peace as that. These gallant men whose memory we revere to-day fought in the same cause, and we must never consent to any peace which means oppression of the weaker nations. Every nation, no matter how small, must have an equal opportunity to work out its destiny and it is that kind of peace that we as British and dominion subjects seek.

On behalf of the Council of the Town of Napanee, I would ask you to join this memorial service to-day with these words of remembrance, to remember the gallantry and devotion of these, our fallen heroes; and secondly, to keep in mind the fact that which they fell, namely, to bring in an era of peace which shall mean liberty and freedom from oppression of the whole earth, with equal privileges to weak and strong alike, a peace in which the strong shall guarantee the liberty of the weak.

ODESSA

The Home and School Club held a sale in the Library Reading Room last Wednesday afternoon. The decorations were in Hallowe'en colors, and were very effective. The convenors of the fancy work table were Mrs. John Heath and Mrs. Wm. Jones; the home cooking table, Mrs. Robert Cairns and Mrs. Roy Emmons; the touch and take table, Mrs. Elton Simmons, and, the fish pond, Mrs. McNeally and Mrs. Sidney Clark. The amount realised was about thirty dollars. The Women's Institute served tea from the hours of 3 to 6. Mrs. J. C. Parrott and Mrs. Nelson Smith poured tea, assisted by Mrs. Elgin Parrott, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Courtland Snider and Mrs. Shelly Denyes. The tables were prettily arranged and looked lovely in their pink and white decorations. Wednesday night the Women's Institute entertained all the children of the Public School and their parents in the Salvation Army Barracks. Mr. Cordick, Miss Anglin and Miss Leatherland supervised the games for the children. They were received at the door by "The Ghost", and later were visited by "The Witch", who dispensed fortunes from a pumpkin. Following the amusements they were all served to lunch, ice cream and candy.

Last Wednesday night, Hallowe'en, the Wm. Reap Co. presented Uncle Tom's Cabin, in the Town Hall. The large hall was well filled, and the talented artists delighted the audience in the old time play. Mrs. Lindlay, who played a leading part, was formerly Miss Luella Beckwith, and was born here. Her eldest daughter is also a member of the company. Mrs. Lindlay moved from here over fifty years ago, and in all those years has only visited her child home once before, twelve years ago, when she and her husband presented the same play. Mrs. Lindlay is a daughter of the late Joseph Beckwith, who was employed in the Watts and Jones Carriage Factory, and will be remembered by many. She enjoyed very much meeting her schoolmates, and recalled many amusing incidents. She started her stage career at the age of seventeen, and has made a successful life's work of it, and will always be welcomed to her old home town.

The teachers of the Continuation School, Miss Jacques and Mr. Cordick, were delighted with the success of their concert held in the Town Hall, Friday night; also with the wonderful talent displayed by their pupils. The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental selections, dialogues, dumb bell drills, two fancy dances and a negro orchestra and vaudeville acts. The large hall was well filled, and the entertainment a very fine one. At the close of the last act, the prizes were presented for sports day held on October 3rd. Dr. Ross donated a silver cup for the second year pole vaulting event by Roy Powley. The silver cup donated by the School Board for the highest number of points on field day, also won by Roy Powley, and presented by the chairman, Robert Cairns. The silver cup, donated by Popular Subscriptions, for the highest number of points in the girls' events, was won by Hilda Montgomery, and presented by Miss Leatherland. In the High School events, for the highest number of points for boys, a silver cup donated by Frederick Henderson, and presented by Rev. G. McQuade, to Robert McFarland. Miss Verna Benjamin won the silver medal for the highest number of points in the Senior Girls' events, and Miss Marian Miller was the winner of the silver medal for the highest number of points in the Junior Girls' events.

DESERONTO

The services at St. Mark's, Deseronto, on Armistice Sunday, were most impressive. The form of service authorized by the Bishop of the Diocese was used. The morning service began by the Organist, Mr. Eppes, playing "The Dead March in Saul", as the surpliced choir marched slowly up the aisle to the choir stalls. The Rector taking his place at the Faldstool for the two minutes' silence, which began promptly at 11 o'clock, all standing. Then the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past", was sung, preceding the Holy Communion, the Rector recited at the Altar Psalm 46, "God is Our Hope and Strength", which was the key to the devout and reverent spirit presents during Divine Service. A large number partook of the Blessed Sacrament, the real service for Armistice Day, remembering the departed. Something that touched all hearts took place when two of the Choir men, Mr. George Hoppins and Mr. Charles Knight, soldiers, who had been in the trenches in France, sang "Lest We Forget", Rudyard Kipling's immitable composition. The Rector preached from the text "Be still and know that I am God", and stressed the fact that the day of miracles has not ceased. At the close of the sermon a letter was read from Her Gracious Majesty Queen Mary, to the women of the Empire, concluding with a verse of the National Anthem. At Evensong stress was laid upon Canada's part of 60,000 picked men, also of all the Allies, and especially Britain's loss of one million alone, not to mention the crippled and wounded. The Armistice services at St. Mark's were of such a character that they must be remembered by all privileged to take part in them.

NEWBURGH

Mrs. Geo. Lasher, of Toronto, called on Mrs. A. Madden on Saturday evening.

Miss Marguerite Wartman spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson, of Deseronto, called on Mrs. Shier and family on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Caton left on Thursday for Winona, Minn., where they will spend the winter with their son, Mr. M. Caton.

The regular weekly meeting of the League on Tuesday was under the direction of the Missionary Department, of which Miss Keough is President. Miss H. M. Paul and Miss Ella Yeomans provided the programme.

Mr. Percy VanLuven, of Ottawa, visited friends here on Monday.

The friends of Miss Carrie Hooper were grieved to hear of her death, which occurred at Hamilton.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Ramsay on Wednesday, November 7th, with twenty-two members present. The thankoffering amounted to nearly $90.00. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss M. Monroe, of the High School staff, spent the holiday in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley McGarvey, of Hamilton, and Mrs. T. Moran, of Hogan, Ont., spent a few days last week with Mr. Robert McGarvey.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. VanLuven, at which Mrs. James Wilson gave an interesting report of the convention held at Ottawa.

Miss M. McNeely spent the week-end at her home in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Vagress, of Toronto, spent the holiday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weese.

At the regular monthly missionary meeting of the young people at the Mission Hall, Mrs. Ward Wartman gave an interesting address. The general topic of the meeting was "The Spider and the Fly." Many lessons were presented from this story, showing how young people often get enticed into wrong doing.

Robert Ramsay, of Odessa, spent the holiday at his home here.

The Margie Adams Company presented two fine entertainments in the hall on Friday and Saturday. There was fun for everybody. This company would surely get a big crowd should they return to Newburgh.

Charles Detlor, of Oshawa, was a caller in town on Sunday.

Miss Lorraine Alkenbrack spent the holiday in Napanee with her friend, Miss Margaret Hinch.

The Free Methodist Church is approaching completion and it is expected to be opened the last of the month.

Mr. Fluke, of Hamilton, is renting rooms here after visiting his mother, Mrs. G. Wagar.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Switzer are moving to Lonsdale this week.

Miss Beatrice Switzer, of Kingston, was a guest of friends in Bath on Saturday.

Mr. Fred Perry was in the village for a few days during repair work on the telephone line.

Mrs. Hamilton spent Thursday last with Mrs. Burgess, Wesley.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Hudgins, of Selby, visited at the parsonage Sunday and Monday.

Rev. A. H. F. Anderson exchanged with Rev. G. C. R. McQuade on Sunday, when Rev. McQuade took anniversary services at Camden East.

Miss Maude Wagar and Miss Gladys Blair, nurses in training at Kingston, spent a few hours Sunday with their parents.

The regular prayer service will be withdrawn in the United Church this week, owing to the visit on Friday night of Rev. G. C. F. Pringle.

Mr. H. Carlyle Anderson, B.A., of Oshawa, Douglas Anderson, of Toronto University, spent the week-end and Thanksgiving with their parents at the parsonage.

The Rev. Geo. C. F. Pringle is now our United Church missionary on "The Sky Pilot," with headquarters at Vancouver, B.C., on the Pacific Coast. He is a brother to the famous Rev. Jean Pringle, for some years a chaplain with the Cameron Highlanders of Canada, on the front line in France. On Christmas Day the Canadian soldiers were holding the Front at St. Pierre, near Lens. The Battalion headquarters was only three hundred yards away from No Man's Land. His last Christmas service for the day was down in two tunnels underground. After the Christmas service, the soldiers called out for a Yukon story. So it became his custom during periods of rest to tell the men stories of life in the gold fields of the Yukon drawing from his own experiences as a Missionary. These stories have been collected in an interesting volume under the title "Tillicums of the Trail".

Rev. Geo. Pringle has the same pioneer blood in his veins and the same missionary spirit in his soul. For years he has run his little boat up and down the Pacific Coast ministering to people in out of the way places. He will address a public meeting in the United Church, Friday evening of this week at 7.30 o'clock. Everybody is invited to hear and meet this sailor missionary.

How to Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded, Wallace's Drug Store sells lots of it.

TAMWORTH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A successful Hallowe'en party was held in the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening, October 31st, under the auspices of the Women's Institute. Witches, ghosts, tramps and numerous other characters arrived at 8 o'clock. After a parade the task of judging was left to three capable judges, Mrs. John Wilson, Miss Garvock and Miss Hitchins. Their task was not an easy one, but after the various classes had paraded, the following winners were announced:—

Girls, Fancy — Pauline Bradshaw, Marion Richmond.

Small Girls, Fancy—Mary Craig.

Ladies, Fancy—Miss Simmons.

Small Boys, Fancy—Murray Richardson.

Boys, Historic—Helen Hannah.

Ladies, Historic—Miss Williams.

Girls, Comic—Alma Lott.

THE CARE OF POTATOES FOR SHIPMENT

(Experimental Farms Note)

Too much attention cannot be paid to the care of potatoes for shipment, regardless of whether their purpose is for seed or table use. Very often the most conscientious grower has his potatoes rejected at the shipping point simply because a seemingly unimportant point was overlooked. In this instance he suffered a direct loss. Potatoes reaching the market in an unsound condition affect the producer unfavourably and the reputation of the grower's locality as a potato-producing centre suffers accordingly. Instances of this nature are to be avoided in these days of vigorous competition for markets, which are developed by years of effort but lost in one season.

In the broader sense care of potatoes for shipment begins at digging time and continues until they are accepted by the purchaser, so no effort should be spared to insure their delivery in the best possible condition. One of the most common sources of annoyance to the shipper and buyer is frost injury to potatoes. This may have its origin in the field or storage place. It is an exceedingly poor practice to pile the rakings with the main crop. Invariably they have been left in the field over night, and in all probability have field frost injury. Potatoes placed in barns and sheds for early storage must be protected from frost. Doors, cracks and other openings must be closed to prevent air currents. To further eliminate frost injury at shipping time, if the weather is cold, place a suitable covering over the load as a protection against frost during the trip to the car or boat. This is particularly necessary should there be a delay in unloading the potatoes. Such precautions are well repaid, for the inspector will disqualify shipments showing even a trace of frost injury.

A common cause of serious bruising often occurs during car shunts, which cause the bags to fall forward. The only way to avoid such accidents is to slope the tiers well backward. Avoid using containers which were used to hold salt, fertilizer, or other chemicals. Potatoes put in such containers are practically sure to receive injuries which will render them unfit for use.

(For last week.)

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Jackson and young son were tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jackson, on Sunday.—We are glad to report that Mr. Sidney Wagar is able to be around again. Mr. Wagar had been confined to his home with eye trouble for several days.—Hallowe'en brought its usual amount of street decorations, and on the morning following, our village showed signs of the mischievous actions of Hallowe'en celebrators.—Mr. S. D. Wagar has erected a new office on Main street, which is certainly an improvement on the old one, besides filling a vacant lot that has always been an eye sore to most citizens of our town.—The masquerade on Friday last was well attended, and a splendid time was enjoyed by all.—There is to be a novelty dance here on Nov. 8th, under the auspices of the Church of England. Prizes for dancing are to be given.—The United Church annual dinner was a great success. After the dinner an excellent program was enjoyed. Speakers for the evening were here from several circuits to help in our re-opening services.—Mr. Horace Lucas spent Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Jacob Clancy.—Sorry to report that Mr. Stanley Bell is confined to his home with a severe attack of lumbago. All hope for a speedy recovery.—The weather has been very unsettled of late, and everyone is looking forward to fine weather again.

When Young Girls Grow Pale and Thin

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Should Be taken to Enrich the Blood

When girls grow weak, pale and thin, parents should not neglect these symptoms; to do so means danger. The girl in her teens cannot develop into robust womanhood without an abundant supply of rich, red blood in her veins. It is the lack of this that is the great trouble with nine girls out of ten. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have achieved world-wide fame for their remarkable blood-making properties. In these pills there is vigor-ous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes for every weak, pale girl. The value of the pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Winnifred Rutty, Barton street west, Hamilton, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago my eldest girl got into very bad health. I took her to a doctor who advised having her tonsils removed, saying this was the seat of the trouble. We had them removed, but it did not help her, and she seemed to have absorbed so much poison from the trouble that she did not pick up at all. She could neither eat nor sleep, and what food she did take did not digest. Then she developed a cough that kept her awake at night, and went down in weight to 85 pounds. A neighbor said to me, 'You have tried so many things why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' I got some and before she finished the second box she began to show improvement. She continued the use of the pills for some time and is now in the pink of condition, able to work and play, and eat and sleep with all her old-time vigor. These statements can be verified by neighbors who watched her restored from ill health to perfect health."

If your medicine dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HALLOWE'EN AT BATH

A very successful evening was staged again, when the Women's Institute put on a Hallowe'en party in the Masonic Hall, to entertain the young people of the vicinity, on the evening of the second, at eight o'clock.

The evening opened with community singing, followed by a grand march in costume led by two ghosts, with Mrs. R. Sexsmith, presiding at the piano. Then the different classes of costumes marched in groups, to be judged, all being led by the ghosts. Splendid prizes were donated, thus:—

Best Costume of Lady—Linen table cloth—Mrs. Ray Amey.

Comic Costume of Lady—Casserole—Mrs. R. J. Galt.

Best Costume of Girl—Comb and mirror in case—Jean Stevenson.

Comic Costume of Girl—Comb and mirror in case—Marion Barrage.

Best Costume of Gentleman—Thermos bottle—Mr. Sheldon Calver.

Comic Costume of Gentleman—Thermos bottle—Mr. Geo. Stevenson.

Best Costume of Boy—Leather belt—Graham Thompson.

Comic Costume of Boy — Leather belt—Allan Lawrence.

The Honourable Judges were: Mrs. Fred Ham, Mrs. Wm. Wemp, Mr. Macdonald. They found it difficult to judge fairly so great was the competition of dress and costume. There were ladies of merit, witches, old maids, brides, clowns, tramps, Chinamen, negroes, ghosts to judge from. Great was the applause when the figures acted their various parts.

A masquerade waltz followed, which everyone took part in, and made it a success; followed unmasking; then several games and shunts were staged. A suit case relay race created great excitement and anxiety.

Lunch was served, which was of Hallowe'en style, consisting of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee.

The following programme was given, interspersed with community singing:. Miss Edythe Osborne sang splendidly "Constantinople", with Mrs. Homer Collins accompanying. Mr. Ralph Sexsmith and Mr. Sheldon Calver each encored with solos; Miss Jean Stevenson gave a pleasing and pretty platform dance, which caused great applause. There was also a witches' dance by which was worthy of merit. Piano duets and one good old fashioned square dance finished the programme. The prizes were then given the winners, and closed with the singing of "O Canada!" followed by "God Save the King".

The monthly meeting of the Institute was announced as being the 14th, in the Town Hall, and a pressing invitation was given all ladies to attend.

ANNOUNCING A REMARKABLE NEW BUILDING MATERIAL

INSUL-BOARD

(INSULATING BOARD)

A Board that shuts out cold. Stops heat. Deadens sound. An extraordinary building and insulating Board designed to make home interiors more comfortable, more restful and more healthful the year through. An All-Canadian Board, made in Canada from the products of Canada's Forests.

INSUL-BOARD meets the need for a stouter and more rugged material for wall and ceiling insulation. Its greater structural strength has been proven under critical tests by Canada's leading engineers. It makes the walls more rigid, more enduring, more capable of resisting severe strain and stress.

INSUL-BOARD insulates completely, producing a sure and lasting shield against winter's cold and summer's heat, sealing the home interior tight against all atmospheric discomfort.

HERO OF FARM LIFE.

Plant-Destroying Insects Are Nightly Diet of Bufo Borens.

Bufo is the farmer's friend—a hero of the night. What, if not heroic, is he who meddles with a termite in the dark? To say nothing of worrisome caterpillars, poisonous spiders, the damp and daring sowbugs and those "thousand-legged worms" called millepeds. He eats them and a host of other insects that destroy the farmer's crops.

But his efforts are not repaid in kind. Bufo is only a toad, usually thought of as squat, fat and warty. The four-letter word is his family name, and as toads go he may be a Bufo borens, the common toad of the Northwest, or he may be the ordinary garden variety that gets kicked around, run over, ploughed under or left to the teeth or talons of predatory reptiles, birds and whatnot.

Remington Kellogg, U. S. Government biologist, says such abuse is not right. He insists an active interest in the conservation of toads must be taken if these useful animals are to escape extermination by the draining of their breeding places, by the burning over of fields and woods, by the careless operation of automobiles and farm machinery and by other perils of their present-day environment.

The toad, Kellogg says, is a great gourmand and in a season eats untold numbers of plant-destroying insects. He is mainly terrestrial and nocturnal, prolonging into the night the general welfare of insectivorous birds after they have called it a day. Sometimes he may get a good insect, one that preys on other insects, and thereby do damage. But the harm is outdone by his law of average. While he is less susceptible to stings than other vertebrates, he makes no denial of discomfort and proceeds on an immediately different dietary.

ELEPHANTS' SHREWDNESS.

Equally at Home on the Plains or In the Forests.

The elephant is probably the shrewdest and most adaptable of living animals and has no enemies except man. He eats anything that is green, and seems equally at home on the plains or in the forests and jungles, on the high mountain slopes or down in swampy lowlands. His trunk is one of the most extraordinary organs of nature. It contains the finest smelling apparatus on earth, and when the proximity of man is suspected the trunk is raised in the air and carefully turned in all directions, "feeling" for the man smell in the wind.

Once an elephant gets that smell he does one of two things. He either retreats quietly and rapidly or charges. Years of experience in matching his wiles with those of man and his high-powered rifle has taught the elephant that it is safer to remain in the dense forests. An elephant can move through these forests with no more noise than would be made by a mouse, and the growth in these forests is frequently so impenetrable the hunter can make progress only by following the winding elephant trail.

Iodine In Milk.

If bossy's milk hasn't any iodine in it, this important substance may be put into her milk by feeding her a ration that contains iodine, according to experiments carried out at the Acricultural Experiment station at Wooster, Ohio.

Theoretically, milk contains iodine. Practically, it does not always. Potassium iodide, calcium iodide and a seaweed were fed to cows in the experiment. These cows had produced milk without iodine, but the addition of iodine in any of the above forms caused the appearance of this substance in their milk.

In sections where the feeds are rich in iodine the milk contains small amounts as a normal constituent, but in sections where the feed is poor in iodine, it will be absent from the milk unless fed supplementally.

One Hundred Lost Per Week.

According to the records of the Prefecture of Police, more than a hundred women and girls disappear in Paris every week. Some of them are afterwards traced, many do not wish to be discovered, but there is an alarming percentage whose fate may be a terrible one.

A special police force deals with all cases where abduction or similar crime is suspected, but where the case is apparently one of deliberate evasion the ordinary police service of the city deals with it.

Although the real "disappearances" are in the minority, they are sufficiently numerous to represent a grave problem. In these cases it is feared that the lost women and girls are usually victims of white slave traffickers.

Is an Orderly Place.

Abolishing the town jail as a "needless expense," Mound Bayou, Miss., a community of 1,000 negroes Miss., a community of 1,000 negroes arrest a year for six years and a lapse of twenty years since a slaying.

Two peace officers, a marshal and a deputy sheriff direct law enforcement, but neither of them carried firearms.

Mound Bayou was founded in 1887 by Isaiah T. Montgomery, former slave and bodyguard of Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy.

An Old Canal.

From an inscription on the temple at Karnak (Egypt) it would appear that a canal joining the River Nile and the Red Sea existed in the time of Seti I. (1380 B.C.) The channel of this canal is still traceable in parts of the Wadi Tumilat and its creation was frequently followed by the engineers of the fresh water canal.

Nuremberg Eggs.

Watches exactly egg-shape were made in Nuremberg, about 1500, and called Nuremberg eggs.

The young blood was listening to an older chieftain.

"I saw your father the other day," said the latter. "What a distinguished old gentleman he looks with his snow-white hair!"

"Ah, yes," agreed the son. "He's got me to thank for that."

Athletics.

On Thursday afternoon, the final game in the junior series for the school championship in football was played between the Spartans and the Athenians, the latter winning by a score of 9-2. In the first half the Spartans secured 2 rouges, while D. Wood for the Athenians kicked a field goal. In the second half, the Athenians secured possession near the Spartan's line, and S. Beattie on a fake buck went around the end for a touch. Before the end of the game, the Athenians scored another point on a rouge. The juniors that year have played good football and give promise of future players for the senior team in a year or two. The line-up was as follows:—

Athenians—H. Savage, Snap; H. Butcher, Inside; B. Miller, Inside; I. Donahue, Middle; A. Kimmerly, Middle; A. Aylesworth, Outside; O. Barrager, Outside; S. Beattie, Quarter; H. Hume, Half; M. Owen, Half; D. Wood, Half; H. Pringle, Flying.

Spartans—F. Young, Snap; J. Archer, Inside; A. Birrell, Inside; A. Thompson, Middle; G. Seymour, Middle; J. Cook, Outside; F. Young, Outside; G. Beattie, Quarter; G. Howitt, Half; W. Webb, Half; J. Garratt, Half.

Next Friday evening the Collegiate girls will meet the Deseronto High School girls in a double-header basketball game, junior and senior. The game will start at 7.30 o'clock. The local girls have been training all week in anticipation of this game, and should be in good condition to meet the visitors.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Son and Brother, Elmer E. Bradshaw, who passed away Nov. 11th, 1923.

You have gone across the river
To the shores of evergreen;
How we long to see your dear face,
But the river flows between.
We shall meet you some bright morning,
You are waiting for our coming.
In the Master's garden there.

Ever remembered by Mother, Brothers and Sisters. 46ap

IN MEMORIAM

In affectionate remembrance of little Jimmy, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. White, who departed this life Nov. 10th, 1926.

A bud the gardener gave us,
A pure and lovely child;
He gave it to our keeping,
To cherish undefiled.
But just as it was opening,
To the glory of the day,
Down came the Heavenly gardener
And took the bud away.

Sadly missed by Mother and Daddy. 46a

ONE BOX ENDED HIS SUFFERINGS

Serious Bowel Condition Relieved by "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. PAGE

Mr. James Page of Cabano, P.Q., was in a very dangerous condition. The Constipation, from which he had suffered for five years was undermining his whole system. It was not only causing his digestion and poisoning his blood, but had also brought on painful piles. Various treatments failed to help him until he tried "Fruit-a-tives" made of intensified fruit juices combined with scientific medicinal ingredients. "One box of this wonderful medicine", he writes, "gave me complete relief. "Fruit-a-tives" gives results as nothing else does, and I sincerely recommend it to every sufferer." Try this great medicine. 25c. and 50c. a box—at dealers everywhere.

HINDU STONE CARVERS

Bulls and the Marvellous Bas-Reliefs Are Among the Wonders of the World.

The majestic stone carvings to be found on all ancient buildings in India, Grande Buddhas, the bulls and the marvellous bas-reliefs are grand the wonders of the world. Equally marvellous are the fretted walls of old Mogul palace, Futtehpore Sikri and the forts at Agra and Delhi. Wonderful artists and craftsmen have worked on this hard sandstone and left us a world's heritage. We stand amazed at their skill and patience. They do no work like that in this our day.

But the humble craft of stone cutting thrives, says a writer in the Statesman, of Calcutta, wherever stone quarries are found. The red hills of Rajputana send masses of stone to Agra, and these on the outskirts of the city are the factories of the patient toilers who chip and cut by hand, contriving grinding stones and dishes and bowls with the same instruments that cut the scrolls for the Taj, and carved and fretted the screen in that far-famed tomb and the deserted palaces of the fort.

The craftsmen are seen to this day using the very primitive foot-saw that is to be found in the Taj Museum—a thin wire, hanging on a bent bamboo like the string of a bow. This somewhat unwieldy tool is manipulated with magical dexterity, and in the hands of an expert will cut through stone as if it were the soft chalk. Long practice and hereditary craft have taught the cutter how to twist and turn his saw.

Various sizes in wire are fitted to the bow according to the work to be done, and each wire cuts like a knife. A hole is pierced with a primitive drill, and the wire is threaded through as if it were the eye of a needle. Then it is caught and tied to the bow and the work begins. The pattern is so well known that it is hardly traced on the stone. Carving is done with rough chisels and an adze—the tools one sees in the Taj. They cut and chip and whir in an old world clamor and dust, very different from the din of machine-stone cutting, which makes even night hideous in New Delhi, where blocks of grey and red sandstone are still being shaped. The old cutters must go their ways and dwindle before the powers of machinery and take up their dwellings in backwaters like Agra, but their fame and their works will remain.

Many and varied are the utensils that stone-cutters put on the market. Chief among them are curry-stones and grinding stones. Every well-conducted Indian household must have one or both, and the curry-stone from Agra must sooner or later be imported into all kitchens. There is some peculiar virtue in the Agra curry-stone. It is so ground and polished as to resist the onslaughts of the ruffian bottle-washer, and the acrid masala does not penetrate its pores and break it.

Stone pestles and mortars are popular for the same reason. They are much sought after by pundits and the weird contingent of barristers who make medicine for India's millions. Marble pestles and mortars are very useful for pounding up drugs, and stone ones are generally used for blackening, alum and other hard substances that require less care than eye of newt and toe of frog. But stone pestles and mortars are not the monopoly of medicine.

They are turned out by the hundred for the use of the housewife. They are heavy and cumbersome, yet housewives will travel miles to procure them, pilgrims will buy them home if they pass by that way, and at the big Indian religious fairs one sees a pile of grindstones, curry-stones, pestles and mortars, hailing from Agra, Alikarh, and Jaypere.

East Indians In Trinidad Form Bulk of Peasant Proprietors.

The East Indian residents of Trinidad, who number 121,420, far from living for the most part in circumstances of destitution as alleged, are said to be thriving, according to a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor. Following upon the arrival in India of a batch of repatriates from Trinidad last year, reports were published in the Indian press that the condition of Indian laborers in that island was deplorable. Inquiries by the Government of India found that they form the bulk of the peasant proprietors of the island and held 165,000 acres of land, an approximate value of 55,000,000 rupees.

During the last three years these peasants have been the largest purchasers of grants of crown lands in the colony. There are also among them merchants and thriving shopkeepers. They control the motor bus concerns in the island and also the dairy industry. They own considerable house property and have large sums lent on mortgages. Many of the immediate descendants of the original settlers are professional men, doctors, barristers, schoolmasters, etc., while a large number are employed as clerks at remunerative salaries in the Government and mercantile offices.

The Indian inhabitants of Trinidad enjoy equal franchise rights with members of other communities and are taking an increasing part in the political life of the colony.

Money for Playing Fields.

The National Playing Fields Association of England has received from the anonymous donor who recently contributed £10,000 for the purchase of playing fields another gift of a similar amount, which, with important help given by him in other ways, represents a total donation of over £22,000.

The association has also received the gift of a recreation ground of 4½ acres at Frome, Somerset, bequeathed by the late Miss Mary Baily.

The happy merchant

Never before in the history of the world has it been possible for a merchant in good credit to do so much business with so little capital locked up in stock.

One important reason for the present prosperity is that instead of having to buy a big stock at the beginning of each season, he is now able to buy small stocks and replenish them promptly by Long Distance.

Keep your customers for miles around coming to you for whatever they need. Invent ways of inducing them to visit your store, or to order from you by Long Distance and . . . they tell us . . . you will not be seriously bothered by competition.

Long Distance is making happy merchants in some towns. Isn't overlook its great possibilities.

MEDICINE FOR YOUNG GIRLS

Mothers Endorse Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydney, N. S.—"My seventeen year old daughter took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and pains. She could not go about much with the other girls as she was not strong enough. We got six bottles and it did her a great turn. She is working out now in a store and walks three miles every morning and back in the evening."—Mrs. Mary Vance, 44 Lingan Road, Sydney, N. S.

Pinewood, Ont.—"I constantly had pains in my back and side and spent two days in bed every month. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets. They have done me good and I always have them in the house. I have recommended your good medicine to several friends and have given it to my 17 year-old girl."—Mrs. Alfred Ouellette, Pinewood, Ontario.

WILL MINE A METEOR.

Siderite Weighing Ten Million Tons Thought Worth $500,000,000.

Mining operations are under way with caution and uncertainty as the actual content on the giant Barringer meteor of northern Arizona, greatest known meteor on earth and hitherto unshrouded in mystery and Indian fable.

The Barringer meteor, 22 miles from Winslow, created a crater a mile across and approximately 1,000 feet deep when it crashed to earth thousands of years ago. It displaced over 200 million tons of rock in the impact.

The crater that created has been the centre of scientific and geological interest for fifty years, and for the past twenty-five years various efforts have been made to reach the great shooting-star itself and determine its content.

The work has been carried on principally by D. M. Barringer, Philadelphia geologist, for whom the meteor was named.

Barringer finally located the main body 1,376 feet from the south rim of the crater. Tests showed it to be approximately 400 feet in diameter, and to contain 90 per cent. meteoric iron, 7 per cent. nickel, 2 ounces platinum and .1 ounces iridium per ton. The main body is estimated to weigh 10,000,000 tons, and the metal content to be worth approximately $50 per ton.

As-old rumors that diamonds existed in the ore were disproved by the tests, which showed only so-called microscopic diamond points of no commercial value.

Actual mining operations just started are under the direction of Barringer and Quiney A. Shaw, of Boston, of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company. The enterprise is being conducted privately.

Contracts for erecting power plant and hoisting machinery and sinking a two-compartment shaft have been let, and initial construction work is under way.

Thousands of dollars have been spent in past years in futile efforts to locate the great star and its estimated wealth of $500,000,000 of metals. The United States Mining, Smelting & Refining Co., one of the largest corporations of its kind in the United States, gave up the attempt after spending over $100,000.

Barringer, however, has stayed with his problem for over twenty-five years, and after expending his personal fortune finally located the great ore body with sufficient exactitude to bring to his aid the funds and engineering assistance of eastern mining capital.

ALARMED AT MARRIAGE RATE.

French Girls Shun Home—Seeking Careers In Business.

Sociologists, clergymen, notably experts and partisans of large families have just discovered that the young French girl is no longer of the marrying kind.

They are raising their hands in horror at the revelation in the vital statistics for the first three months of 1928 that there were 1,600 fewer marriages in that period than in the corresponding period of last year.

There are many reasons for this. An important one is that since the war the young French girl is more independent than before. She is entering the professions, business, special branches of industries and is even accepting manual labor. Women who got jobs in the subway or on the street cars when the male population was at the front have kept them.

Then there is the question of houses. France needs at the present moment half a million more houses, but the builders do not seem anxious to invest. Young people who think of marriage are thrown out of the track when they realize they will probably have to exist in a hotel room. Girls who have grown up since the war know more about conditions of life than their mothers ever did. They have no illusions about marriage. They consider carefully whether it is to their advantage to exchange their freedom for what the prospective husband has to offer.

At the same time that the number of marriages has diminished the number of divorces has increased.

WHERE THEY CAME FROM

ENGLISH ALPHABET CAME DIRECTLY FROM LATIN.

Romans Borrowed From the Greeks, Who Took Theirs From Phoenicians, But Experts Cannot Determine Where Phoenicians Came From.

The decision of Turkey to throw overboard the alphabet she has used for many centuries, and to replace it with the alphabet of Western Europe and the Americas, is not so revolutionary a step as at first appears, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D.C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"It is not as if Turkey were uprooting some cherished cultural growth and setting up in its place a foreign substitute," says the bulletin. "No true alphabet can be found in use to-day by a people who has originated it. When it comes to alphabets all the world has borrowed. It is an amazing thing, but the problem of resolving human speech into its thirty-odd sounds and representing them by symbols seems to have been solved only once—within historic times, at least—and from this happy bit of analysis and invention all the true alphabets in use to-day appear to have descended.

"The English alphabet came directly from the Latin. It is, in fact, the same alphabet that Rome used save for small changes as the addition of a separate 'J' (the Latin 'I' served for both 'I' and 'J'), and the expansion of the Latin 'UV' into 'UVW.'

"The Romans, in turn, borrowed their alphabet from the Greeks, changing the forms of the letters somewhat and dropping some characters. And the Greeks, as evidence and tradition show, took their letter system from the Phoenicians, even retaining the names, with slight variations.

"The greatest problem in connection with the alphabet is to determine where the Phoenicians got it. There have been widely divergent theories as to this. It has been variously suggested that the twenty-two characters were adopted from the hieroglyphics and the hieratic writing of Egypt, the cuneiform characters of Babylon, and symbols of the Hittites, Cretans, and ancient Greeks. No evidence so far found seems sufficient to determine this matter. Probably the most generally accepted theory is that the Phoenicians, familiar because of their trading ventures. It is to the bustling, impatient 'Babbitt' of some three thousand years ago, therefore, that the world probably owes the device that has made possible the great advances in literature and science, and practically all of the continuing activities of civilization.

"We take the alphabet — and all these words that are built from it with which to record the shadings of our ideas—so much as a matter of course that it is difficult to realize that for thousands and perhaps tens of thousands of years man had no better method of recording his thoughts than with a jumble of picture writing, symbols such as our dollar sign or the hieroglyphs of the Chinese, and syllable characters such as those of the Japanese.

"The earliest written records were made in pictures which represented things and actions. Abstract ideas could be suggested only in the crudest roundabout way. After centuries of use these pictures became conventionalized into symbols, such as the ideograms of the Egyptians and the Mayas of America, and some of those still used in China to-day.

"The ultimate step in splitting up the syllables, adopting an alphabet of characters to represent the component sounds of speech, and building all written words from these simple characters, was taken by the Phoenicians, apparently, about 1600 B.C. Records of about 1400 B.C. discovered in the various countries of the eastern Mediterranean disclose alphabetic writing; the cuneiform was then in general use even in correspondence between Egypt and Babylon. Records of about 800 B.C. show the Phoenician alphabet in use, and apparently in use for some time. The birth date of the alphabet, therefore, is taken roughly as about 1000 B.C.

"When alphabets came into existence in the Near East, their use spread rapidly, largely through trade channels. Before many centuries they were adopted in northern Africa, the entire Mediterranean region, Arabia, Mesopotamia, Armenia, and Persia. Some students have asserted that the Brahmi alphabet of India originated independently; but others are convinced that this alphabet, too, was introduced from Syria (the home of the Phoenicians) about 800 B.C. Even the runic alphabet of the Norsemen is believed to have been developed from a Greek alphabet early in the Christian era.

"The Aramean alphabet was developed from the Phoenician on the edge of the Arabian desert, and from this grew the Hebrew and Arabic alphabets. When the Mohammedan religion began to spread in the seventh century, A.D., it took with it the Arabic alphabet. This accounts for the use of the Arabic characters to-day over a large part of southern Asia and northern Africa. It was when they became Moslems that the Turks began the use of the Arabic alphabet.

The Latin alphabet now to be adopted by the Turks, records their language soundly more accurately, and in addition contains about one-third as many characters as the Arabic. The number of the Arabic characters is swelled by the use of different forms of each letter at the beginning of words, within them, and as terminal letters. Educators believe that heavy illiteracy in Turkey is largely due to the complexity of the Arabic alphabet, and that school children can become familiar with the new alphabet in a small fraction of the time devoted to mastering the old."

OUTPUT OF PETROLEUM.

Production Figures for Canada In 1927 Show Slight Decline.

The output of petroleum products from Canadian plants in 1927 was valued at $64,528,520, a decline of $6,700,000 from the figure reported for 1926, according to a statement just issued by the Dominion Bureau of statistics. This production figure includes the output from sixteen petroleum refineries valued at $63,579,849 and the production from seven plants which compounded lubricating oils and greases worth $548,971.

Of the sixteen refineries in operation, four were in Ontario, four in Alberta, three in British Columbia, two in Quebec, and one in each of the provinces of Nova Scotia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Capital employed was given at $55,449,192. The average number of employes was 2,802, materials cost $52,743,550. Production of gasoline totalled 158,649,724 gallons, of which 72,723,089 gallons were obtained by the cracking process.

Final output of fuel and gasoline totalled 286,525,725 gallons of which 239,272,246 gallons were for sale and 47,252,487 gallons for use as fuel in the reporting plants. In addition it was reported that 206,638,272 gallons were made for use in cracking processes.

Of the seven concerns compounding lubricating oils and greases, three were in Quebec and four in Ontario. Capital invested was $693,271, employes numbered 84, materials cost $216,391 and the value added was $222,580.

Considerable quantities of casing-head gasoline are imported into Canada each year for use in blending with the refinery gasoline. The amounts are shown in the import figures and are not included with the figures of refinery output.

WINDOWS FOR MUSEUM.

Stained Glass of Fine Workmanship Purchased at $135,000.

Eleven sixteenth-century stained windows from the chapel at Ashbridge Park, Great Berkhamsted, Hertfordshire, England, have just been sold in London for £27,000, the purchaser being an English man who does not wish his name revealed. They have now been presented to the Victoria and Albert Museum as a gift to the nation.

The windows were brought to England about 100 years ago from the Abbey Church, Steinfeld, Eifel, Germany. The earliest date on the glass is 1546 and the latest 1572. The windows depict Bible scenes.

They were purchased by a former Earl of Bridgewater, who set them up in Ashbridge early in the last century. Quaint evidence that the work of piecing them together occupied a number of years is afforded by a partially decipherable pencil note on one of the panels, containing a figure of the prophet Amos. This note says: "An humble individual of the same name as the prophet (sic) Amos, the only figure in the heart of this window, first commenced fixing these windows in the year 1811, and finished this window in the year 182—." The fourth figure in the final date has become obliterated, but the prophet's namesake would appear to have given more than twenty years to the task.—Christian Science Monitor.

Baby's Own Tablets Always in the Home

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she always keeps a supply on hand, for the first trial convinces her there is nothing to equal them in keeping children well. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, thus driving out constipation and indigestion, colds and simple fevers and making teething easier. Concerning them, Mrs. Saluste Pelletier, St. Damas, Que., writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past ten years and am never without them in the house. They have always given the greatest satisfaction and I can gladly recommend them to all mothers of little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MOSCOW WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Grandmothers' Day was enthusiastically observed by the Moscow Branch of the Women's Institute, at the home of Mrs. R. E. Asselstine, on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 7th, with forty members and visitors present.

A discussion arose concerning the holding of their annual Xmas sale and was decided to proceed along the lines used at their December meetings.

Following the business, Current Events were read by Mrs. Amos Huffman; also the report of Convention at Kingston was compiled by the District Secretary, Mrs. C. W. Amey, Yarker. A programme consisting of a reading by Mrs. S. King and two solos, entitled, "The Old Arm Chair" by Mrs. W. A. Potter, and "Fifty Years Ago", by Mrs. Chas. Rombough, were cleverly executed.

Prizes were given to the grandmother having the largest number of grandchildren, which was awarded Mrs. S. King, being the proud possessor of twenty-three. Special mention should be made of Mrs. Henry Reid, having nineteen grandchildren, including three pairs of twins.

Mrs. A. M. Burgess secured the prize for the best costume, representing the grandmother of fifty years ago. It was difficult to decide on the best number given on the programme by a grandmother, but Mrs. W. A. Potter was allowed it by one point over Mrs. Chas. Rombough, being that she sang in costume.

A few antiques were exhibited, among them one of special interest. A bayonet brought from Scotland in 1772, by Lt. Col. William Bell, carried by him in the American Revolution in 1774, brought to Canada in 1776, carried by his grandson, Capt. Edward Bell, in 1837, in the rebellion in Upper and Lower Canada. Lt. Col. Bell was the great-grandfather of the late John W. Bell, M.P., and of Mr. Horatio Bell, of Desmond, who is still in possession of the bayonet.

A photo of the grandmothers present was taken on the lawn, after which an old fashioned lunch of home-made bread and butter, cookies and pumpkin pie was served.

The singing of Anthem brought a successful meeting to a close.

SELECTING THE BREEDING MALE

(Experimental Farms Note)

It may seem a little early in the season to talk of selecting next spring's breeders, but this is of such importance that it must be borne in mind early in the season, if best results are to be secured.

Early in the growing season the poultryman should have marked "for the block" all those chickens that had shown the character for slow feathering or any constitutional weakness. There will thus be reserved for breeders, only cockerels from high laying dams that have laid large eggs.

This latter is of great importance as there is unquestionably a tendency to diminution in the size of the egg, where selection has been followed for high production, without due care to also select for size of eggs.

During the latter part of the summer and early fall it will have been noticed that there were some cockerels that had developed early in the season. These cockerels almost invariably finish up as "ponies". In other words, although they look large early in the season, they become set in their growth, and do not make birds of normal size at maturity. These early and some kind should not be retained as breeders, as their offspring will have a tendency to mature too large and fat. They will lay early, before they reach proper body growth, and consequently lay small eggs.

To summarize, the breeding male should be the son of a high laying, large egg hen. He should be well grown, of good size for his breed, and above all should be vigorous. While vigor may be denoted in every part of the bird, in the broad back-deep body, the well set legs and general action, and in the nervous force, the paramount requirement in an egg breeding male, is indicated by the bright, prominent, piercing eye set in a clean cut face.

This is the kind of male that will give results.

THE STORAGE OF VEGETABLES

(Experimental Farms Note)

A low temperature, slightly above freezing, is the best for the storage of all vegetables except turnip and pumpkins, which keep best in a moderately warm room with dry air. It is not possible to store vegetables satisfactorily in a cellar containing a furnace, unless a room is partitioned off with access to the outside air for the new skin. It is a recognized healer among oils and numbers of people can certify that it healed where properly applied.

"I'm afraid it won't fit," she said, as she tried on the engagement ring.

"What a pity," he sighed. "I've never had any trouble before."

For Sprains and Bruises. — There is nothing better for sprains and contusions than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It will reduce the swelling that follows a sprain, will cool the inflamed flesh and draw the pain. It will take the ache out of a bruise by counteracting the inflammation. A trial will convince any who doubt its power.

A young reporter who had been frequently reprimanded for profixity, and warned to be brief, turned out the following: "A shocking affair occurred last night. Sir Edward Hopeless, a guest at Lady Panmore's ball, complained of feeling ill, took his hat, his coat, his departure, no notice of his friends, a taxi, a pistol from his pocket, and finally his life. Nice chap. Regrets and all that."

Miller's Worm Powders are complete in themselves. They do their work thoroughly and strength and soundness follow their use.

The Johnson family was rather demonstrative. The grandchildren were expected to embrace every one at the beginning and at the end of a visit. Fred and Albert were getting into their clothing and making their hasty adieux preparatory to catching their train home.

"Hurry up, Fred,' Albert shouted :—"You're too slow for anything, I've got mine all kissed !"

No Rest With Asthma. Asthma usually attacks at night, the one time when rest is needed most. Hence the loss of strength, the nervous debility, the loss of flesh and other evils which must be expected unless relief is secured. Fortunately relief is possible. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has proved its merits through years of service. A trial will surely convince you.

It's here, right in town, and Wallace's Drug Store, and every live druggist has it.

It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments. Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago, and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.

Buying on the Installment Plan

Purchasing commodities by paying "a dollar down and a dollar a week" has grown into great popularity. Often the object purchased is worn out before it is paid for, and the purchaser continues to pay. Buy yourself a fortune on the installment plan by placing regular installments of your earnings in a Standard Bank savings account. The money is always available for use if required, and there is no depreciation, but accruing interest as time goes on.

OBITUARY.

John A. Wheeler.

John A. Wheeler, 60, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Pearl E. Connell, 914 Myrtle Avenue, at 8.15 this morning, after an illness of eight months. Some time ago Mr. Wheeler retired from the employ of the New York Air Brake Company, where he had been employed as a machinist for the past ten years. Since then he had done no active work.

Mr. Wheeler was born in Tamworth, Ont., on October 8th, 1868, and came to this city 40 years ago, where he had since resided. Thirty-five years ago Mr. Wheeler married Miss Nellie E. Snider, in Tamworth. He was a member of the local tent of the Modern Woodmen of America and St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one son, Vaughn E. Wheeler, of Watertown; a daughter, Mrs. Pearl E. Connell; one grandson, William W. Connell, of Watertown; two sisters, Mrs. R. A. McVitty, of Mullin, Idaho; Mrs. Albert Amey, of Moscow, Ont., and one brother, James Wheeler, of Tamworth, Ont.

Funeral services will be held from the home of his daughter, 914 Myrtle Avenue, on Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Rev. Condit N. Eddy, Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, officiating. Burial will be made in North Watertown.

The funeral service, which was held on Monday, was most impressive, and very largely attended. Flowers, exceptionally numerous and most beautiful, were received from the family, Church, and hosts of neighbours and friends, showing the high esteem in which Mr. Wheeler was held. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved relatives.

ONTARIO RELATIVES WILL SHARE IN $1,000,000 ESTATE

$140,000 COMES TO FRONTENAC COUNTY; $85,000 TO NAPANEE.

Most of the estate approximately $1,000,000, left by Emily S. Dodge, late of 730 Park Avenue, New York, is bequeathed to her family, under the terms of her will, filed for probate. The testatrix died October 14th last.

Her sister, Mary E. Yott, of the Park Avenue address, receives $75,000 outright, the principal of a $215,000 trust fund in 1930, and two-fifths of the residuary estate.

Jennie Pringle, another sister, of Arden, Canada, gets $60,000 outright.

Alexander Crozier, a brother, of Napanee, Ont., was bequeathed $85,000, and two other brothers, William G. Crozier, Kingston, Ont., and Robert J. Crozier, Portsmouth, Ont., $40,000 each.

To her niece, Helen E. Yott, also of 758 Park Avenue, is willed $52,000 in cash, a fifth of the residue and income from a $62,000 trust for ten years, after which she gets the principal.

George M. D. Yott, a nephew, of the Park Avenue address, gets $50,000, a fifth of the residue and income for 10 years from a trust of $65,000. After ten years he is to receive half the principal and ten years later the balance. Cleveland C. Yott, also a nephew, of Anna, Tex., gets $47,500, a fifth of the residue and income for five years from a trust of $37,500, after which he gets half the principal. Five years later he gets the remainder.

A bequest of $5,000 was made to the West End Presbyterian Church, New York, and $2,000 to its pastor.

Bequests to seven friends, total $19,000.

Bequests to Charitable Institutes $24,000.

Came of Pioneer Family.

The Croziers of Kingston, Portsmouth, and Switzerville, are descendants of an old family in Frontenac County, coming a century ago from the north of Ireland. There were nine children, five of whom survive. They were mostly born on Wolfe Island, the homestead being on the southern side opposite to Cape Vincent, N.Y.

Half a century ago the family moved to Olden Township, near Mountain Grove. The children scattered from there, the survivors settling in the front townships. Wm. George on Point Road, near Barriefield; Robert J., on the Lakeshore Road, in Kingston Township, near Lemoines Point, the farm being known as "Eden Villa," and Alexander, near Switzerville, in Lennox County. Two of the daughters, Mrs. Dodge and Mrs. Yott, married and settled in New York, and Mrs. Pringle remained near the old home in Olden Township.

The late Mrs. Dodge, widow of Frederick Warren Dodge, publisher of business magazines, first met her husband in New York when he was a young man. After his death, twenty-three years ago, Mrs. Dodge was the principal owner of the business which he left. She served as vice president of the company, then known as F. W. Dodge Company, until her death recently, at the age of 66. In early life she was educated at Sydenham High School, and was a teacher on Amherst Island, prior to her removal to New York.

Belleville Girl Grand Opera Soloist.

Miss Vallere Wrightmeyer, a Belleville girl, who has been studying music in Boston, has been chosen as one of the soloists in the Boston Grand Opera Company, afid will make her debut as "Nancy" in the opera "Martha", under the eminent pianist and conductor Leginska. Two years ago she went to Boston to prepare for opera with Vincent Hubbard as teacher. She studied in Belleville with Mrs. McColl and S. M. Anglin. Miss Wrightmeyer is also a contralto soloist in Broadway Winter Hill Congregational Church.

Trinity United Church.

During the past month the Dining Hall of Trinity United Church has been undergoing extensive repairs, under the management of the Ladies' Aid Society. A new wainscotting of B. C. fir has been put in and the doors and window ledges grained to harmonize. The ceiling has been freshly painted, and the walls stippled in shades of buff, tan, and blue. The pantry and kitchen has also been freshly painted and kalsomined. Altogether the spacious dining hall and adjoining rooms present a most attractive appearance, and reflect much credit on the Committee of Management of the Ladies' Aid. Mr. W. D. Pennell and Mr. Percy Madden, Napanee, had charge of the work.

OBITUARY

Mrs. I. W. Sproule

The death occurred at Brampton, Ont., on Wednesday, November 7th, 1928, of one of that town's well known citizens in the person of Mrs. I. W. Sproule, in her sixtieth year.

Deceased was a daughter of the late Richard Tyner, and was born on the old homestead at Lime Lake, Richmond township, where she spent her younger days. After her marriage she moved to Napanee and resided on Robert street until December, 1900, when the family moved to Brampton.

Mrs. Sproule was endowed with a kindly nature and made a host of friends. She was greatly interested in lacrosse, a game at which two of her sons, Harry and George, became experts. The Toronto Telegram had the following to say of Mrs. Sproule: "Brampton lacrosse players lose one whom they have known with the deepest affection for the past 28 years as "The Mother of the Excelsior Lacrosse Club." When she is laid to rest on Friday afternoon six of her boys will carry her remains to Brampton cemetery. She took the keenest interest in the game and kept at all times open house for "the boys." Her son, George Sproule, is at the present time the manager of the senior team."

Deceased had been in poor health for some years, suffering from diabetes. The funeral was held from her late residence on Friday afternoon, and was attended by a host of friends, who deeply regret her passing. The services at the house and grave were simple and impressive, and were conducted by Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, pastor of Grace United Church, of which the deceased was a member. He was assisted by Rev. Norman McLeod, pastor of Brampton Baptist Church. The reverend gentlemen stressed the fact that her family could not deeply mourn her death, as she simply passed from this world to a better one beyond.

The floral tributes were beautiful beyond description. Wreaths, baskets, and sprays were sent by the Mann Cup Lacrosse team of 1914, the Lacrosse team of 1928, Dales Football team, Brampton Bowling Club, Ingram Bible Class of Grace Church, Men's Bible Class of the Baptist Church, the Sproule family of London, Ont., Ted Reeve of the Oshawa Lacrosse team, and many other friends, requiring a motor car to convey them to the cemetery. It can truly be said of Mrs. Sproule that "the world with whom she came in contact is the better for her having lived in it."

Besides her husband she leaves four sons, Harry, George and Leslie, of Brampton, and Reginald, of Ottawa; two brothers, George Tyner, of Lime Lake, and W. J. Tyner, of Richmond; five sisters, Mrs. Thos. P. Burley, Toronto; Mrs. Albert B. Root, Napanee; Mrs. Frank McConnell, Roblin, and Mrs. Melville Dafoe and Mrs. J. Masters, Richmond, to mourn the loss of a loving mother and sister.

REV. GEORGE PRINGLE IN NAPANEE

WILL ADDRESS UNITED CONGREGATIONS IN TRINITY CHURCH

On Sunday evening the people of Napanee are to have the opportunity of hearing a Canadian who engages in a work of a unique character. He has a missionary launch, on the Pacific Coast, and day after day, year in and year out, Mr. Pringle visits the little settlements along the coast. There are groups of miners, fishermen, lumbermen and canners, shut in from civilization among the inlets and rivers of the Pacific Coast. To these Mr. Pringle comes—braving all weather, in his little launch—bringing them a word of comfort and good cheer; bringing them as well, medical assistance, and magazines and newspapers. Needless to say, his visits are looked forward to eagerly by these appreciative folk.

He has a great story to tell of the work he is doing. He is well worth hearing. Trinity Church, Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock.

In order that all the United Church folk may have an opportunity of hearing him, St. Andrew's and Grace have decided to withdraw their services.

Wallace's 1c. Sale starts Thursday morning this week, at 8 o'clock.

TRINITY CHURCH CHICKEN DINNER AND CONCERT

In re-opening the newly renovated dining hall of their church, the Ladies' Aid of Trinity Church held what proved to be the most largely attended chicken dinner held in connection with the church for many years. The very highest credit is due to the ladies' organization and its directors for the orderliness of the arrangements and the excellence of the dinner served.

Dinner was served to not less than five hundred and fifty people during the evening.

Following the dinner a concert was held in the auditorium of the church, at which a large and appreciative audience was entertained in listening to the following program, presented by artists of Napanee and district:—Instrumental duet, piano and organ, Minuet in A flat, Nevin, Mrs. J. E. Madden and Mr. Roy Kendall; reading, "It Takes a Heap of Living", Mr. Harry Pawson, Miss Nina McKim, Mrs. F. B. Mills, Mrs. J. E. Madden, Miss Florence Hall, Miss Susie Shorey; duet, "I Would That My Love", Mendelssohn, Mrs. F. B. Mills, Miss Nina McKim; vocal solos: (a) "The Nightingales of Lincoln Inn", Oliver, (b) "Lovely Two Bright Eyes", Clutsam, Mr. J. Caldwell; violin solo, "Hymne a Sainte Cecile," Gounod, Mrs. Cameron, Wilson; organ solo, "Toccata in D", Kinder, Mrs. J. E. Madden; vocal solos, (a) "A Song of the Last", Gaines, (b) "Elf and Fairy", Densmore, Mrs. J. Eppler; mixed quartette: (a) "O Hush Thee My Babe", Sullivan, (b) "Loch Lomond", Mrs. Eppler, Miss B. Kane, Mr. J. Caldwell, Mr. C. Waite.

The concert was under the direction of Mr. Roy Kendall, L.R.A.M., recently appointed organist and choir master of Trinity Church, who won unanimous praise with the program, the first presented under his supervision since his coming to Napanee.

CAMDEN EAST

The Anniversary services in the United Church on Sunday of last week were in charge of Rev. T. H. P. Anderson. An impressive memorial service, with two minutes of silence was observed in the morning. The evening service was taken by Rev. G. C. R. McQuade, of Odessa. The church was filled at both services. The fowl supper and concert on Monday night was highly successful, despite the inclemency of the weather. The hall was filled, and the sum of $98.00 was realized.—Rev. H. B. Kenny, of Consecon, a former Pastor at this place, about thirty-seven years ago, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Williams, and called on friends around the village. He attended both services in the United Church on Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. R. Brooks, bride and groom, of Omemee, were callers in the village recently.—Mr. and Mrs. K. Amey and son, Leroy, and Miss Marion Hawley spent the week end in the village with relatives and friends.—Mr. and Mrs. K. Amey attended the fowl supper on Monday night of last week.—Miss Ganage, of Gananoque, spent the week end with Miss Grace Gallagher.—A number from here attended the funeral of the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shatze, on Wednesday of last week. — Mrs. Jacob Beck, of Merrition, a former resident, spent a few days in the village with relatives, returning to her home on Monday of last week. — The W. M. S. held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. L. D. Williams. A goodly number were in attendance, and a liberal offering was received. At the close a delicious lunch was served by Miss A. Williams.—Mrs. R. Boulton, of Wilton, is very ill at time of writing, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boulton, of this place. Dr. Horton, of Enterprise, is in attendance. We hope for a speedy recovery. — Mr. George Riley, who has kept a first-class dry goods and grocery store here for a number of years, and also kept the postoffice as well, has now retired from the store, and has moved the postoffice to the dwelling belonging to Mrs.R. Guy, still on Main street. — Mr. and Mrs. Percy VanLuven, of Oshawa, are spending a limited time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. French. —Miss Gertie Gilmore, of Tamworth, spent last week with Miss Grace Gallagher, and attended the fowl supper. —The Ladies' Aid will hold their annual bazaar and concert on Tuesday, Dec. 4th, in the United Church Hall. There will be a good display of fancy work for sale.

BETHEL

The lovely warm weather we are enjoying at time of writing quite indicates it is our Indian summer. — The farmers have all taken advantage of the weather, and their fall work is nearly completed. — Some of the farmers in this neighborhood are erecting new milk houses and cooling tanks to preserve their milk, per instructions of the Farmers' Dairy Co., Ltd.—Mrs. Wiley Clark and children, also Miss Vivian Clark motored to Harrowsmith on Thursday last, and spent the day with Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. Eunice Babcock.—Mrs. Wm. Jackson and Mrs. Edmund McKnight spent Thursday afternoon last, visiting Mrs. Arthur Wagar's, Colebrook North. —Mrs. Sam Hamilton has returned from Toronto, where she spent a few weeks, visiting friends. — Mrs. Edith Alkenbrack has returned home from a recent pleasant visit with friends at Brewers Mills, Elginburgh and Kingston.—Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hoare, of Tamworth, were recent callers in our neighborhood.—Mrs. Robt. Babcock, of Holloford, spent a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Percy Galbraith, last week, while Mrs. Galbraith was in Belleville for a few days, being ill at her sister's, Mrs. Jack Adams. — Mr. and Mrs. Arley Clark spent Armistice day with the latter's uncle, Mr. Alfred Charleton, and family, and their daughter, Miss Ivah Clark, Belleville.—Mrs. Edith Alkenbrack and Mrs. Perry Alkenbrack spent Wednesday afternoon last week attending W. M. S. meeting at Camden East.—Mr. Stewart Hart, of Colebrook, was a recent caller at Percy Galbraith's.—Mr. and Mrs. Edmund McKnight and daughter, Jean, accompanied by Mrs. Wm. Jackson, attended the Sydenham High School play, "Gipsy Rover", put on by the students at Sydenham, on Friday night last. — Mr. Levi Salisbury and party returned in five days from their hunting expedition, each the proud possessor of a deer.—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dunn and Mrs. Levi Salisbury spent Sunday, Nov. 4th, at Hay Bay.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson spent Sunday evening calling at Percy Galbraith's. — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Walker, of Napanee, with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Benn, for Thanksgiving week end.

Why not take out a gallon of Radiator Alcohol, and be all ready for the first cold snap. Bring your container to Wallace's, or have us fill up your radiator.

MORVEN

From the oven of the busy housewife comes the delicious aroma of delicacies to be served to-day (Sunday) in the Brick Church, along with a host of other good things to eat.—Quite a number attended the Thanksgiving meeting of the W. M. S. on Wednesday. Another new member was added to the list.—Mrs. H. Pralick and Miss Gordanier, of Napanee, spent Wednesday with their nephew, Mr. E. B. Wilson.—Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilson spent the week end at Mr. Henwood's. —Mr. and Mrs. Ray Perry spent several visiting at Mallorytown.—Mrs. G. I. Perry, Newburgh, visited at Mr. G. Lucas', recently.—Mr. Robt. Jackson spent the week with his daughter, Mrs. Claude Knight, Napanee. — Mrs. Jas. Hawley and children have returned from visiting friends at Roblin. — Mr. Hugh Milling returned from the hospital on Wednesday, although his hand is far from being healed. — Miss Harriet Milling, who is attending Macdonald College, Guelph, has spent the past week with her parents.

HELP WANTED!

The Beaver needs help. Xmas is only five weeks off, and it is time that the Santa Claus Fund was started for 1928. We find there will be quite a few many children as last year who will miss a visit from Santa Claus unless they are cared for by the generosity of the public. For several years The Beaver has undertaken to collect through its columns the money that is used for this purpose, while the Relief Committee or Social Service workers spend the money to the very best advantage. Then with the help of the Rotarians and other cheerful workers, Santa Claus is made up and distributed on Xmas Eve. All work is done voluntarily. Every cent contributed is acknowledged through The Beaver. Let every one have a Xmas.

ODESSA

Charley Hamm, Barrister and Solicitor, and Mr. Markham, Toronto, spent the week end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chambers,
Napanee, Nov. 19th, 1928.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor Roy presiding.

Members present—Councillors Daly, Kimmerly, Tustin, Loucks, Simpson and Ungar.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read, and on motion were approved.

Councillor Loucks presented Mayor Roy with a new gavel, for which His Worship returned many thanks.

Communications.

From C. F. Wallace, of the Editorial Department of the Toronto Star, saying he was very sorry to have to cancel the trip of Captain Hand and himself to Napanee, re the establishment of an airport here, but the matter would likely be taken up again next spring.

From Fry, Mills, Spence & Co., giving the Council evidence of their loss in connection with the sale of bonds of the town, owing to delay in delivery. Ordered filed.

From the Union Electric Supply Co., re defective standards in front of the town hall, and suggesting that a substantial amount be forwarded on account and enough held in abeyance to cover cost of standards until the matter is adjusted. On motion the account was ordered paid, less $70.00.

A letter was received from the Bell Telephone Co., re a series of advertisements that are now being run in the press of the country, and asked that these advertisements be read. Ordered filed.

From Mrs. J. W. Robinson, Secretary of the Ladies' Literary and Musical Society, expressing their appreciation of the work done on the town hall, and also presenting the town with a new piano for the hall.

On motion the thanks of the Council was tendered to the Ladies' Literary and Musical Society for their gift of a beautiful piano for the new hall.

From Jas. Laughland, enclosing an account for printing and postage re Poultry Days, amounting to $21.67. Ordered paid.

From A. E. Paul, asking payment of the sum of $44.00, re Division Court Clerk's work.

Reports.

Councillor Simpson, Chairman of Finance, reported that the expenditures of the several committees had reached such a stage that he was compelled to give notice that they would have to curtail during the balance of the tenure of office of this year's Council. He asked the Treasurer to give the Council a statement of the appropriation and expenditures of each committee, which is as follows:—

	Appropriation	Expenditure
Board of Health	$ 600 00	$ 505 00
Streets	10000 00	11143 00
Fire and Water	4150 00	3033 00
Light	4500 00	4160 00
Town Hall	12800 00	14209 90
Printing and By-laws	650 00	331 44
Street and Police	2300 00	1689 00
Social Welfare	900 00	908 50
Parks	800 00	1314 47
Contingent	3295 13	2300 80

In justice to some of the committees it might be said that legacies, in the shape of unpaid accounts, had been handed down from last year's Council, and also unforseen expenditures had arisen that were impossible to leave until next year.

Councillor Ungar, Chairman of Fire and Water, reported that the last alarm that had received for the fire department was not the style of ladder they required and would have to be returned. He also reported that the department required five rubber coats and six pairs of rubber boots.

Councillor Daly, Chairman of Town Property, reported that while his committee had overdrawn their appropriation to some extent, still the overdraft was more than offset by bills handed down by the 1927 Council. The Red Cross Society had donated the sum of $535.00 to assist in equipping the kitchen for the town hall, and it was moved and seconded that the thanks of the Council be tendered the Society for their magnificent gift.

It was also moved and seconded that Mr. F. Graham be granted the sum of $15.00 in connection with a trip to Toronto re purchase of kitchen range for the hall.

Councillor Tustin, Chairman of Market and Police, reported that arrangements had been practically completed for the handling of traffic on Poultry Days, Wednesday and Thursday, November 28th and 29th.

Councillor Loucks, Chairman of Light and Social Welfare, reported that everything was starting to come again, and he had no money to pay on with. The brackets for the new street lights have been arrived and will be erected in the near future.

Councillor Kimmerly, Chairman of Streets, reported that work had been practically completed for the year.

The matter of a meeting place and work room for the Social Service Committee was left in the hands of the Chairman of Town Property, with power to act.

Accounts.

The following accounts were ordered paid:—

Napanee Fire Brigade	$739 35
Gutta Percha Co.	343 67
R. S. Wales	3 40
R. S. Wales	6 10
E. McLaughlin	4 80
D. Chambers	2 50
J. H. Brown	2 25
J. L. Boyes	94
Naylor's of Canada, Ltd	186 75
Carswell Co.	12 20
Union Electric Co.	217 47

An account of Frank Perry, for $6.99, was referred to Social Service, with power to act.

On motion the Council adjourned.

NEWBURGH

On the afternoon of Wednesday, Nov. 7th, the women of the United Church, Newburgh, met at the home of Mrs. Jos. Ramsay, for their monthly Missionary and Autumn Thankoffering meeting. The devotional period was conducted by the President, Mrs. Anderson; Mrs. Jos. Paul offering prayer, and Mrs. Johnston reading the Scripture message. Routine business disposed of. Mrs. J. A. Wartman read a leaflet on our subject for the day, "Thanksgiving", and Mrs. Vandervoort, Mrs. Dunwoody, Miss Keough and Mrs. Shier each gave a short item on the third chapter in the Study Book, dealing with Africa, "Drums in Darkness". The leaders for the study period for the next three months were arranged—two for each meeting, and Mrs. Perry was then asked to address the women. She moved those present to deeper thanksgiving and a greater desire to be useful, while giving a carefully prepared paper on "Service". At the close of the meeting the President announced that $90.00 had been received that day, this amount including two life members' fees, Mrs. Peter Shorey and Miss Ella Yeomans. The Doxology was sung, and Rev. T. H. P. Anderson offered a prayer of grateful thanks. A very interesting and helpful meeting was concluded, when Mrs. Ramsay served dainty refreshments, which Mrs. Wartman, in expressing the appreciation of those present, described after Burns, as "a cup of kindness and a piece of pleasant bread".

Mrs. R. McGill, of Centreville, was a visitor with her sister, Mrs. Baker.

Mrs. McLeod, of Winnipeg, who spent the past month with her mother, Mrs. R. Dougan, spent an afternoon and evening with Mrs. Hannah.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wales visited with Miss A. Ackerman and Mr. C. Ackerman, on a recent Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wartman spent Sunday in Sydenham.

Miss Elsie Warner, of Yarker, has been the guest of her cousin, Miss Ruth Lucas.

Mrs. E. Weese is visiting her granddaughter, Mrs. Winter, at Empey Hill.

Mrs. C. Wager visited with friends on the Napanee Road, during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Benn, of Sillsville, at Mr. Bowerman's.

Miss Mitchell, B.A., left on Saturday for Norwich, where she is engaged on the High School staff.

The League meeting on Tuesday night was in charge of Mrs. (Rev.) T. H. P. Anderson. Reid Miss Mitchell, B.A., gave a very inspiring address. In the social period Mr. Charles Holden and Miss Ruth Lucas were the best map of Newburgh, and Stewart Dowsley and Rene Switzer won second prize.

The Free Methodist Church will be opened for services on Sunday, Dec. 9th.

The Ladies' Aid held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Carter. There was a good attendance, and the usual business was transacted.

Mr. Wager, former clerk in the Bank here, renewed acquaintances on Sunday.

The Rev. J. E. Beckel, Pastor on the Bay Circuit, preached very acceptably on Sunday in the United Church.

The Sunday School of the United Church is beginning to plan for its Christmas entertainment, which will be held this year on Thursday evening, Dec. 20th.

Mrs. Thomas Lockwood returned to St. Thomas last week for a short visit.

Rev. T. H. P. and Mrs. Anderson visited at Mr. A. C. Baldwin's and Sidney Griffith's, on Sunday, when Mr. Anderson preached the Anniversary sermons at the Anderson church, where he was pastor a few years ago.

Rev. G. C. F. Pringle was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Dunwoody on his recent visit to Newburgh. He delighted the children of both the Public and High Schools by his stories of the dog team and other of his experiences in the Yukon, and work around Dawson City.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Rollins, of Cooper, Ont., celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Tuesday, Nov. 20th. Mr. and Mrs. Rollins are parents of Mrs. J. N. Lucas, and she and her son, Fred, left on Saturday to attend the celebration.

Rev. George Pringle gave an address in the basement of the United Church on Friday evening on the sailor's missionary work on the coast of British Columbia. A large number were present. Mrs. H. Finley, of Strathcona, pleased the audience with a solo, "The Ninety and Nine". Mr. Pringle also addressed the school on Friday afternoon.

The Brooks Family, of Robiln, with Miss L. Blake, of Newburgh, accompanist, were at Violet on the 7th of November, where they very acceptably assisted in the programme at the annual teameeting of the United Church.

Mr. Rufus Grant of Bell Rock, is a visitor in our village this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Shane, Mr. and Mrs. Okel Drew and Orval, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Quinn and little Doris, of Desmond, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Shane, on Sunday last.

Mrs. Arthur Yorke, of Point Anne, spent Sunday at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Carter spent Sunday at Mrs. Arthur Knight's, Shannonville.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert and children of Donald Rikley's, Sillsville, on Sunday.

Mr. Frank Carter was a caller at Croydon on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Pringle was listened to with rapt attention at the meeting in the school house of the United Church on Friday evening last, when he told a gripping story of his work as a missionary at the logging camps in the Yukon. If ever he comes this way again we can promise him a hearty welcome and a bumper crowd.

Turkey Abolishes Polygamy and the Arbitrary Repudiation of Wives.

The very name of Turkey to an Occidental mind conjures up pictures of veiled and sequestered women in harems, writes Emine Adyie Hanum, teacher at the American school in Constantinople, to Le Journal, Paris. Europeans and Americans usually believe that the Turkish women are anxious little creatures whose only desire is to have the first place in the heart and house of her husband, who reigns over three or four wives. This idea of the Turkish woman is quite wrong.

As everywhere, there are several classes of women in Turkey. There is first of all the peasant woman who never has been shut up in a harem and who always has shared the life and work of her husband. This woman enlisted as a soldier during the war. There was a women's regiment with a woman colonel in the Turkish army. The peasant women also transported ammunition to the front.

The high society women live now exactly like the foremost women in the Occident. They go to teas, balls, lectures and baths at mixed beaches. As in Europe, the women of the middle class work and are industrious. We have also intellectual women, teachers, woman physicians, woman lawyers, who never accept any smaller remuneration than a man would.

The most complete rehabilitation of the Turkish woman has now been decided upon by our President, Mustapha Kemal Pasha, who decided last year to abolish polygamy and the arbitrary repudiation of wives.

This event had a great echo in the life of the women at home, who then felt that they were masters of their own fate. They were no longer toys in the hands of the men. The young Turkish girl nowadays married with the full consciousness that she helps found a home and a family, and that the will of her husband cannot break it either. Of course, the law provides for divorce; but divorce depends upon the verdict of a court, and is rather difficult to obtain.

Altogether the old idea which the westerners used to have of the Turkish woman is no longer right. Polygamy had become rare even during the last two or three generations, though it still existed in some cases. Public opinion spoke against it, though. I myself know only two men amongst all my acquaintances who had two wives each. Repudiation was rather rare, too, since the Turkish women, owing to their intelligence, knew how to keep their husbands faithful to them.

It is no less true that in all classes of society women joyfully welcomed the new law which emancipated them completely. The modern Turkish girl now goes out as she likes. She goes to dances and to theaters and concerts without having to hide behind a screen and iron bars as in the past. There is only one point in which she does not resemble her western sister: she does not flirt. If she did so, she would seriously hamper her chances to marry.

HUMAN ALCOHOL FACTORY.

Body of Strictest Teetotaller Contains Alcohol.

The human body is an alcohol factory to a very minute degree—about three-thousandths of one per cent. of its total weight being normally present in the strictest teetotaller.

More than one-hundredth of one per cent. indicates a recent intake. Four to five-tenths per cent. indicates drunkenness, and eight-tenths to one per cent. will cause death.

Alcohol taken into the body is absorbed before reaching the large intestine, and scientists do not know what becomes of most of it.

As alcohol is ordinarily produced by living organisms, notably yeast cells, the question is often asked whether the compound may not arise in the human organism and thus occur independently of intake. A positive answer need not be assumed to make the "natural" normality present alcohol in the body serve as an argument for its indispensability to human well-being.

There is growing evidence that alcohol does occur in minute traces in the body. It can be identified in the blood and in all the tissues examined.

GREAT MEN'S FANCIES.

Carved Meat In Kitchens of Britain's House of Parliament.

The likes and dislikes of prominent statesmen at meal times have been revealed by a Londoner named Cox who was for nearly fifty-nine years carver in the kitchens of Britain's famous House of Parliament.

Incidentally, Mr. Cox thinks that financiers have bigger appetites than politicians.

"Disraeli," he states, "was fond of cold roast beef cut from the joint and insisted on it being cut very thin and served on a small plate.

"King Edward was present at several of the public banquets I carved for," he added. "He was a very small eater, and had just what was put before him."

Mr. Cox says of Mr. Gladstone: "He was very fond of ham, but was always satisfied with what was served. When there was an exciting time in the House he very seldom dined, but had a glass of sherry brought to him in the corridor. After drinking that he used to dash back again."

Always Makes Compensations.

"Nature," said the philosopher, "always makes compensations. If one eye loses sight the other becomes stronger. If one loses the hearing of one ear the other becomes more acute."

"I believe you're right," said an Irishman, "I've always noticed that when a man has one leg short the other is longer."

He—"A self-made man is common enough, but we never hear of a self-made woman."

She—"Considering the kind of article the men who are in the self-making business turn out, you can hardly blame the woman for not taking it up."

RHEUMATIC VICTIMS

Can Find Relief Through Building Up the Blood.

Pain is the symptom of rheumatism that every victim recognizes, and he generally attributes the trouble to cold, damp, or changeable weather. But doctors know that thin blood is a marked characteristic of the trouble. Trying to cure rheumatism while the blood remains thin and poor, is an impossible task because there is nothing to build on. A tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that enriches the blood and frees it from poisonous impurities soon banishes rheumatism from the system. So long as the blood is maintained in a healthy condition the trouble will not return. This is not theory. It has been proved in hundreds of cases; here is one:—Mr. J. W. Rose, R.R. 2, Albany, P.E.I., says:—"For some years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism and although I tried a great many remedies, I did not get any permanent relief until after I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble was located mostly in my shoulders, and at times was so bad that my right arm was almost useless. Of course I suffered much pain and great inconvenience. My attention was directed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through an advertisement in our newspaper, and I decided to try them. I took the pills according to directions with the result that the rheumatism has left me, and I have never had a twinge of it since. If this meets the eye of any rheumatic sufferer my advice is try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ARMISTICE AND THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

On Tuesday, Nov. 13th, a most impressive service was held by the Women's Institute, associating Armistice and Thanksgiving. The meeting room was artistically decorated with greenery, bitter-sweet berries and vegetables. Mrs. Ralph Ham, the President, very ably conducted the business of the day.

Mrs. S. Loynes, in a few well chosen words, recalled the events of Armistice, just ten years ago. Mrs. George Tustin, who lately returned from Europe, in her usual bright, interesting manner, gave a travelogue through the many countries she visited. Amusing incidents experienced by her were enjoyed by all present. Especially interesting was her narration of her visit to the Battlefields and cemeteries in France. The Arch of Triumph of white marble, on which 40,000 names are inscribed, is a monument of great beauty. The party with which she was travelling placed a wreath on the Canadian monument at Menin's Gates. Shortly afterwards the Prince of Wales commented on seeing this wreath so thoughtfully given by a Canadian touring party. The resting places in France of the Canadians who fell are most tenderly cared for and beautified with wonderful roses. Mrs. Powell, our talented reader, stirred every heart with her recital of two poems, in memory of the Dead and Canada. Mrs. Valkman, in her usual sympathetic manner, gave a very impressive solo; embracing the thought of Brotherhood to God and Brotherhood to Man.

Mrs. MacGregor took charge of a unique Thanksgiving service, in which all present took part. Mrs. Powell recited an appropriate poem, entitled "A Woman's Thanksgiving".

A short address by Mrs. Taverner on matters of Agricultural interest, followed by a demonstration by Mr. Laughland of testing of milk by the Babcock test, was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

A paper on Current Events, most carefully arranged by Mrs. Haggarty, was eagerly listened to by the audience. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

CAMDEN EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The November meeting of Camden East Branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. C. Boulton, on Friday afternoon, the 2nd. There were twelve members and three visitors present.

After the opening Ode and prayer, each answered the roll call by showing a sample of an inexpensive Christmas gift. These were very interesting, and included handkerchiefs, handkerchief holders, and novelty bags for holding soiled handkerchiefs, cosy pieces, towels, aprons, container for pot holders, duster, powder can covers made of doll's heads, crepe paper, and of crochet mat made of old stockings.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved, correspondence was dealt with as follows:—An invitation to attend the Yarker-Colebrook W. I. November meeting was accepted, and five dollars was voted to the Navy League.

Mrs. E. Wright, of Violet, read a very interesting and instructive paper on "Surgical Emergencies", and Mrs. A. Robinson read a well prepared paper on "The League of Nations". This paper gives us a much clearer idea of the "League" and its aims.

The meeting came to a close by singing the National Anthem, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and committee.

Our next meeting will be in the evening of December 7th, at the home of Mrs. H. Huff.

COST OF FEEDING HORSES

(Experimental Farms Note)

Although the tractor is being used successfully for a great many operations, the work horse may still be considered as the principal motive power on the majority of the farms of Canada, consequently, practically every farmer should be interested in the actual cost of feeding horses, particularly horses that are working most of the time.

Records at the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario, records are kept of the amount and cost of feed consumed by all work horses.

The average figures obtained over a five-year period are as follows:—Number of horses fed, 14.4; hours worked per horse per day, 8.7; hay per horse per day, 19 pounds; grain per horse per day, 15.5 pounds; and cost of feed per horse per year, $156.65.

It may be noted that the average cost of feed per horse per year of $156.65, would equal about 86 cents per day for a two-horse team. It should be pointed out, however, that this figure represents conditions where the horses are employed almost every working day in the year at reasonably heavy work and, therefore, the cost of feeding is much higher than it would be for an idle horse, or even one that was working for only a part of the time.

In arriving at these figures, the hay was charged at local farm prices, that is, the amount it would sell for on the farm. Without doubt, some of the hauled. The grain was charged at local market prices.

OBITUARY

Mrs. David Winter.

Mrs. David Winter passed away at her home on November 6th, 1928, at the advanced age of eighty-eight years. Deceased was a daughter of the late William and Mary McMurray, who were of the early pioneers of the County of Hastings. She was born on the 2nd of November, 1840, in the Township of Tyendinaga, and has always been a life long resident of this district. Deceased was an Anglican in religion, always ready and willing to do anything for her Master and the Church she loved. In her health she was seldom absent from God's House. She was of a family of seven, she being the last surviving member. She had four sisters, Mrs. Thos. Kelly, Mrs. John Robinson, Mrs. Irvine Ray and Mrs. Thos. Winter; also two brothers, Robert and John McMurray. She leaves to mourn her loss one son, William T., on the homestead, and one daughter, Mrs. Andrew Penny, Empey Hill.

May her exemplary life shine on those she has left to mourn a kind and loving mother. Gone but will not be forgotten by a host of friends and neighbors.

The funeral service was conducted by her late Clergyman, Rev. W. Gregory, Shannonville, from her late residence to St. John's Church, Selby, thence to Riverside cemetery, Napanee. Her pall-bearers were her six nephews, Sam. D. G. Winter, William J. Winter, William and Sam Kelly, Wilbert and Sam E. Winter.

ROBLIN

There passed away peacefully, one of Richmond Township's old and highly esteemed citizens, in the person of Mrs. Margaret Storr, widow of the late John Storr, at the age of nearly nine years. The deceased had been in failing health for some months, but has always been a most patient sufferer. Everything possible was done to lengthen out the brittle thread of life, but without avail, and on November 7th her spirit winged its flight to the realms of eternal bliss. Mrs. Storr had been a resident of Roblin and vicinity for many years, and will be greatly missed by her many acquaintances, as well as her own immediate relatives. Of late she had made her home with her daughters, Mrs. Archie Denison, of Napanee, and Mrs. Wesley Davis, where she fell asleep in Jesus.

Mrs. Storr was a splendid type of Christian womanhood, having been converted some thirty-six years ago in special revival services at the Ebenezer Church of the Selby Circuit, under the ministry of Rev. Mr. Robinson, of saintly memory. Since that time she lived a consistent, victorious Christian life, seeking to please and glorify Him who had redeemed her, and to help spread His Kingdom in the earth. Her sun went down without cloud or shadow. All was clear between her soul and her God.

The funeral was held from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Wesley Davis, to the Holiness Movement Church, Roblin, and was conducted by her Pastor, Rev. P. C. Bennett, assisted by Rev. H. W. Poley, of Selby, and Rev. R. Tomlinson, of Roblin. The text used on the occasion is found in II. Tim. 4-7-8. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brooks sang during the service very touchingly, "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" The large congregation attested to the esteem in which the departed was held. The remains were laid to rest beside those of her husband, who predeceased her about seven years ago. The flowers were beautiful, consisting of a pillow and wreath from the family and the grandchildren. The pall-bearers were Leopold Carscallen, Frank Gray, John Wallace, Herb Wannamaker, Herb Aselstine and John McConnell.

The daughters, Rhoda, Mrs. Wesley Davis, and Beatrice, Mrs. Archie Denison, are left to mourn the loss of an affectionate and loving mother; also one brother, Mrs. Ezra Thompson, of Dauphin, Man.; one brother, Silas Bowling, of Sharp's Corners, and several grandchildren. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to these sorrowing hearts. Amid the darkness of the hour comes the comfort of knowing that she has gone "to be with Christ which is far better.

ANNOUNCING A REMARKABLE NEW BUILDING MATERIAL
INSUL-BOARD
(INSULATING BOARD)
A Board that shuts out cold. Stops heat. Deadens sound. An extraordinary building and insulating Board designed to make home interiors more comfortable, more restful and more healthful the year through. An All-Canadian Board, made in Canada from products of Canada's Forests.
INSUL-BOARD meets the need for a sturdier and more rugged material for wall and ceiling insulation. Its greater structural strength has been proven under critical tests by Canada's leading engineers. It makes the walls more rigid, more enduring, more capable of resisting severe strain and stress.
INSUL-BOARD insulates completely, producing a sure and lasting shield against winter's cold and summer's heat, sealing the interior tight against all atmospheric discomfort.

Presentation and Address.

It was a pleasant and sociable gathering that took possession of the Charters' home, it being the occasion of a farewell before Mrs. Charters' departure to Napanee, where she will reside in the future. Some little time was spent in social intercourse and music, after which refreshments were served from a nicely arranged table, where Mrs. D. Hough and Mrs. O. Robertson poured tea, and those assisting in the serving were Mrs. A. P. Young, Mrs. H. Hough, Mrs. A. C. Davis and Mrs. R. Humphrey. The following address was read, and the presentation of an electric table lamp by Mrs. M. B. White, was indeed an appreciated surprise.

Dear Mrs. Charters,—This afternoon's gathering has a motive that words cannot express. They are inadequate to convey our appreciation of your worth as neighbour, friend and co-worker; there is a treasure in these words that has been exemplified. One never questioned "Who is thy neighbour", for always the helping hand, ready response and willingness of service were never made a matter of choice but a duty. Always friends who walk the same path cheer and strengthen how often this has been revealed in years spent together, and to-day we realize the fact as never before in warmth and richness of attachment, for it has shown why you have friends, it is that you have always been a friend yourself. As co-worker in Church and community circles, you will be much missed. Your home was open at all times under all occasions, and therein hospitality reigned supreme.

Our Church organizations know well your valued service; perhaps more so in our Women's Missionary Society where you were our first leader, and in the thirty-two years of its organization your enthusiasm and zeal never slackened, your readiness for service at all times will remain with us, though not far distant. We realize there is a reverance, a bond is broken and among us, as in you, sweet remembrance will play its part.

Accept the lamp in the spirit given and in its rays how often you will catch the gleam of friends and neighbours gathered to-day, and recall the many pleasant years we have spent together.

"Tis not the weight of jewel or plate,
Or the fondle of silk or fur;
'Tis the spirit in which the gift is rich,
As the gifts of the wise men were;

And we are not told what gift was gold.

Or whose was the gift of myrrh.

Signed in behalf of our community

MRS. M. B. WHITE
MRS. B. ROBERTSON

Mrs. Charters replied in words fraught with joy and pleasure, tinged with the sadness of our separation after many years of association in Church and community life, but the hospitality that always abounded as would be found unchanged in the years past. The same neighborly spirit would be found ours at all times when opportunity made it possible for us to partake of it in her new home.

The Haines Shoe House

Hospital for Sick Children

68 College St., Toronto, Ont. December 1928.

Dear Mr. Editor —

For some years past the work that this hospital has been able to do for the children of Ontario has been seriously cramped through lack of space. A point was reached where the trustees had to decide whether this service should be restricted to the utmost number of "Sick Kids" whom it could provide with cots or whether it should add to its room.

There are many youngsters suffering from affections of the spine and joints, whom only a long months can restore to health and strength. Medical care will help; but what they principally need is fresh air and sunshine. Hitherto the hospital for Sick Children has looked after such children in an institution close by a city playground where more fortunate boys and girls enjoy their sports. Imagine their plight, lying month after month listening to the shouts and laughter of other children.

In October last, the Hospital for Sick Children opened its country annex devoted to youngsters whose one chance to have their limbs straightened or their bodies built up must be in some place where they have sunshine and fresh air plus nursing care and medical attention. On a height of land near Weston, far away from the murk of the city, children are winning their way back to health in an environment of sunshine, pure breezes and quiet.

The country hospital at Thistletown is a God-send for children whom it will take a long time to cure. It also liberates a hundred cots in the parent institution for youngsters who can be set right in a short time if quickly given constant attention. So the Hospital for Sick Children has now two doors to keep open day and night to every class, color and creed.

For more than half a century the Hospital has depended for its very existence upon the public response to its annual appeal which, borne in behalf of children is appropriately made at Christmas time. For over fifty years the H.F.S.C. has been enabled to make both ends meet by the donations of its friends, whether such be a dollar or an endowment. But the end of 1928 finds it with many large bills to pay for its new premises.

In its old friends the hospital for Sick Children once more appeals. It is because so many of your readers are included in that ever-growing circle, that I presume upon your space to remind them that it was their generosity in the past that enabled the Hospital's Trustees to build for the future. With an extra effort stimulated by a new need, swell the income of the "Sick Kids" be put once more abreast of its present needs?

Faithfully yours,

IRVING E. ROBERTSON,
Chairman Appeal Committee.

WHY HONEY SHOULD BE GRADED

(Experimental Farms Note)

Honey is one of the few uncooked, pure and natural foods in its class that remains. But because it is too frequently allowed to go to the market in an unclassified or ungraded manner, it is often overlooked by the purchaser.

Since there are so many different kinds of honeys, and so many individual tastes, it is important that, when buying honey, the purchaser should know what he or she is getting.

For example buckwheat as a table honey, is disliked by many people, while on the other hand, many people prefer it to any other. It is perfectly good honey, but it does not suit the palate in some cases. The only way to make sure that the purchaser is getting what is liked best, is to have the quality or grade marked on the container.

Because in these days so much of the food-stuff consumed is graded and labelled, any commodity, such as honey, that is not graded, is frequently overlooked by the housewife when purchasing her provisions. When purchasing a can of peaches, one can see the quality marked on the label, or when buying jams one can see the kind clearly marked on the label, leaving no doubt in ones mind concerning the quality of such purchases. When it comes to buying honey, unless it be graded—and much of it is not—one must make a stab in the dark, hoping that it will prove to be good white clover honey (should that happen to be the kind preferred). Now if honey were to be graded, the purchaser would be assisted in making his choice of kinds. Furthermore, he soon gets to know what kind he prefers, and will return for more.

WHEN AND HOW TO MAKE SURFACE DRAINS

(Experimental Farms Note)

The object of this article is to suggest a method of removing surface water from low lying areas during the fall and spring, so that ordinary operations can be commenced at the time that the higher parts of the same field are ready for work. Many articles and books have been written concerning tile drainage and underdrainage in general. These do not usually apply to surface drainage is required and can be used on hundreds of acres where other methods are expensive and sometimes unnecessary.

The first and simplest method of making a surface drain, to remove standing and free water from a low area in a field, is to open a furrow with a plow along the lowest contour of the area in the autumn, to a ditch or natural watercourse. Make sure that the water can get away through some outlet. This can be done, not only in the cultivated fields, but even in the meadows if the sod be rolled back again before the grass starts in the spring.

Another method of surface draining is accomplished by ribbing up the land in the late autumn along the natural contours and then lead the water from these by a plow furrow to a natural or artificial outlet.

The third and more permanent method of surface drainage is that of plowing the low areas in narrow lands towards the same crowns. The dead furrows should lead to natural outlets or artificial ditches. This method is very common in the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario, and could be used to advantage on many farms in the Maritime provinces.

THE SMALLEST REPUBLIC

Andorra, In the Pyrenees, has Only One Thousand Families—Buffer for Peace.

I am writing from a capital of Europe, the smallest of them all, says a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor. It is Andorra-la Vilta, or Andorra-the-Ancient, and it is the capital of the Republic of Andorra, a country snuggled in the Pyrenees, which has maintained itself at peace since the days of Charlemagne, "while on both sides in France and Spain, the Andorrans could see the insolence of tyranny after tyranny, despotism after despotism, war after war, passing like phantasmagoria." And with this honorable history there is associated in the thoughts of some observers the circumstance that Andorra is the only country in the world without a customs house, a unique exhibition politically of the Golden Rule.

Andorra has a population of 1,000 families, the head of each of which has a vote, unless the head is a woman, in which case, although she has no vote herself, she carries one to whomever she marries, so that, even if he is a foreigner before marriage, he thereby becomes an Andorran without other process.

There are six provinces, each province being called a comu and having a council of its own. Four of the provinces have subdivisions called cuarts, and each cuart has its own council, or body of select men.

The council-general of the republic elects the president called the Sindich, who, though assisted by a secretary of state, issues passports in his own name, on which other countries in the world make no charge for visas. On its side, Andorra requires no passports from foreigners on entrance; indeed she maintains no officers on her frontiers.

The Governments of the republic as a whole, of the provinces and of the charts, are administered economically—the aggregate levies amount to less than $2 a head, and Andorra has no debt. On the contrary, she possesses a substantial amount of invested funds. Men and women, both rich and poor, even the Sindichs, own in the fields.

Periods of crisis occur from time to time. In 1840 a syndicate tried to establish a fashionable gaming centre in connection with the hot springs called Escaldes. This was met with a repulse, and, says Bernard Newman in "Round About Andorra," when next the idea of a gaming centre was formulated, Monaco took the place of Andorra. But who could say that Monaco has gained more by its consent than did Andorra by its refusal?

In the World War there was another crisis, when some Turkish soldiers, who had been taken prisoner from the German army, escaped to Andorra from a concentration camp in France. France demanded their surrender. But the Sindich of Andorra refused, declaring that Andorra was a neutral state.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. George Thompson, who departed this life November 22nd, 1921.

We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts to-day,
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever been called away.

We think of her in silence,
No eye can see us weep;
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear daughter, Bertha Fox, who departed this life on Nov. 26th, 1924.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of our dear daughter, loved by all;
We little thought that on that day
Our dear daughter would be called away.

Four years have passed, our hearts still sore,
As time flies on we miss her more.
Her loving face, her gentle smile,
God loved her too and thought it best,
To take her home where loved ones rest.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Sisters and Brother. 47ap

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and tender memory of our darling mother, Mrs. Lewis Fox, who fell asleep in Jesus, Nov. 16th, 1927.

Many months of weary sadness,
And so hath dawned another year,
Since our darling passed to glory,
Leaving us so lonely here.

Worn and weary from life's journey,
God bade the tired spirit come,
And a host of shining angels,
Bore her to her Heavenly home.

As we loved her, so we miss her,
In our memory she is dear,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.

TWO SISTERS LAID TO REST

Within a week death claimed two sisters, Mirinda R. Hartin, seventy-five, who passed peacefully away on Nov. 6th, after a short illness; and Elizabeth Ann Hartin, in her ninetieth year, whom death called on Nov. 11th, after weeks of patient suffering. Both were daughters of the late Henry Hartin and Margaret Reid, and have spent all their life at Basswood Hill, Centreville, the Hartin homestead, which has been in the name for nearly a century and a half. Both ladies were well known and highly esteemed in the community. They were members of the Methodist Church and formerly took an active part in local activities. Of a family of thirteen, the sole survivor is Mrs. Sarah McKim, of Selby, who devotedly attended her sisters during their recent illness. Other relatives are E. W. Lochead, Centreville; J. R. Lochead, Lansdowne; Dr. Herbert McKim, of Los Angeles, Cal., nephews; Mrs. A. F. Reid, Napanee, and Mrs. B. F. Denison, Selby, nieces.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Bunt, of Enterprise, and interment was made on Nov. 12th, at the Central cemetery, Centreville. The pall-bearers were the great-nephews, R. P. Lochead, Toronto; Wm. A., Donald and Bert Lochead, of Centreville; Clarence Lochead, Tamworth, and Dr. Harold Lochead, Lansdowne.

He sees

NEW CITIES

THIS MAN is a business prophet. He does not really look into a crystal ball but he reads the future nevertheless and he sees new cities yet unbuilt. He is important in the telephone business.

He judges the future from the facts of the present and it is his job to judge with accuracy. He must judge with accuracy because, in a telephone system, plans must be made for years ahead and millions of dollars are involved.

With a railway there must be tracks and stations before trains can run. With a telephone system there must be conduits and central exchanges before telephones can go in.

To wait until people are clamoring for telephones is too late.

THE BUSINESS PROPHET does not wait. He comes to the management with his charts and graphs and figures and says: "In 1930 the demand in Ontario will be 80,000 new telephones. They will be wanted here and here and here."

Or he says: "Within the next five years the Province of Quebec will need at least forty per cent more exchange capacity."

And the management does not wait either. They know it is up to them to prepare now. If they don't they will be falling down on their job; they will not be keeping pace with the country.

BECAUSE THE BUSINESS PROPHET spoke in time and the management acted promptly there are 139,000 telephones being installed in Ontario and Quebec this year. Without them there would be inconvenience and confusion now in thousands of new homes and offices.

Next year the business outlook calls for spending over twenty-seven million dollars to extend and renew the system and plans have been made to do so.

For the next five years the telephone expansion definitely known to be needed in the two provinces means over one hundred million dollars.

FINDING THE MONEY is a problem. It is as great a problem as the complications of engineering and organization.

Every year as the country grows there must be new money ready so that the telephone system may keep pace.

Every year thus far the money has been ready because the policy of the telephone system has been fortunate in attracting the support of conservative and reliable investors who have not been subject to the influence of market fluctuations.

THAT IS HOW the business prophet and his graphs have been made effective. And that is why the telephone management has always met Canadian progress with confidence and enthusiasm.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.

VIENNA'S CAFES

Patrons May Lounge All Day In Quiet Settings, Using Places as Clubs —Separate From Restaurants.

The Viennese cafe is almost unique and has probably no exact equivalent in any country in the world. Occasionally, in London and other big cities, attempts have been made to imitate it, but, writes a Christian Science Monitor correspondent from the Austrian capital, in each case there has been no real success.

Each cafe in this city — and there are said officially to be 1,154 of them—has its distinct character, so that a man may almost be judged from the safe he frequents; but they all have certain characteristics in common. These are warmth, comfort, pleasant furniture, excellent and unobtrusive service, and a stock of the chief dailies and periodicals in almost every language. Before going any further into the cafe question it should be mentioned that the cafe is an establishment, entirely separate and distinct from the restaurant, where the "serious eating" is done. There the atmosphere is entirely different and might be called Teutonic rather than Viennese.

Instead of attempting to separate out the different attractions of the Viennese cafe one may sum up the position it holds in the social life of this place by saying that a man uses his favorite cafe as a club, a reading room, a social centre, a meeting place for his business associates and himself, as a study, or as a quiet retreat "a deux," according to his needs of the moment. Here he is as safe from interference as in the privacy of his home, and is often very much more comfortable, since post-war conditions, high price of coal, etc., have made home entertaining a thing of the past.

In return for his hospitality, which lasts as many hours as the guest has time to spare, he is expected to order some light refreshment, and is also supplied with what seems to the foreigner to be an endless number of glasses of water. This has been explained by Dr. Mahan, author of a new publication on Vienna, called "Vienna, Yesterday and To-day," as being the outcome of the host's courtesy, so that the guest may not be embarrassed by having to sit hours over an empty glass. Whether this is the true explanation or not, it is certainly in keeping with the spirit of the Viennese cafe.

Drunkenness and rowdyism are practically unheard of in these establishments, and would be severely frowned at as injuring the prestige of the landlord.

As far as the personnel is concerned the foreigner soon masters their several duties, and the exact amount of tipping necessary to insure pleasant but not obsequious service. The great man is, of course, the head waiter, who makes it his business to learn the customer's requirements in reading matter, and boasts that he rarely forgets. This is an easy matter when guests include foreigners of all sorts and an equal variety of political opinions almost per Viennese. The more plebeian matter of eating and drinking he leaves to his underlings, being content to appear only before one's departure to receive the payment. Naturally the lion's share of the tip goes to the official, but the whole amount spent is so small and the return in comfort so large that one wonders how the establishment can be made to pay.

The general poverty since the inflation, and the high taxes exacted on most cafes by the municipality, amounting on an average to 15 per cent. of the takings, has affected the cafe industry very much, and many of the pre-war patrons are now unable to afford even the small sums necessary to become habitues, but despite it all there is no apparent falling off in support on the part of the Viennese, for is there likely to be, because Vienna without its cafes is quite unthinkable.

Even in the summer the cafe plays its part, although in a slightly different way. With the first warm days the whole establishment seems to move out on to the sidewalks, where, the summer through, cool drinks are to be had under shady awnings, and often in gardens, where music plays. And so the year round the cafe extends its hospitality to all who care to come.

Warning to Flappers.

Scanty attire is hindering the suppression of tuberculosis among the flappers of to-day, according to Mrs. Marion Simonson of the Health Education Department of the University of California.

"Tuberculosis is not decreasing as rapidly among young women as it is among young men," Mrs. Simonson says. "This is due to flimsy dresses, bad posture, desire for slender figure and the too gay life of the high school girl."

If the young flapper wants to flap she should come to California, she says, because flimsy dresses do not seem to hurt the California girls. It is only in the more severe climates where it is decidedly dangerous.

Gold 'Phone for Kemal.

A telephone set de luxe, made especially for Mustapha Kemal Pasha of Turkey, has been built by a telephone company at Stockholm. Every visible met part of the apparatus is goldplated, the handle is made of pure ivory, while the cords are spun with gold. On the back of the instrument the Turkish emblem, a star and crescent, is inlaid in white and scarlet enamel.

Britain's Long Lead.

Great Britain has $26,000,000,000 invested in foreign countries; the figure for the United States is not much more than half this.

Oyster Mecca.

Chesapeake Bay is said to produce more oysters than any other body of water in the world; it has an annual output of nearly 8,000,000 bushels.

"Why does this theatre have its orchestra concealed?"

"Why Just wait until you hear it play."

He—"I love you more than words can tell."

She—"Well, there are other ways."

OLD OAK LOGS.

Excavators Claim Logs are Over 1,850 Years Old.

Excavations recently resumed at Caerleon, Monmouthshire, not far from the amphitheatre, have apparently settled two points in the military history of that important Roman centre.

The first is that a Roman fortress was established there between A. D. 70 and 80, or about 1,850 years ago, and the second that it continued in the occupation of the Romans up to A. D. 400.

The work at present in hand is mainly directed towards the investigation of the two principal sites, the Prysg field and the eastern portion of the school field. In the former the fortress defences are being explored. A wide cutting made across the line of the defences shows that the fortress was at the outset defended by an outer ditch 10 feet wide by 6 feet deep and a clay bank 11 feet high by 20 feet broad.

An interesting feature of the bank is that it was bedded on a series of 10 feet timber logs of oak, which when uncovered for the first time since they were laid down were found to be in an excellent state of preservation. Fragments of pottery found in the clay immediately over the logs show that they were laid down and the bank raised over them between A.D. 70 and 80.

At a later date the outer face of the clay bank was partly cut away and strengthened with a rampart of stone. This wall was six feet thick and still stands, where uncovered, to a height of 7 feet. It is assumed that the wall was raised towards the end of the first century.

Immediately within the clay bank and separating it from the barrack buildings has been found the rampart road-way.

WHY "GLOW-WORMS" GLOW.

There Are Over Five Hundred Other Glow-Giving Varieties.

To refer to a "glow-worm" is to use quite a wrong term, because the glow-worm is a beetle!

The light it gives out is admittedly pretty, but the glow-worm is not by any means the only insect that can "glow" There are over 500 other glow-giving varieties.

Although scientists know comparatively little about glow-worms, it seems to be established that the light is generated in the act of breathing, and the rays are akin to X-rays, and not, as was once thought, merely phosphorescent. The glow-worm's glow, it has been proved, will penetrate various substances in the same manner as X-rays do.

As to why the glow-worm should glow, that again is a mystery. Some wise men say it is to show its way; some that it is to scare its enemies, and others that the light acts as an attraction to insects, inter alia, and in that wayth glow-worm gets its food.

WHERE SOUND CEASES.

Absolute Silence Prevails Twenty-Five Miles Up.

When rising from the earth's surface, the air becomes thinner and more rarefied. All of the components decrease in amount, at thirty miles up there is little or no oxygen and the density of the air at that altitude is about one-one hundredth that of the sea level; at [illegible] it appears it ceases, and there is only water vapor above that [illegible].

Above twenty-five miles the air is too rare to transmit sound and absolute silence there prevails. As the air is very rare at that altitude, and as no motes or dust are there, the light waves pass almost unobstructed, and there is nearly total darkness and absence of all color; the temperature, too, is very low, probably approaching that of outward space. This region is then one of dark, cold silence.

The fact, however, that meteors sometimes become luminous at the height of 100 miles and more, shows that there is an atmosphere of some sort at that height, probably hydrogen, helium or kindred unknown gases.

Papermakers' Problem.

From what source are the future supplies of materials for making paper to come? This is a pressing problem, for fresh materials will soon be required.

Bamboo offers unique advantages as a substitute for wood pulp and much may be heard of it in time to come.

Successful results, too, have been obtained from caroa fibres. The caroa belongs to the pineapple family, and grows in Brazil. Its leaves are about four feet long and two inches wide, and contain cylindrical fibres, small in diameter, but comparatively long.

A good yield of pulp is obtained, and also white from a strong kraft paper to a fine writing material can be manufactured from it.

Mexico Enforcing Laws.

It is unwise and expensive to flout the metric system in Mexico. A Tampico merchant was fined 200 pesos ($100) for advertising his wares in terms of pounds instead of kilos. The metric system is supposed to prevail all over Mexico. In the country the Indians often have vague measurements of their own, and in the cities American and British measures lapse into pounds and miles and quarts. Such lapses in advertising in Tampico will be followed by fines, the Department of Weights and measures has announced.

A New Volcano Found.

The Pavlov volcano expedition has added a new volcano to the long string already known to be in Alaska. The mountain is north of Canoe Bay and is 4,300 feet high. Its crater contains a small lake. Dr. Jaggar, leader of the expedition, proposes to name the peak Dana volcano, in honor of the pioneer American geologist.

Tortoise Shell.

Tortoise shell, as it comes to market from the West Indies, is coarse, dirty, and [illegible]. Only skillful and patient manipulation makes it the rich and beautiful material it eventually becomes.

THE "STAFF OF LIFE"

Writer Explains How Wheat Is Turned Into Flour—Intended as Our Staple Food.

Wheat growing is one of the world's oldest industries, says a writer in Tit-Bits. Man at a very early stage in the world's development discovered that wheat was the most valuable of all the cereals. He found it was not merely a food, but a veritable "staff of life" for it satisfied his hunger, supplied him with vitality, and gave him physical strength.

What primitive man learnt by the practical experience of eating, the modern chemist has proved by analysis. We know now that wheat contains all the nourishment mankind needs, and in the correct proportions.

In each grain of wheat there are exactly the right quantities of protein, fat, starch, sugar, and mineral matter. It is obvious that wheat was intended to be our staple food.

If eaten in its natural "grain" state, it would be hard to masticate, and indigestible. Hence millstones arose, and the making of bread from flour.

There was a time when bread held nothing but pure wheaten flour, with the necessary additions of water, salt, and yeast. But modern milling methods, which throw out the valuable coat of the grain, and the intervention of the chemist, with his flour-bleaching chemicals and so-called "improvers," have given us a loaf which is not, as it should be, pure whole wheat-grains in another form.

It is deficient in vitamins, has none of the valuable minerals nature put in the grain, and the greater part of the food value is lost.

I have just spent a morning investigating production which claims to give us, with nothing added and easily masticated form, pure wheat, writes the Tit-Bits man.

I began at the beginning, and watched the unloading of thousands of sacks of Australian wheat, of golden color and "full of sunshine." English-grown wheat, owing to our climate, is unsuitable, as it holds too much moisture.

The wheat is drawn up, by ingenious machinery, into gigantic "silos"—tall storage tanks, holding some 5,500 tons. From the silos it goes to the cleaning house. The separator removes all broken and defective grains; only whole and perfect grains are used.

Another machine extracts all foreign elements, such as cockle and weed seeds. Not one escapes. Then each grain is thoroughly washed and cleaned, separately. At this stage the grains are things of golden beauty. No hand has touched them, and none will during the process.

A conveyor takes them to an automatic weighing machine, which weighs fifteen quantities of 100 pounds, and that weight of grain is automatically fed into a "cooker"—a giant cylinder containing many steel revolving steel drums. In twenty-four minutes compressed steam, entering through hundreds of little holes, cooks the grains. This process softens the grains and breaks up, but does not remove the starch granules in the central part, making the grains soluble and digestible.

Cooked, the grains go to an ingenious drying and cooling machine which plays purified air on them. That done, they pass into huge bins for twenty-four hours' "curing," or complete drying. Nothing is added; nothing substracted.

Now comes the most interesting operation, which takes the cooked grains and makes them into an attractive form and digestible.

This operation is "shredding." The grains are fed between two rollers, one plain, the other grooved. The pressure flattens the grains into a substance not unlike corded ribbon, and steel combs make this ribbon into long shreds. There are twenty-seven of these shredding machines, in a continuous row, and as the threads travel along each machine adds another layer.

The last machine adds the twenty-seventh layer—the thickness of the biscuit-to-be. The long strips of thread-wheat—77 feet—pass on, and another machine, with automatic knives, cuts the strip into the actual biscuits, and deposits them on trays—520 per minute.

The loaded trays are placed in enormous ovens, each taking 5,000 biscuits, which in twenty minutes are baked a golden brown. The trays are removed to a big evaporator, and whatever moisture may have remained in the biscuits is drawn off. Then they are ready for packing—and eating.

Sound Bores Holes.

Sound waves of a frequency of 200,000 to 500,000 vibrations a second, passed along a tapering glass rod, caused the tip to bore a hole in a piece of wood and a plate of glass, a French experimenter discovered recently. When the waves were communicated to a glass thread about one one-hundredth of an inch thick and more than a yard long, its frictional effect was so intense that the flesh could be burned. Further tests with the "ultra-sonic" waves showed that they accelerated various reactions and produced crystallization.

Damascus.

The origin of the city of Damascus is unknown, but it is believed to be the oldest city in the world still inhabited. Could it be proved that the ideogram by which the city is indicated in Babylonian monuments literally means "fortress of the Amorites" it would be valuable testimony to the antiquity of the city, if not to its origin.

No More Lifeboats?

The usual lifeboats on ocean liners may soon be replaced by mattresses of kapok, a floating down resembling cotton, obtained from tropical trees. Rafts made of four or more of these mattresses will be easy to handle than lifeboats because they will not be swamped by huge waves.

He—"Say, aren't you the fellow who told me the only way to learn anything was by beginning at the bottom?"

He—"Ye-yes."

He—"Well, I'm here to give you — I've been learning to swim."

BY GEORGE!

I wish I'd bought a Rogers myself

WHO are the men in this community who are saying, "By George! I wish I'd bought a Rogers myself"? Invariably, they are those who bought the first electric radio they happened to see. Without comparison. Without investigation.

Later on, such men hear the Rogers-Batteryless in action in some friend's home. They learn that it was first in the field; that it is backed by a four-year record of proven performance; that more Rogers-Batteryless Radios are sold than all other electric sets combined! And their regret is unmistakable.

The moral is plain: Don't buy any new electric radio without first hearing the pioneer Rogers-Batteryless. We will gladly arrange a free demonstration in your home any evening you name. Come in or 'phone us.

For Burns and Scalds.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will take the fire out of a burn or scald. It should be at hand in every kitchen so that it may be available at any time. There is no preparation required. Just apply the oil to the burn or scald and the pain will abate and in a short time cease altogether.

Medical Man—Your husband must have absolute quiet. Here is a sleeping-draught.

Patient's Wife—And when do I give it to him?

"You don't give it to him—you take it yourself."

For Frost Bites and Chilblains. — Chilblains come from undue exposure to slush and cold and frost-bite from the icy winds of winter. In the treatment of either an excellent preparation is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, as it counteracts the inflammation and relieves the pain. The action of the oil is prompt and its application is extremely simple.

"Bow ties are artistic," said Trent.
"And show a man's natural bent."
"Well, though not artistic," said Beggs.

"Fear not," said his helpmeet cheering;
"Things oft look blackest and worst

So come—let us hope for the burst!"

Corns are caused by the pressure of tight boots, but no one need be troubled with them long when so simple a remedy as Holloway's Corn Remover is available.

Mother—"What? You say you're engaged to Fred? I thought I told you not to give him any encouragement."

Daughter—"I didn't. He didn't need any."

The use of Miller's Worm Powders insures healthy children so far as the ailments attributable to worms are concerned. A high mortality among children is traceable to worms. These sap the strength of infants so that they are unable to maintain the battle for life and succumb to weakness. This preparation gives promise of health and keeps it.

DECEMBER ROD AND GUN

In view of the increasing interest in the farming of muskrats an article in the December issue of Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News on a new muskrat ranching venture on a large scale is of special note. In addition to this, the latest issue national sporting magazine carries its customary acceptable collection of hunting, fishing and outdoor yarns by well known authors.

Among the contents are a narrative of moose hunting by N. H. Roberts, a prominent shooting expert and one on fish hatchery work by Jack Doyle, and many other timely articles on deer and duck hunting, trapping, angling, guns and ammunition, dogs, and the silver fox industry by thoroughly capable writers.

Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News is published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

WHEN YOUR BABY CATCHES A COLD

In spite of all precautions little ones will take colds—especially during the changeable days of our Fall season. When the first symptoms appear sneezing, redness of the eyes, running nose — Baby's Own Tablets should be given at once. They will rapidly break up the cold and prevent more serious complications.

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house are always safe. In fact they are like having a doctor in the house. They are a gentle but thorough laxative and sweeten the stomach and regulate the bowels, thus driving out constipation and indigestion and relieving the baby of the many childhood ailments which are the direct result of a clogged condition of the bowels or sour stomach. They are absolutely safe — being guaranteed to contain no drug at all harmful to even the youngest babe. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good.

Baby's Own tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

USE OF NITRATE OF SODA

The following two essays on the "Use of Nitrate of Soda", were written by a girl and boy who took part in the Home Garden Contest conducted in Lennox and Addington, by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Twenty-five boys and girls were each given eighteen kinds of garden seeds and directions for growing the crops. The Chilean Nitrate Agency donated a ten pound bag of Nitrate of Soda to each contestant and gave valuable prizes for essays on the use of the nitrate of soda. The two following were the best submitted for this County :—

First prize in Lennox and Addington County was won by Ruth Galbraith, Camden East, Ont., age 12.

"For a great many years men have been trying to obtain a good fertilizer in order that we might have better gardens.

At first no other fertilizers were known except ashes and manure. Since these are not always easy to obtain and often do not contain all essentials, a new and better one has been discovered. Every year this fertilizer is being more commonly used. This new fertilizer is called Nitrate of Soda.

Nitrate of Soda is specially valuable in home or vegetable garden as well as for other farm crops.

I will try and explain to you how this Nitrate of Soda is used. In order to derive full benefit from its use, the Nitrate should be applied early, about the fifteenth of May. It should only be scattered over the surface soil just before planting. Then it should be lightly worked in by rake or hoe. The Nitrate should, first of all be mixed several times with dry loamy soil, ashes or any other suitable substance. This will prevent scorching of plant-foliage.

It is good to dissolve one ounce of Nitrate in one gallon of water. Then water the plants with this once a week.

The fertilizer should not be applied too closely to the seed, for it does harm to the young plants. Never apply fertilizer by hand when strong wind is blowing or it will do your crop no good.

Eighteen different kinds of seeds were sent to me for which I paid fifty cents. I was given a 10-lb. bag of Nitrate of Soda for the home garden. I planned my garden for hand cultivation. It was the fifteenth of May when I commenced planting my garden.

The lettuce, radishes and other early vegetables were ready for use very early. The cabbage had solid uniform heads and the tomatoes grew very large, many of which weighed a pound. Compared to the other vegetables they all grew well, especially the squash and potatoes which thrived exceptionally well. Where the Nitrate had been used the vines on the beans were healthier, better and earlier. On the part without it being rusty.

For my final statement I would like to say that I have great faith in Nitrate of Soda. This was my first experience with it and I am planning to use it more next year. On my home garden I got fourth prize. I know I could not have won a prize without the aid of Chilean Nitrate of Soda."

The second prize in Lennox and Addington County was won by Gerald Davey, Enterprise, age 12.

How I Planted My Garden—Difference Where Nitrate of Soda Was Used. —Results Because of Its Use.

I planted my garden on the twenty-eighth of May. On the lower half I applied Sodium Nitrate broadcast. Both parts of the garden received equal cultivation and care. But the lower half appeared above the ground about three days before the upper half. I believe this was due to the use of the Fertilizer.

Watching my garden from day to day, I soon noticed a difference in the two parts. The part where the fertilizer had been used was much ranker, the plants being darker in colour and were stronger and more healthy.

My lettuce and leafy vegetables matured very early and I was able to use them much before I would have those on the other part of the garden. My tomatoes and corn also matured early, enabling me to use them before the frost. I have noticed since the frosts that these tomato vines are still in better condition than the others. This was due to the extra dry weather, proving that it has enabled them to withstand the lack of moisture.

I had purposely put the Nitrate of Soda on the poorer part of the land, and I am now sure of its value in any garden.

I believe that it is capable of promoting a quick growth in early spring, that it acts as a plant nutrient and that it encourages deeper rooting which enables crops to withstand drought conditions.

The Vicar (to eldest member of his church)—And so you're 90 to-day, John?"

Old John—"I am 90 years to-day."
"And have you lived all your life in this quiet village?"
"Not yet."

NEW "EYES" FOR BLIND.

Invention Makes Excellent Braille System a Back Number.

The blind will now be able to read any printed matter, for a new invention has made the excellent Braille system a back number. A novel apparatus has been developed by a series of experiments made during the last eighteen months, says an article in Tit-Bits.

All that the blind reader is asked to do is to distinguish between a buzz and a silence, or between vibration and no vibration, any intensity or signal being used. A grooved guide is provided which has five steps. These are sharply defined, although they are only one-sixty-fourth of an inch high.

The blind reader moves the feeler over these steps, which tell him what portion of a letter he is on. If a buzz is heard in the speaker or phones it indicates a white portion, and if nothing is heard a black.

From this combination of information he mentally reconstructs the shape of the letter. He does not trace the entire letter because certain characteristics are all that are necessary.

When in use the printed matter is placed in a holder and a light ray about five one-thousandths of an inch in diameter is projected down on to the printed page. A selenium cell is provided to pick up the reflected light rays, which are correspondingly changed into electrical impulses.

In forming, for example, the letter H the operator begins at the left-hand side of the grooved guide and draws the feeler down over the strips. As he does that the light ray on the other end of a pantograph traverses the black line on the left leg of the letter. There is no sound, so that the operator knows he has struck part of the letter.

Then he moves his rod slightly to the right and draws it straight down. A buzz is heard all the way down, except for an instant of silence in the middle. No letter but H is similar to this, so he readily recognizes it.

The operator reads the other letters in the same manner, and as practice is acquired various short cuts can be employed.

A BANANA CURE.

Stalks Are a Certain Cure for Various Kinds of Skin Diseases.

Bananas, for the first time in their history, are to be taken seriously. Mr. Crowther, a scientific chemist, has discovered that banana stalks, correctly treated, are a certain cure for various kinds of skin diseases.

Mr. Crowther has made experiments with sufferers who have been cured by the banana treatment. Treated stalks, ready for application, are to be sent to some of London's leading hospitals.

Before the banana stalks are ready for use they have to be given a strong dose of ultra-violet rays, which restores to them all the vitamins they have lost in storage.

Mr. Crowther related how he came to make his discovery. As he spoke the banana stalks, reviving gradually under the influence of powerful lamps, appeared to turn from dark brown to a handsome bronze gold.

"I wanted to find a certain wash for some cleaning mixtures I was inventing," said Mr. Crowther, "when I suddenly though I might obtain it from banana skins. I remembered how fond young officers were in wartime of banana skins, because they cleaned their boots and belts so well.

"The banana stalks were laid in a great pile in a yard. Some days later a man working for me turned them over. He worked on the pile for two or three days in succession, and at the end of that time came running to me, surprised. The eczema on one of his hands had completely disappeared, and his hands were unstained.

"Each week about 98,000 of these stalks are thrown away by fruit merchants as waste products.

"The banana stalks are strapped on the patient like plasters, and left there. When the strapping is undone nothing remains of the stalks except some dry powder. The patient is completely cured."

IS NECESSARY.

M.P. Claims Anger at Right Time Is Beneficial.

"Anger is not only inevitable, it is necessary. Its absence means indifference, the most disastrous of all human failings," writes Arthur Ponsonby, M.P., in the Manchester Guardian. "Indignation has been the motive power behind the great forward movements in the history of humanity.

"Indignation at social injustice, indignation at tyranny and persecution, indignation at cruelty, have been the mainspring of vast corporate efforts.

"The 'sweet-tempered' man may be a man who is incapable of being angry. This, far from being a virtue, is a grave defect. It denotes easy acquiescence, placid acceptance of things as they are, and insensitive toleration of all that life offers.

"At any rate, he is a rare bird, ill equipped for the business of living, and is deserving of no praise. Whereas 'he has a temper' is really a compliment, although we must watch the exhibition of the temper in order to know if the compliment is deserved."

Class Subjects.

Photography has been introduced into Berlin state schools as a class subject, as well as a detailed course of aerodynamics and practical construction of aeroplanes in the two highest classes of the secondary boys' colleges.

ONE BOX ENDED HIS SUFFERINGS

MR. PAGE

Mr. James Page of Cabano, P.Q., was in a very dangerous condition. Constipation from which he had suffered for five years was undermining his whole system. It was not only ruining his digestion and poisoning his blood, but had also brought on painful piles. Various treatments failed to help him until he tried "Fruit-a-tives," made of intensified fruit juices combined with scientific medicinal ingredients. "One box of this wonderful medicine," he writes, "gave me complete relief. 'Fruit-a-tives' gives results as nothing else does, and I sincerely recommend it to every sufferer." St. Andrew's W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the W. M. S. of St. Andrew's Church was held on Friday, Nov. 9th, with a fairly good attendance. Since it was the Thanksgiving season, appropriate hymns were chosen. A report on the Presbyterial meeting held in Belleville was given by Mrs. Corkill. A quartette of Mission Band girls sang a very pretty selection which was appreciated by all. The paper taken from the study book, "Christ of the Indian Road" was given by Mrs. Creighton, after which afternoon tea was served by the Committee in charge.

Woodger, and "Young People's Methods and Materials", by Rev. J. E. Beckel. Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, of Newburgh, is the Director, and Mrs. Frank Mills, Napanee, is Registrar, and Rev. J. E. Beckel is Secretary. Any information required can be secured from any of the officers or staff. 47b

Napanee Bride's Reception In Toronto.

Mrs. Reginald Alexander Battien, formerly Helen Brandon Wallace, of Napanee, received on Friday afternoon for the first time since her marriage, in her wedding gown of ivory satin and fine lace, carrying Ophelia roses with violets. Receiving with the bride were her mother, Mrs. T. B. Wallace, of Napanee, in an attractive gown of bisque lace, and Mrs. A. C. Batten in a French gown of jade green. Both wore corsages of roses. Mrs. F. G. G. Cottle invited the guests to the tea room, where the table was done in tones of yellow and mauve. Mrs. J. Geale Daly, of Napanee, poured tea, and Mrs. W. P. Cotton assisted. Miss Grace Boyes, of Napanee, bridesmaid at the wedding, and the Misses Beulah Beamish, of North Bay; Edith Cottle, Margaret Bailey and Kathleen Daly assisted in the tea room.

Morven W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Morven W. M. S. was held at the home of the President, Mrs. G. Frank, with a large number present. The meeting opened with Hymn 243, after which the Apostle Creed was repeated in unison. Minutes of the last meeting were read. Hymn 191. Scripture lesson was led by Mrs. Winters. Prayer then followed by Mrs. Hicks. Mrs. Lake gave a splendid reading on "Christian Stewardship". Mrs. G. Clark gave a short reading on Thanksgiving. Solo by Mrs. Seymour; a Thanksgiving reading by Mrs. C. L. Sharp. Music by Messrs. Winters, Clark, Hagerman and Sharp. The roll call was answered by each one telling something they were thankful for during the year. Hymn 225; reading by the President. The meeting closed by the Mizpah benediction. A delicious lunch was served and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

CONFERENCE OF MOTHERS' ALLOWANCE BOARD

Last Tuesday the members of the Lennox and Addington Local Board of Mothers' Allowance Commission attended a Conference with Hon. D. Jamieson, Chairman of the Commission Executive, Toronto, at the City Council Chambers, Kingston.

The Members of the Local Boards, Greenville, Frontenac and Kingston Boards were also present. Dr. Jamieson delivered a full and instructive address, explaining the workings of the Commission and its rulings, and answered many questions put to him by various members. It was generally conceited that great assistance to the Boards will result from the information imparted by the Governmental Head of the Commission to whom a very hearty vote of thanks was extended.

Members from this County in attendance were:—Chairman, Mrs. Wesley Wagar, Greenville; Vice Chairman, Mrs. W. G. Swayne, Bath; Secretary, W. G. Wilson, Napanee; A. C. Tummon, Selby; J. A. Brown, Tamworth; J. L. Smith, Napanee R.R. 2, and C. Kellar, Napanee R.R. 5.

BASKETBALL

On Friday evening, Nov. 16th, the third game of the Bay of Quinte League was played with Deseronto in Napanee.

From the first, the N.C.I. Seniors had a decided advantage over the visiting team both in passing and shooting, and the game ended 52-3, in favor of the Collegiate team. Dorothy Wilson played especially well for Napanee, scoring in all 34 points.

The Junior game was also a decided victory for the N.C.I. team, and although D.H.S. played well, they lack combination, and the final score was 58-5, for N.C.I.

Miss Dunlop, of Queen's, acted as referee.

After the game the local girls entertained the visiting team in the gymnasium.

Deseronto Seniors—T. Joyce, V. Whitton, M. Martin, C. Palmer, G. Gail, E. Sager, H. Burley.

Napanee Seniors—D. Wilson, M. Douglas, D. Anderson, M. Daly, S. Colclough, M. Embury.

Deseronto Juniors—K. Richardson, V. Miracle, M. McVicker, I. Purvis, E. Harvey, K. Purvis, E. Thompson, B. Smith.

Napanee Juniors—K. McFarlane, J. McIlwaine, M. Exley, G. Joyce, K. Dickson, M. Jackson, M. Culhane, M. Walters, V. Burnard.

Last Wednesday evening, the Collegiate Senior team defeated the town team by a score of 32-38.

UNITED MISSIONARY SERVICE IN TRINITY CHURCH

The congregations of St. Andrew's, Grace and Trinity Churches were united in a special service held last Sunday night, in Trinity Church, the pastor on the occasion being Rev. George Pringle.

Mr. Pringle, after graduation from Toronto University, Queen's College, Kingston, and New College, Edinburgh, spent eleven years in the Yukon, was a chaplain at Lens and Passchendaele, and afterwards from 1920 undertook his mission work afloat along the North Pacific and British Columbia Coast. He has sailed his 40-feet gasoline boat, "The Sky Pilot", amongst the inlets of the British Columbia coast, carrying the gospel, books, and the contagion of a manly radiant personality, to the lonely lighthouse folks, the loggers, isolated settlers, and fishermen of those neglected spots.

This ministry was described by Mr. Pringle, last Sunday night, in a way altogether simple, human, and unconsciously dramatic.

In their commendation of this work of the United Church, the British Columbia Missionary Commission have stated, "It simply puts a lump into one's throat to hear the choruses of grateful praise voiced by all sorts of people along the coast for the work of Mr. Pringle".

His visit to Napanee has resulted in a greatly quickened interest in the home missionary work of the United Church.

COUNCIL APPRECIATES GIFTS.

Napanee, Nov. 26th, 1928.

Mrs. J. W. Robinson,
Secty. Musical Club,
Napanee, Ontario.

Dear Mrs. Robinson,—

On behalf of the Town Council of the Corporation of Napanee, I desire to thank the Napanee Musical Club through you, for your very acceptable gift of a fine piano for use in our Town Hall.

Your gift at this time is more than welcome as our appropriation has been expended, and it is also very much appreciated because you and the members of your Society must feel that the re-building of our Town Hall has been approved of and carried out to the satisfaction and pride of our citizens.

Again I wish to thank you on behalf of the Corporation for your generous gift.

Respectfully yours,
ED. J. ROY,
Mayor.

Mrs. Herbert Daly,
Treas. Red Cross Society,
Napanee, Ontario.

Dear Mrs. Daly,—

On behalf of the Town Council of the Corporation of Napanee, I desire to thank the Red Cross Society through you for your very liberal donation of funds necessary to equip the kitchen of the Town Hall with cutlery, dishes, plumbing, and electrical equipment.

Not only is your donation very welcome to us on account of the funds necessary to supply the equipment, but it is most gratifying to realize that you and the members of your Society must feel that the re-building of our Town Hall has been approved of and carried out to the satisfaction and pride of our citizens.

Again I thank you, Mrs. Daly, on behalf of the Corporation for your generous donation.

Respectfully yours,
ED. J. ROY,
Mayor.

ODESSA

Among the week end and Thanksgiving visitors were Frederick Sproule and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Conway, of Toronto, with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Sproule, and Mrs. W. R. Lee, Toronto, with her sister, Mrs. John Mancur.—Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Day and daughters, Alice and Bessie, Kingston, visited with Mrs. Day's mother, Mrs. Charles Timmerman, last Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Hamm have returned from spending a few days with relatives in Selby.—Mr. Marcus Fraser and J. C. Parrott have returned from visiting relatives in Dundas and Midland.—Mr. and Mrs. B. L. King spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Laidley, Kingston.—Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tripp spent a couple of days with Mrs. M. Kenyon, Verona, last week.—Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins and Mr. Murphy, Napanee, spent Thanksgiving the guests of Mrs. William Calder.—Mrs. D. L. Snider left Thursday to spend a few days with her son, Stanley Snider, and Mrs. Snider, Tweed.—Mrs. William V. Smith celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday anniversary on November 17th, last Saturday. A number of her friends called and surprised her by arranging to have a tea in honor of the occasion. Mrs. Smith is a wonderful person for this age, and still assists at part of her house work.—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Snider's many friends regret very much their decision to leave here to reside in Tweed. Mr. Snider is opening a store in the Quinn building, Front St., Tweed, and all wish them every success and happiness in their new undertaking. They will be greatly missed by their relatives and a large number of friends.—The many friends of Mrs. Walter J. Pooke were delighted to hear of her returning home safely after a two months' trip abroad. The voyage was very rough and even the Captain was ill for a few days. Mrs. Pooke visited relatives in England and Wales, and spent some time with her brothers, sisters and relatives at her childhood home in Ireland. Needless to say she found many changes in the years spent here, and during that time both her parents had passed away. She sailed on the Montcalm, and the trip was made in about eight days.

We, as friends and neighbours, have gathered together this evening not exactly as a pleasure but a sad regret. We are here one and all to bid our friendship good bye, who have spent several years with us. We all understand that in our lives we always are liable to do as we wish, owing to many things which may happen. These changes are sometimes for better or worse, but we sincerely hope that God will be with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Snider in their new home, and make their future brighter in the future than they have been in the past owing to poor health.

We will sadly miss them in the neighbourhood, as they have been coworkers with us one and all, and at any time had been willing to loan a helping hand, both in church and home. We all know that our loss will be others gain.

To show our esteem for the dear friends whom we are about to lose, we ask you to accept this purse of money as a small remembrance from your friends and neighbours.

The Anniversary services were a great success. Rev. Mr. Cook, of Cataraqui, delivered two very splendid sermons on Sunday, assisted by the Choir and Mrs. Seymour.—On Wednesday evening was held the fowl supper, and enjoyed the evening spent in rain and snow, the attendance was a record one for the Brick church. Lake proceeds amounting to $205.00.—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Burt and little son, Billy, of Cornwall, visited at her parents' recently.—Mrs. A. P. Stanley, Toronto, the guest of Miss Katharine Sharp, Napanee, attended the fowl supper, and enjoyed the evening spent in her home church.—Mrs. J. S. Fralick spent Sunday with Mrs. J. F. Lake.—Mrs. M. G. L. Sharp motored to Toronto on Thursday, and are attending the Winter Fair.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lake

Kicking a Tire is no way to test it!

ONLY a pressure gauge can ever give you a true indication of inflation.

There is a correct pressure for your tires. It depends on the size of the tire and the wheel load. At that pressure your tires will give you maximum mileage. If your tire inflation goes three pounds below that correct pressure you cut mileage from the life of your tires.

Use a gauge.

Better still, drop in at a Dominion Tire Depot once a week and have every tire inspected, and the pressure checked. Let an expert search for cuts and bruises. Often a slight repair will prevent a blow-out.

CELLAR FORCING OF RHUBARB

(Experimental Farms Note.)

To successfully force rhubarb in the cellar during the winter months is one of the easiest and simplest of undertakings. Strong, healthy roots that are at least two years old from seed, or old crowns will give very satisfactory results. These should be dug up late in the autumn or just before the ground freezes up for winter. Allow as much earth to adhere to the roots as possible, allowing them to remain on the surface of the ground until the soil and roots have been frozen through. Freezing is essential to good forcing as it has been found by experiment that roots that were not frozen before being placed in the cellar did not do as well as those that had been frozen.

A dark cellar where the temperature can be maintained around 55 degrees F. to 65 degrees F. will be quite satisfactory. The frozen roots and soil should be brought in and placed on the cellar floor adjacent to the furnace. Sand, earth or cinders should be piled around the roots to maintain an even moisture supply. At intervals of a week or ten days, it may be found necessary to apply water to the soil mulch. It is unnecessary to apply fertilizer of any kind since the fleshy root-stalks have sufficient plant food stored up in them to produce at least four good pullings.

Under proper conditions, the first pullings should be ready in about four weeks from the time that the roots have been placed in the cellar. To maintain the supply throughout the winter, a second lot of roots should be brought in when the first pulling has been removed from the previous roots. Five roots properly handled should produce about sixty pounds of a marketable product.

When the fourth pulling has been removed, it is a good plan to place the roots out-of-doors again and allow them to freeze. These roots can be planted out in the spring in good soil to recuperate.

JOINT - EASE FOR Stiff, Swollen Joints

RHEUMATIC OR OTHER-WISE

Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff, inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in, through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at Wallace's Drug Store and druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

CONWAY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

"A goodly thing it is to meet in friendship's circle bright" was rightly exemplified on Tuesday evening, Nov. 13th, when the Conway branch of the Women's Institute met for a social evening in the Parish Hall. Sandhurst, with a goodly number of members and friends in attendance.

The evening's entertainment was opened by the President, in the usual Institute order by the singing of the Institute Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer and Community singing. The President, Mrs. Young, then called on the Rector, Mr. Elliott, to act as chairman. In a few brief remarks Mr. Elliott complimented the Institutes on the many activities being taken up by them, especially emphasizing the fine work which might be done under the heading of "Immigration."

Mrs. H. M. Hough was called upon to give her report of the Kingston Convention, and gave us a concise but full report, showing it to be a good fine work accomplished during the year. Music by Rev. Mr. Plant and family, and singing by Mr. J. Dennes, was much enjoyed by all.

Mr. Laughland, Agricultural Representative, was also present and exhibited moving pictures, picturing the latest menace to Agriculture, the cornborer, which is very disastrous, also showing logging scenes in Northern Ontario, and a comic film.

A splendid paper on "Talcum", prepared by Miss Magee, and read by Mrs. Hough, proved very interesting, and carried our thoughts back past the highly perfumed box on the dressing table.

Before closing this part of the programme, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered all those who so kindly assisted in the programme.

After Community singing and the National Anthem, refreshments were served, and a social time enjoyed by all.

Neglected Anaemia

Often Leads to a Decline—Enrich the Blood by Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time, for it is when strength is sapped by rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by peevishness, languor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation follow, with low spirits.

At the first symptom of anaemia mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure, red blood created by these pills will quickly banish all signs of anaemia. They will build up your girl's health and ensure her a robust girlhood. Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her strong like thousands of girls who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Here is a bit of proof. Miss Mary Venditti, Catamount, N.B., says:—"Three years ago while attending a convent, I studied very hard to graduate. The result was I became very nervous and got so thin and pale my teachers thought they would have to send me home. I took different kinds of medicine which my parents sent me, but my condition remained unchanged. At last one of my teachers gave me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I had hardly finished it when I could feel an improvement in my condition. I continued the use of the pills for some time longer, and I can hardly tell all the good they did me. I gained in strength and weight, and the color returned to my cheeks, and at the end of the term I graduated. I never fail to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to my friends and acquaintances when a tonic is needed."

You can get these pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WEDDING BELLS

Ready—Ball.

An exceptionally pretty Autumn wedding was solemnized in the United Church, Vennachar, Ont., on Wednesday, Nov. 14th, 1928, at 4 o'clock, when Janet Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Ball, Vennachar, was united in marriage to Arthur Ready, of Toronto, second son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Ready, of Kingston. Rev. P. A. Scott, Ph.B., of Denbigh, performed the ceremony, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion by girl friends and others of the bride. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, to the wedding march, played by Mrs. (Dr.) Adams, Denbigh, was daintily attired in a gown of white georgette and satin, with tulle veil tastefully arranged with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and maiden hair fern. She wore a costly and beautiful necklace with pendant, the gift of the groom. Miss Minnie Ball, of Kingston, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and was lovely in a gown of green georgette and velvet, with hat and shoes to match. She carried a dainty bouquet of yellow "mums" and fern. The bridesmaids, Miss Lucy Ball, sister of the bride, and Miss Edna Gleaser, cousin, were attractively gowned in pink georgette with silver lace and satin, with hats and shoes to match. Each carried an old fashion bouquet. Little Miss Marjorie Ball, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and looked lovely in a white crepe de chene frock, and carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Mr. Andrew E. Ready, of Boston Creek, brother of the groom, acted as best man, while Mr. Charles Ball and Mr. Allen Tompkins, of Oswego, acted as ushers.

The groom's gifts to the maid-of-honor, the bridesmaids and organist, were beautiful and costly brooches; to the groomsmen, gold cuff links, and to the flower girl, a gold bracelet.

Following the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, and here the guests had an opportunity of viewing the unusually large number of beautiful and costly gifts, which indicated the high esteem in which the happy young bride and groom were held.

Those attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. C. Ball and little Marjorie, of Oswego; also Mr. and Mrs. Allen Tompkins, of Oswego, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Faulk, Napanee; Mrs. (Rev.) McNaughton, of White Lake; Miss Minnie Ball, Kingston; Mr. Andrew F. Ready, Boston Creek; Mr. M. Ready, father of the groom, and three sisters, Misses Pearl, Frances, and Anna Ready, of Kingston.

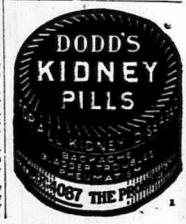
Mr. and Mrs. Ready will reside at Langford Ave., Toronto. Hearty congratulations and best wishes of their many friends will follow them to their new home.

Jones—"I see you are getting all the girls off your hands."

Brown—"Yes, but the worst of it is I have to keep their husbands on their feet."

Gibbs—"Your son is pursuing his studies at college, isn't he?"

Dibbs—"I should say so—he's always behind."



WALLS OF BYZANTIUM.

Turk Prefect Says 1,500-Year-Old Battlements Must Go.

Now Turkey is contemplating an act which history, many assert, will not soon forgive her.

The report is current that the mighty walls of Byzantium, which have encircled the seven hills of Stambul for 1,500 years, withstood twenty-six famous sieges and survived forty-four disastrous earthquakes, are to be demolished.

With the borrowed western slogan of "safety first" on his lips, the prefect of Constantinople has issued a statement that the thirteen-mile chain of crumbling majestic stone is a menace to the gypsy hovels crouching under its ramparts, that the municipality cannot assemble the money needed for repairs and that the walls must therefore be razed.

The statement says that an effort will be made to save some of the battlements deemed of a "certain historic interest," but the latest addition to the Byzantine ramparts dates from 1150 A.D. and it is difficult to understand how the prefect will find any of the evidence recent enough not to be "historic."

These are the ramparts which Schlumberger describes as "more grandiose than the walls of Rome, more poetic and more savage than those of Avignon, infinitely more extensive and more important than those of Carcassone." These are the ramparts before whose might even Attila quailed, and these the walls from which the last of the emperors of eastern Christendom, Constantine XII., plunged to death when the Ottoman Turks broke through the barrier in May, 1453.

The traveller to modern Constantinople still reaches the city via the walls, whether he comes by land or sea. From the Simplon Express, which pierces the land walls near the Golden Gate by the Marmora, the traveller beholds the double line of battlements flanked by 400 crumbling, ivy-colored towers, stretching northward to the Golden Horn.

The traveller by sea rounds Seraglio Point, where gray fragments of the single line of Byzantine sea walls still cling to the shore they once protected from many a hostile fleet, and on one phenomenal occasion from the crash of icebergs which the swift Bosporus hurled down from the Black Sea.

Beauty, grandeur, mystery, the history of mighty centuries, live in these thirteen miles of stone which a modern mayor will have no more of. Only one voice in the new Turkey has thus far been publicly raised against this impending outrage. The Constantinople Daily Akscham alone among all the Turkish press attacks the mayor, writing boldly that the destruction of the Byzantine walls will constitute an irreparable loss, which nothing under the sun can justify, and hazarding the suggestion that it is the imperiled gypsy hovels and not the battlements which should come down.

GOOD WORD FOR WASPS.

Sets an Example to World In Matter of Industry.

There is a good side to wasps, according to a well-known naturalist. The hot weather of last July, he writes, exactly suited these tiresome insects which devour our fruit, our sugar, and our jam, rob the bees of the honey which we ourselves proposed to steal, and make outdoor picnics impossible.

Now and again, too, the wasp—quite without provocation, as it often seems to us—reminds us very forcibly that it carries a weapon of defence, which it does not hesitate to use when it feels that the occasion requires it.

But the wasp is not really an offensive creature—it stings only when we happen to get in its way.

It sets an example to the world in the matter of industry. It is up and doing long before the dawn and it never goes to bed until long after sunset. Even the black sheep among wasps spend three-parts of their time and more in the public service, the rest spend the whole of it in that way.

The wasp's main object in life is bringing up little wasps. It does not really care about anything else.

And never forget that it is the wasp—largely carnivorous in its habits—which rids us of countless millions of insects which are a far greater menace than itself to our health and happiness — the poisonous mosquitoes and the detestable and disease-carrying flies.

Swallowing Gold.

Most people have a fondness for gold either as coin of the realm or as a more ornament. The natives of India have some other uses for gold which are quite extraordinary. For certain cases of illness they swallow it as medicine in the form of thin leaf. A pious Indian frequently shows his devotion by gilding the domes of religious buildings, an act of piety which may easily cost him upwards of £10,000. Sovereigns with a shield on the obverse side are much prized by the natives. A rajah who had collected a large number of such coins used them to form a centre to each pane in the windows of his palace. Unlike other countries, where people's savings are put into remote trade, those of India are hoarded and buried.

Cockatoo Imitates Humans.

A Triton cockatoo, just arrived at the Zoo, is an adept in the use of a cup, says an Old Country newspaper. The keeper filled the cup in his cage with milk and handed it to Jocko, as the cockatoo is called. Jacko grasped it securely, despite the fact that the handle had been broken off, and raising it to his mouth, drank the contents in very human fashion—until nearly emptied.

Then, releasing his hold of the cup, he shifted it in his beak, and tilting the receptacle, drained it to the dregs without spilling a drop.

Wives are things that golfers remember when it gets dark.

Police Sergeant—"How do you account for having all these things in your pockets?"

Suspected Person—"Well, you see, he ain't got no sideboard at 'ome."

DORLAND

(For last week.)

The mild weather continues, but the frequent rains keep the roads in a very muddy condition.—A well attended meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Carr, on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. F. Hamm, District President, was present, and gave a stirring address on "Maternal Mortality".—The members of the W. M. S. here were guests of the Sillsville Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Orton Robertson, on Thursday afternoon. Only one case was entered. This was a suit for damages arising from a collision between Herrington's oil truck and a motor car driven by Mrs. Geo. Plested. Mrs. Plested was awarded $60.00. A great deal of interest was evidenced in the case by the large crowd present. — All who braved the rather threatening weather on Sunday morning were well rewarded by the unusually interesting address given by Rev. Geo. F. C. Pringle, missionary on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Pringle's work lies among the many lumber camps and the lonely families scattered about on the many islands. His boat, "The Sky Pilot", is a most welcome visitor to these people.—Measles are quite prevalent in S. S. No. 1.—Messrs. Herman John and Harold Magee are on a hunting trip to the north country. — We were sorry to learn that Mrs. Geo. Smith is seriously ill.—Mrs. B. Hawley and Miss D. Hawley are in Fort Erie on Saturday.

ZUZULAND FAIR

Prizes Show Eight Hundred Exhibits at Durnford—Women Do Most of the Work.

A half century ago the Zulus spent their time fighting white settlers and neighboring tribesmen. At the recent Zululand fair, held at Eshowe, industries that needlework, carpentry, carving, clay modelling, basketwork and agriculture are utilizing a part of the time once given to slaughtering "foreigners."

There were nearly 800 exhibitors, most of whom were from mission stations where they learned that the finest sale murder is less profitable than modern industry.

In Zululand, which is about as large as New Jersey, with a native population twice that of Trenton, the National Geographic Society reports, there are yet thousands of Zulus who live much the same as their fighting ancestors. The family kraals, consisting of cattle pens surrounded by thatched huts, still dot the forests of Zululand, and the old tribal chiefs continue to rule with an iron hand.

Before the coming of the white man the Zulu roamed at will over South Africa, but most of them now inhabit the semi-tropical reserve in the northeastern part of Natal province, which the British set aside for their use.

For instance, the Zulu boy still pays "lobola" for a wife. When he has found an affinity he tells the prospective father-in-law about it. The father-in-law sets the amount of "lobola" necessary for the hand of his daughter, and if the love-smitten youth can deliver the order he is a married man. "Lobola" consists of a gift of from ten to twelve cattle to the father-in-law as a guaranty of good faith and evidence that the husband is able to provide.

After marriage the woman goes to work. The man milks a few cows, hunt occasionally and leads most of the time. His wife does the garden, reaps the harvest, provides for the family and attends to all domestic duties in the kraal. If any one must hire out the tribesmen must get to work. In the villages they are employed as cooks, housemen, washermen and messengers.

Often a tribesman has more than one wife, but each of them is accorded the same consideration and treatment from the husband. Odd, but true, they also live in harmony and show great affection toward one another. A tribesman with forty wives might frequently be seen covering his face as he passes down a village street. He must not look a mother-in-law in the face, but avoid her as graciously as possible. The wise tribesman perhaps does not confine his pursuit of wives to one village.

"ROYALTY AND WHISKERS.

Saxon Kings Favored Beards, Normans Moustaches.

In wearing a beard King George follows the example of his father, who was the first bearded sovereign for nearly 300 years. Charles I was the last king, prior to King Edward, to wear a beard. When George III. was on the throne no beard had been seen in England within living memory.

Like our present king, Charles I. seems to have copied his father, James I.'s beard, too, had been, in a way, rather a novelty, because his three immediate predecessors had been a boy and two women.

All the Saxon kings favored beards, but William the Norman only wore a moustache, as did his sons who served all their successors on the throne.

But Richard the Lion Heart made beards fashionable again, for his brother John, Henry III., and the three Edwards were all razed men. Indeed, from 1066 to 1413 no clean-shaven king sat on the throne of England.

To sum up, since the Norman Conquest, there have been thirteen beard-wearing kings, fourteen clean-shaven kings, and six who shaved the chin but not the upper lip.

AUTOMOTIVE BUILDING.

Canadian National Exhibiton to Build Another Large Structure.

The Canadian National Exhibition Board has been granted permission to call for tenders for the erection of an Automotive Building at the Exhibition grounds, Toronto. It is proposed to offer a prize of $5,000 for the most suitable design submitted.

The building, which will be two storeys high, will be located near the new Electrical and Engineering building. Of the $20,000 square feet which the building will contain 60,000 will be allotted to automobiles and boats, 25,000 to trucks, and 25,000 to accessories. There will also be a dining-room capable of seating 300 persons.

"We know from representatives of the automotive industry that manufacturers are greatly interested in the erection of the building," Mr. Bradshaw says, "and we want it to be one of the outstanding buildings in the Exhibition. It will stimulate conditions all over the city."

Canberra Was Costly.

Canberra, the capital of Australia, has been built on such a huge scale that it will be many years before sufficient revenue to meet the interest bill can be expected.

The total capital revenue expenditure to June 30 last, on the whole of the activities in the Federal capital territory, including revenue which had been collected and expended was $52,730,000. Parliament house also cost approximately $2,750,000.

Sutton, and family in Toronto, and will attend the Royal Winter Fair while there.—Mrs. M. Burgess spent Thursday afternoon last with her daughter, Mrs. Seymore Ball.—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lewis spent Thanksgiving week end in Ottawa. — Some of our ladies are planning to attend Poultry Days in Napanee. We wish them good prices for their poultry.

HAYBURN

At time of writing we are having a little bit of winter. Some of our weather prophets predict that our Indian Summer is still to come. So here's hoping.—Mr. John Dickson, of this neighborhood, was a visitor at the Royal Winter Fair, in Toronto, last week.—Mrs. Alex. Magee entertained the Hayburn Ladies' Aid on Tuesday last, and it was decided at that meeting to have an old-fashioned teameeting at Hayburn Church, on Dec. 4th. A good programme of readings, addresses and music, both vocal and instrumental, is to be furnished by friends from Napanee and other circuits. Of course there will be plenty of eats, and a real good time is anticipated.—Miss Florence Brooks, of Ontario Hospital, Kingston, has been confined to her home here through illness. However, we are glad to report that she was able to resume her duties as nurse, recently.—Miss Doris Rikley visited her friend, Miss Marion Miller, last week.—Dr. Duffett has been a frequent caller in our midst, owing to sickness in several homes.—Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Magee and Mr. and Mrs. Ross VanDyck took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Dickson, Tuesday evening.—Miss Mildred Rikely was at home over the week end.— Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loyst were in Napanee Thursday last.—Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brooks, on November 20th, a daughter.

BASKETBALL

Last Friday evening, Nov. 23rd, Napanee played its final League game, in Belleville, and was successful in winning both Junior and Senior games. This gives the N.C.I. teams a chance of winning the cup, held last year by N.C.I. Juniors and P.C.I. Seniors.

The N.C.I. Seniors excelled the Belleville team in shooting and passing, and they had no difficulty in winning by a score of 24-2.

The Junior score was much closer, and the teams more evenly matched. At the end of the first half the score was 7-6 in favor of Belleville, but the N.C.I. Juniors were determined to win, and by hard play, won by a score of 16-9.

The Belleville team entertained the N.C.I. girls after the game for a short time, in the gymnasium.

Belleville Seniors—Lenore Stafford, M. Fairbairn, G. Munnings, M. Walker, J. McLaughlin, E. Reid.

Napanee Seniors—D. Wilson, M. Douglas, M. Embury, M. Daly, D. Anderson, E. Dickson, L. Stalker.

Belleville Juniors—G. Tirch, B. Gilbert, G. Boulton, M. Moore, M. Lee, H. Tilley.

Napanee Juniors—G. McIlwaine, K. McFarlane, M. Exley, G. Joyce, J. Graham, M. Jackson, M. Walters, V. Burnard, M. Loucks.

HOTELS IN FRANCE.

Held Responsible for Jewels Even If Left In Bedrooms.

The principle that an hotel is responsible for visitors' jewelry and other property left in their rooms while they are dining in the restaurant was laid down by the Paris courts recently.

Senora de la Real and her daughter were staying in November, 1925, at the Hotel Regina, where they occupied a room on the second floor. While they were dining in the restaurant a thief entered and stole de la Real's jewels from her bedroom.

The visitor sued the hotel for $10,000. The value of the jewels. The hotel retorted that a notice was posted in every room to the effect that the management would not be responsible for visitors' valuables unless they were placed in the hotel safe.

The court in its judgment lays it down that:

A visitor cannot be blamed for having left her jewels in her room while dining in the hotel.

The hotel-keeper is responsible for a theft committed in a room the key of which has been placed by an hotel servant on a table or in a corridor.

Visitors are entitled to count in a high-class hotel upon the utmost care being taken to protect their property.

ADDRESSES AND PRESENTATIONS TO REV. AND MRS. BALLANTYNE

ON THE EVE OF THEIR DEPARTURE TO TAKE UP PASTORATE AT ST. ANDREW'S EAST

The annual chicken-pie supper, which was held earlier this year for several reasons, drew a large number of persons to partake of it, nearly three hundred having sat down to do justice to the good things provided. Owing to the large number to be served the program was somewhat late in starting, but several good musical items were rendered. The friends from Rockburn assisting Riverfield and Howick singers. Presently a duet was called for, to be given by Mesdames Andrew Roy and Willie Orr, and Mrs. Ballantyne to be on the platform too. Mrs. Orr then read an address and Mrs. Roy presented Mrs. Ballantyne with a silver casket containing a sum of money in gold. In spite of being completely surprised, Mrs. Ballantyne, in her own quiet way, very suitably acknowledged the gift. After she was seated, Dr. Ballantyne was called, and Mrs. Ballantyne asked to be with him, and Mr. David Vass read an address, and Mr. John Robertson presented Dr. Ballantyne with a sum of money in gold, in a casket similar to the one given to Mrs. Ballantyne. Dr. Ballantyne expressed his appreciation of the love that had prompted the gift and thanked his friends for all the many kindnesses he had received during his nine years of ministry. All joined in singing "Will We No Come Back Again", followed by the National Anthem.

Address to Mrs. Ballantyne.

Dear Mrs. Ballantyne,—The ladies of the Riverfield and Howick Churches, in behalf of the Women's Missionary Society, wish to take this opportunity of expressing their gratitude for all that you have done in connection with their work. The genuine interest you have in this great work, has been a constant inspiration, and has made our meetings a blessing to us, and we feel sure, to the many different branches of our church. We appreciate very much the sacrifice of time, energy, and preparation, by which you have made it possible for the women of both churches to attend the monthly meetings. We appreciate too, the faithfulness with which you have attended all these meetings and also your happy custom of starting and closing on time. For all these and much more we want to say a most hearty and sincere "Thank You", and ask you to accept this small gift which we hope will speak to you in your new home. We, one and all, wish you all happiness and prosperity in your future home, and may God bless you in all your undertakings in your chosen sphere will always be the sincere wish and prayer of the Women's Missionary Society of Riverfield and Howick Presbyterian Churches.

Signed in behalf of the Riverfield and Howick Women's Missionary Society.

MARY E. ORR.

Riverfield, Oct. 19th, 1928.

Address to Dr. Ballantyne.

Riverfield, Oct. 19th, 1928.

Dear Dr. Ballantyne,—As your friends of Riverfield and Howick Presbyterian congregation, have gathered here this evening on the eve of your departure from among us, to show a small appreciation of our love and friendship toward you. While we are all pleased to be with you to-night, we deeply regret the circumstances which have led up to this meeting. We are not capable of expressing our feelings in parting with you. You have labored among us for these nine years, the nine years of your ministry which will always be remembered by you as the most trying time of your entire ministry. We are not the only ones in your congregations to show their appreciation of your services. This is clearly demonstrated by the sincere regret you have responded to seven different calls, the seven calls have come from only four congregations, and the four having called you the second time. This is a record that has never been equalled by any minister in the Dominion of Canada, and we doubt if it has been equalled in the British Empire.

While among us you have proven yourself to be an able and far-seeing leader and adviser, not only in spiritual matters but in all other things pertaining to the welfare of the congregation and its organizations. All your labours while among us have been very strenuous, but you have met the situation with a fortitude and determination which at times have taxed your strength and even your health. You have undoubtedly played a leading part in restoring prosperity and re-establishing this congregation after the disruption of 1925. And at all times you have been willing and ready to accept more than your share of the burdens and responsibilities of the congregation, at all times striving to lead your people to a higher plane, preparing them to meet you in a heavenly home.

We wish here to include the name of Mrs. Ballantyne who has proven herself to be an able and capable adviser of both men and women and children. She has given of her time and talents unreservedly to one and all of the organizations of the church. She has given her time and talents as teacher of the Bible Class. She has proven herself to be a true wife and helpmate, advising and encouraging you through the hard and rough places which you have had to contend with during your nine years.

We do not wish you to take it as a matter of course that you should so readily replace our ministry, but we do not look forward with any hope of being able to replace Mrs. Ballantyne. We hope you will always find our homes open to receive you, and make you welcome.

Realizing that gold and silver will not purchase higher things of this life, but is a commodity that cannot be well dispensed with as we are passing through, we ask you to accept this small gift as a slight token of our esteem. And may God grant to you both, long lives of happiness, prosperity and usefulness, and when you have finished your work on this earth, may you be received into the arms of Him who died that we might live, with the words, "Well done, good and faithful servants", is the sincere wish of the Presbyterian Congregations of Riverfield and Howick.—The Orangetown Bulletin, Ormstown, Que., Thursday, October 25th, 1928.

Dr. Ballantyne is a former Pastor at Tamworth and Reidville.

"DEATH'S LITTLE BROTHER"

Sleep Is Still a Mystery of Our Live—Much Interesting Study.

Some bygone writer once referred to sleep as "death's little brother," and apparently, that writer came as close to a definition as any of the learned scientific men of a later date. The mystery of sleep, like the mystery of death, is still a mystery, and may ever remain so, so far as our mortal existence is concerned. Nevertheless, the popular characteristics of sleep make a fascinating study, such as the following from the pen of Albert Parsons Sachs, writing for the New York World:

"We actually have another life than the one we live in laborious days and presumably gay week-ends and pleasant evenings. It is the life of sleep. We all know what sleep is; we know it by that most direct of all methods of knowing, namely, experience. But in order to speak intelligently about sleep we must be able to define it. And definitions of fundamental phenomena are always difficult to frame.

"How can we distinguish sleep from stupor and coma, from syncope or fainting, and from catalepsy, all of which possess elements of that lowering of consciousness which we associate with sleep? Sleep is distinguished from stupor and coma by the rapidity and completeness of the return to wakefulness. In catalepsy we have a muscular rigidity in contrast to the flaccidity of sleep. Fainting has an evanescence and unexpectedness not associated with sleep. Although in this manner we can distinguish sleep from other phenomena, we still have no definition of sleep itself.

"Sleep, as we know it, has a rhythmicity or regularity of recurrence; it is reversible in that we pass from a state of waking normally to sleep, and from sleep back into the state of waking normally. Sleep selects and suppresses our response to the usual stimuli so that we are not waked by every gleam of light, by every sound by every chance odor. In addition, during sleep many of our bodily and mental processes proceed on a plane lower than that of consciousness.

"Sleep has been explained in many different fashions, and every new school of physiology has its own explanation.

"Sleep has been interpreted as a death-wish, as an instinct, as an intoxication, and as a conditioned reflex. In this range we have some of the latest advances of science and probably some of the latest fads.

"There are some features of the instinct theory that may be of interest. We know that certain birds migrate southward in anticipation of the approach of winter, or that they build nests in anticipation of the laying of eggs. There seems to be the same kind of anticipatory quality in sleep. We sleep in order not to become exhausted; we sleep, as it were, against exhaustion. If we become extremely exhausted it sometimes interferes with sleep."

MAKING A TOWN INVISIBLE.

Smoke Screen Hides Town From Birdmen.

The pilot of an airplane flying over the town of Bobblingen, near Stuttgart, was astonished to see a group of factories and houses on which he was gazing suddenly vanish from view, wrapped in a dense cloud of white "smoke."

It was an experiment carried out by a party of engineers and German Air Ministry officials who were testing a wonderful new device for the protection of towns from air attack. The device, which is the invention of Dr. Reddeman, the German gas expert, enables a city to render itself invisible within a few seconds by the mere pressing of an electric button.

Ten vessels, each containing twenty-four gallons of a secret chemical substance, had been placed on the ground at intervals of seventy yards around the buildings. At the approach of the airplane, Dr. Reddeman touched a button, and clouds of dense fog were belched forth by the containers. Within six seconds clouds 200 feet high lay stretched over an area of 500 square yards.

It is claimed that the "Magic Curtain," as the device has been named, will be of greater protection to cities against air attacks than the strongest barrage from anti-aircraft guns.

The great seaport of Cuxhaven has already begun the construction of a number of towers at which sufficient of Dr. Reddeman's gas will be stored to veil the city in case of war.

Where Wives Are Bought.

The high cost of wives in Damascus is driving the young men of that city to revolt. As a big protest meeting of bachelors, many men complained bitterly about the exorbitant demands of the fathers of attractive daughters, and one youth reported that he had been obliged to buy his wife on the instalment plan. Resolutions were passed demanding the introduction of European marriage customs in Damascus, especially the custom that parents of girls are supposed to give them dowries, instead of asking payment from their future husbands.

Most Become Law-Abiding Citizens.

King Rais-Lace, absolute monarch of Hungary's gypsy realm, vigorously opposes the Government's decision to make citizens out of his 75,000 subjects without due notice. "I don't mind so long as the law insures political freedom to the members of my race," he says. "The trouble is that we are supposed to become law-abiding citizens overnight and adopt new employment."

A Long Ropeway.

The longest ropeway in the world is in Java. It is 22 miles long. Its course of 21½ miles it rises 12,500 feet.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Whitford Secord Baker, who departed this life on November 27th, 1927.

One year has gone, but none can tell,
The loss of one I loved so well;
One of the best whom God could lend
A loving husband, a faithful friend.
He, the one that wanted to help me,
And all my troubles share,
When days are dark, and friends are few,
Dear Whitford, how I long for you.

Sadly missed by Wife.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Wilson, Camden East, Ont.

The years are swiftly passing by, dear parents,
But still we do not forget;
For in the hearts that loved you most,
Your memory lingers yet.

Gone but not forgotten by your Daughter, Dora.

THIS YOUNG LADY'S JOB is to "clock" the telephone service. She sits there with her decimeter stop watch and measures to tenths of a second the time taken to complete a call. Other "clockers" record the errors made, the speed with which "trouble" is repaired, all the items of telephone efficiency.

If speed and efficiency are not constantly on the climb these are the people who know it first and then there is a grand hunt to find out what's gone wrong.

It is a good game. It gets results. That is why your telephone serves you better this year than it did last year, and next year will serve you better than now. That is why it has contributed its share to Canadian progress.

FOR EXAMPLE, seven years ago the average interval from the time you lifted your telephone receiver until the operator answered was 5.1 seconds. Today the clocker finds the interval cut to 3.7 seconds. Tomorrow it will be still less.

Seven years ago there were 95 slow calls in every 1,000—a slow call being one in which the operator takes ten seconds or more to answer. Today there are only 33 in every thousand. "

The number of errors of all kinds has been reduced from 40 in every 1,000 calls to 16, which is over ninety-eight per cent perfect.

FIVE YEARS AGO you ran 27 chances in every 1,000 calls of getting the wrong number. That is down now to 13 chances in 1,000, or nearly 99 times out of the 100 right.

There are only two chances in a thousand now that you will be cut off. There were five chances in a thousand, five years ago.

There used to be eight times in a thousand calls when you would break in on somebody else's conversation. Now there are only two such double connections per thousand.

THERE ARE "CLOCKERS" at work in other directions too and here are some of the things they have recorded.

The time taken to repair "trouble" on a line now has been cut to one-third of the time took five years ago.

The time taken to install a new telephone used to be three hours and forty-five minutes. It has been cut now to one hour and forty-five minutes. That means something in hours saved, with 139,000 telephones installed in Ontario and Quebec this year.

PRETTY GOOD results. But the clocker isn't satisfied. Nobody in the telephone business is ever satisfied with today's mark. The system tomorrow must always be better to keep pace with the Canada of tomorrow.

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Institute was held in the Town Hall, Bath, on Wednesday, at 2 p.m. The officers were present, and presided over the meeting in the usual manner. Twelve members and a couple of visitors answered the roll call with answers along the line of welcoming the immigrant in our midst. After the opening exercises were rendered, the old business in general completed, new work was talked of. It was thought advisable to give a picture as prize to the room in Ballet Continuation School, obtaining highest marks in standing, also average attendance at Xmas time. The Flower committee were asked to purchase a plant for a sick lady in our midst and present it to her. A gift of five dollars bought in some clothing was given a poor lady who has moved in our midst for a time, these to be made up and conveyed to her very soon.

Mrs. R. J. Galt, the delegate to the W. I. Convention held in Kingston, gave her report of the Convention. She outlined the work of the Convention in every detail. Miss Edythe Galt, while borne, unable to be present in person on account of her position as teacher in Millhaven School, sent an excellent paper to the meeting, it being read by Mrs. Spearing. The topic of paper was "Canadian Industries." She showed the industries of the Dominion from North to South, West to the East. Truly we should be proud to be living in such a land wealthy with industry and its merits. A motion of thanks was voted both both excellent work. Mrs. Galt then read a newsy paper of Current Events, keeping us in line with the doings of the outside world.

Quite a number of fancy towels were brought for competition in a contest, with the result that Mrs. Fred Amey carried the prize home with her. There were some very neat designs shown.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Stevenson, Bath, on the 12th, at 1.30 p.m. Everybody welcome, whether they are anxious to join or not. Visitors always welcome. Community singing and the National Anthem brought a very successful meeting to a close.

THE PORT OF LONDON.

Bringing the Continually Growing Port Up-to-Date.

The colossal sum of $75,000,000 is being expended in order to bring the continually growing port of London up-to-date. The task of making it the most modern shipping centre in the world is rapidly nearing completion.

More than $50,000,000 has been spent on works now completed. An additional $25,000,000 is being spent on works now in hand.

Amongst the works completed are: New docks, quays, and sheds at the London Docks, the West India Docks and East India Docks.

An entire new dock, fully equipped, with an entrance lock 800 feet long by 100 feet wide, with a depth of 45 feet, known as the King George V. Dock, complete with a large dry dock.

A new dock and sheds at Tilbury.

A new dock (Quebec Dock) with spacious sheds for timber at the Surrey Commercial Docks.

A river cargo jetty 1,000 feet long, at Tilbury.

Dredging of wide deep-water channels.

The $25,000,000 tasks now in hand include: New river entrance lock to Tilbury Docks, 1,000 feet long, 110 feet wide, 45 feet 6 inches deep.

New dry dock at Tilbury, 750 feet long, 110 feet wide, 37 feet 6 inches deep, so constructed as to be capable of extension of 1,000 feet long when required.

New road giving access to the south side of Tilbury Docks.

Passenger landing stage in the Thames 1,142 feet long with 25 feet depth at low water, so that the largest liners may berth alongside at all times to embark or disembark ocean passengers.

Along with the landing stage are being provided a new railway station, baggage hall with customs accommodation, and all modern arrangements for passengers.

It is expected that all the improvements at Tilbury, the new entrance, the new dry dock, and the new landing stage which together will constitute the biggest step forward taken by the P. L. A., will be in use in a little more than twelve months' time.

SOMERSET HOUSE.

Present Building In the Strand Dates From 1780.

Somerset House is known all over the world as the depository of old and modern wills, yet few people know anything about the history of the place. Most of the present building in the Strand dates from 1780, and in front there are statues of Justice, Truth, Valor, and Moderation. The original house took its name from the Lord Protector of Edward VI.'s time, about 1540. The duke pulled down all his neighbors' houses and built what was considered one of the noblest royal palaces in England. He was beheaded on Tower Hill in 1552, and the place reverted to the crown.

Successive Queens used it as their residence until 1775, when Queen Charlotte settled down in "Buckingham House." Down to 1837, the Royal Academy for Painters' years held its exhibition at Somerset House. It is, too, the home of King's College (the east wing), and the Audit, Inland Revenue, and Registrar-General's office.

INTERESTING ROYAL RECORDS.

Mural Memorial Tells of Royal Palace Which Formerly Stood There.

In Old Palace Lane, Richmond, England, is an engraved mural memorial that is a veritable encyclopaedia in miniature of petted history.

It records, amongst other facts, that on this site, extending eastward to the ancient Friary of Sheen, there formerly stood the Royal Palace, first occupied by Henry I. in 1125; that Edward III. died here on June 22, 1377; that the palace was rebuilt by Henry VII., who died here on April 21, 1509, and that Queen Elizabeth died here on March 24, 1603.

It may be added that Edward I. received here the nobles of Scotland in 1301, and that it was for a time the residence of Cardinal Wolsey, to whom it was lent by Henry VIII. Barring the Tudor archway facing Richmond Green, very little now remains of the once stately pile.

The First Clock.

The first clock of which there is any authentic record was invented by Richard de Wallingford, Abbot of St. Albans, in 1326. It was known to be going in the time of Henry VIII. Some early clocks had no dials, so people had to wait until the hour struck to learn the time. Then dials were first introduced they only had one hand and only marked the hours. Later the hours were divided into quartres and "Jacks," or mechanical figures, struck the bells. One of the earliest pocket watches became very fashionable and were often carried in the hand. There were no watch-glasses, and a shutter arrangement was used.

Origin of Common Phrases.

The expression "Showing the White Feather" had its origin in the cock pit. It arose from a belief that a fighting bird which had a white feather in its wing was apt to show cowardice in fight. Many such phases are incorporated in the English language from the same source, such as "to turn tail," "to stand steel," "cock of the walk," "to die game." Many such words and phrases bear witness to the widespread popularity of this most ancient pastime.

Ancient Mummies Found in Far North

With finds which they believe rank with those of King Tut's tomb in antiquity if not in splendor, nine members of the Stoll-McCracken Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History reached Montreal over the lines of the Canadian National Railways from Prince Rupert, B.C., where they left the schooner Effie M. Morrisey which had carried them through the Arctic waters. The party consisting of Charles Stoll of New York, backer and Director of the Expedition and his wife, a noted big game huntress; Harold McCracken, Associate Editor of Field and Stream and leader of the expedition; Dr H. E. Anthony, Curator of Mammals of the American Museum and other Museum experts, left the port of Prince Rupert on May 1st for northern waters, and were at one time 225 miles north of Point Barrow. Their search was for ancient mummies believed to be of Stone Age men, whose presence on the barren islands of the Aleutians group had been reported.

On a barren island, far from the present haunts of men, a burial was discovered in which were four bodies in a rude sarcophagus, constructed of driftwood, cleverly mortised together and held by nails made of walrus bone. The mummies were those of a chieftain; his hunter who was sent on the long journey with him to provide game for his food; a seamstress who had her sewing equipment for repairing the chief's garments, and a child believed to show the chief's love of children. Beside the body of the hunter, were the stone hatchets and harpoons of his craft. The mummies were splendidly preserved and showed every indication that the people of the Asiatic races, from which these "Stone Age" men were believed to have come used methods of preservation similar to those of the Ancient Egyptians in preserving the bodies of their Pharaohs. The four mummies, including the trunkless head of the hunter which is shown here in the hands of Harold McCracken, leader of the Expedition, travelled to Montreal with the party on the Continental Limited of the Canadian National Railways and will be placed in the American Museum together with the important groups of mammals and birds of the Arctic waters which the party secured during their expedition.

Photographs show the members of the party on their arrival at Bonaventure Station, Montreal, the mummified head of the hunter brought back by Mr. McCracken, and "Tough" a member of the party and the only English bulldog which has always have ever sailed Arctic waters, enjoying a lookout from the cab of the Canadian National Railways locomotive which hauled their train into Montreal. —Canadian National Railways photograph.

CONCENTRATES IN THE RATION FOR DAIRY COWS.

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The individual qualifications of the herd are important points to consider when feeding concentrates to dairy cows. The feeding of expensive concentrates to a mediocre producer is at best a risky investment; on the other hand, certain cows in the herd, often without the owner being aware of it, would make profitable use of a daily allowance of concentrates, especially when these can be largely grown on the farm. High production cannot be obtained without the use of considerable concentrates, but profit is not incompatible with such an expense and it is a mistake to believe that high records are always achieved with a loss of money.

By consulting the report of the Experimental Station of Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere for the year 1927, it is seen that the heavy milkers caused more expenses, but ultimately yielded more profit. For the benefit of the reader the following table has been compiled from the above-mentioned report.—

Average Production, Income, Feed Cost and Profit per Cow.

Lot 1—No. of cows, 7; Average milk production, 12542 lbs.; Income per cow, $221.83; Feed cost per cow, $100.27; Profit over feed per cow, $121.56.

Lot 2—No. of cows, 6; Average milk production, 8754 lbs.; Income per cow, $147.72; Feed cost per cow, $70.70; Profit over feed per cow, $77.09.

Lot 3—No. of cows, 6; Average milk production, 6404 lbs.; Income per cow, $115.05; Feed cost per cow, $60.75; Profit over feed per cow, $54.30.

The column "Feed cost per cow", represents the value of the feed used. Butter was valued at 30c. per pound, and the skim-milk at 20c. per hundredweight. The value of the calf was not included in the income.

A glance at the above table will show that the profit over feed of the first lot was more than double the profit from the last one; in other words, it is more profitable to feed one good cow than two of average quality, and the use of concentrates is more profitable in the first instance than in the second. The "feed cost per cow" column reveals that the feed cost increases with the production. There is nothing surprising in this, for can we expect that the cow will manufacture milk from nothing? After all, it matters little that the feed cost was greater if the cow returned more profit.

In any case, the nineteen cows whose average production is recorded here were fed according to their individual qualifications, and each one yielded a profit. It is easily surmised that the feeding practices of the first lot applied to the second and vice versa might have caused a deficit instead of a profit. Therefore, the breeder must first know the qualifications of his cows and then feed them accordingly.

"Four-Twenty" Table Model

The standard model by which all other electric sets are judged. A development of the famous Rogers Model "Two-Twenty". Single Tuning Knob operates Illuminated Drum Dial. Automatic Voltage Control, Rogers Output Filter, Phonograph "Plug-in" Jack. Genuine Walnut Cabinets by Malcolm.

Are You A Hockey Fan?

. . . then the price of this Rogers-Batteryless will admit you to every Hockey Match this year, next year and just as long as you want to keep this Set. And, of course, every other Sporting Event is no farther away than your den, if you own a Rogers-Batteryless.

The famous Model "Two-Twenty" that preceded this model, sold for $225 last year. Yet this set, with all the new 1929 improvements added costs only $165 complete (except Loud Speaker), $60 less than last year! That's why we say without any "if's" and's" or "but's" that this particular Rogers Model is the one best "buy" in the whole field of electric radio.

. . . but don't take our word for it

Come in or telephone and ask to have a "Four-Twenty" installed in your home without obligation. That's the way to find out for yourself what the Rogers-Batteryless will do. Terms to suit your convenience.

NEW SCOTTISH HIGHWAY

Crosses the Grampians and Connects Perth With Inverness.

The greatest modern road through the Highlands of Scotland has been completed. It crosses the Grampians and connects Perth with Inverness.

Workmen, in finishing it, concentrated at Carrbridge on the last half-mile of the 78-mile road, which passes through some of the grandest and wildest scenery in the Highlands.

What was little better in parts than a winding, treacherous track across the hills is now a sweeping highway capable of carrying the heaviest present-day traffic.

The construction of the road has occupied three and a half years. The engineers have had to combat stormy weather, during which, for weeks together, portions of the road were blocked with snow. Apart from those periods the highway has never been closed to traffic during construction.

The road is expected to cost £655,000, which is borne by the Ministry of Transport. An official said:

"Since we began to make headway we have noticed a great increase in traffic. Previously the road was not wide enough to accommodate modern traffic, but now there is a regular service of motor coaches.

"Motor tourists have used the road in greater numbers than ever before."

The road is constructed on the foundation laid by Gen. Wade for a highway for military purposes 200 years ago. The modern builders have widened the road to 18 feet, straightened curves, and they have used the switchback effect by filling in dips and paring off inclines. The biggest gradient now is one in 24.

The engineers have laid a 9-inch bottoming, covered with a 3-inch layer of tar macadam. They have been able to gather their rough material practically from the roadside, making quarries as they went along.

The road has 60 bridges, their lines of white reinforced concrete glistening brightly in the sun in contrast to the dull brown background of the rugged landscape. Thirty-five are new. The remaining 25 have been widened and strengthened.

Most of the bridges are designed to provide outlets for the heavy rush of water from the hillside. The rivers Spey and Findhorn have been spanned. The 250-foot bridge over the Spey is 20 feet wide and took more than a year to construct.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

It is almost too good to be true — and yet the newspapers assure us that it is true — that one of the newly-elected Communist deputies in France should be called Clamamus, a name which, if one's Latin has not grown unreliable from long disuse, may be translated : "We shout." As a name for a politician it is almost as pleasing in effect as that of a certain Mr. Slaughter, who, being a candidate for the council of a North-country city, issued a placard bearing the inscription : "Vote for Slaughter and New Blood in the Council." What is more, it is credibly reported that he himself could never see the joke.

For Catarrh.—It is one of the chief recommendations of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil that it can be used internally with as much success as it can outwardly. Sufferers from catarrh will find that the oil when used according to directions will give prompt relief. Many sufferers from this ailment have found relief in the Oil and have sent testimonials.

New Clerk—"That customer wants to know if this flannel shirt will shrink."

Proprietor—"Well, how does it fit him?"

New Clerk—"It's too large."

Proprietor—"Vy, of course it will shrink."

Time Has Tested It.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has been on the market upwards of fifty years and in that time it has proved a blessing to thousands. It is in high favor throughout Canada and its excellence has carried its fame beyond the seas. If it were double the price it would be a cheap liniment.

"Help! Help!" cried an Italian laborer from near the mud flats of the Harlem river.

"What's the matter, there?" came a voice from the construction shanty.

"Help! Bring-a-da shov'! Bring-a-da peek! Giovanni's stuck in da mud."

"How far?"

"Up to da knees."

"Let him walk out."

"No, no! He canna no walk! He wronga end up."

Unless worms be expelled from the system, no child can be healthy. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is an excellent medicine to destroy worms.

An officer inspecting sentries guarding the line during Territorial manœuvres came across a raw-looking infantryman.

"What are you here for?" he asked.

"To report anything unusual, sir."

"What would you call unusual?"

"I dunno exactly, sir."

"What would you do if you saw five battleships steaming across the field?"

"Sign the pledge, sir."

Soft corns are difficult to eradicate, but Holloway's Corn Remover will draw them out painlessly.

"It is my wish that all the party should hang together," said the man on the platform.

"Hear, hear!" came a voice from the back of the hall derisively.

The speaker glared at the owner of the voice.

"I don't mean in the sense in which that idle scoffer would have you understand," went on the speaker with dignity, "but that they may hang together in concord and accord."

"I don't mind what kind of cord it is," came the same voice again, "as long as it's strong cord."

Wise and experienced mothers know when their children are troubled with worms and lose no time in applying Miller's Worm Powders, a most effective vermifuge. It is absolute in clearing the system of worms and restoring the healthy conditions without which there can be no comfort for the child, or hope of robust growth. It is a most trustworthy worm exterminator.

A little boy put down the book he was reading.

"Dad," he said, "where is atoms?"

"You mean what are atoms," said his father; "there is no place called atoms."

"No, I mean a place."

"Probably you are thinking of Athens."

"No, I mean atoms—the place where things get blown to."

A Laughing Baby Is a Great Joy

What can give more joy in the home than a laughing, happy baby. The well child makes everyone happy with his tuneful gurgle and bright laughing eyes. It is only the sickly baby who is not a laughing baby, for it is the little one's nature to be happy when well.

Mothers, if your baby is cross, if he does not eat a meal and no amount of attention seems to make him happy, give him a dose of Baby's Own Tablets, and he will soon be well and ready to radiate that happiness through the home again.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and correct those troubles which accompany the cutting of teeth and in doing those things — and doing them well — they make baby happy and keep him happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HANDS BEAT MACHINES.

England Is Still Making Hand-Wrought Nails.

One of the few crafts that have survived the age of machinery is that of making hand-wrought nails, which is still carried on at Lye, in the Midlands of England.

Although machinery can produce nails at a far greater speed than they can be made by hand, it cannot equal them for toughness; and hand-wrought nails are especially used for shoeing horses, for obvious danger of a broken nail in the hoof.

There are still about a score of nailers working at Lye, each of whom is a woman; they can each make, on an average, 20 pounds of nails a day —a small quantity compared with the 24,000 nails which a modern machine turns out in an hour.

In Wales and Durham "Quilt Wives" still practice the traditional craft of quilting, the art of which has been handed down from mother to daughter. The wool for wadding is bought locally and is first washed and carded; it is then placed in the frame between the two outer coverings of the quilt, and the whole is ready to be stitched.

Bowl-turning, at one time a flourishing craft in England, has now nearly died out; it is said that a bowl-turner who lives in Bedfordshire is the last one left in England.

The bowls, which are made of elmwood, are survivals from the days when everyone used wooden plates, cups, and bowls, "treen," as they are called. Bowl-turning has declined since the time when pewter, and later china and glass, came into use.

The ancient craft of flint-knapping dates from the Stone Age, when cavemen split the hard flints into arrows and spear-heads. To-day it is chiefly carried on in Suffolk. It was a prosperous industry in the days when flint-lock guns and tinder-boxes were universally used; but now it exists chiefly on the sale of gun flints, which are sent to Africa and other parts of the world where the natives still use the old-fashioned type of weapon.

THEATRICAL FORTUNES.

Some Stage Celebrities Achieved Great Wealth.

Dame Ellen Terry's estate of £22,221, though not a fortune, is probably larger than most people anticipated. It is good to learn that the great actress in the evening of her days was far from care or discomfort—not, of course, that loving relatives would ever have allowed either to approach her.

Her wants were always very simple, and she disliked ostentation of any kind. The testimonial matinee at Drury Lane some years ago was, therefore, an act of tribute well deserved, and, fortunately, the securing for a fine artiste and faithful servant of the public of the means to live.

Thus Ellen Terry died richer than her famous partner, Henry Irving, whose £40,527 represented but a small portion of the fortune he was at one time worth; his losses through speculation were very heavy. But neither achieved the wealth of some other stage celebrities. Sir Charles Wyndham left £187,035, David Garrick £120,000 (an enormous sum in his day), Sir George Alexander £90,672, Johnnie Toole £79,984, Sir Herbert Tree £44,085, and Alfred Lester £37,779.

AN IMPORTANT EXPERIMENT.

J. Spedan Lewis Makes Every Employe a Partner In Business.

"I want no more money for myself. The fortune I have inherited from my father is a sufficient prepayment for my life's work."

This declaration, made by Mr. J. Spedan Lewis, head of the store of John Lewis & Co., Ltd., Oxford street, London, marks the beginning of an important experiment in the big Country business world which will make every employe a partner in the firm. It was from "Old John" Lewis, the founder of the firm, that Mr. Spedan Lewis inherited the business.

"Eighteen years ago I thought out the plan," Mr. Lewis tells me, says a correspondent. "All the ordinary shares in the company are my property, and I am applying the dividends from these shares to a profit-sharing scheme for the employes. These shares will be allotted to the men and women in the business—from managing directors to shop girls and office boys—in proportion to the money they earn. This means that the business will belong to the employes."

NATURE'S SECRET SCENT.

"Portadown Fragrance" Is Puzzling Scent-Making Experts.

Scent-making experts are baffled by the aroma of the "Portadown Fragrance," as the new price winning rose from Ulster is termed. It has been likened to the perfume of an old cottage garden, but one authority considers the fragrance a blend of verbena and tea rose.

In color, the rose, which has taken eleven years to produce, is something of a mystery, being variously described as deep pink or crimson.

Not comparable for beauty with many other blooms, the rose was the great attraction at the Royal Horticultural Hall, London, where it won the 100 guineas Clay Challenge Vase for the "best new scented seedling of the year."

AN ENGLISH FARMHOUSE

PLENTY OF WORK AND GOOD PLAIN FARE.

Few Modern Improvements and the Farmer's Wife Is Kept Busy From Morn Till Night, But Life Is Not All Work.

Whether in thatch-roofed cottage, grey-stone house, red-brick villa, ancient or modern—life in an English farm house means plenty of work for the farmer's wife, writes Eileen Clare Gibson in the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star.

In the old houses, large kitchens, rambling passages, winding staircases cause much extra work. Even in the newer houses there are few modern conveniences. Water may have to be carried upstairs to the bathrooms, or it may be heated from a boiler behind the cook-stove, or range as we call it, which is set in a permanent bricked recess, with a brick chimney. Cooking is done on the coal range in the winter, or an oil-stove in the summer. Oil is used for lighting. Central heating is practically unknown, and we sit round an open grate with a fire of logs or coal, which warms the room well, but how we shiver going to bed and getting up in the morning in our fireless bedrooms.

We get up early on a well-run farm. Sometimes the "boss" will breakfast before going out to start his men at 6 or 7 a.m.

The rest of the household usually have their first meal about 8 o'clock. Dinner is at noon, and tea about 5 p.m. Tea, in the English style of dining, means that supper

Facts About Lehigh Valley Pea Coal

1.—L. V. Pea Coal is the same, good quality of L. V. Anthracite as the Stove and Nut sizes.

2.—Use it instead of Nut Coal in Quebec heaters etc., and save $3.00 or more per ton.

3.—Test it in equal quantities with Stove or Egg sizes in furnaces and save $1.50 or more per ton.

4.—Use it with Coke to steady the fire and make it last longer.

5.—Wilson's L. V. Pea Coal costs only $12.50 per ton.

A Birthday Event at Moscow.

It was a pleasant and sociable gathering that took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everton L. VanLuven, Moscow, on Sunday, Nov. 25th, 1928, in honor of "the twins", VanLuven Bros., who were born at Moscow on Nov. 22rd, 1858, seventy years ago, and who are referred to in the History of Lennox and Addington, by Mr. Herrington, K.C., as being "as like as two peas" when young, and who have been continuously and agreeably in business together since 1896, forty-two years, sharing the burdens, joys and sorrows together. Besides "the twins" there were present, Mr. and Mrs. Harry VanLuven and two children, from Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. Wray VanLuven and little Barbara, and Mrs. T. F. VanLuven, also Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and Miss Ritchie, from Kingston, to partake of the good things prepared, and to rejoice at the partial recovery to health, after both being confined to the Hospital, Everton for nearly seven weeks in July and August, and Egerton since December 7th last. A telegram with best wishes and greetings from the younger brother, Earl, who resides in Colton, California, and many greetings were received by mail and telephone, also personally.

Hockey Meeting To-Night.

A meeting of the Napanee Hockey Club will be held in the Council Chamber of the Town Hall, this (Wednesday) evening, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of election of officers and general business. In order for sport of any kind to flourish in Napanee, it has to have the support of the business men, which is sadly lacking in Napanee. Do not think that because you have contributed to the financial end of sport that your duty ends there. Take an active interest, attend this meeting and show the boys that you mean business in sport. A large attendance is requested to-night. Come along, bring a friend, and learn what the workers are trying to give you this winter in the shape of a hockey league.

"Carry On Sergeant", at Wonderland Theatre, Mon. and Tues., Dec. 10th-11th

Much has been said in regards to the premier showing of Canada's first motion picture. If one is looking for flaws and faults in the unfolding of this story it is merely necessary to approach it with this uppermost in mind and to forget that in every creation the perfect is still wanting. Coming back to the producing of "Carry on Sergeant" let us take more into consideration that this effort was an endeavor of eighteen solid months, sometimes under adverse conditions which in itself should be cause for pride on the part of the director. "Carry on Sergeant" is remarkably photographed, perfectly acted, superbly directed, and is a true and accurate portrayal of the trenches as one remembers them. The story deals with an individual whose temptation was abetted by the daily and nightly hardships and grimesomeness of the war from the very beginning, a hard task master as a commander of men, a modern hero in duty and a none too easy prey to the wiles of a woman. In the unfolding of the story, this sergeant is no way symbolic of the rank and file of the Canadian army, but a fictitious character, who like a gallant gentleman, pays in full the price, as he sees it, of his one moment of weakness. Captain Bairnsfather in his story does not exalt, idolize or condone, the sergeant but sets aside his one mis-step and brings the story true and human story to a close with a toast to the sergeants of the British and Canadian armies, whose ability to carry on in the face of very serious obstacles has made this phrase famous the world over. This picture was filmed in Trenton, Ontario. 49a

POULTRY DAY IN NAPANEE

Poultry Days have come and gone for another year. These two days have now assumed proportions where they play a very large part in the economic life of our town and district. The people come from miles around with their poultry. They are bought on the open market. The money is paid out by the banks, and the merchants feature sales of various kinds to stimulate buying.

This year there were several factors that tended to lower the volume of sales. There has been a great demand all year for prime fowl, and purchasers from the packing houses have made periodic trips all summer to the poultry raisers, buying the stock live and taking them off in crates. This depleted the stock in the county. But it is interesting to note in this connection that the prices paid in Napanee more than justified holding the fowl, and those who sold here were by far the better paid.

Then several other towns had poultry days this year. None of them, however, were to be compared in any way with those in Napanee. The development of a successful poultry day is a matter of time, and the people who sell in Napanee have been trained through the years to produce prime stock, and to prepare them for the market in a way to receive the highest price paid anywhere.

One notable improvement this year was the way the traffic was handled. Those in charge are to be commended for the orderliness and efficiency with which the traffic was taken care of.

The volume of sales was somewhat lower than last year, the prices were higher, and the farmers were well pleased with the results. The buyers, too, were loud in their praise of the quality of poultry brought in.

The prices were as follows :—
Turkeys, 37c. to 41c.; a few at 43c.
Geese, 20c.; very few geese.
Ducks, 23c. to 25c.; mostly 25c.
Chickens, 25c. to 32c.; bulk at 28c. to 30c.; a few choice lots at 33c. to 35c.
Fowl, 18c. ot 25c.;
Altogether there was 123 tons of poultry.

The banks paid out about $76,000.

BRITISH COMPANY IS PROSPERING UNDER DR. MORDEN

From time to time word has reached Napanee in the course of the business with which Dr. Morden is associated. Dr. Morden left Napanee about two years ago to become technical adviser to a company which was then being formed, for the purpose of manufacturing non-inflammable safety celluloid.

Since then the work has been in a formative stage. A single, experimental factory unit was built. The success of this justified the expansion to the present. Property was secured and the business organized on a large scale. As the manufacturing end of the business progressed, so new uses were found for their product, until now the company is manufacturing non-inflammable celluloid, non-inflammable films, artificial silk, splinterless glass that will not discolor, lacquer and brushing paint and many other articles.

Application for patents have been taken out by Dr. Morden for Brazil, the Argentine Republic, Germany, France, Belgium, Holland and Italy. The company is known as The Celluloe Acetate Silk Company, Ltd. The stock was put on the market two weeks ago and was over-subscribed by 50%.

Napanee is pleased to know of the success of this undertaking under one of its own citizens. Dr. Morden had hoped to be home for Xmas., but pressure of business has made that impossible. Mrs. Morden, however, plans to spend the vacation with Dr. Morden in England, when it is hoped he will be able to return to Napanee with her for a visit.

TAMWORTH

The Woman's Institute held a very enjoyable entertainment in the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening. After a bountiful supper the following programme was given :—Music by Orchestra, quartette by Misses H. York and G. Beckstead, Messrs. Reid and Shier; recitation, Mrs. D. Donevan; duet, Miss Beckstead and Mr. Reid; solos, Mr. Wilcox and Miss B. McLaughlin; piano duet, Rev. and Mrs. Morgan; recitation, Muriel Hunt; duet, Messrs. Reid and Wilcox; violin solo, Miss H. York. In the absence of the Reeve, Mr. Chas. Stevens made an acceptable chairman. — Mrs. Ed. Courneya had the misfortune to break her arm. — Master Grand Storrings was taken to Kingston Hospital one day last week for an operation for appendicitis. — Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wager spent one day last week in Kingston.—Teachers' Training Classes in connection with the County Religious Education Council work have been held each evening this week at Enterprise. The teachers in charge of classes were Rev. Mr. McKenzie, Rev. Mr. Bunt, and Rev. Mr. Beckstead. Miss Beryl Milligan, Normal Richmond and Miss Hunt have been taking the course.—We are very sorry to report one of our teachers, Mrs. Beckstead, very ill, and we sincerely hope for his speedy recovery.—Mrs. G. H. Richardson is slowly improving, after a severe case of la grippe.—The villagers were severely shocked on Friday afternoon, when they learned that Mr. John Monck was dead. Mr. Monck went out in the morning to cut fire wood for himself, and did not return as usual for dinner. A neighbour went in the afternoon to look for him, and found him lying on the ground dead. Mr. Monck is an old citizen of Tamworth and will be greatly missed by all. His funeral was held on Monday, at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Beckstead officiating.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Albert A. Allen.

Elizabeth Ann Martin, aged 78 years, widow of the late Albert A. Allen, who predeceased her twenty-one years ago, was called home as the run was rising in the east, Monday, by the Lord's Day, Nov. 25th, 1928, at Napanee, after being watched over by her best earthly friends.

A short service was held at the house, by the remains conveyed to her former home, Centre Hall, now owned by her son, N. G. Allen. The Rev. Dixon Dixon impressive service and mentioned the great service the deceased had been to that church and Sabbath School. The church was filled by those who wished to express their sorrow and in sympathy for those who are left to mourn the loss of a kind mother and friend. She leaves to mourn Miss Florence Ethel Allen, Rustlewille; Stella G. Allen, Esq., Marlbank, and Robert M. Allen, Huttonsville, Ont.

Perfumes, Sachets, Bath Salts, Dusting Powders, Compacts, by leading manufacturers. An appreciated gift at Hooper's Drug Store.

WE NEED YOUR MONEY !

The first contribution to The Beaver Santa Claus fund this year came from Mr. Wm. Clayton. Mr. Clayton had the honor last year of bringing in the first donation. Thanks, Mr. Clayton ! Since the first donation we have had several more. And soon we hope the people will be bringing in their amounts quickly and generously. Canada is in the midst of a period of growing prosperity. And yet there are always some who for no reason of their own do not have a share in it. We are thinking particularly of the little children. There are quite a lot of children in Napanee who are in need. They need warm clothes, and good shoes and stockings. Soon the intense cold of the Ontario winter will be on them, and unless they are helped they are bound to suffer.

We are making the survey, and we are authorizing the workers to begin purchasing material with which to make the articles that are needed. We are doing this even though there is no money as yet to pay for them. We have confidence in our readers to come forward when the need is pointed out.

We haven't had any of the children in yet with gifts. Who'll be first ?

Amount received to date :—

THE KING'S ILLNESS

Increasing anxiety was felt over the week end concerning His Majesty King George. The course of the disease was running true to form. When the pulmonary condition cleared up and the temperature dropped, it caused a re-action on the heart. And all the efforts of the nation's best medical men were concentrated on the effort to maintain the strength of this vital organ. Our last word is that the heart is standing the strain up to date, and a more optimistic note is discernible in the official bulletins.

The kindly and generous affection in which His Majesty is regarded is evidenced on every hand. Around Buckingham Palace great crowds wait in the rain for hours in silence waiting each bulletin, and papers all over the world speak in kindly and loving terms of the power and influence and kindly character of His Majesty. The prayers of the whole empire are raised for his recovery. "God Save the King."

The Prince of Wales, who has been touring Africa, has at once cancelled all engagements and is speeding homeward. He is not expected to reach England before December 13th.

WOODBINE - WESTBROOKE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's father, Mr. H. Lockwood, on Nov. 19th, 1928, when Stella Corline, fourth daughter of Harvey Lockwood and the late Mrs. Lockwood, became the bride of Mr. Fenrose Raymond Caird, eldest son of Mr. Dennis Caird, of Seeley's Bay. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked lovely in a gown of Venice blue silk trimmed with old Ivory lace and satin ribbon, with silver shoes and stockings to match, and wore a white veil caught with tiny rose buds, and carried white roses. She was accompanied by her father to an arch of white and pink streamers and white bell, where the groom awaited her. Miss Edith Slater, Kingston, attended the bride, gowned in blue silk, and carried pink roses and sweet peas. Mr. Louis Prete supported the groom. Little Theda Revell made an ideal ringbearer, in a dress of blue, carrying a white satin pillow containing the ring. Rev. Dr. J. R. R. Cooper, Cataraqui, officiated at the marriage.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a pair of silk gloves, to the best man a white silk scarf, and to the ringbearer a pair of fancy wool hose.

After the marriage, a reception was held in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Caird, when they received the best wishes and congratulations of their many friends, and also a number of beautiful gifts, as follows:—

For Swollen Joints

Most remedies fail but Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's for joint troubles only, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, finger or spine—whether rheumatic or not.

It limbers up stiff, inflamed, painful, creaky joints so quickly you'll be astonished.

Two seconds' rubbing and away it goes through skin and flesh right down to the bone and ligaments—that's why it succeeds. At Wilson's Drug Store or any reliable druggist.

YARKER

(For last week.)

The regular meeting of the Yarker-Colebrook Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. Hart, Colebrook, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21st, with seventy members and visitors present. The President, Mrs. N. Boyce, presided, and the meeting opened by singing the Ode, followed by Secretary's and Treasurer's reports. The roll call was well responded to by "A Cure for Burns". A vote of thanks was given the delegate, Mrs. Chas. Amey, on her splendid report of the convention held in Kinnston. Mrs. A. Huffman, District President, then gave an interesting address on institute work. It was organized in Ontario and hence spread to other parts of the world. Our President then gave a hearty welcome to all the visitors. Mrs. Salisbury, the President of Camden East, was then asked to take over their part of the program. Mrs. Black gave an address and a paper on the social life in the community. The next item was a musical selection by Mrs. Robinson. Mrs. Salisbury then gave us a reading, a recitation. A solo was then rendered by Mrs. Histed. A paper was given by Mrs. Harold Huff. Then followed a recitation by Mrs. Black on "Our Happiest Time". Lastly was a musical contest, in which Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Shagraw won first prize. A hearty vote of thanks was given Camden East Institute for their splendid programme. Camden East very kindly invited our Institute to join with them at Mrs. Black's, in February. "The National Anthem" was then sung, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and lunch committee, and all enjoyed the social half hour that followed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. Bayder, on Dec. 19th.

CAMDEN EAST W.M.S.

The annual Autumn thankoffering meeting of Camden East W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. L. D. Williams, on Nov. 14th, at 2 o'clock.

The meeting was opened by the President. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. E. Switzer. Hymn 439 was sung. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Histed in remembrance of Armistice, our soldiers and their families. Roll was then called, ten members responding by words of thankfulness. Mrs. R. Lewis gave a splendid report from the Rally held at Yarker, on October 9th. Mrs. Joe Lewis related a story which was told at the Rally by our Missionary, Miss Forbes, in connection with her work at the Trinidad mission. Miss Helen Williams rendered a much appreciated instrumental solo. A reading was then given by Mrs. Perry Ainsbrand, entitled "The Joy of Sacrifice". Mrs. Joe Lewis favoured us with a very appropriate solo, "Count Your Blessings". Thank offering was taken. Mrs. Black offered the dedicatory and thanksgiving prayer. Hymn 180 was then sung. Reading was given by Miss Williams, relating to Thanksgiving. A few items of business were discussed. Hymn 43, followed by prayer by Mrs. Lewis closed the meeting.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, and a social half-hour was spent. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Black, on December 12th. All ladies welcome.

SOME OBSERVATIONS FROM THE RESULTS OF 1927-28 EGG LAYING CONTESTS

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The Egg Laying Contest year just ended was in many respects not as satisfactory as had been anticipated. Lack of sunshine and frequent rains seemed to retard production in the spring and early summer. Generally speaking, production was much the same as in the previous year and egg size seemed to show a slight improvement.

Seven of the thirteen contests showed an improvement in average egg yield, while eight of the thirteen showed an improvement in the average weight of eggs laid.

The Canadian Contest at Ottawa gave an average egg yield which was six eggs per bird lower than that obtained the previous year, and the egg weight suffered in about the same proportion. The Nova Scotia Contest also showed a lower average egg yield. The Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia Southern, New Brunswick, Quebec Eastern, Quebec Western, Ontario and Saskatchewan Contests all showed an improvement in egg yield over the previous year and in some cases the figures were quite marked. On the other hand, the Manitoba, Alberta, British Columbia, and Vancouver Island Contests all gave a lower average production per bird than was the case the previous year. It is fair to state that while the Vancouver Island Contest gave a lower average egg yield than in the previous year there was an improvement in the average weight of eggs.

An outstanding observation in connection with the contest year just ended, was the figures which worked out on the correlation of body weight to egg production and size of egg for the previous years' contest birds. In brief the findings showed a very marked correlation in all three characters in favour of the larger birds and it is safe to say that other things being equal the bird well up to standard weight will lay more and larger eggs than her pen mate that lacks body size. This information was published in midsummer and from general observations made of the Canadian Contest birds which have just arrived for the 1928-29 Contest at Ottawa, breeders have selected pullets which give promise of making standard weight as hens. It is very gratifying to learn that the information which the egg laying contests have and are securing is being taken full advantage of by the poultry breeders throughout Canada.

OBITUARY.

Mr. John Hartin.

Mr. John Hartin, of West Plain, passed peacefully away on October 26th, 1928, at the age of seventy-three. He had been ailing for some time, but was only in bed a few days when the call came to come up higher.

Everything was done that could be done to stay the hand of death, but God had called and he must go.

Many years he had been a servant of the Lord, and a faithful helper in church and community life. He left a clear evidence behind that the Lord was with him, with no dark clouds to hide the Master's face, as he went down into the valley of death.

The funeral was largely attended at the United Church at West Plain where he was a regular attendant. The service was conducted by his Pastor, Rev. A. E. Oliver, and Rev. Mr. Bennett, Pastor of the Holiness Movement Church at Hoblin. A beautiful duet was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brooks, of Roblin. The Scripture lesson chosen by the deceased, was taken from the 14th chapter of John, that being his favourite chapter.

He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife and two daughters, Mrs. W. J. Tyner and Mrs. W. G. Pringle; also three sisters and two brothers. Mr. Hartin will be greatly missed, and the vacancy will be hard to fill, but his work was done.

TREASURES AT GUILDHALL.

London Has a Storehouse of Antiquities Under Glass.

Few museums offer more interest to the Londoner than that at the Guildhall. It is the city's storehouse of antiquities, where are to be found the results of excavations during rebuilding in various parts of London.

Hairpins, combs, mirrors, rings, shoes, scales, spoons and surgical instruments dating back to Roman times have been found. The Romans, in fact, knew almost everything about present-day needs, even the wood-tablets and inkwells, while their lamps, pincers, bolts, and nails were well designed. Roman house furniture, locks and keys, statuettes, and wall decorations were little less, perfect than we make them to-day.

Many exhibits go back much farther than Roman times. There are flint flakes of the Palaeolithic period discovered at Wandsworth; flint celts, knives, and adzes of the Neolithic period taken from the Thames at Teddington; bronze swords and daggers of the Bronze Age; and coins, bowls, and personal ornaments of the Iron Age.

Chessmen in terra-cotta and in bone, dominoes in lead, bone skates, tobacco pipes from Queen Elizabeth's time, snuff-boxes and pearwood pipe cases, are amongst the more recent exhibits.

Very interesting, too, are the collections of tavern signs, fire insurance companies' signs, boundary marks, spurs, candleholders, tokens or pilgrims' signs and badges, and old knives, forks, and spoons. Other exhibits include a collection of very old playing cards, watches and clocks, instruments of primitive surgery, Bethlehem Hospital, fire escapes, manacles, handcuffs, and a whipping-post.

On special application one can see the signature of William Shakespeare, which is in the library.

PLUNGE IN EDUCATION.

South Australia Will See That Her Children Are Educated.

No state of the Commonwealth has made a more definite advance in teaching facilities than South Australia, where a policy of free, though costly, education is being consistently observed. Within sixteen months forty-nine schools have been opened and contracts let for the erection of new buildings. Despite the fact that the whole of Australia is passing through a period of financial stringency the Government is determined not to relax its expenditure on education, the vote for which has advanced substantially in recent years.

When the present Minister controlling the Department assumed office about two years ago he found 12 schools closed. He has reopened them, established 33 others and agreed to subsidize three. Every educational institution in South Australia is now a going concern. The demand for teachers in the new settlements is so pressing that orders have been given for building 32 more schools and making extensive additions to existing structures.

The aim of the Government is to leave no centre, however small, without the advantages of education. Wherever six pupils in average attendance can be guaranteed, a teacher will be sent. A school, of course, cannot be erected, but means are found somehow to provide accommodation.—Christian Science Monitor.

PUNCH FOR SIX THOUSAND.

It Was Made In a Fountain In a Garden.

Probably the largest bowl of punch ever brewed was made on October 25, 1694, on an island in the Mediterranean by Edward Russel Lord Oxford, then captain-general and commander-in-chief of His Majesty's forces in the Mediterranean.

It was made, says the historian, in a fountain in a garden. This was in the middle of four walks, all covered overhead with lemon and orange trees, and in every walk was a table, "the whole length of it covered with cold collations."

In the fountain had been mixed the following ingredients: Four hogsheads of brandy, eight hogsheads of water, 25,000 lemons, 20 gallons of lime juice, 1,300 weight of fine white Lisbon sugar, 5 pounds of grated nutmegs, 30 toasted biscuits and last a pipe of dry mountain Malaga.

Over a fountain a large canopy was built to keep off the rain; and there was built on purpose a little boat, where in was a bowl brought to the fleet, who rowed round the fountain and filled cups of the company, and in all probability more than 6,000 men drank thereof.

MAY ABOLISH BOUNDARY HITS.

It Is Claimed Batsman Would Soon Tire If He Had to Make Runs.

The abolition of "boundary hits," as a means of improving the interesting cricket matches is being considered in the Old Country.

It is argued that if all hits had to be run out the batsmen would sooner grow tired and would be more easily got out. Certainly the executing of batsmen from running when the hit fours was not contemplated when the rules of cricket were drawn up.

Which leaves us no room for a lament, after running one four would be less likely to hit another off the next ball, and there is no doubt that the bowler would have a better chance of getting him out. It would be worth trying.

Belfast's New Hotel.

The highest building in Belfast, Ireland, will be a hotel which is now under construction in Donegall Square. It will contain 450 bedrooms and will cost $150,000 to erect. All modern conveniences, such as a swimming pool and roof-garden, are embodied in the building. The same company is building hotels in Bangor and Londonderry at a cost of £20,000 each.

Facts About Lehigh Valley Pea Coal

1.—L. V. Pea Coal is the same, good quality of L. V. Anthracite as the Stove and Nut sizes.
2.—Use it instead of Nut Coal in Quebec heaters etc., and save $3.00 or more per ton.
3.—Test it in equal quantities with Stove or Egg sizes in furnaces and save $1.50 or more per ton.
4.—Use it with Coke to steady the fire and make it last longer.
5.—Wilson's L. V. Pea Coal costs only $12.50 per ton.

School Teacher Attacked

Not so very long ago, Henry was very anxious to go into one of the professions, so in order to have enough money for keep with his expenses, he took up school teaching. Well, teaching isn't so easy nowadays as it used to be, and Henry had to work doubly hard to do his day's work and also keep up with his private studies. More than that, he had to spare some of his slender earnings to help keep his widowed mother. His father died some fifteen years ago from tuberculosis, and, in time, and long before his goal was reached, Henry, too, had contracted his slender reserve of strength. Now he has had to give up his position as a teacher and his life's ambition, and enter the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives where a long fight is before him. It may be many months before the experienced medical attention and nursing he is getting at this institution, the last hope of so many unfortunates like him, will do their part and put him on his feet again. DO NOT FOLLOW THE BEES' EXAMPLE

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Although the honey-bee is a model of industry during the summer time, for example during the winter months one that should not be followed by the beekeeper himself, no matter how much the inclination is to do so. After being fed and snugly packed in winter quarters, the bees have little preparation to make for the following season such, however, is not the case with the beekeeper. The activities of spring and summer usher in a rush, and the wise beekeeper is ready to meet it with everything provided to satisfy the needs of the bees when they resume activities in the spring. There is much that the beekeeper can do during the winter time to relieve the pressure of work and anxiety of the spring season. Often fishermen are busy when bees are swarming, and necessary supplies run rapidly, than to find a shortage of equipment to take care of the situation. Such a condition is too frequently paid for in dollars and cents. One day's delay may cause the loss of a ten pound pail of honey for the bees, and every colony in the apiary. Now, furthermore, it may take at least a week to secure and prepare the supplies that could have been obtained and prepared during the winter. Bees, however, don't go dormant for the winter just because the bee does. Look to your equipment. What you already have on hand, clean and repair where necessary, and store it ready for quick handling next season. Remember that drawn comb, your most valuable asset, can be quickly destroyed by moth and mice. Protect the comb from the ravages of these pests. Estimate your requirements for a maximum crop in 1929, and order enough new supplies to meet the estimate. And, furthermore, order them early so they may be assembled and made ready for use before the bees require your attention in the spring.

"BRIDES OF THE SAINTS"

Increasing Opposition Is Being Made to Sacrifice of Young Girls.

The custom by which Hindu parents dedicate their young daughters for life, without any choice of their own, to the services of a child temple gods or the priests is arousing increasing opposition in India.

A recent case, in which three girls were consecrated to a priest who is described as a "saint," has been instrumental in starting a campaign for the total abolition of the custom.

The origin of this custom was the pious idea of dedicating a child to a god. Though exclusively an aboriginal and Dravadian practice, it was slightly analogous to the custom prevailing among the pagan Romans, who consecrated vestal virgins to the temples.

Such virgins lived a pure life, were held in high esteem, and respected. They were allowed, on reaching maturity, either to continue this service of the gods or to abandon it and return to ordinary life.

In course of time, however, the pious object of their calling was lost sight of, the essential condition of their purity and the rectitude of their conduct came to be ignored, and they fell into lone life.

Mr. Gandhi, the Indian Nationalist leader, has now denounced the "saints," who call on the Hindu believers to come forward and dedicate the lives of their young daughters or wives to their services.

The Indian National Herald, a leading Bombay newspaper, cites the case of a "saint" who came specially to Bombay from his up-country home to gain converts.

Crowds of devoted Hindus went to the beautiful residence high up on the Malabar Hill to catch a glimpse or obtain a blessing for themselves and their families of this "holy" one. They found him seated cross-legged on a chair—an old man with only a loin cloth round his waist.

Beautiful girls clustered round him, while some received the offerings that were placed at his feet. The "saint" kept silent, his eyes were shut. They said he was in "a superconscious state."

Throughout the day the worshippers passed in front of him. They had come from distant places to venerate and pay homage to the old man. Every one had a gift, and he was eagerly expecting that the "saint" would come back to himself and deliver a message to him or his family. But the "saint" had nothing to say, and the expectant crowd had to be content with only the sight of him.

RECORD IN HOME-MAKING.

Over One Million Houses Have Been Built In Britain Since Armistice.

No fewer than 1,105,000 houses have been built in Great Britain since the Armistice, according to the Ministry of Health annual report, which has just been issued. Of these, the record number of nearly 240,000 were built during the year 1927-28.

Another encouraging feature of the report is that it shows the cost of building to be steadily falling. Local authorities can now build non-parlor houses for £264 and parlor houses for £437.

Complaints about the high rents of new houses may be justified in many cases, but the average rent for all types of houses erected under the Housing and Town Planning Act, 1919, seems fairly low. It is 9s. 5d. a week.

But what may be saved in rent goes on to rates and taxes. The State subsidy for houses since the war has amounted to £62,554,657.

EXPERTS STUDY PESTS.

Odd, But Fascinating Operations of British Ministry of Agriculture.

Slugs are being carefully propagated at Leeds, England, in order that expert entomologists in the employ of the British Ministry of Agriculture may study their habits.

Green gooseberry sawflies are being carefully reared at Manchester with a view to fuller knowledge of their life history and bionomics."

Poultry are being fed in the Midlands on the insect pests that attack all sorts of farm, orchard, and garden crops.

These are a few of the odd, but fascinating, operations recorded in the annual report on the work of the Ministry of Agriculture. The report is a storehouse of curious, and often useful, information upon almost every aspect of farming and gardening.

His Last Chance.

Jack had just asked Jill to marry him, and she had murmured "Yes."

"Jack, dear," she ventured after a long silence, "am I the only girl—"

The young man's arms tightened about her.

"Jill," he interrupted fiercely, "don't ask me whether you are the only girl I ever loved. You know it as well as I do."

"That wasn't what I was going to say at all, Jack," she answered. "I was going to ask you if I was the only girl who would have you."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Landslide on Isle of Wight.

The sea is claiming fifty acres of woodland at Rocken End, near Ventnor, on the Isle of Wight, where a gigantic landslide is taking place. Thousands of tons of cliff, crashing into the sea, are sending up foaming clouds of spray, while rocks never before seen are being forced above the waters. It is feared it may be months before the landslide ends.

The Duke and the Piano.

Lady Cynthia Asquith tells a humorous story of the Duchess of York. Shortly after the duchess' marriage, Mme. Verne, who had taught her the piano, went to take tea with her. Her first curtsy was interrupted by her old pupil exclaiming: "You must give the Duke of York some lessons. I have already begun to teach him his notes, and he knows three!"

VARIABLE HAY VALUES

(Experimental Farms Note)

During the past few years the Forage Crop Division of the Dominion Experimental Farm has investigated quite extensively some of the causes of the variation in the dry matter of forage crops. While practically all types of forage plants were investigated the present remarks will refer largely to those used for hay purposes.

The prospective purchaser of a ton of red clover or alfalfa hay cannot be induced very readily to buy an equal amount of pure grass hay. He knows that the clover hay is supposed to possess more of the high priced protein that he is anxious to feed. Fewer people seem to be aware of the fact that there may be more variation in the protein content of either red clover or alfalfa hay, cured in different ways, than usually exists between clover hay and timithy hay.

The investigations of the forage plant division indicate that the weather conditions at harvesting time and the method of curing the crop have a very decided influence on the value of the resulting hay. This is particularly so in the case of the clover hays. With these latter it is seldom that at least ten per cent of the leaf growth is not lost. Handling when the leaves are brittle may result in the loss of as much as sixty per cent of the leaf growth. Unfavourable weather at harvest time not only adds to the leaf loss but also results in the loss of valuable plant food constituents by leaching. In addition to the loss of leaf and through leaching it has been found that the more rapidly hay is cured the more of the valuable food constituents will it contain. This appears to be equally true with all types of forage plants.

In purchasing hay of all kinds it would appear to be the policy of wisdom to make sure that the majority of the leaves remain, and that the conditions under which it was cured were as favourable as possible as indicated by a bright, green colour.

WORLD'S GREATEST.

Geyser In Yellowstone Park Is In a State of Activity.

Furious and explosive agitivity has been manifest recently by the world's greatest geyser. It is in Yellowstone Park, and, with the exception of the now extinct Excelsior geyser, it is the biggest ever known.

It is a Titan of its kind, hurling water in all directions and reaching an average height of 60 to 70 feet, while occasional spurts reach 100 feet. Its crater is a huge ellipse, 100 by 120 feet in its two diameters, and 8 feet deep.

The volume of hot water it ejects is tremendous, and the rush off pours through a four-foot gap to a depth of eight inches at a rate of 120 feet per minute. The spurts continue at fifteen or twenty-second intervals for three or more hours, and it stages two of these long eruptive periods every twenty-four hours.

When an eruption ceases the geyser crater is dry, with the exception of a small fissure and several boiling mud springs along the north edge. The end of the eruption comes as suddenly as the beginning, and the last of the violent steam explosions seem to be as energetic as at first.

MOVIE STARS.

Said to Be the Champion Letter-Receivers of the World.

Cinema stars are said to be the champion letter-receivers of the world. According to reports from Hollywood, the "fan mail" shows no signs of decreasing.

It has been reckoned that over 22,250,000 letters are sent each year to screen favorites from their admirers. The postage on these letters exceeds $645,000.00, and the replies, with the photographs that are nearly always requested, cost $1,925,000.

A large percentage of the letters come from children, according to the secretaries whom each artiste is obliged to employ to deal with this correspondence. Few are helpful—and this is what the stars find most regrettable. However big their mail bags may be, they will always be glad to receive sound suggestions or honest criticism which will assist them in their work.

CRUELTY TO FISH?

German Judge Decrees That Fish Have No Feeling.

Do fish suffer when caught on a hook? A German judge has decreed that fish have no feelings and cannot suffer pain.

Another authority declares that fish undoubtedly have a sense of touch and, therefore, a sense of feeling, although anglers are of the opinion that they do not suffer pain. Fish are cold-blooded, which is probably the reason why their feelings are different.

Proof is impossible, but it is known that fish have a highly - organized sensory system. The fact that they dance about after being caught seems to prove pain.

The R.S.P.C.A. have obtained several convictions in the Old Country against persons for cruelty to fish.

Concert In a Cavern.

A concert was given recently in the famous subterranean caves of Postumia, fifty miles from Trieste, in which a choral society and a band drawn from fifty towns and villages in the caverns of Postumia in a manner under the earth for ten or twenty miles, and among many peculiarities contain a subterranean river.

In the centre of the subterranean galleries there is a vast hall called the Psychological Hall or the Elysian Fields, nearly a quarter of a mile in circumference, and which can hold probably from 10,000 to 20,000 persons. The dome of the hall rises more than 200 feet, and is decorated with crystals of huge size. Fantastically-shaped stalactites like veils and curtains hang over the various passages of approach.

FERTILISERS — ORGANIC AND INORGANIC

By T. W. Jones, In The Manchester Guardian.

For nearly a century we have been inclined to discount the resources of the humble farmyard, making unfavourable comparisons with the more efficient artificial inorganic substitutes which have come to supply almost entirely the demand of our sophisticated population for food. By their aid we have learned to snap our fingers at a discredited Malthus. It appears likely, however, that the agricultural wisdom of the future will endorse Malthus's judgment of the indispensable character of organic manure.

Since 1840, when Liebig first showed the chemist how to provide the essentials of growth, inorganic fertilisers have undergone numerous changes through our constantly increasing knowledge of plant requirements; knowledge that we are now discovering to be very far from complete. Until the last few years it was held to be sufficient if artificial fertilisers supplied the plant with the calcium, nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium necessary to replace losses from the soil. More recently we have found that small quantities of certain inorganic salts, such as magnesium sulphate, are equally essential as stimulants, in much the same manner as the vitamins are for the human body. But, notwithstanding our increasing knowledge of plant requirements, with fertilisers compounded to meet all these needs, the results shown by the latest statistics are found to have fallen short of those obtainable by the simple use of farmyard manure. But the present supply of farmyard manure is altogether insufficient for our new demand, and we are forced to find a substitute.

Experiments in Growth Control.

Further experiments indicate that the difference to be made up between farmyard manure and artificially compounded fertilisers is that of the organic decomposition products resulting from the breakdown of the former. These appear essential to vegetable growth. One an important fact has emerged—namely, the possibility, by varying the proportions of these decomposition products, of altering the growth of the plant in the important particulars of time of flowering and proportion of fruit to foliage.

Two American workers, Schreiner and Skinner, investigated the effect of certain organic compounds occurring in decomposed manure. These they synthesised and added to unmanured soil. They found, as would be expected, that the results differed according to the compounds used. For example, vanillin, the flavouring principle of the vanilla bean (which is today produced synthetically on a large scale), helped the plants to produce more root than top; cumarin, also a flavouring substance, had the effect of stunting wheat seedlings, giving short, broad leaves and stick stems; quinone, a coal-tar derivative related to the well-known photographic developing agent hydroquinone) produced long, slender plants equal in size to those of normal growth but considerably less in weight. Valuable work upon similar lines has been carried out at Rothamsted. The addition to the soil of small quantities of nitrogenous organic chemicals, particularly of the chlorpicrin and chloro-dinitro-benzene, has been found greatly to increase the yield of tomatoes, a correspondence of 1 cwt. per acre increasing the yield by five tons.

Addition is not, however, the only method of applying traces of important organic substances. An American chemist, F. E. Denny, has induced potato tubers to develop from two to six sprouts at each eye and to gain in development by about two months by dipping the seed pieces in water solutions containing small quantities of the substances thiourea or ethylene chlorhydrin. The pieces, in the case of the latter solution, were dipped and then stored in closed containers for 24 hours before planting; in the case of the thiourea solution they were soaked in it for an hour and then planted.

"Gassing" for Early Blooms.

A still more interesting method of applying traces of organic substances has been utilised by Denny—namely, "gassing" the plants by means of the vapours of the organic compound. By this method he has obtained early blooming of lilac, crab-apple, azalea, gladiolus bulbs, and other plants. The method consists in placing the potted plants in an enclosed chamber for 24 hours and evaporating a measured amount of the chemical by the action of an electric fan. Here again, as in the experiments by Schreiner and Skinner, the effects were found to vary. With Deutzia, for example, strong concentrations of vapour caused the buds to develop a comparatively large amount of leaf and few flowering spikes, whereas lower concentrations reversed this effect. With azaleas the time required for the opening of the flower buds depended on the concentration of vapour. The average gain in time of blooming for all the experiments was three weeks, and the cost was only a few cents per plant.

These methods have been found of practical monetary value to the market gardener; not only may he increase the time required for the proportion of leaf and flower and, most important of all, force on his produce and so secure the higher prices of an early market.

At the present time these organic compounds are used in only a very small quantity. Some of them are produced on a small scale commercially for the making of flavouring essences, but many were made for the experiments, and must be regarded as laboratory specialities. But obviously this state of affairs is merely temporary. Demand, once realised, will undoubtedly create larger manufacture, and, a matter of more importance from the agricultural point of view, cost is likely to be small.

Miss Browne—"I frankly admit I am looking for a husband."
Mrs. Greene—"So am I."
"But I thought you had one?"
"I have, and I spend most of my time looking for him."

Since "Fruit-a-tives" Brought Relief From Indigestion

MRS. WHITE

It looks almost like magic—the way a wealth of health floods the body under the healing influence of "Fruit-a-tives." Indigestion, Gas and Pain after Eating, Headaches and Constipation simply disappear. As Mrs. E. White of West Toronto, Ont., states: "I suffered from Indigestion for months and could not eat a square meal. Since taking 'Fruit-a-tives' every trace of Stomach Trouble has disappeared. I now eat anything and feel like a new person."

"Fruit-a-tives" will quickly relieve Indigestion and Dyspepsia. 25c. and 50c. a box—at dealers everywhere.

RICHMOND MINUTES

Council met in the Town Hall, Selby, on Nov. 5th, 1928.

The members were all present, the Reeve presiding.

The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.

Moved by A. L. Oliver, seconded by H. Windover, that By-law No. 566, re quarantine of dogs in the Township of Richmond, be and is hereby rescinded. Carried.

Moved by S. J. Mowers, seconded by A. H. Oliver, that Road Pay Sheets for month of October, amounting to $910.82, be passed and cheques issued to various men on pay list.

Treasurer reported $1558.00 received from ditch accounts.

At next meeting on Dec. 4th, all accounts must be in, in order to close the books for the year.

Council was adjourned.

H. A. WOOD, Clerk.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor of The Beaver.

Dear Sir,—The time is opportune for bringing a matter before the electors of Newburgh in which they should be much interested.

For the past two or three years considerable criticism has been leveled at the School Board. To discuss whether this criticism has been justified or not is outside the scope of this letter.

My object is to point out where and how the citizens are delinquent. A citizen and taxpayer, during the past summer, asked the writer how the Trustee Board was appointed. If this is a sample of the want of knowledge that prevails in this matter, it is not much wonder if things happen that are unsatisfactory.

It might not be out of place here to state how the School Board is appointed and how it is composed. Newburgh has a Public and High School, and the Board, having its business management in hand, is called a Board of Education. This Board is composed of twelve members, six are Public and six High School trustees. These all meet together and deliberate on the affairs of both schools. The High School trustees are appointed, three by the County Council and three by the village Council. These are appointed for a term of three years. The Public School trustees are elected by the citizens of the village, and their term expires at the end of two years. The Reeve of the village is consulted by the County Council as to who is the choice for trustee, and he is usually pleased to receive suggestions to help him in that choice.

The same holds true of the Village Council. Any number of citizens may appear before that body and make recommendation as to who they would like appointed on the School Board.

With regard to those elected. The last Wednesday in December is appointed by statute for the nomination of trustees. Of this nomination meeting the notice is given, and this is the meeting where not only those to be elected are chosen, but also where school affairs may be discussed and criticism of its conduct may be offered. But what do we find? The office appointed to conduct this nomination goes to the place appointed and sits throughout the hour without a nomination near him, and he has on many occasions to go out on the street to find some one to come and make the necessary nominations to fill the vacancies. And yet people find fault. The School Board is what people make it, as I have tried to show, and if they show such colossal indifference, what can they expect?

Hoping that some more interest may be manifested in the future, and thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space.

Yours truly,
—Newburgh Citizen.

A Soldier Builds Ships

Joe spends a good deal of time making models of ships. And his old man you say. Wrong. Joe was a soldier, and he isn't very old at all—about 8. But there is something rather serious the matter with Joe. When he was at the front he was wounded in the throat seriously too. "Often before he came to get over a wound, but later on he is known to some extent," says Joe. His experience was that when he took a job he became too excited to hold it, seemed to get worse and worse. And he did even after a while the doctor said it was consumption. Joe is now at the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives, where the kindly doctors and nurses are doing their best to patch up the worn frame and put new life in the wasted lungs. They may succeed, too, for Joe is worth an effort, as his fight is being carried on here with him. Would you like to help in such work? A subscription from you would be much appreciated.

Such may be sent to Hon. W. H. Charlton or A. E. Ames, 25c College Street, Toronto 2, Ontario.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, James A. Bowen, who departed this life on Nov. 26th, 1918.
Ten years have gone but none can tell
The loss of one we loved so well.
One of the best whom God could lend,
Our loving James, our faithful friend;
We cannot, Lord, thy purpose see,
But all is well that's done by Thee.
Ever remembered by Father, Mother, Sisters and Brother. 49ap

WEDDING BELLS

Benn—Benn.

A very quiet and pretty marriage was solemnized at Tamworth United Parsonage on Saturday, Dec. 1st, at 9.30 o'clock a.m., when Mildred Helen, eldest daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Benn, of Marlbank, was united in marriage to Malcolm Wilbert Bush, of Sharp's Corners, second son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bush. Rev. Mr. Beckstead, of Tamworth, Pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The morning was ideal for the occasion, and the young and pretty bride looked sweet in a sky blue chiffon taffeta dress with trimmings of cordelia rose, the same shade, and buckle ornament; shoes and hose of white, hat, gloves and coat of moleskin shade.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mae Benn, sister of the bride, looked very sweet in a dress of mauve crepe de chene, embroidered in silver. Mr. David Garrick, friend of the groom, did the duties of best man.

The bride and groom left immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip to Toronto, Conneaon, and other points west. The bride travelled in a wine colored satin dress with trimmings of cream point d'esprit lace.

The bride will be very much missed in and around Marlbank, as she is well and favourably known, being of a quiet and lovable disposition.

The many friends are awaiting their return when they will give them a warm reception at the 11th of Dec. in the Community Hall, Marlbank.

The groom is a prosperous young farmer of Sharp's Corners, and a host of friends are wishing Mr. and Mrs. Bush bon voyage through life.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

Mrs. P. E. VanLuven and Miss Helen VanLuven, of Napanee, who are spending the winter in New York, were among the guests of honor at the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Jenkins, on the anniversary of their marriage, November 26th, at their home, 67 Riverside Drive, New York. The rooms were elaborately decorated with roses and stands of chrysanthemums, and illuminated with tall gold and orchid candles and clustered lights. Coffee and tea were served from the massive old English silver service, whose century-old Sheffield tray and coffee urn were anniversary gifts to Mrs. Jenkins, who was formerly Miss Elizabeth VanLuven, of Napanee, and whose wedding took place in St. Mary Magdalene Church here three years ago. One of the chief attractions at the reception was her little daughter, Betty, named for her mother.

Among the guests were Admiral Samuel McGowan, U.S. Navy; Mrs. Paulding Foadick, Mrs. Franklin Larkin, Mrs. Hamilton Reynolds, Dr. and Mrs. George F. Kunz, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Massey, Mr. C. H. Gifford, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Watson, Dr. Allen Wull, of Columbia University; Miss Helen McCauley, Miss Marie McNeill, formerly of Napanee; Miss Adelaide Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Matthew Carr, Mr. Dwight Folsom, Mr. and Mrs. Burkardt, Mr. Arthur Pennipan, and many others.

He clears the LINE

IN THE TELEPHONE BUSINESS this man is called a "trouble-shooter," which may sound like sport but it isn't for him.

Any hour of the night he may be roused from sleep. Somewhere the line is down and it is up to him to fix it. Right away.

Usually the line is down because there has been a storm. It isn't much fun to cling to the top of a pole with a zero gale taking your breath away.

FINDING THE BREAK in the line is not as bad as it used to be. It used to mean that men had to trudge along through the storm, perhaps for miles, until the bad spot was found. Today there are delicate instruments which can locate the spot within a few rods from an office many miles away.

They are so accurate that if there is a break in the 180 miles of line between Toronto and Sarnia, a man can sit in a building in Toronto and locate the spot within a pole's length or so. Or a man can sit in a building in Montreal and find a break anywhere between there and Quebec.

He can tell the trouble-shooter almost the very pole to go to because every pole now is numbered.

BUT THE TROUBLE-SHOOTER has to do the actual job and it means more than losing sleep or braving bad weather. It calls for very high technical skill.

Big cables are simply lead containers holding hundreds of tightly packed wires, each fine as a hair. When the cable is burnt out for a stretch, or is opened, there is a fine looking mess. It looks like the stuffing of a hair mattress.

Each of these hundreds of fine wires has to be connected again to its mate in the other half of the cable. If you can imagine youself fingering those wires at two o'clock of a stormy wintry morning you will realize how good the trouble-shooter has to be at his job.

STORMS COST MONEY as well as discomfort. The telephone system has over 675,000 miles of wire strung on poles stretching across 23,000 miles of country and every storm hits some part of the system. A big storm can do a great deal of damage.

Sleet has cost the telephone company as much as a million dollars in one year. Sometimes one storm means spending more than $100,000 without delay.

There is no time to call the directors together. The job has to be done and the money must be spent.

The money is ready because the telephone company has followed a policy of making definite provision for such emergencies.

And the job is done because the telephone business has men and women, like the trouble-shooter, alive to the meaning of service and eager to keep the telephone in the front rank of Canadian progress.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.

LEGENDS OF THE UNICORN.

This Fabulous Creature Is Emblematic of Scotland.

The unicorn which figures in the British Royal Coat of Arms is emblematic of Scotland and was introduced in the Royal Coat of Arms at the time of the Union of Scotland and England.

The unicorn is a purely fabulous creature, having the head of a horse, the hind legs of an antelope, the tail of a lion and sometimes the beard of a goat. The horn which projects from the centre of the forehead is similar to that of a narwhal. Though as a rule savage and quarrelsome, the unicorn at mating-time was said to become very gentle to his mate, which is supposed to have given rise to the medieval idea that the unicorn was subdued to gentleness at the sight of a virgin, and would come and lay his head in her lap, which was the only means by which he could be caught, because of his swiftness and ferocity.

The picture of a unicorn on a drinking cup symbolized an ancient belief of the efficacy of the unicorn's horn (sometimes used as a drinking cup) against poison.

Another medieval legend about the unicorn is that when it stooped to drink from a pool, its horn, dipping into the water, purified and rendered it sweet.

UNDERGROUND RIVERS.

Peak District Honeycombed With Underground Passages.

The Peak District is Britain's land of mystery. Not on the surface, but beneath it—the whole of the country here is honeycombed with underground passages and caverns, through which flow subterranean rivers that occasionally widen out into great lakes.

A certain amount of exploration and experiment has already been carried out, as a result of which we are beginning to know something about this strange underworld. Ultimately, indeed, it is hoped to prepare a map of it. But the latest attempts to solve the mystery of one of Peakland's disappearing rivers, the Hamps, has been unsuccessful.

The river is supposed to flow underground for about five and a half miles, reappearing in the grounds of Ilam Hall. By means of color tests it was proved last year that this happened in the case of the Manifold, a sister stream, but all the tests have been unavailing in the case of the Hamps.

LACE

Earliest Known Was Found In the Tombs of Egypt.

The very earliest lace as we know it is found in the tombs of Egypt, where many of the mummy wrappings have edges that have been twisted into pattern that roughly resembles lace. Later on the idea of crossing and interlacing the threads into a more complicated design suggested itself. It seems that from Venice came the first needlepoint trimmings. The patterns of the design were first of all cut out in linen or parchment, and then over them the actual lace work was done with the needle. Finally the designs were joined together by threads of fine yarn, made into a foundation some thing similar to modern crochet work.

The Venetians of the sixteenth century stood alone in the production of this beautiful lace, worked in so fine a manner that a magnifying glass is required to see the details of the workmanship.

White Coral Houses.

All the houses in Bermuda are white. They are built of the white coral rock of which the whole group of islands is composed. As first taken from the quarry the stone is so soft that it may easily be cut with a knife, but exposure to the air soon hardens it.

When a Bermudian wishes to build himself a house he has only to scrape away the foot or so of soil which overlies the rock which is his building material. The houses are usually roofed with thin slabs of coral and the whole finished with a coat of whitewash.

Many of the inhabitants are negroes, and very black they look against the white background of their homes. The rich verdure of the trees adds its contrasting beauty to the landscape.

Plant Trees for Babies.

At Cooperstown, New York, is a tract of farming land reforested by the enterprise of twelve men as an investment for their children, at a rate of 10 to 30 acres yearly. It is called the "Forest of a Dozen Dads." No man was allowed to invest who did not have children under ten. In Calabria, South Italy, when a dowry is necessary for a good marriage, fathers plant a row of trees for each of their girls when they are babies. By the time the girls are grown up the trees are big enough to cut and sell.

Tomb Lined With Gold.

A tomb in the Chacarita cemetery, near Buenos Ayres, is said to be lined with pure gold and worth $500,000. In addition to the gold lining the tomb contains a small statue of a woman, executed by Bitolli, for which the sculptor is said to have received $250,000. Various religious objects d'art inclosed in the vault are believed to be worth more than $100,000. The floor is a mosaic of small gold blocks, but it was never finished.

World's Rarest Stamp.

The world's rarest stamp is the British Guiana one cent magenta of 1856. There is only one known to exist, and it changed hands a few years ago for £6,770.

COURT OF GOOD DEEDS

ONE OF THE BULWARKS OF BRITISH LIBERTY.

Six Hundred Persons Have Been Saved From Prison by the British Court of Appeal, Which Has Just Attained Its Majority.

It is difficult to realize that, as recently as 1907, if a judge pronounced against your life or liberty his decision was final, whereas if he said you owed a few pounds you could seek the opinion of a higher court if you wished to save your purse, writes Charles Kingston in Answers. But that describes the state of affairs before the Court of Criminal Appeal came into being twenty-one years ago, and with its coming created the greatest revolution in British law for at least two centuries.

During the twenty-one years of the court's existence not more than seven out of every hundred convicted persons have appealed, and the number of frivolous appeals is small. The courts below do their work exceedingly well, but as they are, after all, only human, they are liable to make errors, and besides convicting cases. It is the duty and privilege of the judges of appeal to temper justice with mercy.

Looking through the records I find that since its establishment the Court of Criminal Appeal has quashed about 600 convictions. This means that, but for the Act of 1907, several hundreds of men and women would have had to go to jail for periods varying from six months up to several years. It must not be imagined for a moment that all these persons were innocent. In the majority of cases they were not, but the judges held that they had not had fair trials, or that there was a doubt about their guilt. And we may be sure that among these hundreds there must have been many first offenders who were saved from the abyss by the mercy of the court to which they appealed.

In addition, scores of sentences have been reduced. It is difficult to get absolutely accurate figures, but a rough calculation shows that, had there been no Court of Criminal Appeal between 1907 and 1928, hundreds of convicts would have been deprived of years of liberty aggregating at least a thousand. And we may be sure that the concessions thus made yielded good fruit in innumerable cases, for the convict who feels he has been dealt with leniently invariably makes an effort to reform.

When the Court of Criminal Appeal was instituted, it was generally believed that its duty would be to rectify miscarriages of justice, but the plain fact is that such cases are extremely rare. The imaginative are wont to picture innocent men and women condemned to death, and saved at the last moment by an appeal to the new court, but this has never actually happened during the twenty-one years of its existence.

The most important decision involving the death penalty was not given by the Court of Criminal Appeal, but by the highest of all legal authorities, the House of Lords. I refer to the case of a night watchman—I think that was his occupation—who was found guilty and sentenced to death for the murder of a little girl.

It was admitted by both prosecution and defence that the prisoner had been in a state of complete intoxication at the moment he had committed the crime. Indeed, this was the main plank in the defence, but the jury would have none of it, and the Court of Criminal Appeal confirmed the verdict.

The Attorney-General, however, wished to have a higher ruling and he went to the House of Lords to get a decision on the point as to whether, in the circumstances, the charge should have been manslaughter or murder. The judgment of the Lords was that the prisoner could be found guilty of manslaughter only, as he was incapable of knowing what he was doing at the time.

Every murderer appeals, as a matter of course, but ninety-nine per cent. of the appeals are hopeless, and the hundredth is usually only remarkable because it may involve an intricate point of law.

If it concerned itself with murder trials alone, the court would not be worth the forty days or so it sits each year, but it does a beneficent work in correcting mistakes made in minor cases.

British Actress' £50,000 Eyes.

First legs, now eyes. Recently Mme. Nemchinova, the dancer, had her legs insured for £20,000. Now Miss Mabel Poulton, the young English film star, has had her eyes insured for the same sum. She is also insured against Kiss Eyes, the painful temporary affliction caused by the fierce studio lights, from which many actress actors and actresses suffer now and then.

Miss Pearl White, the film actress, insured for £13,160 a dimple, and M. Paderewski, the pianist, for £12,000 his hands.

A Cinema-Church.

A cinema-church will be opened in London as soon as the Old Lambeth Chapel is transformed for the purpose. Every week-day the hall will be open as a motion picture house, but will be used as a church on Sunday. The venture was conceived by Rev. Thomas Tiplady, superintendent of the Southwark London Mission, of which the Lambeth Chapel is a part.

RAW IMMIGRANT YOUTH WINS HIGHEST PLACE

Sidney Wrightson, 18 years old, an unemployed miner with a mother and two brothers to aid in supporting in Durham County, England, was brought to Canada in 1927 by the Canadian National Railways Colonization Department, and placed on the farm of James Bell, near Kingston, by the British Immigration and Colonization Association. Never having seen a farm before he set to work in earnest to "learn the game", with such success that this year he stood highest in the agricultural judging contest in the county of Frontenac among 45 competitors, in connection with the Ontario Government plan to take 500 boys to the Royal Winter Fair.—Canadian National Railways photograph.

Keep the Drinking Water From Freezing in the Poultry House.

Economical Production Only Attained When Water Is Available

If poultrymen actually knew what it cost them to allow their hens to go without water some of the time there would be fewer fountains dry or frozen.

The proper supplying of water needs more careful attention than it is ordinarily given. A large percentage of the hen's body and a larger percentage of her product is water.

Lack of Water Affects Health.

Failure to supply water regularly naturally hinders digestion and the other body processes. It also markedly decreases egg production. Water fountains dry for only a few hours are apt to cause constipation.

With water the cheapest thing to feed we cannot afford to let it affect the health of the birds or be the limiting factor in the production of the flock.

It sometimes is quite difficult to keep the hens supplied with water in the winter time. A few minutes after the fountains are filled they are apt to be covered with ice during severe weather. This can be avoided by getting drinking fountains with small heaters. The extra expense involved with a heater will be more than made up in the reduction of the flock and in the saving of labor.

There are in use a great many types of drinking vessels. Some of them are very good, others are not good. Drinking fountains should be easy to clean and protect the water from filth, litter and the like.

Plain Drinking Fountains Best.

A regular fourteen quart galvanized pail or earthen ware jar filled in a watering stand is inexpensive and very satisfactory. Holes large easy access to the water and there is little chance of the water getting the dish or contaminated by litter with litter or droppings. This type of water fountain is also usually easy to clean.

Egg production of course depends upon more than just properly supplying water. The hens need a well balanced ration — one that provides the right amount and proper kinds of proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals, and vitamins. This means a scientific combination of a variety of ingredients. It is quite important to keep a good egg mash before the hens as it helps to use either efficiently in the absence of the other.

ODESSA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The November meeting of the Odessa Institute was held in the Library, with a good attendance. Those who were unable to be present missed a real treat. After the usual opening and business, Mrs. Walter J. Snider demonstrated rug making with a Monarch needle and yarn. The mat was a pansy design, and Mrs. Snider had one finished with her as well as the one she demonstrated; also several other mats, one braided, another crocheted and one of used yarn. All were very pretty.

Mrs. Salisbury, President of Camden East Branch, then took the chair, and in place of opening remarks favoured us with a recitation, "The Unmarried's Lady's Thanksgiving".

A very instructive and carefully prepared paper on "The League of Nations", was given by Mrs. A. E. Robinson. This was followed by a recitation, "She's Seeing Her Best Days Now", given by Mrs. G. Black.

A paper on "Sugar From Beet to Bowl", was very interesting, as Mrs. Huff explained each step, one could easily follow till the beet was made into sugar.

Mrs. Dunn displayed and demonstrated the last roll call they had had in their Branch, namely "Inexpensive Xmas Gifts". Many useful ideas could be copied from this display, and patterns were taken of some at the close of the meeting.

A paper prepared and given by Mrs. Geo. Black, on "Social Life in the Community", was full of good suggestions for helping to make our community a better place to live in. We know Mrs. Black will publish her paper so that all Institute workers will have the pripilege of reading if not hearing her give it.

A contest of names of places in Ontario brought everyone together and the ladies from our visiting Branch brought dainty boxes for the highest and lowest. Those were won by Mrs. C. Snider and Mrs. H. Lucas.

Lunch and a social half hour brought to a close a very pleasant and profitable afternoon.

Hot Water Bottles, guaranteed for 3 years at $2.50. A splendid bottle, with a 1 year guarantee, for 89c. There are useful and very acceptable Christmas gifts. See them at Wallace's Drug Store.

DEPTH OF PLOUGHING

Deep ploughing appears to have little merit according to experimental work carried on at the Central Farm, Ottawa. There was no significant difference in the yields of either corn or oats by ploughing seven inches deep as compared with ploughing four inches deep of heavy clay and of sandy loam soils. Corn after sod on heavy soils gave precisely the same yield where the soil was ploughed four inches deep and where it was ploughed three inches deeper. On sandy soils the difference was so little as to be not worth considering, amounting to 25.69 tons after four inch ploughing and 20.90 tons after seven inch ploughing. Oats after corn on heavy clay yielded 65.1 bushels per acre where the soil was ploughed 4 inches deep and 53.5 bushels per acre where it was ploughed seven inches deep. On sandy soil the shallower ploughed land yielded 69.2 bushels and that which was ploughed deeper 64.5 bushels per acre.

Commenting on these results Mr. E. S. Hopkins, the Dominion Field Husbandman, in his report for last year, published by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, expresses the view that there is apparently no object in ploughing excessively deep so long as the work is thoroughly done.

Issued by the Director of Publicity, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.)

Rose or Blue Tinted French Ivory for a girl, makes a most pleasing gift. See her collection, with a mirror +$4.00 to $5.00+, or with perhaps a clock at around $4.00. Lots of smaller articles, too, such as nail file, buttonhook, or picture frame. A very fine showing at Wallace's Drug Store.

THE ROAD TO MANDALAY.

Kipling Referred to Indian Ocean and the Bay of Bengal.

"On the road to Mandalay, where the flying fishes play," wrote Kipling, and by the road to Mandalay he meant the Indian Ocean and the Bay of Bengal. For it is in these regions —and indeed in all tropical regions— that these creatures are found.

There are three distinct varieties of flying fish. The most numerous is the so-called flying herring, with more than fifty species. It is about a foot in length, and is often seen in shoals of many thousands.

The second variety is the flying gurnard, is slightly larger, reaching a foot and a half in length, but is much rarer, only four species being known. It is a cadaverous looking creature with a bony head and many spines.

The marine flying fishes are capable of wonderful feats of aviation. Their flight is not true flight, because they cannot direct it or prolong it; it is really a glide. The fish leaps from the sea into the air and its stiff fins act like the wings of a glider. Their flight is very rapid, and they can cover distances up to 200 feet.

They fly as a rule only when the sea is rough, and usually because they wish to escape their enemies, or because the approach of a boat has frightened them. By day they avoid boats as much as possible, but at night when the sea is rough they often fly on board.

"OIL-ELECTRIC" TRAIN.

Manufactures Its Own Power as It Goes Along.

A train which has puzzled many people has been running over a portion of the L.M.S. Railway in England, says an article in Answers.

It looks like an electric train, and the track over which it has made its journeys is not electrified.

Really, it is an "oil-electric" train, which electrifies the line as it goes along. Its engine-car contains a Diesel oil-engine, which drives generators to supply electric current to the motors. The whole equipment works so simply that there is a saving in labor costs, while the fuel used weighs only an eighth of that required for a steam locomotive.

Here is a real railway revolution. Already exhaustive tests have been made. In Canada, for instance, a Diesel electric train covered the distance between Montreal and Vancouver—2,937 miles—in 67 hours, beating a steam train by 38 hours. Another 934 miles run was accomplished at a speed, on the average, of over sixty miles an hour.

VANISHING PONIES.

Dartmoor Pony Is No Longer a Paying Proposition.

To many people Dartmoor, England, and the hardy Dartmoor ponies go together—they cannot imagine one without the other. And certainly to come by surprise on a herd of these ponies in one of the wilder stretches of moorland is an unforgettable experience.

But the Dartmoor pony is disappearing. At the recent Princetown Fair £3 or £4 was quite a usual price for animals that would have fetched ten times these sums in the old days, and many farmers have been selling their ponies to dealers at thirty shillings or even less apiece.

These prices mean that the Dartmoor pony is no longer a paying proposition. But the situation may be saved by experiments which are now being made in crossing the Dartmoor pony with the Arab, so as to produce a polo pony that will combine speed and stamina.

Scottish Forestry Scheme.

Afforestration in Scotland made an important step forward with the announcement that Puck's Glen, on the Benmore estate, in Argyllshire, is to be made the site of a great Government forestry scheme. When it is completed 20,000 acres will be devoted to woodlands, and in the days to come it will probably support a population engaged in sawmilling and forestry.

The mansion of Benmore is to be turned into a training school for forestry apprentices, and a considerable part opened for the residence of students from all the universities, as well as for those scientific and learned societies, who desire to study conditions in the west.

Prehistoric Relics of Scotland.

Devoted to prehistoric relics found in Scotland, a room has been opened at the Kelvingrove Art Galleries and Museum, Glasgow. The collection embraces every age and stage of cultural development within the Scottish archaeological area. Among the outstanding exhibits are Azilian tools, curious and crude relics of the earliest races of men who inhabited the western seaboard of Scotland; fragments of a kilt or apron found in a Stroma Age deposit, and an aberdeenshire flint-instrument workshop. The centre case in the room contains the striking reconstructions of Hebridean burials of the Bronze Age, complete with skeleton in the typical crouched position.

Johannesburg a City.

Forty-two years ago the site of Johannesburg was a place of bare, rocky ridges, holding a few scattered homesteads. To-day the city has a population of 220,000 white people and 130,000 natives. It was raised to the status of a city quite recently.

Mother's Title.

The title of "Madam" is given in some parts of the United States to a married woman who has raised a daughter-in-law then becomes "Mrs." By this means they avoid the invidious distinction of "Old Mrs. A.," or the Scottish "Mrs. A. senior."

Long Tresses.

Mrs. Elsie Fleming, of Plymstock, near Plymouth, believes she has the longest tresses in England. Her hair is 5 feet 6 inches in length.

—To sufferers of rheumatism, gout, sciatica and neuritis, and uric poisoning, I have a real remedy, certain in results, and quick relief. A harmless and drugless mineral remedy. Call or write MRS. W. M. HENDERSON, Napanee, R.R. 1. 47-8tpf

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Although he hated the very thought of it, a certain young man turned up at the wedding of his best friend. After the ceremony he was introduced to the bride—a girl whom he had never seen before.

"George," he whispered, some few minutes later, "what ever made you marry that? She must be twice as old as you are and she's as ugly as a toad!"

The bridegroom chuckled softly. "You needn't whisper, old chap," he smiled. "She's stone deaf, too!"

For Rheumatic Pains. — The pains and aches of Sciatica and Rheumatism should be treated with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The soothing and healing properties of this famous remedy have been demonstrated for fifty years. Use it also for inflammatory pains, cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains, either in human beings or the lower animals.

The doctor coughed gravely.

"I am sorry to tell you," he said, looking down at the man in the bed, "that there is no doubt you are suffering from small-pox."

The patient turned on his pillow and looked up at his wife.

"Julia," he said in a faint voice, "if any of my creditors call, tell them that at last I am in a position to give them something."

For Both House and Stable.—There is a good deal of similarity, physically speaking, between human beings and the lower animals. Both are subject to many ailments from inflammation and to all manner of cuts and bruises. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is an entirely reliable remedy for all these ailments and mishaps in both human beings and the lower orders of animals.

At a certain French university the students, who had been studying Shakespeare in their native tongue, were requested by an examiner to translate into English the opening lines of Hamlet's soliloquy: "To be or not to be."

The following was the result. The First Frenchman declaimed, "To was or not to am". The second rendered it, "To were or is to not"; while the third gave a still more liberal reading, "To should or not to will".

Many mothers have reason to bless Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, because it has relieved the little ones of suffering and made them healthy.

A clergyman, who had given up his former position as a magistrate in order to enter the church, was conducting his first marriage service.

"Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" he said to the bride.

The bride answered eagerly: "I will."

"And you," he continued, addressing the bridegroom, "what have you to say in your defence?"

Whether the corn be of old or new growth, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Cure.

"What is the point at issue in the case of Jaggs v. Henderson, which has been dragging through the courts so long?" "The trouble began over the ownership of a dog. The litigation has been going on for six years, and has cost the parties £400 so far."

"Who will get the dog eventually, do you think?"

"The dog? Oh, he died early in the second year."

Miller's Worm Powders act mildly and without injury to the child, and there can be no doubt of their deadly effect upon worms. They have been in successful use for a long time and are recognized as a leading preparation for the purpose. They have proved their power in numberless cases and have given relief to many children, who, but for the good effects of this compound, would have continued weak and enfeebled.

"Whinever I read in a sermon," said Mr. Dooley, "that th' wurruld is goin' to pot, that th' foundations iv government is threatened, that the whole fabric iv civilized s'ciety is in danger, that humanity is in th' down grade an morality is blinkin', that men are becomin' dhrunkards an' women gamblers, an' that th' future iv the race is distruction, I can always console meself with wan thought."

"What's that?" asked Mr. Hennessey.

"It ain't so," said Mr. Dooley.

Dust Causes Asthma. Even a little speck too small to see will lead to agonies which no words can describe. The walls of the breathing tubes contract and it seems as if the very life must pass. From this condition Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy brings the user to perfect rest. It relieves the passages and normal breathing is firmly established again. Hundreds of testimonials received annually prove its effectiveness.

Schoolboy (to old gent)—"Buy a ticket for a motor car, mister?"

Old Gent—"But I don't want a motor car, young man."

Schoolboy—"That's all right, mister; maybe you won't win it."

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great booster of Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

THE TYPISTS' CENTENARY.

"Burt's Family Letter Press" Appeared One Hundred Years Ago.

The first typewriter, for which it was triumphantly claimed that "it could print almost as fast as one could write with an ordinary pen," appeared just a hundred years ago. The machine was known, rather grandiloquently, as "Burt's Family Letter Press," and was built by an American, William Burt.

It was heavy, cumbersome, and made usually of wood, says an article in Tit-Bits. The modern typist, who delights in her "feather-touch" machine, would be justified in wondering how the inventor could possibly have viewed the offspring of his creative brain with anything but dismay. Nevertheless, Burt was so proud of his "typographer" that he "printed" a long letter to his wife on it, extolling his own cleverness in no uncertain terms.

The next typewriter was devised by an Englishman, who produced it solely for the benefit of the blind. Many machines of improving construction followed it in fairly rapid succession. Each had one or more new features which have been used by makers of the more modern typewriters.

The first real attempt to produce a machine which would write faster than the pen was made by two Americans named Sholes and Glidden, whose product was put on the market in 1878. It was built of metal and, except for the fact that it printed only capital letters, had much in common with the most improved typewriters of to-day.

Other types of machine, such as the "ball" and "radial," found favor for a time, but were eventually beaten off the market by the more practical qualities of the type we know to-day. The earlier models, of course, had the letters of the alphabet arranged in their due order, and not, as now, to meet the exigencies of rapid word-making. Many of them, too, had piano keys instead of small buttons.

The inventors of those early oddities would be surprised indeed could they see the modern typewriters, of which their crude efforts were the forerunners. Apart from the portable models, there are machines which can be adapted to take any keyboard, and others which will enter figures in a ledger and add up the column at the foot of the page.

One of the first typewritten business letters drew this reply from its recipient: "You don't need to print letters for me. I can read writing."

THE RADIO ROMANCE.

Wireless Phone for Missionaries 2,000 Miles Away.

Hullo, GZD! Hullo, LMS Beru! Ocean Island speaking. Stand by for a few minutes, please— I have a message for you.

This wireless message recently thrilled two missionaries waiting with their ear-phones in Beru, in the Gilbert Islands, 1,000 miles north of Fiji and 2,000 miles east of New Guinea, says the London Chronicle.

They were using for the first time the wireless set taken out last year by Rev. G. H. Eastman of Long Melford, Suffolk, England, who has been for ten years in the islands, and they were awaiting a call from Ocean Island, 400 miles away.

"This was undoubtedly the moment of the year," writes home Mr. Eastman's companion, Rev. W. A. Levett of Sutton, Surrey, who went out in 1923.

"A few preliminary howls, some wireless road-hog sending Morse over the legala speed limit, a queer parrot-like squawking that resolves itself into a distant, rather casual voice, the outside world, actually speaking to Beru!

"The John Williams' (the mission ship)," says the voice, "arrived here from Nauru and left again for Beru. On board there was Rev. and Mrs. Hannah and child . . ."

For the first time in history missionaries are now able to receive definite information before a ship's arrival and of its whereabouts. No longer are they dependent upon the infrequent arrival of a ship at Beru for messages of urgent importance, despatched weeks or even months before.

THE FAMILY FACE.

Characteristic Family Features Crop Up for Generations.

It is remarkable for how many generations and with what frequency characteristic family features will crop up. It is especially noticeable where there is a peculiarity of nose, lips or profile.

A striking example of this persistency is seen in the facial type of the Hapsburg dynasty, distinguished by a projecting jaw, prominent nose, thick lower lip and bulging eyes. The heavy jaw first appeared with Rudolph I., the first monarch of the Hapsburg line, who came to the throne in 1273. His descendants, Ernest I., Leopold III., Ferdinand II., and Maximilian showed the same marked characteristic. When Maxmilian married Marie of Burgundy, the other peculiarities were acquired.

Comparisons made by the Selentist Galippe, of 260 pictures of persons of this house, showed that the family characteristics had perpetuated themselves throughout more than four centuries, and through intermarriages into Spanish, Portuguese, French and Italian lines.

Prehistoric Observatory.

A prehistoric astronomical observatory which it is estimated was constructed 4,000 years before Christ, has been unearthed at Buetzow (Mecklenburg). The observatory is in the form of circles of stones which served for the observation of the annual circuit of the sun and also as a calendar.

Fifty-One Active Volcanoes.

Japan possesses fifty-one active volcanoes, more than any other country in the world.

The happy merchant

Never before in the history of the world has it been possible for a merchant in good credit to do so much business with so little capital locked up in stock.

One important reason for the present prosperity is, that instead of having to buy a big stock at the beginning of each season, he is now able to buy small stocks and replenish them promptly by Long Distance.

Keep your customers for miles around coming to you for whatever they need. Invent ways of inducing them to visit your store, or to order from you by Long Distance and — they tell us —you will not be seriously bothered by competition.

Long Distance is making happy merchants in some towns. Don't overlook its great possibilities.

Cast of 200 in Rotarada Revue.

The Belleville Rotarians this year have decided on something entirely new and novel in the way of a production to procure funds for their crippled children's work in the form of a big spectacle, "The Rotarada", which will be presented in the auditorium of the new Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School for five nights, commencing Tuesday, December 4th, at 8.15 p.m. The cast is composed of 200 young people and will be elaborately staged under the direction of Chas. W. Eddy, of New York City, assisted by Miss Miriam L. Eddy. The Belleville Rotary Club having learned of the wonderful success this production received in New York, decided to invite Chas. W. Eddy to reproduce this revue for the benefit of the people of Belleville and vicinity. The Rotarada is a musical revue composed of fancy dances and drills, gems from light operas and musical comedies, refined specialties, stage pictures, bright comedy and grand ensembles. Rehearsals are being conducted daily at the local Y.M.C.A.

A SONG OF YULETIDE

By H. Reginald Hardy.

It's coming nigh to Christmas,
And it's time to show a smile,
To gather up your pouches
And forget them for a while;
To sweep your heart of memories
That are bitter and untrue,
To recollect the days gone by
The friends that once you knew.

The years are slipping by you
And it's time to stop and think;
That friendships you have pushed
Have been broken, link by link;
Then greet the ones remaining
With a message from the heart,
For it's coming nigh to Christmas
And you ought to do your part.

If this life has brought you largess
And the ones you love are loyal,
If your dreams have seen fulfillment
And success has crowned your toil,
Then remember there are others
Who have somehow missed the road,
Pass the word to cheer them onwards,
Lend a hand to ease their load.

If the world has used you poorly
And you're feeling mighty blue,
And you think that there is surely
Nothing left for you to do,
Just recall that there is beauty
In this world that's needed, true,
Grit your teeth, fulfill your duty,
Battle on, be not afraid!

For there's always those whose troubles
Make your own seem vain and small;
Hold your head a little higher,
You may triumph after all.
Spread a ray of golden sunshine
As you take the road anew,
For it's coming nigh to Christmas,
And you've wondrous work to do!

—H. Reginald Hardy,
546 Driveway West,
Ottawa, Ont.

OBITUARY

Ellen Card.

One of the most highly respected residents of Napanee, in the person of Mrs. John Card, passed away at her son's residence, Lot Card, Graham St. on Sunday, Nov. 26th. Mrs. Card was in her ninety-first year, the widow of the late John Card, who predeceased her four years ago. She was apparently in her usual health until four weeks before her death. Her death is keenly felt by all who knew her, and in her death her family lost a kind and loving mother. The good influence exerted by her will be a lasting tribute to her memory, as it manifests itself in the lives of her sons and daughters, who are a creditable living witness to the wise counsel and careful training of a father and loving mother, who was dearly loved by them all.

Mrs. Card leaves to mourn her loss three sons and six daughters, Mrs. Jerome Wagar, Bantry, North Dakota; Mrs. James Welch, Mrs. Johnson Graham, Mrs. A. E. Smith, Mrs. R. Walters, and Miss Ella Card and Mr. Levi Card, of Napanee, and Mr. Almon Card, of Belvoir, Sask., and Murney Card, of Watertown, N.Y.

The funeral was held at her son's residence, Graham St., and was conducted by Rev. W. P. Woodger, of Grace United Church, proceeding thence to Moscow to the family plot, and the remains were laid beside those of her late husband. The floral tributes were lovely. Those who gave flowers:—C.N.R. employees, a spray; the A. O. S. S. Class of Grace Church, a spray of carnations; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, a spray; the family, wreath; Mrs. Joe Goslin, Mrs. Percy Wells, Mr. Robert Graham and Mr. Reginald Smith, the grandchildren, a spray.

Rose or Blue Tinted French Ivory, for a girl, makes a most pleasing gift. Start her collection, with a mirror ($4.00 to $5.00); or with perhaps, a clock at around $4.00. Lots of smaller articles, too, such as nail file, button-hook, or picture frame. A very fine showing at Wallace's Drug Store.

NOTICE

The Township Council of South Fredericksburgh will hold its final meeting for 1928 on Saturday, December 15th, at 10 o'clock a.m.

All parties interested will govern themselves accordingly.

GEORGE T. HAM, 50a Clerk.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Under and by virtue of the power contained in two certain mortgages, which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction, subject to a reserve bid, on Saturday, January 5th, 1929, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at the office of T. B. German, 60 John Street, Napanee, Ontario, the following property, namely:

All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Richmond, in the County of Lennox and Addington, and Province of Ontario, containing by admeasurement one hundred acres, be the same more or less, being composed of the whole right of way heretofore conveyed to the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada for the purpose of their road.

The above is a valuable and attractive farm property, situate in a very desirable locality, and has erected thereon exceptionally good buildings and other improvements.

The property will be offered, subject to conditions of sale, which will be produced at the time of sale.

Terms of Sale:—15 per cent. of the purchase money to be paid down at the time of sale, and the balance to be paid within 10 days thereafter.

For further particulars and conditions of sale, apply to T. B. German, Barrister-at-Law, Napanee, Ontario.

T. B. GERMAN, 50d Solicitor for Mortgagee.

WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS WILL GIVE RECITAL HERE

Under the distinguished patronage of H. E. the Governor General, Lord Willingdon, the Westminster Glee Singers will give a recital here, in Grace United Church, on Saturday, Dec. 29th, 1928, afternoon and evening.

This body of Singers enjoys a unique reputation. It is composed of men and boys selected specially from the greatest of English Cathedral Choirs and constitutes a complete choir with a repertoire of one hundred and fifty pieces.

Some of the finest voices from Westminster Abbey, St. George's, Windsor, Christ Church Cathedral, and old St. Paul's are included in the organization which was established by Edward Branscombe, formerly and for ten years solo tenor at Westminster Abbey, for a tour of the British Empire.

Recently the Westminster Glee Singers completed two years' travel in Australia, New Zealand, and India, and they are going to Australia again, this time via Canada in response to an insistent public demand. During their tour they gave 625 performances.

The soloists include such noted singers as Edward Branscombe, himself, Donald Reid, solo alto at St. Paul's Cathedral, in addition to a marvellous body of boys' voices, composed of choristers representing the finest type of English Cathedral singing.

The programmes are made up of all sorts of secular music that Cathedral singing can illustrate, and will include madrigals, glees, part-songs, solos with vocal accompaniments, numbers for boys' voices only, and male quartettes. The Westminster Glee Singers make their principal appeal through the secular music they sing, but the sacred music is none the less typical of English Cathedral choir singing at its best.

The work of the choir has been marked for its perfection of balance of tonal values, the beauty of expression, splendor of sonority, and absolute coordination and precision, particularly in the unaccompanied features.

Whether in the boys' singing, or in the men's work, or in the combined performance of the complete choir, those who know something of the beauties of English Cathedral song will find rare and precious memories when they hear this body of singers.

Afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, adults 50c., children 25c.

Evening, at 8.15 o'clock, tickets $1.00, 75c. and 50c.

STANDARD TRAINING SCHOOL FOR S. S. WORKERS

The second school for the training of Sunday School teachers of Lennox and Addington was held last week in Trinity Church, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, Director, and Rev. J. Becket, Secretary. Four courses were offered. One in Old Testament, by Rev. A. J. Wilson; one in the Life of Christ, by Rev. H. Pawson; one in the conduct of Young People's work, by Rev. J. E. Beckel, and one in the Training of the Devotional Life, by Rev. W. P. Woodger.

Altogether sixty-two people attended the school; thirty-two were registered and attended all the classes. Two hours' teaching were included in each course.

On Friday evening interim certificates were granted all those who had successfully written on the exams.

This is the second school of its kind to be held in the district, and the success of it seems to point to its continuance as an annual feature of our church life.

It was decided to hold a similar school next fall about the same time.

ODESSA

John Saul, of Winnipeg, spent last Thursday renewing old acquaintances. He enjoyed very much visiting his childhood home and friends. Mr. Saul's business ability and success has been wonderful. He owns forty houses in Winnipeg, and has possessions up in the seven figures. Mr. and Mrs. Saul expect to leave soon to spend the winter months with their daughter in Los Angeles, California.—Mr. and Mrs. Charley Dewey and son, Hubert, and Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor, Camden East, spent Sunday with Mrs. Dewey's brother, Mr. Daniel McConnell. — Harry Coy, Toronto, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Davy. On his return home he was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Davy, who usually spend the winter months with him.—Oswald Snider has returned from spending a few days with his brother, Bert Snider, Belleville. And his sister, Mrs. Sharpe, Toronto.—Mr. and Mrs. Garland Snider and Mr. and Mrs. Atkin Snider have returned from visiting relatives in Watertown and Syracuse. — Mrs. Bon Emmon's many friends were pleased to hear that she returned last Sunday from the Kingston General Hospital, after a serious operation for appendicitis.—Mrs. James Burns' many friends will be interested to know that she is improving nicely, after a serious operation in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston. Mrs. Burns was formerly Miss Angie Taylor, of Odessa, but now lives in Erinsville.—Mr. French, who purchased the farm known as the late Robert Breden farm from James Dawson, about a year ago, (after the brick house had been destroyed by fire), has built the new brick house on the same foundation, which is nearing completion.

Hunts, Neilsons, and Smiles n'Chuckles!

In there three famous makes of Chocolates is embodied the art and skill of Canada's finest Candy makers. Priced from 30c. for half pound, up, to $6.00 for larger packages, and everyone guaranteed fresh. See the display at Wallace's.

KING'S FEVER PERSISTS

Signs in His Lung Improve, But Infection Affects Condition of Heart

During the early hours of Tuesday morning nothing was learned at Buckingham Palace of any change in King George's condition since the evening bulletin, which roused anxiety in all parts of the realm.

There was obviously deep disquietude however, especially in view of the intimation from the King's physicians that the strain on his heart had been increased by a return of the general infection. There was no doubt that those attending the King were having an anxious time.

The prevailing uneasiness was so fully reflected in the early editions of the morning papers which, without expressing at the time an alarmist view, did not conceal their anxiety.

A late special edition of The Daily Express said that the King early Tuesday morning was sleeping quietly, and that his condition was unchanged.

Situation Reversed.

Palace officials Monday night were said, in a semi-official statement, to be disquieted by the "reversed" by the King. They took note of the fact, reported in the night bulletin, that the general infection has returned in some measure.

At the end of last week the physicians were able to report that the infection which had spread throughout the system of their Royal patient had become localized, and that the King therefore was in a safer position. This situation has now been reversed, the spread of poison from the infected lung to other parts of the system must have an effect on the heart, which has already undergone the strain of three weeks' serious illness, and concern accordingly made itself felt.

Improvement in Lung.

The evening bulletin was rather more informative than recent public statements, and still dwelt upon the strain which prolongation of the infection is placing on the heart. It reads: "His Majesty had a quiet day. The signs in the lung have improved. The fever persists, although it is not so high as last evening, and is due to some return of the general infection, which necessarily affects the condition of the heart."

Last night, at 8.15 o'clock, the King's condition was again called into consultation. The above bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, Sir E. Farquhar Buzzard, Sir Humphrey Rolleston and Lord Dawson, of Penn.

VETERANS ORGANIZE

Due to the untiring efforts of Captain A. S. Hughson, who has for years advocated such a move, the veterans of the district met at the Paisley Hotel last Wednesday evening to hear Mr. Shields, the Provincial Secretary of the Canadian Legion, speak on the objects and aims of his great organization.

After discussion, the ex-service men present unanimously decided to organize, for there is much work which should be undertaken and still to be done for the Veterans in this district. It was decided to elect temporary officers and the branch got well under way.

The officers elected were :—William Davis, President; Frank Byrd and George Vincent, Vice Presidents; Grant Paul, Secretary Treasurer; and an Executive composed of A. S. Hughson, J. A. MacGillivray, Harry Skitch, Berne Napolis, and J. G. Pollard.

All veterans in the district are cordially invited to interview any of these officers with a purpose of affiliation. In union there is strength, and the good to be done requires a strong body.

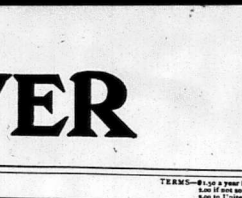
More information of the work of the Branch will be published in this column from time to time.

DESERONTO

A very successful bazaar was held on Dec. 7th, in Mrs. Foster's old store, under the patronage of the Woman's Guild of St. Mark's Church, Deseronto. The stalls were tastefully decorated and did a rushing business during the afternoon. Mrs. Radcliffe was in charge of the Home Cooking Table; Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Seales and Mrs. Henderson, Fancy Work and Glass Table; Mrs. Rowland, Apron Table; the Misses Valeria Henderson, Mary Gaylord, and Marguerite Amey, the Candy Table; Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Campbell, Fish Pond; Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. M. Oliver and Mrs. Pratt, the Tea Room. It was a busy, happy spot, and all went home well satisfied. The proceeds were most satisfactory, and the hard work and its management reflected great credit on Mrs. Foster's son, the President, and her splendid band of workers. The best thanks of the officers are due to Mrs. Foster who donated so liberally and kindly to the bazaar. Among the out-of-town visitors we noticed the Rev. Herbert and Mrs. Pringle, of Tyendinaga.

Waterman's Ideal Pens and Pencils at Wallace's.

All the new styles and shades in Waterman's! You'll have to see them to appreciate the marvelous beauty of these new pens and pencils. And, considering the quality and beauty of them, you'll wonder, too, at the reasonable prices. Regular pens $2.75; others from $4.00 to $7.00, at Wallace's, headquarters for both Waterman's and Parker's.



THE TIME IS SHORT

Christmas always seems to come quicker than we expect it. There is so much to be done in the last few days, presents to be bought, house to be decorated, cards to be mailed, and the hundred and one other things we all do to make Christmas a time of real cheer.

When making out the list of those to whom you will send presents, don't forget the kiddies in Nanapee who but for you will have no one to remember them.

The Beaver Santa Claus Fund undertakes to provide a Christmas for all the children in Napanee who would not otherwise be remembered.

Scientifically and carefully each case is investigated, then gifts are prepared for all according to their need, warm underwear for some, shoes for others, rubbers for still others, warm mittens, and a little stocking of Christmas candies and fruit for all.

A dollar given to this cause is spent a hundred per cent. for the purpose to which it is contributed. All amounts acknowledged through The Beaver.

Please delay no longer, but leave your contribution at this office and gladden the heart of some child at Christmas.

The following have contributed since our last publication :—

TAMWORTH

The Reidville Cemetery Committee met on Wednesday evening last at the home of Mr. R. J. Wilson, to consider plans for carrying out the work of improving the cemetery grounds. Among other matters it was decided to have an accurate chart of the cemetery made before the work is proceeded with.—There are a large number of people in this visinity ill with la grippe, and some cases of flu, some whole families being down with this epidemic. —The annual Christmas entertainment, under the auspices of the United Church Sunday School is to be held on Saturday evening, the 22nd inst.—Mr. and Mrs. T. Clark were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Dowling.—Services will be held on the United Church Circuit on Sunday next, at Marlbank, Reidville and Tamworth, morning, afternoon and evening, as named.

NEWBURGH

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shorey, of Canifton, spent part of Sunday with Mrs. S. Shorey.

Miss Lulu Fluke had charge of the League meeting on Tuesday evening, and discharged her duties very acceptably.

On Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 5th, the members of the W. M. Auxiliary of the Newburgh United Church met at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins and Mrs. Ferris. After the opening hymn, Miss H. M. Paul offered prayer. Two chapters in the study book were summarized by Miss Keough and Miss Paul, and the Scripture lesson was read by Miss Yeomans. An interesting part of the meeting was the presentation of Life Membership certificates to Mrs. Shorey and Miss Yeomans, by Miss E. Paul and Mrs. Anderson. Mrs. Jos. Ramsay and Mrs. Tompkins sang a duet, "Dear Spirit, Lead Me", which was enjoyed by all present. As it was the day to elect the officers for the coming year, it was decided that the Secretary cast a ballot for all the present officers to be re-elected. The meeting was closed with the singing of "Silent Night, Holy Night" and prayer by Miss E. Paul. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Tompkins and Mrs. Ferris for their kind hospitality.

Mr. Charles Carter and Mr. Frank Gerow attended the cheesemakers' convention at Belleville, where many good things were presented which will aid them in th art of cheesemaking.

Mr. Hawley Kingston, representing the National Groceries Company, is at the hotel, taking the Xmas orders.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. have engaged rooms at the Stone's Hotel for Wednesday night, and are putting on a show in the Town Hall.

At the last meeting of the Village Council, the new Community Hall was formally accepted, and a motion of appreciation to the donor, Sir Alan Aylesworth, was also passed.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wartman recently motored to Oshawa, and visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Detlor.

Miss Leah Ramsay, who has been organist in the United Church for the past few years, has accepted a similar position in the church at Madoc and assumed her duties the first of December. Her many friends in Newburgh wish her success in her new field. Before leaving she was given a farewell party and presented with a wrist watch, a token of deep regard from her Newburgh friends.

Mr. Miles, a much respected resident of our village, passed away on Wednesday, Dec. 6th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. M. Walker. Mrs. Miles had reached the age of 86 years. A few weeks ago her body weakened with age, she remained in bed and gradually grew weaker until death claimed her. She was tenderly cared for by her only daughter. Much sympathy will extend sympathy in her hour of bereavement. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Spencer, of the Anglican Church, of which the deceased was a member. The remains were laid to rest in the Camden East cemetery. Two sons of Mrs. Miles also survive, and are residents of Detroit. Both attended the funeral on Friday, Dec. 7th.

Mrs. Reid, of Kingston, was in the village on Sunday, and attended the services in the Free Methodist Church. Her daughter, Miss Bessie Reid, is in Cluna on Mission work. Rev. E. J. Lee, of Kingston District, Elder, and Rev. Mr. Burnham, assisted in the services. Many from Kingston, Odessa, Harrowsmith, Napanee and Verona attended these services.

The new Free Methodist Church was opened for services on Sunday. A large crowd gathered for each service. Mr. Vanest, of Syracuse, was the chief speaker, and will conduct services each night this week and next week in the church. Liberal collections were given at each service.

Mr. and Mrs. Frink, Mr. and Mrs. Crain and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Craig were with Mr. and Mrs. James Wartman, part of Sunday.

A "White-gift" service "for the King" will be held in the United Church on Sunday evening, Dec. 23rd.

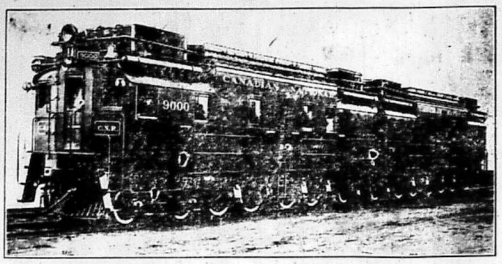
Canadian National Engineers Design Oil-Electric Locomotive



Radical economy in operating costs forms the prime objective of the Canadian National Railways newest design in locomotives, representing a revolutionary departure from present standards and practice, which has just been placed in service on the main line between Brockville and Belleville. This new locomotive presents a tremendous advance in the use of the oil-electric type of locomotive and forms a distinctive offering on the part of Canadian engineers towards the solution of the transportation problems of this continent. As the National system was the pioneer three years ago in placing in service the first oil-electric car of 200 horse-power rating, its engineers have maintained leadership by the introduction of this locomotive, new in character and design, for fast passenger and freight service.

The new locomotive is the further practical application of the use of fuel oil in railway transportation in which an oil engine is used to drive a generator for supplying electrical energy to the propulsion motors. Power and speed are obtained at costs far below those of coal-fired steam-driven locomotives.

The power developed by the oil engine is converted into electrical energy by the generator, transmitted to the traction motors geared to the driving axles, where it is utilized in developing traction effort and speed. With the present gear ratio, which was laid out for high speed passenger service, the locomotive will develop a tractive effort of 100,000 pounds during the accelerating periods. The electrical system of transmission utilizes full engine horse-power over a wide range of speed and tractive effort without a change of engine speed or shifting of gears.

Students' Council.

At a recent meeting of the Students' Council, a resolution of thanks was moved to the Napanee Musical and Literary Society for their kind presentation of the balance due on the piano purchased by the students a couple of years ago, and the following letter was forwarded by the Secretary:—

Mrs. J. W. Robinson,
Secretary of Ladies' Musical and Literary Society,
Napanee, Ontario.

Dear Mrs. Robinson.—At a meeting of the Students' Council held yesterday, a very hearty vote of thanks to the Napanee Ladies' Musical and Literary Society was moved and carried, due to the kindness of the Society in presenting the piano to the school.

I have much pleasure in forwarding this vote of thanks to you.

Yours sincerely,
Evelyn D. Anastine,
Secretary.

A vote of thanks was also tendered to Preston Gilbride, an ex-pupil of the Collegiate for a donation of three years of the magazine, "Sport Stories".

Annual School Concert.

The annual concert will be held in the Collegiate Assembly Room and Gymnasium on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 19th and 20th. This concert, as in the past two years, will take the form of a demonstration of the work done in the physical training, dramatic, music, and singing classes of the Collegiate. These classes, with exception of the physical training classes, are conducted after classes each day, and do not conflict in any way with the regular classes. The boys and girls are also attending extra classes in the gymnasium in preparation for the concert. The gymnasium work will consist of calisthenics, marches and drills, Indian club swinging and wand drills, apparatus work, pyramid building, tumbling and folk dancing. This part of the program will represent a great deal of practice on the part of the girls and boys taking part and while many of the movements may appear simple, they only do so as the result of practice.

The Collegiate Orchestra has been practising every week and will have several numbers to present. The Glee Club will not be so much in evidence this year, as they are practising an operetta which they intend to present in the new Town Hall, in February. However, a part song or two will be sung by the boys and a Pennant chorus by the girls. The Dramatic Club is presenting the "Story of The Pound of Flesh", adapted from "The Merchant of Venice". This has required a great deal of practice on the part of the members of the caste, and will be one of the major attractions next week.

As the proceeds from these concerts are the only means the pupils have of financing these extra-curriculum activities, it is hoped that the parents and friends of the pupils will purchase the tickets which are on sale now. So far, by the aid of the student fund, and the extra work of the teachers after hours, the pupils have been able to secure free lessons in physical training, orchestral work, singing, and dramatic production of good plays.

Mrs. Mainwaring's Management

A farce comedy play will be given in the North Fredericksburgh Town Hall, on Thursday evening, Dec. 13th, at 8 o'clock, by Violet Dramatic Club, under the auspices of the Maple Leaf Women's Institute. Admission 35c, children 25c. Watch for bills. 49b

Bazaar and Play.

On the afternoon of Dec. 13th, the annual bazaar of the A. O. T. S. Club will be held in the basement of Grace United Church. In the Ladies' department—Homemade articles, both fancy and useful; home cooking sale; afternoon tea served. In the Men's department—woodenware, cabinets, sewing cabinets, candle sticks, mirrors, medicine cabinets, etc. In the evening the comedy drama, "Cranberry Corners", will be presented by members of the class. Everyone reserve the date and everyone come. 49b

PLANTS ARE GOOD DOCTORS.

Are a Valuable Guide In Health Matters.

Have you a plant in your home which is not flourishing? If so, there is probably a reason, which you would be well advised, for the benefit of the health of the members of your household, to seek, for plants are a valuable guide in health matters.

If a room is so badly ventilated and dark that plants will not flourish in it, it is certainly not a healthy living room for human beings. Plants, too, are very sensitive, and quickly react to any poisonous gases there may be in the air.

Leakage of gas, faulty drains, and the like may gradually contaminate the atmosphere of the house without the occupants being aware that there is anything wrong; but plants will soon detect and give warning when the air is impure.

As an example of the value of keeping plants in a house as a guide to health, a begonia in full bloom was placed on the table in a living apartment of a London dwelling-house. In three days the flowers had drooped, the buds lost their color, and many of the leaves died.

The householders, little thinking there was anything amiss, received another plant to replace the begonia, but the same thing happened when it was placed on the table. The household could not account for the strange occurrence, but a visitor suggested that there might be a slight escape of gas.

When the floor was taken up, a leak was discovered in one of the pipes. It was of a trifling nature, but nevertheless sufficient to poison the air of the room above.

The begonia justified its claims to be a "detector" in health matters by flourishing as soon as the leaky gas pipe had been put in order.

EMPTYING GOLDEN STOCKINGS.

French National Bank Forced to Stop Buying Up Hoardings.

In August, 1914, the French people were asked by the Government to exchange voluntarily for notes the gold and silver coins they possessed. More than £500,000,000 was received by the Bank of France, but it has been estimated that at least another £500,000,000 in gold and silver was hoarded.

Then, after the recent stabilization of the franc, the Government announced that the coins, which were withdrawn from circulation, were to be bought by the Bank of France at the rate of 84.45 francs for the gold louis of 20 francs, and 10 francs for the five-franc silver piece.

This was the signal for hoarders all over France to empty their "stockings." So much gold and silver poured in that the Bank of France and the Government offices had temporarily to cease buying it.

STARTLING TOILETTES.

Frock Covered With Etched Design of the Gay City.

Some startling toilettes have recently appeared in Paris. One woman was seen in a pale silk frock covered with a lightly-etched design which was a map of the Gay City.

Amid the tracery of the boulevards and avenues with their outstanding features—the Louvre, Notre Dame, Arc de Triomphe and so on — the pale green Seine looped the loop across her back, winding from the city island to the Bois de Boulogne.

A handsome woman, who owns a racing stable, was in white silk, upon which were embroidered, in colors, horses and jockeys racing towards a winning-post.

A professional dancer had her own figure in airy pose painted on the border of her flounced skirt and sleeves.

PEKING IS ON WANE.

Is Disintegrating Following Transfer of Capital to Nanking.

Under the rule of the Nationalists Peking is becoming a mere shadow of its former self. Foreign and Chinese residents of the great city, capital of China for centuries, are mournfully watching the slow but definite disintegration now in process.

The blame is not placed upon the Nationalists but upon circumstances, for the transfer of the capital from Peking to Nanking was not purely a political move but a practical one. Nevertheless, Peking was never a commercial centre and depended on politics for its greatness. Now that the seat of government has been moved elsewhere the slow destruction of Peking is regarded as inevitable.

A Living Museum.

A "Museum Village," inhabited by people dressed according to the period to which the particular structure belongs, is being built at Dearborn, U.S.A.

The people will go about their business in the way their ancestors did, using the furniture and tools associated with the ancient homes and crafts. The idea is that an active demonstration of things is to be preferred to "dead museums."

Ancient buildings and dwellings will be grouped round an English style village green, and one notable sight will be a tenth-century cottage bought in the Cotswolds.

Police Bathe Gypsies.

A special "soap and water squad" of police has been named to take charge of bathing the gypsy pickaninnies of the Czechoslovakian prairies.

For the first time in history a school has been established near Ungvar for gypsy children. The experiment has proved that if enough playtime is included in the scholastic program the younger generation of nomads becomes tractable.

Everything went well until the teachers tried to launch the idea of taking a bath. The pupils rebelled and it was finally necessary to call for official help.

Book-keeper—"I would like a little more salary, sir. You see, I'm married now, sir—"

Employer—"And need the increase for your family?"

Book-keeper—"No, sir; for myself. You see my wife knows just what I'm getting now!"

NEWBURGH

The following motion was adopted by the Village Council at its regular meeting held 3rd inst., 1928:—

Moved by Ward R. Wartman, seconded by C. G. Walker, and resolved, that as the Hon. Sir Allen Aylesworth, K.C.M.G., who was born in this village, and educated at Newburgh Academy, has bought and fitted up at his own expense, the building in which this Council is now sitting, and has had the land and building conveyed to this municipality for use as a Town Hall and for other public purposes,

And as this gift has been made to the municipality by Sir Allen in memory of his grandfather, Job Aylesworth, and of his father, John Bell Aylesworth, and of other members of their family, (which has been resident here for nearly one hundred years),

Be it resolved, that on behalf of the Municipality of the Village of Newburgh, this Council formally accepts the said conveyance and gift, thanking the giver; and directing the Clerk to record in the Minutes of Council, the fact that among the early pioneers who first came to live in this village were Job Aylesworth, farmer, and two of his brothers, Daniel and (Dr.) Isaac. Born in Ernesttown in the year 1800, Job Aylesworth bought farm lot 17, in the 2nd Concession of Camden Township, and with his family moved to this lot in 1843, and lived there till his death in 1885. David Perry, an uncle of Job Aylesworth,—probably the first settler in Camden Township,—had, somewhat before the year 1825, built a house near the big spring on lot 16, in the 2nd Concession of Camden Township, and for a long time resided there. Both these farm lots have been wholly within the territorial limits of this village since its incorporation as a separate municipality in 1858. Four sons of Job Aylesworth, viz., Bowen, John, Robert, and (Dr.) King, were for many years residents in this village, and in different official positions and actively interested in the public affairs of the municipality. One of these four sons, the late John Bell Aylesworth, father of Sir Allen, and of the present reeve, lived in this village continuously for more than seventy-nine years, till his death in December, 1921.

INCOME TAX.

Total Amount Collected by Dominion Was $28,752,743.

The total amount collected by the Department of National Revenue on Income taxes for the year ending March 31, 1928, was $28,752,743. The District of Montreal headed the list with $7,699,996. The other districts which collected over $1,000,000 were: Toronto, $5,973,116; Vancouver, $1,662,086; Winnipeg, $1,491,450; Hamilton, $1,317,165; Ottawa, $1,069,855; London, $1,030,513; Quebec, $1,014,428.

The salaried people or employes furnished considerable of the funds under this tax. A total of $3,146 paid $8,522,506. The number and amounts in other categories were as follows: Farmers (3,164), $205,457; professional men (6,087), $1,144,093; retail merchants (8,685), $1,041,236; wholesale merchants (1,178), $451,522; manufacturers (903), $335,767; forests (203), $220,537; mines (29), $12,865; fisheries (37), $2,908; financial (7,442), $4,928,506; personal corporations (472), $2,584,686; family corporations (1,138), $740,578.

Of the $205,457 paid by the farmers, $180,000 came from the Prairie Provinces.

DRINKING LESS.

Consumption of Spirits In England Halved In Fourteen Years.

In 1913 the people of England drank 22,004,432 gallons of spirits, compared with 19,412921 last year. Beer shows a similar decline—30,758,800 bulk barrels in 1913 compared with 24,418,640 in 1927. The figures for the present year are believed to show a further decline.

Opinions vary as to the cause. One view is that the greatly increased taxation since the war, which has trebled the price of a bottle of whiskey, and doubled that of a glass of beer, amply explains it. The other view is that there is a genuine change in the attitude of the people. Motoring, the general desire for physical fitness, wireless, and the cinema, have all been given a share of the credit of the reduced amount of drinking.

NEW AFGHAN CAPITAL.

Darulahman, Succeeding Kabul, to Follow Western Lines.

The new Afghan capital city, Darulahman, which will replace old Kabul, is nearing completion on modern and completely western lines, say Afghan newspapers.

The city is the inspiration of King Amanullah, who recently visited European countries and is ambitious of transplanting western ideas, culture and methods of living to his mountain kingdom.

The position of the new city is the official quarter. This will consist of a modern palace, equipped with the latest facilities, and a number of huge Government buildings which will house all State departments.

A SLOW JOB.

Mechanizing the Army In India Is Largely an Experiment.

A comprehensive statement on the progress of mechanization of the army in India was made by G. Mackworth Young, the secretary to the Army Council, in a memorandum which he tabled in the Legislative Assembly as a reply to several questions by members.

Mr. Young explained that the apparent slowness of the process of modernization and mechanization of the army was due to the fact that, owing to reasons of economy the authorities must carefully watch experiments at home (Great Britain) and make quite sure that they were successful before committing themselves to the expense of adopting them in India. The task of keeping pace in the modernization of equipment with the progress made in the United Kingdom and other foreign countries had been made difficult in the past few years owing to the acceptance by the Government of recommendations of the retrenchment committee.

The main feature of modernization was the substitution of mechanical for animal transport wherever possible. The Government, he said, would encourage the use of six-wheeled vehicles in the country by a system of subsidy. Three results of replacing animal by mechanical transport would be greatly increased mobility in war, slight economy in peace and great economy in war.

The army secretary explained mechanization schemes in artillery, mentioned experiments in the use and reliability of smoke for screening purposes under Indian conditions, and anti-aircraft defence and anti-gas measures. Steps were taken to keep the reserve army force in India up to date and provision for this was being made from army savings with no net addition in the budget.

THE KING'S CAR.

Last Car Was In Constant Use for Over Thirteen Years.

As a motorist, King George sets an example in economy.

Many people imagine that the King has only to desire a new car, and one appears. The reverse is the case. His Majesty is by no means a rich man, and after the needs of hospitality and upkeep have been met the royal grant allows very little margin for expensive whims.

The King's last car was in constant use for over thirteen years. Indeed, it was only due to his anxiety to encourage industry that he gave way to the representations made to him and ordered a new one.

The buying of the royal car is by no means the simple task it sounds, and is not merely a matter of going into the largest show-room and choosing a model. A full-size plan is first drawn on a wall for the King's inspection. Now that the State coach is rarely used for ceremonial occasions, apart from the opening of Parliament, many of the features of the glass coach have to be incorporated into the design of the royal car.

The windows are made exceptionally large, so that the public can see their Majesties during processions. The height of the car, too, must be sufficient to allow the King to wear the tall head-dresses that State occasions demand. Spare wheels are fixed on the side of the bonnet.

The King's car does not bear a registration number plate, but carries instead a shield showing the Royal Standard in the day time. At night a distinguishing blue light is used to enable the police to afford it precedence.

DORLAND

Mr. and Mrs. James Bird awakened between 1 and 2 o'clock on Friday morning to discover their kitchen and woodhouse in flames. They immediately rung an alarm on the telephone. Central responded quickly and aroused all lines, and in a short time a large crowd was on the scene, but too late to save the building. A good deal of the contents were removed, but more was destroyed than the insurance will cover. For some time it was feared that the drivehouse and another frame building containing a large quantity of grain might catch, as both were in close proximity. A sharp watch was kept and a quantity of water secured, but the main roof being steel, kept the flames confined for a time, and the wind turned slightly, carrying the sparks past. The fire fighters were handicapped for water, as it was impossible to reach the cistern, and the well is considerable distance away. One great source of danger was from the large quantity of dry wood stored in the woodhouse. This was still smouldering on Saturday evening, despite the quantities of water and earth that had been used to smother it. Nothing is left but the crumbling stone walls of the front part, and so another old landmark is gone.—In spite of the rough weather on Wednesday afternoon a very interesting meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Humphrey.—The sudden drop in temperature has frozen over most of Hay Bay.—The measles patients are all reported as convalescent.

—The Salvation Army will hold their Christmas Tree and Entertainment on Monday, Dec. 17th, at 8 p.m. Recitations, dialogues, and drills. You be sure and come. 50a

—Messrs. F. P. Smith & Son have taken over the old established Fire Insurance business of Harshaw & Son and D. L. Greene, recently held by A. T. Turnbull, and will conduct the same in future at the office in Harshaw Block, Dundas St. 20tf

—Mr. Byron Pennell, Dundas Street, met with a serious accident on Thursday last, while working at the residence of Mr. J. E. Robinson. The ladder on which he was working slipped, and he fell, striking on his head and shoulder. He suffered a severe shaking up and dislocation of the shoulder. His many friends will regret to learn of the unfortunate accident, and all hope for a speedy recovery.

Fire Damaged House Near Adolphustown.

Fire which broke out in the early hours of the morning from some unknown cause, almost destroyed the large frame house owned and occupied by James Bird, on the shore of Hay Bay, near Adolphustown. The fire was noticed in the back part of the house by Mrs. Bird, who aroused her husband and though neighbours were summoned and they worked with a will, they had little chance to save the house from destruction. They did manage, however, to save the large red barn from burning. Some insurance is carried on the building and contents, but not enough to cover the entire damage.

He saves

MILLIONS

THIS GENTLEMAN is busy "talking telephones to death"—which is merely a way of saying that he is testing their transmission qualities.

He is a worker in the telephone research laboratories. He has a rack of telephone transmitters and a phonograph. He "talks them to death" by means of the phonograph to see whether the transmitters give satisfactory results.

There have been 95 different types of transmitters and 64 different receivers to obtain the instrument you are using today. And men are at work now to find one still better.

IN THE NEXT ROOM another man is using an apparatus which rubs a piece of telephone cord back and forth until it frays.

He is seeking a better cord. He is the man who found that the brown cord in your telephone today wears better than the green cord you used to have. You may not have noticed the change from green to brown but it has saved hundreds of thousands of dollars for telephone users.

That is the business of these gentlemen—to make a better telephone and save money in doing it.

THERE ARE NEARLY five thousand of them at work in the Bell Telephone Laboratories — the largest telephone research laboratories in the world — and the Bell Telephone Company of Canada owns a contract giving access to all the work they do.

That is why your telephone system now has the ingenious device known as the "loading coil" which transmits messages over wires fine as human hair. It used to be necessary to have heavy wires, increasing in size with distance. The heavy wires were costly. The loading coil has saved millions in telephone costs.

The underground cables developed in recent years are another of a score of similar benefits. They have wires to carry a vastly greater number of messages than they used to, but they are so compact and so efficient that they can be pulled through the original underground ducts. If cables and ducts had to be increased in size with the vast new traffic the costs of telephoning would climb sky-high.

THE NEW CABLES, like the brown cord and the loading coil, mean millions of dollars saved. These dollars are dollars in your pocket. Your telephone is being connected with thousands of new telephones across the country every week yet this increased value does not cost you more because costs are successfully offset by the economies which research accomplishes.

The gentleman testing the transmitter and the five thousand working in the laboratories with him are saving money for you every day and keeping the telephone adequate to serve the needs of Canadian progress.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.

RED-NECKED PHALAROPES

Females Choose Mates and Have a Good Time, While Males Hatch and Rear the Young.

Some weeks after the main army of migrating birds had passed over Northern Africa a small party of a dozen red-necked phalaropes decided that the time had come to move northwards. The flight they had in contemplation was a long one. Their summer home is in the lochs and pools north of Scotland. Up there was a small shallow loch surrounded by low hills, and it was to this secluded and lonely spot that they intended to travel.

The party set out, flying by night as well as day, and eventually reached their northerly home. A few days were spent in feeding and gaining strength after their strenuous flight, then the females of the party decided it was time they turned their attention to more serious business.

In most parts of birdland the males decide on their mates, but the female phalarope have decided they are the best judges of the kind of bird they should live with, and the result was that the females of the party had fights for the possession of the males. After a lot of splashing and sparring on the shallow waters, the birds were eventually mated, and the colony should have settled down to married happiness.

The females phalarope, however, discovered long ago that it is possible to enjoy a very easy existence if one decides right away to be master in her own home, says Oliver G. Pike, F.Z.S., in Tit-Bits. A humorous incident that actually came under my notice reminds me of the female phalarope. There was a ring at the front door of a certain house. On the maid answering it, she was asked if the master was in. "Yes," was the reply, "but she's resting!"

When the strenuous time of courtship is over, the males build cozy nests for their mates. These are well hidden not far from the edge of the loch. The females lay the eggs; then the males find it is their duty to sit upon them. For a fortnight they perform their duties diligently, while their mates, in small parties, have quite a good time in the open loch.

Eventually the young appear, and if the males think their duties are over, they are soon disillusioned, for they discover that the females intend to continue their pleasures on the loch. They have to work harder than ever, for as the day follows day the young become larger and require more food. But, fortunately for the males, these baby phalaropes leave their nests very soon after emerging from the egg.

At first they are pretty, downy creatures; they move slowly, and on the slightest sign of danger run to shelter. Although they may be just beginning to explore the big world into which they have come, they know at once what the alarm note of their parents means. Their small heads are poked under tufts of grass, and if their bodies show, they are so like the surroundings that most enemies would pass them by.

Six weeks later the young are able to look after themselves. The whole colony are now to be seen searching for food on the open loch, the young mixing with their mothers and no doubt learning from them all the wiles of courtship.

Before the summer is over the whole colony return to their African home.

MANY DEER KILLED YEARLY.

Mountain Lion Kills at Least One Deer Per Week.

The California Fish and Game Commission is authority for the statement that each mountain lion at large in that state kills, on an average, one deer a week.

While the mountain lion preys upon smaller animals too, tracking down deer is his chief vocation. The ferocious second cousins to the tiger consumed more than 25,000 deer in 1927, whereas 110,000 licensed hunters, all of whom took out duplicate deer tags, got only 19,507 deer.

Those interested in the conservation of wild animal life are not worried, however, as there are about 400,000 deer in the state, and there is no danger of the number diminishing, despite mountain lions, hunters, and natural causes of death.

One Clock For the World.

That one clock should be used to beat time for the world is the proposal of a German inventor. From some central observatory its ticks would be broadcast instantly by wireless to the whole civilized world, giving a single accurate time.

Clocks throughout the world would be brought to agreement as close as one one-hundred-thousandth of a second, and the inventor's elaborate plans include the use of television devices to synchronize the earth's clocks with the master timepiece.

At present each country sets its clocks from its own astronomical observatory by wireless and telegraph, but it is pointed out that between clocks of foreign countries there is often a discrepancy of a fifth of a second.

Mark Twain Used Typewriter.

Mark Twain is said to be the first author to submit typewritten manuscript to a publisher. In the autumn of 1874, Mr. Clemens was strolling down one of the streets of Boston with a friend, he was drawn by curiosity to a strange looking device in the window of a stationery store. It made a deep impression upon Twain, who purchased this primitive typewriter, and shortly thereafter the manuscript of "Life on the Mississippi" was typed on the machine which he had bought.

ENTERPRISING JAPANESE.

Tunnel for Elevator Shaft Cut Through Solid Rock.

An American elevator company is installing an elevator in one of the most peculiar places for a shaft that has ever confronted the company. The elevator will run through solid rock, the shaft leading from a tunnel which runs through the base 150 feet high—and on top a wealthy Japanese politician, Ichitaro Miwa, member of the House of Representatives, has built his home. Steep and dangerous trails are at present the only route to the summit.

From the top of the rock, one of the most magnificent views in Japan may be had, sweeping over the Kino river at Inuyama, near Kyoto, known as the Japanese Rhine.

A horizontal tunnel has been driven from the side of the rock facing an automobile highway, to the river side. A balcony over the river serves as the terminal of the tunnel. At the exact centre of the tunnel and also of the rock the elevator has been driven and a large-sized elevator bath been purchased to carry both passengers and freight. At the top the rock is only about 300 feet square, but is large enough to hold a western-style house and a Japanese tea house, as well as an adjoining shelter over the shaft. The rock slopes away precipitously on all sides except over the river where it breaks off into a blank-faced cliff.

PARIS BECOMING SOBER.

Principal Reason Is Ban on Absinthe and Price of Liquors.

Paris is rapidly becoming one of the most sober capitals in the world, according to police statistics.

In 1926 only 10,139 intoxicated persons were locked up by the police, compared with 23,058 in 1911 and 20,256 in 1913, the last year before the war. Figures are available for only the first ten months of 1927, when the number of "drunks" was 7,987, promising a considerable reduction on the previous year.

The number of cases in police infirmaries for the insane due to alcoholism, which was 25 per cent. before the war, has fallen to 10 per cent. while the special State Inebriates Home, which was in great demand before the war, has now been abolished, owing to lack of patients.

One of the principal reasons given for this increasing sobriety is the ban placed during the war on absinthe, and never removed. Factors are the increased price of alcoholic liquors and the vogue of sport.

WED ON SACRED MOUNTAIN.

Ceremony Was Conducted With Due Dignity and Solemnity.

The first wedding ceremony ever held on the summit of Mt. Fuji, Japan's sacred mountain, took place recently.

The bride and groom of the novel matrimonial event were Shido Nakamura, instructor of economics at Kokugakuin University, Tokio, and Miss Emie Usumi of Koshibemura.

The party, consisting of the happy pair, four relatives and friends, ascended the mountain in the morning of the wedding day. The bride's and groom's sides parted on the summit, and each party went to get the Kinmeibui (golden water) and Ginmeisui (silvery water) at the two famous fountains of Mt. Fuji.

Sacred water was offered to the altar, and the ceremony was then conducted with due dignity and solemnity by the Shinto priests of the Sengen Shinto shrine on the summit.

CRUISER HELPS BIRTH.

Wireless Asks for Doctor to Be Sent to Santa Maria Island.

Instead of dealing out death and destruction, the Portuguese cruiser Adamastor, has helped to bring life safely into the world.

The Adamastor when returning to Lisbon, picked up a wireless message, asking for a doctor to be sent to Santa Maria Island. A woman, in childbirth, it was said, had been hovering between life and death for four days, with no doctor at hand.

Making for the island, the cruiser landed a doctor and a male nurse, who were able to save mother and child.

It was decided that the child should be christened Antonio Adamastor, after the cruiser, and the doctor was asked to be godfather.

Bridegroom's Wedding Shirt.

It is the custom in Sweden for the bride to give the bridegroom a shirt, as a wedding present. The garment which is made by the bride herself is worn by the groom on the day of the ceremony. It is put away after the wedding and the husband never wears it again until the death, when he is buried in it.

According to the Swedish superstition if the man has been a faithful husband his shirt goes to heaven with him. If the wife dies first and the widower marries again, he must destroy his first wedding shirt on the eve of his second marriage.

A prayer book is one of the many gifts which it is customary for the Swedish bridegroom to give to the bride.

Alp-Climbing Kitten.

Tourists who climb the Blumlisalphorn, which towers 12,000 feet to the southwest of Muerren, in Switzerland, have found a new guide—a black kitten.

For some time past every party of tourists which has set out has been met half-way up and accompanied to the summit by this small mountaineer, who has come to know the route with his tail straight in the air.

First Insurance Policy.

The first insurance policy was issued on June 18th, 1582, on the life of one William Gibbons.

The wettest day recorded was June 14, 1911, at Bazino, Philippines, when 46 inches of rain fell.

Two married ladies were discussing their husbands—considerably to the latter's disadvantage.

"Take my husband," said one indignantly. "He used to offer me a penny for my thoughts, and now he offers me 5s to shut my mouth!"

DEBATE AT BATH

A most interesting debate was held in the United Church hall, Bath, on November 26th, at 8.15 p.m. The subject for discussion was "Resolved that steam is of greater importance to mankind than electricity". The affirmative side was upheld by Mr. Leonard Mellow, and Miss Marion Young, of Sillsville, while Mr. Charles F. Young and Mr. Sheldon J. Calver, of Bath, upheld the negative side.

The debate was very interesting and a large number of people attended. The four speakers put forth their points in a convincing manner, the affirmative side giving several beneficial uses of steam, while the negative brought forth their points based on the commercial, domestic, scientific and economic uses of electricity.

The judges, Rev. Mr. Plant, of Sillsville, Miss N. Chappel and Mr. Ernest Young, of Bath, found it somewhat difficult to judge on account of the close number of points, manner of delivery, etc. The final decision was a win for the negative side, the score being 11-10.

After the debate, the Sillsville debating team and supporters were entertained by the members of Bath United Church Y. P. S.

As this debate was in connection with the debating series of the Bellerville Presbytery, the winners now go to Enterprise, where they meet a debating team from there. The surrounding district joins in wishing Mr. Young and Mr. Calver the best of success.

A wise Oriental is quoted as saying, "The faster we travel the less we see." This recalls the remarks of the speedfiend's passenger, "A pretty village we're coming to wasn't it?"

OBITUARY

Mary Frances Manion.

At Oshawa, on Sunday, November 18th, 1928, there passed to her eternal rest, Mary Frances Manion, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. F. Manion. Frances, although in failing health following a throat operation in the early part of June, had not been thought serious until the beginning of October. Since that time she had been confined to bed.

All that medical skill and loving care and kindness could do, did not prolong the life of this fair young blossom, and in the midnight hours of the date above mentioned, her immaculate soul winged its flight to the Great Beyond, there to await the arrival of those who mourn.

She was but fifteen years of age and had been successful in her midsummer exams, regardless of bright hopes for the future, she bore her sufferings with the greatest fortitude and patience, and was perfectly resigned to God's will.

Frances was a general favourite among all who knew her, as was testified by the many spiritual offerings and beautiful floral tributes.

The remains were brought from Oshawa to Napanee by motor, and were kept one night at the home of Mr. J. Fretts, Mill St. On Tuesday the funeral service was held in St. Patrick's Church, where a High Requeim Mass was celebrated by Father Dever. Dean McDonald. Then the large funeral cortege wended its way to the R. C. vault, from whence interment of the body will take place in the spring.

SILLSVILLE W.M.S.

The regular meeting of the Sillsville W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Charters, on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 6th, with a very good attendance.

The President, Mrs. George Sharp, presided, followed by the Secretary's and Treasurer's reports, after which election of officers for the coming year took place. President, Mrs. Morley White; Secretary, Mrs. George Phippen, and Treasurer, Mrs. Bob. Merritt. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

ROTARIANS CELEBRATE ST. ANDREW'S DAY

At the weekly luncheon of the Napanee Rotary Club held in the dining room of the Campbell House, on Tuesday of last week, the members celebrated St. Andrew's Day, thus doing honour to the patron saint of Scotland. As usual, a large number of Scotsmen were present. The tables were decorated with beautiful flowers, and the wall decorations were, appropriately, the Royal Standard of Scotland and the Union Jack.

After a few two-minute speeches and some good songs, Rotarian Wilfred S. Wilson, chairman, introduced the principal speaker, Mr. George Anson Aylesworth, of Newburgh, who gave a most interesting address on St. Andrew, the Saint, and Saint Andrew, the ancient town on the east coast of Scotland, where Christianity was first introduced to the British Isles. Those who were privileged to listen to Mr. Aylesworth's historical and descriptive address feel deeply indebted to him for the research work which enabled him to give them such valuable information.

To the toast of The King, owing to His Majesty's indisposition, "God Save the King", was most fervently sung in response.

SWITZERLAND'S BLUE LAKE.

Little Lake Is Quite Startling in Its Singular Beauty.

Although a glass of pure water, whether it be fresh or sea-water, is invariably colorless, yet in bulk it apparently varies in a singularly strange and remarkable manner. The ever-changing colors of the ocean, especially, are most striking and beautiful.

At times when, the sun having sunk beneath the water horizon, the heavens are emblazoned in a glory of carmine and gold, turquoise and emerald, pale mauve and amber, and waste of waters reflect and blends the vivid coloring of the western sky, the heaving surface of the ocean is transformed into a veritable sea of opal, gradually, as the fiery hues of the western sky pale away, fading into a dark, sombre indigo.

But perhaps the most striking instance to be seen in the whole world of the wondrous apparent coloring of bodies of water is the marvellously beautiful "Blue Lake" in Switzerland. Encompassed on all sides by lofty mountains, their lower ranges luxuriantly clothed with verdure down to the edge of the water, and their higher activities are garbed in a mantel of eternal snow, the little lake, nestling in its deep hollow basin and protected from winds and storm, is quite startling in its singular beauty.

The water, although really pure and colorless, appears to be of a most vivid and intense sky-line. And its transparency is so remarkable that a small nickel coin dropped into the water in the centre of the lake can be seen gyrating downwards until it reaches the bottom, apparently more than a hundred feet beneath.

BRIDGE OF VALUABLE TIMBER.

Constructed of Mahogany Except For a Few Iron Supports.

As almost everyone knows, mahogany is among the most costly wood in existence. This tropical material is seldom used in the construction of buildings of any kind. Its principal use is for high grade furniture.

There is, however, one bridge in the world made of this wood. The structure is located in the Department of Palenque, State of Chiapas, Mexico, a district in the extreme southern part of the country near the boundary of Guatemala. It is constructed entirely of mahogany except for a few iron supports, braces and nails that are necessary.

The bridge spans the Rio Michol and its total length, including the approaches, exceeds 150 feet. It is fifteen feet wide. None of the timbers in the bridge are sawed, for there are no sawmills in that region. Instead, all the timbers are hewn and split.

GREEKS WERE CLEVER.

Knew How to Spin Tops Over 2,500 Years Ago.

The Greeks knew how to spin tops over 2,500 years ago. They had pocket-knives with bronze blades and exquisitely carved ivory handles, and clasp pins, much like the safety pin by which its modern inventor made a fortune, were common, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

A process for making clear yellow-white glass was announced as a new discovery not long ago, but excavations in Egypt show that the material was known there in the second century B.C. A set of 150 pieces was recovered from the ruins of an ancient city.

A sewer system that would compare favorably with any constructed to-day was laid in Crete some 2,500 years B.C., and you can turn the faucets of a system that was installed in ancient Pompeii.

GUN TOTING.

Lax Law In U.S. Blamed for Much Crime.

The chances of being robbed are thirty-six times greater in a large London. Crime is said to cost the United States $13,000,000 a year. An ex-burglar, talking to a newspaperman, says: "All crime research work is done by persons who never committed crimes." He then goes on to say that the lax restrictions in the sale and carrying of firearms is one of the outstanding causes of the amount of crime in the United States. A tough youngster can get a gun almost as easily as he can buy a toothbrush. England, France and other European countries have pretty well put gun-toting out of business by laws that are severe. — Coppers Weekly.

Village of Large Families.

Of all the communes in Italy noted for large families, that of Palazzolo della Stella, in the Province of Udine, apparently has won the prize. This little commune is composed of 2,800 inhabitants, with 495 families, of which there are three with sixteen children, one with fourteen, eight with thirteen, eleven with twelve, twenty-two with eleven, thirty-four with ten, forty-one with nine, fifty-three with eight and fifty-one with seven.

The little town had seventy-nine of its sons killed during the Great War and is now trying to raise the money to erect a monument in their honor.

Rubber Pads Silence Trains.

So successful have rubber pads proved as shock-absorbers and silencers for railroad trains, after a test on one rail length of a Federated Malay States Railway line, they are being tried on longer stretches of track. The rubber, says Popular Science Monthly, made by a secret process, was found to deaden the sound of the clinking of rails and to absorb vibration.

Light travels 480 times round the earth and sound scarcely thirteen miles in one minute.

"No, thanks, I had that this morning."

"Well, what about some tongue?"

"No thanks, I'll get that to-night!"

Excellent for Croupy Children. — When o child is suffering with croup it is a good plan to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It reduces the inflammation and loosens the phlegm giving speedy relief to the little sufferer. It is equally reliable for sore throat and chest, earache, rheumatic pains, cuts, bruises and sprains. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is regarded by many thousands as an indispensable of the family medicine chest.

"You'll get run in," said the pedestrian to the cyclist, "if you ride without a light."

"You'll get run into," responded the rider as he knocked the other down.

"You'll get run in, too," said the policeman as he stepped forward and seized the cyclist."

Just then another scorcher came along without a light, so the policeman was run into, too, and had to run in two.

SOCIAL HOUR BY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Inclement weather did not daunt the ladies of the town and surrounding districts from attending an "At Home" given by members of the Women's Institute on Monday, Dec. 3rd. The spacious assembly room of Argyl Lodge was filled to capacity. A rare treat in the form of an informal program was enjoyed by all. Mr. Kendal, organist in Trinity Church, in his usual brilliant style, rendered a beautiful piano solo. Mrs. Powell, who has the happy knack of choosing selections suitable to the occasion, was much applauded for her many humorous selections. In a sweet, girlish style, Miss Ruth Graham sang two appropriate solos. Although Mrs. Hopkins and Miss Kane are new comers to our town, already they have made many friends by their willingness to assist in our programs. They sang a fine duet in which their voices blended so admirably. Many remarks of admiration followed the piano duet by the Misses Lancaster. Their number was played with much expression. Miss Baughan added much to the program by her fine accompaniments for the singers.

The serving of refreshments was accomplished in a rather unique style. Many long tables, which were beautifully decorated, were presided over by two hostesses each, and served by a number of ladies to their own invited guests. The ladies of the Institute are to be congratulated on the success of their social afternoon, and many guests expressed the desire that soon again they would hold such a very enjoyable tea.

NON-STOP MUSIC.

New Device Is Adaptable to the Ordinary Gramophone.

Gramophones that can play a whole opera without stopping to change needles are a possibility of the near future, thanks to a British invention by which a coil of specially prepared thread replaces the ordinary disc records, says Tit-Bits. One coil of thread, weighing a few ounces, it is claimed, will hold as much music as ten disc records.

The new device is easily adaptable to the ordinary gramophone by means of a special attachment costing a few shillings. It is claimed that it will be possible to carry twelve hours' music in thread records in a portable gramophone.

A thread coil may be dropped and knocked about without being spoiled. If the thread is broken it can be mended without making any noticeable effect on the record.

Years of research work have been devoted to the new system, and the first patent was taken out five years ago, when a telephone conversation was successfully recorded on thread.

Other interesting possibilities arise from the invention. A business man could dictate his office correspondence at home and carry it to his office typist in his jacket pocket. The entire day's correspondence of the busiest man could, it is claimed, be recorded on two or three thread coils weighing half a pound.

A person in the Old Country could send coils to relatives abroad, who could reproduce on their gramophones a message in the actual voice of the sender, at a cost only slightly more than the letter postage.

The thread is of fine silvery texture. The indentations made by the voice waves are only visible under a powerful microscope. It resembles a very fine violin string or grey hair.

Leased Seats for 900 Years.

The Albert Hall is the place where great political meetings, concerts, etc., are held in the Empire's capital. Some people own their seats there and seats are often vacant even on the most crowded occasions. It is because of the difficulty in raising the million dollars the hall cost. Boxes on the first tier, to hold ten, were sold for $5,000, those on the second, to hold five, for $2,500. In the stalls were 1,300 places on which a 999 year lease could be purchased for $500 each.

Are Not Attending School.

Compulsory education, recently introduced at Kingston, Jamaica, is being criticised by the city's elementary school teachers, who complain that in spite of the scheme there are still many children running about the streets. The attendance officer's powers, they say, are not strong enough to cope with the situation.

Women Raised $1749.34.

A capacity audience attended the annual banquet of the Women's Association of Queen St. East Presbyterian Church, Toronto, on Thursday, Dec. 6th, when a splendid programme was rendered under the able direction of Mr. W. H. Falla, organist. Short addresses were given by Messrs. H. E. Johnston and A. E. Calvert. Detective Sergt. J. W. Elliott, Chairman of the Board of Management, thanked the talent for their services. Owing to the absence of the minister, Rev. W. Hardy Andrews, in Vancouver, B.C., Mr. V. Thompson presided. The President, Mrs. J. G. Wilson, formerly of Tamworth, Ont., thanked the ladies for their assistance, as this was the largest amount ever raised in one year by the W. A. during the fifty years of the church's history.

FAREWELL AT BRIGHTON.

On Monday evening, Dec. 3rd, 1928, about thirty-five friends gathered at the home of Mr. Alvin Perry, Nesbitt's Apartment, Younge St., Brighton, to bid them goodbye and to spend another pleasant evening with them before their departure for their new home in Oshawa.

In the midst of packing, they, with Mrs. Edgar, Mrs. Perry's mother, who was visiting them, were completely taken by surprise.

Following is the address:—

December 3rd, 1928.

We, your friends from Trinity Ladies' Aid, have gathered this evening to evince you, Mr. and Mrs. Perry, the honour, affection and esteem in which you are both held in our midst.

Mrs. Perry, by your willingness to assist in our Ladies' Aid work, by your very efficient help in our several plays, you have won our love and respect. Hence we are all indeed sorry of your departure from our midst, but what will be our loss others will gain. We cannot let you go without some slight remembrance from the Ladies' Aid, and will be pleased if you will accept this trifling gift; not so much for its value, but as a token of affection from the Aid. In your new home we all join in wishing you comfort and contentment.

Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid.
Mesdames Godderich, Maybee, German, Pake, and Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry were taken by surprise, but replied to the address, and many a time when lonely among strangers, will think of their warm Brighton friends, and hoped some day they will visit them in Oshawa. Mrs. Perry thanked them for the beautiful wicker ferner, and will ever have fond recollection for Brighton Ladies' Aid.

Games were indulged in, a most elegant lunch served, and a pleasant evening ended near the midnight hour. Rev. J. I. Wilson and Rev. W. Boyce were both present.

West Plain Church Re-opened.

West Plain, one of the appointments of the Bath Circuit, and of the United Church of Canada, a group of workers gathered, and with the supervision of their Pastor, re-decorated the interior of their church with a suitable church paper on the walls, and a light buff muresco on the metalic ceiling, graining the woodwork in medium oak color. The large bell, which had been placed aside for a few years, was placed up again into a new belfry. The two services which were held at the re-opening on Sunday, were well attended. At the close of the Thursday prayer meeting, the people of the West Plain congregation, presented their Pastor, Rev. A. E. Oliver, with a gift of twenty-five dollars.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary A. Miles

Passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Geo. M. Walker, at the age of 86 years and 6 months.

Deceased was born on June 13th, 1842, in England, and has been a resident of Newburgh for fifty-four years. Mrs. Miles was an Anglican in religion, and was always willing to do anything for her Master and the Church she loved. In her health she was seldom absent from the House of God. May her exemplary life shine on those she has left to mourn a kind and loving mother. Gone but will not be forgotten by a host of friends and neighbours. The funeral service was conducted by her Clergyman, the Rev. R. W. Spencer, from her daughter's residence to St. John's Church, Newburgh, hence to St. Luke's cemetery, where interment was made. The pallbearers were Wm. Sutton, E. Harrison, J. W. Courtney, H. O'Connor, A. A. Sutton and W. B. Dunn.

Parker Pens, $2.75, $3.50, $5.00, $7.00 and $12.00, in all the new shades, yellow, blue, mottled and pearl, at Wallace's Drug Store.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chambers,
Napanee, Dec. 15th, 1928

Council met on Saturday evening according to statute, Mayor Roy presiding.

Members present—Councillors Daly, Simpson, Tustin, Loucks, Ungar and Kimmerly.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read, and on motion were confirmed.

A communication was received from the Hydro Electric Power Commission confirming negotiations with the Council for a new street lighting system in the business section of the town, to be composed of forty 300-watt lamps on brackets, the same style as the one that has been in use for the past few weeks in front of the Royal Bank, at a cost of $32.00 per lamp per annum. Laid on the table.

Mayor Roy presented a communication he had received from McGinnis & O'Connor, road contractors, in which they thanked the Council and citizens generally for the many kindnesses shown them during the past season they spent in Napanee.

Report of Chief Constable Barrett, covering the period from January 1st to December 15th, 1928, was presented by Councillor Tustin, and on motion the report was adopted.

Report of Chief Barrett.

Chief Constable's Office,
December 15th, 1928.

To the Mayor and Members of the Town Council of the Corporation of Napanee.

Gentlemen,—I herewith beg to submit the following report of the Police Department from January 1st, 1928, up to and including December 15th, 1928.

Some of the suggestions embodied in my report last year have been put into effect, with, I believe, fairly good results. There is still room for further improvement, which can only be attained by some additional equipment, that is, of course, in the matter of traffic control. We have done the best we could with the means at our disposal, in trying to regulate more effectively, the traffic on the streets.

We have been fortunate in not having any serious crime to contend with. Most of the offences prosecuted were more or less of a petty nature, and all cases, with the exception of one, were disposed of in the Police Magistrate's Court.

There is a decided increase in the number of Police Court cases over last year, amounting to approximately seventy per cent. The offence of theft increased about ninety per cent. Offences against the Highway Traffic Act increased over two hundred per cent, and the increase in offences against the Liquor Control Act is slightly over one hundred per cent. Offences against Town By-laws, which consisted chiefly of infractions against the Traffic By-law, totalled nearly two hundred per cent of an increase. Of all offences brought to the Police Court during the year approximately sixty-five per cent. were for breaches of the Traffic Regulations and Liquor Control Act.

The increased amount of work in connection with these cases has been considerable. The details of which are not understandable by the average person, but nevertheless it has taken a lot of time and attention. However, it is not the policy of this Department to endeavour to show an increase in prosecutions, our chief aim is, preventive rather than corrective. We tried to carry out as far as possible the tenets of that old adage "Prevention is better than cure".

This course may be open to more or less criticism but as a precautionary aspect to be criticized. Constructive criticism is always welcome, destructive criticism, which is generally founded upon ignorance, is valueless and harmful and only tends to cause embarrassment. It is a peculiar fact that the person or persons who are always criticizing and raving about public officials (Police Officers especially) not doing this or neglecting that, benefit most by the alleged inactivity of the official.

There is another item which might be commented upon, that is the number of doors and gas pumps found unfastened at night, in the business section. Whether this is due to the carelessness of the owners or to the confidence they have in the police, I don't know. It would relieve us from some responsibility if the aim is, pre-the buildings and gas pumps would see that their property was securely fastened at night. A locked door will not stop a determined effort to commit an offence, but it will materially assist in keeping them down. An unfastened or open door is a temptation to certain individuals to do something that otherwise would not be done, if the door was securely fastened.

Concluding these few comments I wish to express our appreciation of the assistance given us by the local Provincial Police Officer, also the Highway's Department Traffic Officer, who are always ready to assist when called upon, also to the co-operation of the Police Committee in their sympathetic understanding of the difficulties and problems confronting us during the past year.

In conclusion I would like to state that if there appears to have been any mistakes made in the enforcement of the multitude of laws and regulations with which we have to deal, we have no apologies to offer, having regard to all the circumstances we have done what has been done with the best of our judgment and with the highest intentions.

The following is a summarized report :—

DEATH OF WM. CROSSLEY

Mr. Wm. Crossley, well known resident of Napanee, passed away at his home on Bridge Street, on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Crossley who was for many years a leader among "Brethern", had been attending conferences in Montreal, Detroit, and St. Louis. He returned home about a week ago with a slight cold. But without any apparent warning he took a stroke on Thursday last, and never regained consciousness.

Mr. Crossley was a native of Hamilton, where for many years he was in business. But about twenty years ago he gave up his business in order to devote his whole time to religious and philanthropic work.

In 1919 he married Miss Emma Smith, of Napanee, and since that time they have made their home here.

He was a familiar figure on the streets of our town and in the country round about, where he was always busy, speaking with people, about the things of life, leaving printed messages, and visiting the aged and the shut-ins. Many and many people will miss the kindly ministry of this consecrated Christian leader, whose whole life was a testimony to the devotion with which he served his Master.

The funeral was held from his late residence on Bridge Street, on Tuesday afternoon. It was conducted by Mr. MacDowell, of Montreal, and Mr. Hayhoe, of Ottawa, and Mr. Price, of Montreal.

He is mourned by his wife, Mrs. Bradford and his niece, Miss Crossley, of Hamilton, who was present at the funeral.

Respectfully submitted.

Yours obediently,
F. W. BARRETT,
Chief Constable.

A By-law appointing deputy returning officers and poll clerks and designating places of holding the poll for the municipal election to be held on Monday, January 7th, 1929, was given its several readings, signed, sealed, numbered and finally passed.

Moved by Councillor Daly, seconded by Councillor Loucks, that this Council accept the offer of the Hydro Electric Power Commission, for 40 bracket lights to be placed on Dundas and John streets, as per their offer in letter dated Dec. 14th, 1928. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Simpson, seconded by Councillor Ungar, that the matter of lighting Dundas street be laid over until next year. Lost.

Moved by Councillor Simpson, seconded by Councillor Daly, that the Counts Council be memorialized to keep the County Roads open during the winter. Carried.

Mayor Roy thanked the Council for the very courteous treatment accorded him during his occupancy of the Mayor's chair, and wished them all a Merry Christmas.

On motion the usual honorarium of $50.00 was ordered paid to each of the Councillors and the Reeve, and $75.00 to the Mayor.

A motion was passed, referring in glowing terms to the work performed by Mayor Roy during his two years in the chair, and the thanks of the Council was tendered him for the very impartial manner in which he conducted the town's business.

THE KING'S ILLNESS

The King, whose illness has elicited the interest and sympathy of the whole people, is still battling against disease. During the week two operations have been performed on his side and both successful. Though weakened by the operations his Majesty rallied on Monday. For the first time in some weeks he had a natural sleep, and the meagre information of the official bulletins led the general public to hope that the corner had been turned, and that with the heart holding strong, recovery would be slow but assured.

Latest bulletins (Tuesday noon) report continued progress, and are distinctly hopeful.

THE TWO PRESTONS.

The following editorial from The Toronto Star refers to Mr. Preston, of Stratford, father of Mrs. Gilbride, of Napanee :—

It is an unfortunate community which lacks, during any period of its municipal history, a group of able men who are willing to take public office for what they can bring to it rather than for what it can bring to them. There is not a city in Ontario but owes much to the unselfish services which such men have given it—men who have identified themselves not only with its business life, but with its churches, its schools, its hospitals and its charitable organizations.

A citizen of that type was lost to Brantford in 1925 in the death of Thomas W. Preston, editor of the Expositor. Stratford has now suffered a similar loss in the demise of his brother, William Preston. The activities of these men in their respective cities have few parallels in Ontario. It is rarely that two members of the same family exercise so broad and so beneficent an influence in separate communities.

The Brantford Preston was not only a success in his lifework as a newspaper man, achieving recognition in many forms, including the presidency of the Canadian Press Association, but gave splendid service in the Ontario legislature, was a public school trustee, a president of the Brantford Board of Trade, a president of the Southern Fair Board, a governor of the Brantford General Hospital, a president of the Brantford Children's Aid Society, and a member of the Ontario Parole Board. Those are a few of the points at which he established active contacts with the life of his city and his province.

Equally diverse were the interests of William Preston, his brother, whose career in the neighboring city of Stratford is now reported. He was a pioneer of industry in that place and at the time of his death was president of the Preston-Noelting Company. He had been a member of the Public School Board for two years, its chairman, chairman of the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce, five years chairman of the Collegiate Institute Board, member and president of the Public Library Board, member and vice-president of the Horticultural Society and prominently identified with the creation of Stratford's water system. Yet he found time to devote to his family, to his church, to politics, to sport, and, during the war, to war work. He had been president of the Stratford Golf and Country Club and of the Cricket Club. He lived a full life and his community owes much to his activities.

It is interesting to find that the Preston brothers were sons of a minister of the gospel. It has been often said that ministers' sons come to no good end, but experience does not show that to be a general rule; certainly it did not apply to Thomas and William Preston who have left upon their cities a heritage which will impress the unselfish and public-spirited service. Their example should be an inspiration to many other men of like ability.

OBITUARY.

John Gleeson.

There passed to his eternal reward on Friday, December 7th, 1928, at his home in Napanee, after a prolonged illness, one of the town's most respected residents, in the person of John Gleeson.

Deceased, who was in his 76th year, resided all his life in Napanee. He leaves to mourn his loss a kind and loving husband and father, his widow, and Evelyn and Margaret, of Toronto; Miss Gleeson, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. of Montreal; Dr. Harry, of Lindsay, and Evelyn and Margaret, of Toronto; also one brother, Patrick Gleeson, of this town.

The funeral was held from his late residence on Dundas St., to St. Patrick's Church, of which the deceased was a faithful member, where a solemn High Mass of Requiem was held and the repose of his soul, after which interment was made in the family plot.

The many beautiful floral offerings bore testimony of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

A FINAL APPEAL

The Santa Claus Fund simply must have more money if all the children in Napanee are to have a Christmas. There are a lot of kiddies in our town who will have absolutely no visit from Santa Claus except what comes through the Beaver fund. So far this year not nearly enough has been donated to meet the need.

We are telling our readers this just as frankly and as strongly as we can put it. We wish we could take every dollar to the homes our workers visit. In that case the money would not be held back.

We are experiencing a great wave of prosperity in our country, let us share it with the underprivileged in our midst.

Send or bring in all subscriptions to the Beaver Office, Napanee, and make all cheques payable to Beaver Santa Claus Fund.

How Wesley Became Early Riser.

John Wesley, the great preacher, was anxious to waste no time unnecessarily in sleep. Finding he woke every night about one and lay sleepless for some hours, he concluded that he was lying in bed longer than nature demanded. He determined, therefore, to rise an hour earlier than usual. Rising at seven, he found himself still waking in the night, so the next morning rose at six and the next at five. Still there was the wakeful interval, though a shorter one. The fourth morning he rose at four. That night his sleep was unbroken, and at four he continued to rise every morning. "By the same experiment," he suggested, "rising earlier and earlier every morning, anyone may find out how much sleep he really wants."

Dumbells and Church Bells.

Why do we call the wooden exercises we swing dumbells? Why dumb? Because centuries ago a favorite exercise was in the pattern of the apparatus by which the heavy bells of a church are swung—a task which calls for considerable energy on the part of the ringers. This apparatus was used sometimes for the purpose of training bell-ringers, and it is probable that its use as an exerciser was first suggested in this way. Later on, less cumbersome means of taking exercise were evolved, but the "dumbell" was still kept as the

CANADA'S LARGEST STEAMER.

Will Ply Between Southampton and Quebec.

A steamer, which has been ordered by the Canadian Pacific Railway, is being built by John Brown & Co., Clydebank, for service between Southampton and Quebec, will be 730 feet in length, 97 feet beam, about 40,000 tons gross register and with a sea speed of 24 knots, enabling the trip between Southampton and Quebec, via Cherbourg, to be made in five days. The vessel will be named Empress of Britain, and is expected to take her place in service in the spring of 1931. While the new ship will not be of the mammoth type now being constructed in Great Britain and Germany for service between British and Continental ports and New York, she will mark a distinct advance both in size and speed over any ship heretofore put in service between Canadian and British ports. Her accommodation will be luxurious, and she will be capable of carrying over 1,100 passengers in in first, second and third classes. In the opinion of the company's officers and designers, she will be an outstanding addition to the Canadian North Atlantic service.

The new Empress will be 50 feet longer and 20 feet wider than the Empress of Scotland, which is now the largest vessel in the St. Lawrence service, and her tonnage of 46,000 gross rates 15,000 tons more than that ship. Compared with the Duchess class of the Canadian Pacific, the tonnage of the new Empress is exactly double.

LIPTON REMEMBERS.

Proud of the Mother Who Was Proud of Her Boy.

Not long ago in the doorway of a tiny shop in Glasgow, bearing the name "Lipton's Market," Sir Thomas Lipton, the millionaire tea-merchant-yachtsman, stood and distributed innumerable packages of chocolate and biscuits to the poor children of the humble neighborhood.

Fifty years ago his first office was there, and on its walls hang the portraits of his father and mother. In the little shop round the corner from the Lipton office he used to sleep under the counter. He is proud of it, and proud of the mother who was proud of her boy and urged him on.

Now, at seventy-eight, he goes back again and stands near the little shop. It is another version of a scene 150 years ago when Dr. Samuel Johnson went back to stand bareheaded in the market-place of Uttoxeter, where his father's bookstall had been. But that was an act of penance; Sir Thomas Lipton's act is just a tribute to his parents and to his own kindly heart.

THE BLONDIN SPIRIT.

Daredevilry Still Lives In Famous Acrobat's Descendants.

Daredevilry equal to that of Blondin, who walked across the Niagara Falls on a tight-rope, still lives in the famous acrobat's descendants.

Not long ago one of Blondin's grandsons walked across a chain stretched between two high rocks in Cornwall, England, while one of his brothers crossed stretched a rope between the tops of the masts of a ship and then walked the rope, although the sea was none too calm.

A great-grandson of the Niagara hero is revealing the family talent at his home in Vancouver. Although only seven years old, he is performing all sorts of amazing tricks on his own account, and the day may come when he also will walk across Niagara with a man on his back and make the return journey on stilts.

The Most Accurate Clocks.

Probably the most accurate clocks in the world are two at Greenwich Observatory. Each is checked every 20 seconds by a pendulum, made of an alloy of steel and nickel called invar, swinging in a vacuum. A change of temperature of one degree Fahrenheit causes these pendulums to vary, but not more than a three-thousandth of a second in twenty-four hours.

COCOA.

Coenraad Johannes van Houten Invented Process In 1815.

A little over a hundred years ago a royal patent was granted by the King of the Netherlands to a young chocolate manufacturer, Coenraad Johannes van Houten, for an invention which adjusted the proportion of cocoa-butter in the cocoa-bean and by other means perfected a process for the manufacture of cocoa-powder as we know it to-day. This product, the quality of which has remained unchanged, laid the foundation of the flourishing house of C. J. van Houten and Zoon.

The business was actually established at Amsterdam in 1815, but its greatest development has been since 1850, when still under the auspices of the inventor a factory was established at the nearby and picturesque town of Weesp, where it has since been continuously developed. It was here that the centenary of the invention was celebrated, memories of the cocoa and chocolate industry from all parts of the world attending to pay homage to the memory of the great inventor. The festivities lasted a week and were honored by the attendance of the Dutch Minister of Labor and other high officials.

IDEAS MEANT MILLIONS

HOW SOME MEN MADE VAST FORTUNES.

The Road to Fortune Is Still Open to Those Who Can Blaze the Path for Themselves By the Irresistable Might of a New Idea.

A gift of £500,000, to be used as a trust for the benefit of hospitals and for home for orphans and crippled children, has centred attention on Mr. Bernhard Baron, the millionaire cigaretto manufacturer.

Before this latest gift, Mr. Baron had already given £1,250,000 to charity. Yet apart from the fact of his benevolence, very few people know very much about him. Not one in a thousand realizes that the life story of the great philanthropist is one of the most wonderful romances of modern business.

He emigrated, penniless and friendless, to America from Russia at the age of sixteen. At first he worked as a cigarette maker, using his deft fingers. Then his busy brain hit on the idea of a cigarette-making machine. He invented it. He went to England, started in a small way, and built up the great firm of Carreras.

Another story of an idea that meant millions is that of the Courtaulds. Rather more than a century ago a Huguenot family settled in Braintree, Essex, and work silk in an old oak-beamed mill. The family worked themselves and a few outside hands were employed.

The little business was handed down from generation to generation, bringing its owners a competence, but no more. Then, ten years ago, a notion of making artificial silk came to a member of the Courtauld family. After many difficulties, and in the face of much scoffing, this novel fabric was put on the market.

To-day no name is better known in the business world than that of Courtaulds Ltd., and the company recently distributed a share bonus of no less than £12,000,000.

Lack of capital is often cited as a reason for business failure. Yet most of the vast businesses of to-day were founded and developed by men who had to wrestle with this handicap.

Take the case of the late Col. Morrison. He left over £2,000,000. Yet when his father, the founder of the great firm of Morrison, Dillon & Co., started in life he had just enough money to open a tiny shop. He inaugurated what was then the start-line idea of small profits and quick returns.

That was another idea that meant wealth. When the elder Morrison died he left a fortune that made every one of his seven children millionaires. Incidentally, the State benefited from the Morrison millions to the tune of £11,000,000 in death duties.

Years ago a little boy named Mackintosh started to work at ten years of age. At twenty-one he married and opened a little shop. Instead of stocking all sorts of goods, he decided to sell but one. In a brass pan, at the back of the little shop, Mrs. Mackintosh boiled the first batches of the now world-famous toffee—a sweetmeat that made John Mackintosh a millionaire. His "one article" idea hads held the germ of a great idea had hold the germ of a great idea.

As romantic was the start of Joseph Lyons, who was shrewd enough to see that London had nowhere to drop in for a cup of tea. He started one shop in 1894. To-day the mammoth business which has grown from that small beginning serves some 10,000,000 meals a week.

Many years ago an East End Jew started to import little shells for decorating those old-fashioned picture-frames and what-not-boxes so popular in Victorian times. His son decided to extend the import business, and carried it almost all. When he died he was a poor and a multi-millionaire. But he did not forget the humble origin of the family success. For that reason he named his great oil company the Shell.

There was a time when those who could not afford carpets did with bare boards. Then came the invention of Linoleum and the chance of a shrewd Lancashire man. Starting without friends or capital, he introduced linoleum. To-day, as Lord Ashton, he is said to be worth something like £5,000,000.

Romantic, too, was the beginning of the man who has challenged comparison with Ford as the universal provider of cheap motors. Mr. Morris started as a cycle repairer in Oxford. He had little money, but great ability. The trend of invention picked him up and carried him forward upon its gigantic crest. He had the acumen to see what was happening in the realm of mechanical transport. To-day, still a young man, he reaps his reward.

There are countless other cases in which brains and initiative have been the basis of big fortunes.

In 1909 an American opened a shop in Bond Street, and he started work in the famous Marshall Field Stores, in New York, and had worked his way up to a high position. Recently this man, Mr. Gordon Selfridge, acquired control of the great Whitelev business, and thus made his company the biggest distributors of retail goods in Europe.

The story of how a keen, aggressive grocer's assistant got to control commercial career and proceeded from the little paternal business to the development of the vast Lever soap combine has been often told. Hard work, economy, vision were the failing that made Lord Leverhulme one of the world's greatest industrialists.

Quite recently there died Mr. John Sansbury, the provision king, leaving over £1,000,000. He opened his first shop in Drury Lane when he was only twenty-four. The business had over a hundred shops before the end of its founder's romantic career.

ONE OF LARGEST FISH HATCHERIES IS AT GLENORA

The Glenora Fish Hatchery has the largest capacity of any hatchery in Canada or the United States and at the present time is functioning almost to capacity with 190 million whitefish eggs and 95 million herrings and 9,850,000 trout eggs in the course of hatching and several thousand trout and whitefish which are about 2½ to 3 inches long.

Exchange Eggs.

Whitefish and herring eggs have been shipped from Glenora Hatchery this year to Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur, Port Francis and Normandale. Eggs have been received from these places here. By this change of eggs propogation of fish in local waters increase in size and hardiness. Herring 3 to 3¼ pounds have been secured as a result of propogation. The value of a hatchery is again seen in the fact that Sockeyed and Spring Salmon have been found in local waters as a result of fry being distributed.

A staff of twenty has been kept busy this season, securing and looking after the eggs.

One of Largest

The Glenora Hatchery is larger and more complete than any other in Canada and it is said the United States as well. Other Ontario Government hatcheries are located at Mount Pleasant, 2 miles from Banerofr; at Port Arthur; at Port Francis; at Normandale, near Simcoe and at Sault Ste. Marie. The Glenora hatchery is also the best local fish hatchery owing to its never-failing flow of water at an even temperature and pressure of the Lake-in-the-Mountain.

Mr. W. Coulter is the manager of the Glenora Hatchery and Mr. Walter Hicks is assistant manager.

COAL LEADS PRODUCTS OF NOVA SCOTIA MINES

Gypsum and Salt Hold Important Places — Renewed Interest in Gold Mining

Coal is one of the chief lines of mineral activity in Nova Scotia and is the chief mineral product; next comes gypsum, then salt. Iron ore, once mined having been largely displaced in the local iron and steel industry by imported ore, for several years, however, have seen a revival of interest in Nova Scotia mines.

The greater part of Nova Scotia coal output comes from the coal-fields in Cape Breton which is not only the largest but the most highly-developed coal-producing area in Canada. The recently completed No. 12 mine of the Dominion Coal Company, Ltd., is one of the finest examples on the North American continent of the application of modern devices and methods of permanent construction to the needs of the coal trade. It is estimated that the life of the mine will be at least 125 years, and that before it is worked out 140,000,000 tons of coal will have been hoisted through it.

The Sydney coal-field is the most important in the province, there are important productive fields in Pictou and Pictou counties on the mainland.

Gypsum was mined in Nova Scotia as early as 1829, but it is in recent years that the widespread use of the material for various purposes has led to a remarkable expansion. The present output of over 800,000 tons annually is more than three times that of all the rest of Canada. Gypsum deposits are of the widest occurrence in the central and eastern parts of the province and are extensively worked in a number of places in the vicinity of Windsor, in Hants county, though there is an increasing output from a number of quarries scattered over Cape Breton island. The Canada Cement Company recently opened a large quarries in Hants county, on the mainland, one of the largest production very large—less than 2 per cent of the output—is calcined in the province, nearly all of it being shipped to the United States ports.

Salt mining is the third most important and youngest mining industry in Nova Scotia. Commencing with small shipments in 1919 the value of the annual output is now well over $100,000. Malagash Salt Products, Ltd., at Malagash, Cumberland county, is the only producer. Parts of the Malagash saltbeds are so pure that excellent commercial grades of salt can be obtained by simply crushing and screening the rock as it comes from the mine. During the present year the company has added an evaporator to its plant, by means of which the less pure portions of the beds also can be utilized and the finest grades of domestic salt added to its commercial products. An interesting feature of the Malagash salt beds in the presence of potassium salts, which may ultimately be found in sufficient quantity to make their recovery profitable.

Gold mining has had a distinct revival in Nova Scotia during the last few years, and operations are reported on a dozen or more old mines. Production, however, is still limited to a few thousand ounces annually. There is a marked tendency towards the consolidation of properties with a view to more economical and systematic development.

Diatomaceous earth, a material extensively used as a heat insulator, for the purification of oils, etc., has for many years been extracted in a small way in Colchester County by the Oxford Tripoli Sales Company. This year a second company, Scotia Diatom Products, Ltd., has opened extensive deposits and started producing similar material near Little River in Digby County.

Zinc and lead do not yet appear in the list of Nova Scotia's mineral products but are likely to be listed shortly. Since early in 1927 the British Metals Corporation of Canada, Ltd., have been developing a zinc-lead prospect at Stirling, Cape Breton, and now announce that sufficient ore has been put in sight to warrant the erection of a 200 or 250-ton flotation mill for its treatment. The shipping products will be zinc concentrates and lead concentrates.

There is much activity in the investigation of known occurrences of copper, lead, zinc, and tungsten in various parts of the province, of tin at New Ross, and of auriferous antimony ore at West Gore in Hants County, and it is not unlikely that some of these prospects will in due course add to Nova Scotia's total mineral output.

"Did you follow my prescription?" inquired the physician.

"No," replied the patient, "for I had I should have broken my neck, because the draught blew it out of the window."

JANUARY ROD AND GUN

The national sporting magazine, Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News, commences another year with its January, 1929, issue, containing a splendid collection of outdoor, hunting and fishing yarns. Notable in a very interesting table of contents is an article from the pen of the well known naturalist, Jack Miner, strongly condemning the wolf as a destroyer of deer.

Among the other features are a fine western moose hunting story by Roy F. Hubel, a sound article on wolf trapping by Raymond Thompson, a well known trapping authority, in addition to many other splendid stories and articles on canoe trips, shooting and fishing. The Silver Fox News section contains among other things, a full report of the silver fox show at the Royal Winter Fair.

A NEW TOKIO ARISES

BEAUTY OF OLD JAPANESE CAPITAL DISAPPEARING.

Quakes Virtually Destroyed the Old City—In Its Place Is Rising a New City Built Along Modern Lines—Old Beauty Gone.

Tokio, the great Japanese capital, known to travellers a few years ago, has passed into history, writes Oliver McKee, Jr., in the Boston Transcript. Earthquake and fire, those destructive power ever threatens the people of the Mikado's realm, virtually destroyed the old Tokio, one of the most picturesque cities in the world. In its place is rising a new city built along modern lines.

The metamorphosis is as complete as that which, almost in a generation, has brought Japan herself out of the darkness of medievalism into the bright light of modern day.

We may regret the passing of the old, with its beauty, its picturesqueness. We must, however, welcome the new and admire the quick and resourcefulness of the Japanese people who are so quickly building a new capital on the foundations of the old.

The new city will be one of wide thoroughfares, steel and concrete buildings and fine bridges. Just as San Francisco, or Sydney, Australia, the new city will have modern waterworks and sewers, lighting and telephone systems, street car lines and subways. Furthermore, the Government is pushing the work forward rapidly. There is nothing of the traditional Oriental slowness about its procedure.

Four years after the earthquake over 60 per cent. of the reconstruction program of Tokio had been completed, and over 70 per cent. of the program for rebuilding Yokohama, port of Tokio and the door through which most travellers enter Japan. The latest reports show that the expenditures for reconstruction purposes had amounted to $612,000,000—a large sum in comparison with the national wealth of the Japanese people. Nor does this total include the great sums which the smaller towns between Tokio and Yokohama have spent. These swell the totals materially.

The earthquake and fire laid in ruins half the capital, and more than a quarter of Yokohama. In Tokio alone the property loss was placed at $2,000,000,000. With stoical determination the Japanese proceeded to set to work, immediately after the earthquake and fire, to reconstruct the devastated areas. The Government appointed a reconstruction commission. This body considered plans which involved an expenditure of more than $1,000,000,000. Some years later the whole work was turned over to the Ministry of Home Affairs. This is the Department which is now handling the reconstruction program for the Government.

The Japanese Government laid down four requirements for the reconstruction program. First, provision must be made for modern transportation of goods and people by wheeled motor vehicles, and the street cars and rapid transit systems. The man-pulled rickshaw, in a word, was to pass out of the picture, sooner or later. Second, the construction must be in accord with the dignity of an Imperial capital. For Tokio is the home of the Emperor Hirohito, loyalty to whom is the cornerstone of Japanese patriotism. Third, fire hazards must be reduced, and provision made for places of refuge from fire in the earthquake, by the creation of fireproof zones, and wide streets and parks. The need for this had been tragically demonstrated. Fourth, the Government insisted on the establishment of zoning system for industrial, commercial and residential structures.

This made necessary a radical change from the plan of the old Tokio. The readjustments were carried on in each section as a unit.

To give us a more graphic picture of the problem it was necessary to move more than 200,000 individual houses in Tokio, and about 20,000 in Yokohama. These houses had to be moved to new locations assigned their owner. The work at first necessarily proceeded very slowly. By September, 1927, 7,000 houses a month were being moved. Before the coming days are over the authorities hope to move a maximum of 7,000 houses a month.

The laying down of new streets and the improvements of existing ones constituted the biggest items in the reconstruction program. The plans for the new Tokio call for an extensive subway system. The engineers face a good many difficulties. But a start has been made. One short section has been completed, and is now in operation.

A sewer system, more or less a novelty in Japan, is being pushed forward with over-half of the work, it is estimated, has now been completed. Tokio once was a city famous for its smells, just as was medieval Paris in the days of Francois Villon. Here again the sacrifice of picturesqueness has some offsetting gains.

The reconstruction program has other important items. These include the allocation of parks, the building of schools, markets, hospitals, waterworks, electrical stations, and power houses, and a zoning system, all along the most approved modern lines. The big companies are erecting offices that are both earthquake and fireproof.

Notable among these is the Mitsui Bank Building, which is said to be the largest building in the world devoted exclusively to banking.

WOMAN'S VOICE IN BELL.

Legend Connected With Bell in Chinese Temple.

The most wonderful bronze bell in the world hangs in the temple of Ta Chung-tsu near Pekin. It is like an inverted cone, 14 feet high; 34 feet in circumference and nine inches thick at the lip. It weighs 52 tons, is engraved inside and out with 84,000 characters, each one-half of an inch square. It was cast 500 years ago by order of Emperor Yung Lo.

The pouring of the liquid metal into the mold resulted five times in failure until a living human was sacrificed in the molten metal. Resolved to save her father, the girl, when the hot metal was being poured, leaped into the mold. She was consumed instantly. When the bell was dug out, its shape was perfect; its mellow tone delighted Yung Lo. But those who heard it discerned a sadness as of a woman's voice, a haunting wail of womanhood which has sounded through the ages.

ICE CREAM.

Matter of Dispute Whether It Originated In France or Italy.

It is a matter of dispute between France and Italy as to which country first produced ice cream. The Italians claim that they manufactured sorbets during the fourteenth century. The sorbet was the juice of fruits, which was frozen on icy snow. This became so popular in Italy that toward the end of the eighteenth century all sorts of ice were called sorbet. The French Commander Conde, who made himself a name as the victor in the Battle of Rocroy in 1643, had a Swiss cook, called Vatel. One day King Louis XIV announced a visit to Conde, and Vatel made it a point to offer the king and his courtiers an incomparable excellent dinner. The chief surprise of the meal was to be the dessert. Each of the noblemen who gathered around the dinner table was surprised to see the dessert, served on gilded silver plates. It looked like an Easter egg, colored, but without a shell. These cold eggs were made of splendid tasting, aromatic ice. From that day on Vatel's dessert ice was triumphant in the fashionable homes of France.

The Fathometer.

On the U. S. steamship Leviathan has been installed an instrument, which enable the Recurse of the ship to be plotted as accurately in darkness and fog as in clear daylight.

It is known as the fathometer, and measures the depth of water continuously by timing electric echoes.

Tests have proved that the fathometer is especially valuable when a ship is approaching land, where knowledge of depth is most important.

With its aid the Leviathan, which left New York for Southampton, was able to pick up the 100 fathom curve off the Grand Banks at full speed, where formerly it was necessary to come almost to a stop to permit hearing the lead.

Echoes picked up by the fathometer are translated in fathoms of depth on a clock-like dial. The instrument has been adopted by the United States navy.

Elephants in Lumber Camps.

Burmese lumber yards would be incomplete without elephants. These huge and most sagacious animals are used for rolling the logs into position for the sawing; with their heads, they run the logs up two inclined slides to the platform; two elephants do the pushing, and a third elephant acts as boss. In his trunk the boss carries a few links of anchor chain, which he uses as a whip if one elephant falls behind. When the whistle blows they all know that it is time to stop work and eat. It makes no difference whether they have a log within a fraction of an inch of the platform; the boss drops his anchor chain and gets out of the way, and the pushers step to one side and let the log crash.

His Master's Voice.

A pet dog that had been stolen escaped from captivity, and adopted by a country doctor has been recovered by its owner, a Dutch professor, by a curious wireless experience.

While listening to the professor broadcasting from a Dutch wireless station, the dog's step-dad master noticed the unusual excitement shown by the animal at the sounds of the voice from the loud-speaker. Realizing if it might be his master's voice that aroused the dog's interest, he got into touch with the professor and was soon able to return the dog to its rightful owner.

An Engineering Feat.

An engineering feat of first importance, the automobile road between Rio de Janeiro and the city of Petropolis, 2,600 feet above sea level, has just been completed. The road is some forty miles long, and runs through a mountainous region, but has no grades steeper than six per cent. Many huge cuts, fills and bridgings had to be made in its construction.

COAL LEADS PRODUCTS OF NOVA SCOTIA MINES

Gypsum and Salt Hold Important Place—Renewed Interest in Gold Mining

Mining is one of the chief lines of industry in Nova Scotia and coal is the most important product; next in importance, then salt. Iron ore, once mined having been displaced in the local iron industry for many years, however, have seen a revival of interest in Nova Scotia mines.

The greater part of Nova Scotia's output comes from the Sydney coal-field in the province, which is not only the largest producer but the most highly-developed and productive in the Dominion. The recently-completed No. 12 of the Dominion Coal Company, which is primarily a mine of undersea coal, is one of the most complete on the North American continent of the application of modern appliances and methods of permanent construction to the needs of the coal industry. It is estimated that the life of this mine will be at least 125 years and possibly 200 years; and that before it is exhausted in the province there will have been hoisted through it from the Sydney coal-field is the most important in the province; there are also important productive fields in Cumberland and Pictou counties on the mainland.

Gypsum was mined in Nova Scotia as early as 1829, but it is in recent years that the industry has had its most notable expansion. The present output is over 800,000 tons annually—more than three times that of all the rest of Canada. Gypsum deposits of an excellent grade of material are found in the central and southern parts of the province and have been actively worked in a number of places, the chief producing centre being the county of Windsor, in Hants county, which there is an increasing-ly large output from a number of quarries operated over Cape Breton Island and Nova Scotia. Cement Company has recently opened large quarries in Hants County, on the western side of the large production very consider-ably—less than 2 per cent of the output is exported to the United States points.

Salt mining is the third most important and youngest mining industry in Nova Scotia. Commencing with small shipments in 1910 the value of the annual output is now well over $1,000,000. Malagash Salt Products, Ltd., at Malagash, Cumberland county, is the only producer. Parts of the Malagash bed are so pure that excellent commercial grades of salt can be obtained by simply crushing and screening the rock as it comes from the mine. During the present year the company has added an evaporator to its plant, by means of which the less pure portions of the beds also can be utilized and the finest grades of domestic salt added to its commercial products. An interesting feature of the Malagash salt beds in the presence of potassium salts, which may ultimately be found in sufficient quantity to make their recovery profitable.

Gold mining has had a distinct revival in Nova Scotia during the last few years, and operations are reported on a dozen or more old mines. Production, however, is still limited to a few thousand ounces annually. There is a marked tendency towards the consolidation of properties with a view to more economical and systematic development.

Diatomaceous earth, a material extensively used as a heat insulator, for the purification of oils, etc., has for many years been extracted in a small way in Colchester County by the Oxford Tripoli Sales Company. This year a second company, Scotia Diatom Products, Ltd., has opened extensive deposits and started producing similar material near Little River in Digby County.

Zinc and lead do not yet appear in the list of Nova Scotia's mineral products but are likely to be listed shortly. Since early in 1927 the British Metals Corporation of Canada, Ltd. have been developing a zinc-lead prospect at Stirling, Cape Breton, and now announce that sufficient ore has been put in sight to warrant the erection of a 200 or 250-ton flotation mill for its treatment. The shipping products will be zinc concentrates and lead concentrates.

There is much activity in the investigation of known occurrences of copper, lead, zinc, and tungsten in various parts of the province, of tin at New Ross, and of auriferous antimony ore at West Gore in Hants County, and it is not unlikely that some of these prospects will in due course add to Nova Scotia's total mineral output.

"Did you follow my prescription?" inquired the physician.

"No," replied the patient; "if I had I should have broken my neck, because the draught blew it out of the window."

JANUARY ROD AND GUN

The national sporting magazine, Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News, commences another year with its January, 1929, issue, containing a splendid collection of outdoor, Canada's finest sporting Parrot. Notable in a very interesting, table of contents is an article from the pen of the well known naturalist, Jack Miner, strongly condemning the wolf as a destroyer of deer.

Among the other features are a fine western moose hunting story by Roy F. Hubel, a sound article on wolf trapping by Bainbridge Thompson, a well known trapping authority, in addition to many other splendid stories and articles on canoe trips, shooting and fishing. The Silver Fox News section contains among other things, a full report of the silver fox show at the Royal Winter Fair.

BATH INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of Bath Institute was held at Mrs. Stevenson's. After the opening exercises, old business was cleared up. Arrangements were made to prepare Xmas treats for our needy families; also the presentation of a prize to Bath School.

Plans were made to find out all possibilities concerning music in the schools.

Mrs. Galt gave a splendid paper on "Immigration". Mrs. Ham, the district President, was our special visitor, and gave a splendid paper on "Maternal Mortality". In it she brought to our notice some of the dangers and how they can be overcome. It is up to the Women's Institute to do their bit.

The meeting closed in the usual way, after which the hostess served a very dainty lunch.

The January meeting is at Mrs. Galt's, the second Monday of January, at 1.30 p.m.

A NEW TOKIO ARISES

BEAUTY OF OLD JAPANESE CAPITAL DISAPPEARING.

Quakes Virtually Destroyed the Old City—In Its Place Is Rising a New City Built Along Modern Lines—Old Beauty Gone.

Tokio, the great Japanese capital, known to travellers a few years ago, has passed into history, writes Oliver McKee, Jr., in the Boston Transcript. Earthquake and fire, whose destructive power ever threatens the people of the Mikado's realm, virtually destroyed the old Tokio, one of the most picturesque cities in the world. In its place is rising a new city built along modern lines.

The metemorphosis is an complete as that which, almost in a generation, has brought Japan herself out of the darkness of medievalism into the bright light of modern day.

We may regret the passing of the old, with its beauty, its picturesqueness. We must, however, welcome the new and admire the pluck and resourcefulness of the Japanese people who are so quickly building a new capital on the foundations of the old.

The new city will be one of wide thoroughfares, steel and concrete buildings and fine bridges. Just as San Francisco, or Sydney, Aus ralia, the new city will have modern waterworks and sewers, lighting and telephone systems, street car lines and subways. Furthermore, the Government is pushing the work forward rapidly. There is nothing of the traditional Oriental slowness about its procedure.

Four years after the earthquake over 60 per cent. of the reconstruction program of Tokio had been completed, and over 70 per cent. of the program for rebuilding Yokohama, port of Tokio and the door through which most travellers enter Japan. The latest reports show that the expenditures for reconstruction purposes had amounted to $612,000,000 —a large sum in comparison with the national wealth of the Japanese people. Nor does this total include the great sums which the smaller towns between Tokio and Yokohama have spent. These swell the totals materially.

The earthquake and fire laid in ruins half the capital, and more than a quarter of Yokohama. In Tokio alone the property loss was placed at $2,000,000,000. With stoical determination the Japanese proceeded to set to work, immediately after the earthquake and fire, to reconstruct the devastated areas. The Government appointed a reconstruction commission. That body considered plans which involved an expenditure of more than $1,000,000,000. Some time later the whole work was turned over to the Ministry of Home Affairs. This is the Department which is now handling the reconstruction program for the Government.

The Japanese Government laid down the fundamentals for the reconstruction program. First, provision must be made for modern transportation of goods and people by wheeled motor vehicles and the street cars and rapid transit system. The man-pulled rickshaw, in a word, was to pass out of the picture, sooner or later. Second, the construction must be in accord with the dignity of an Imperial capital. For Tokio is the home of the Emperor Hirohito, loyalty to whom is the cornerstone of Japanese patriotism. Third, fire hazards must be reduced, and provision made for places of refuge from fire and earthquake, by the creation of fireproof zones, and wide avenues and parks. The need for this had been tragically demonstrated. Fourth, the Government insisted on the establishment of zoning system for industrial, commercial and residential structures.

This made necessary a radical change from the plan of the old Tokio. The readjustments were carried on in each section as a unit.

To give us a more graphic picture of the problem, it was necessary to move more than 200,000 individual houses in Tokio, and about 26,000 in Yokohama. These houses had to be moved to new locations assigned their owner. The work at first necessarily proceeded very slowly. By September, 1927, 7,000 houses a month were being moved. Before the moving fars are over the authorities hope to move a maximum of 7,000 houses a month.

The laying down of new streets and the improvements of existing ones constituted the biggest items in the reconstruction program. The plans for the new Tokio call for an extensive subway system. The engineers face a good many difficulties. But a start has been made. One short section has been completed, and is now in operation.

A sewer system, more or less a novelty in Japan, is being pushed forward and over half of the work, it is estimated, has now been completed. Tokio once was a city famous for its smells. Just as was medieval Paris in the days of Francois Villon. Here again the sacrifice of picturesqueness has some offsetting gains.

The reconstruction program has other important items. These include the allocation of parks, the building of schools, markets, hospitals, water works, electrical stations, and power houses, and a zoning system, all along the most approved modern lines. The big companies are erecting offices that are both earthquake and fireproof.

Notable among these is the Mitsui Bank Building, which is said to be the largest building in the world devoted exclusively to banking.

Ah!

"I was saying some good things about you to a man this morning."

"Thanks. What did you tell him?"

"I said you had a bigger house, garden and plot of land than anyone else in the district."

"Whom did you say it to?"

"The tax collector." — Christian Science Monitor.

A new idea at weddings is to have a best girl. She sees that the bride doesn't mislay the groom.

WOMAN'S VOICE IN BELL.

Legend Connected With Bell in Chinese Temple.

The most wonderful bronze bell in the world hangs in the temple of Ta Chung-Jsu near Pekin. It is like an inverted chalice, 14 feet high; 24 feet in circumference and nine inches thick at the lip. It weighs 52 tons, is engraved inside and out with 86,000 characters, each one-half of an inch square. It was cast 500 years ago by order of Emperor Yung Lo.

The pouring of the liquid metal into the mold resulted five times in failure and the emperor gave the bellmaker another chance, warning him that if it resulted in failure death would be his punishment. As the story goes, a beautiful daughter of the bell-maker, hearing of her father's impending doom, raised a shrine and besought the aid of the gods. She was told that the bell would never ring until a living human was sacrificed in the molten metal. Resolved to save her father, the girl, when the hot metal was being poured, leaped into the mold. She was consumed instantly. When the bell was dug out, its shape was perfect; it had a mellow tone delighted Yung Lo. But those who heard it discerned a sadness as of a woman's voice, a beautiful wail of womanhood which has sounded through the ages.

ICE CREAM.

Matter of Dispute Whether It Originated In France or Italy.

It is a matter of dispute between France and Italy as to which country first produced ice cream. The Italians claim that they manufactured sorbets during the fourteenth century. The sorbet was the juice of fruits which was frozen on icy snow. This became so popular in Italy that toward the end of the eighteenth century all sorts of ice were called sorbet. The French Commander Conde, who made himself a name as the victor in the Battle of Rocroy in 1643, had a Swiss cook, called Vatel. One day King Louis XIV announced a visit to Conde, and Vatel made it a point to offer the king and his courtiers an incomparable excellent dinner. The chief surprise of the meal was to be the desert. Each of the noblemen who gathered around the dinner table was surprised to see the dessert, served on gilded silver plates. It looked like an Easter egg, colored, but without a shell. These cold egg were made of splendid tasting, aromatic ice. From that day on Vatel's dessert ice was triumphant in the fashionable homes of France.

The Fathometer.

On the U. S. steamship Leviathan which has been installed an instrument, which enable the course of the ship to be plotted as accurately in darkness and fog as in clear daylight.

It is known as the fathometer, and measures the depth of water continuously by timing electric echoes.

Tests have proved that the fathometer is especially valuable when a ship is approaching land, where knowledge of depth is most important.

With its aid the Leviathan, which left New York for Southampton, was able to pick up the 100 fathom curve off the Grand Banks at full speed, where formerly it was necessary to reduce speed to a stop to permit heaving the lead.

Echoes picked up by the fathometer are translated in fathoms of depth on a clock-like dial. The instrument has been adopted by the United States navy.

Elephants in Lumber Camps.

Burmese lumber yards would be incomplete without elephants. These huge and most sagacious animals are used for rolling the logs into position for the saws. Pushing with their heads, they run the logs up two inclined slides to the platform; two elephants do the pushing, and a third elephant acts as boss. In his trunk the boss carries a few links of anchor chain, which he uses as a whip if one elephant falls behind. When the boss blows they all know that it is time to stop work and eat. It makes no difference whether they have a log within a fraction of an inch of the platform; the boss drops his anchor chain and gets out of the way, and the pushers step to one side and let the log crash.

His Master's Voice.

A pet dog that had been stolen escaped from captivity, and adopted by a country doctor has been recovered by its owner, a Dutch professor, by a curious wireless coincidence.

While listening to the professor broadcasting from a Dutch wireless station, the dog's keen ear must have noticed the unusual excitement shown by the animal at the sounds of the voice from the loud speaker. Wondering if it might be his master's voice that aroused the dog's interest, he got into wireless communication and was soon able to return the dog to its rightful owner.

An Engineering Feat.

An engineering feat of first importance, the automobile road between Rio de Janeiro and the city of Petropolis, 2,600 feet above sea level, has just been completed. The road is some forty miles long, and runs through a mountainous area, but has no grades steeper than six per cent. Many huge cuts, fills and bridgings had to be made in its construction.

Spain Bans Flirtation.

The new penal code of Spain provides punishment for the "grievous" act of a man in addressing a compliment to a strange woman in the street giving her the "glad eye." The offence will be punishable in serious cases by imprisonment of from 5 to 10 days and a fine of from about $2 to $82.50.

Bicycles In Holland.

The bicycle is the favorite means of travel in Holland; there are approximately two bicycles to every five persons.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear Husband and Father, Mr. Chas. D. Markle, who departed this life on Dec. 23rd, 1923.

This month brings back a memory
Of our loved one laid to rest;
And those who think of him to-day
Are those who loved him best.

We, who loved you, sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year;
In the lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are always near.

But now he has departed
For the land beyond the skies;
But for those who love him,
He still lingers nigh.

In God's own time our eyes shall see
The face we loved so well;
Some day, some time, our hands shall clasp,
And never say farewell.

Ever remembered by his loving Wife and Family.—Mrs. Chas. Markle, daughters Eva and Gladys, and one son, William. 51a

ON THE JOB

THIS YOUNG LADY is coming to work. She is an operator. She is always on the job whether it is stormy or not. And at whatever hour you call her she is pleasant and efficient.

The people in the telephone service make courtesy a habit. It is part of the efficiency with which they serve.

There are 15,000 men and women engaged in the telephone system of Ontario and Quebec. They handle over four million calls every day and, in spite of the constant cry for speed, there is scarcely a case of conscious discourtesy or neglect.

THE COMPANY IS PROUD of these 15,000 men and women and has endeavored to make their work as agreeable, healthful and stable as possible. Several hundred present employees have been with the system fer more than twenty-five years.

This stability of staff maintains high standards of operation and is encouraged by the Employees' Pension and Benefit Fund, established in 1917, to protect employees in illness or accident, and to provide for their future and for their dependents.

There is also a plan of Employees' Life Insurance, by which out of salary, employees may carry without undue burden insurance to care for their dependents. This plan has been arranged in co-operation with Canadian insurance companies at regular rates.

IN ADDITION to this factor of stability an active interest in the telephone system is encouraged by the plan of employees' purchase of shares and by the plan of employee representation.

Some years ago telephone employees were given opportunity to become shareholders in the company and 10,000 of them have subscribed for shares on instalment payments. For some years also, spokesmen selected by the staff have met with representatives of the management to discuss such matters as wages, hours, tools and working conditions. This has not only stimulated interest but promoted efficiency.

THESE THINGS are the basis of the alertness and enterprise which have become a tradition of telephone work.

It is demonstrated among the 4,500 men in the plant department. Over 3,500 of them have qualified for St. John's Ambulance Corps first aid certificates and because of their outdoor duties they are frequently nearby when accidents occur. There have been many instances in which their voluntary response has saved life and relieved suffering.

The same spirit has become familiar in the enterprise and courage with which operators rise to an emergency.

WHETHER IT BE the night operator on the job at midnight or the lineman fighting a winter storm, the men and women of the telephone service give their best in contributing to Canadian progress and well deserve whatever benefits the company is able to offer.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.

ARTESIAN WELLS IN LONDON.

Water In Large Buildings Being Drawn Up From Chalk.

While villages up and down the country board up their wells at the coming of the pipe-lines, London is preferring to get its water from the cool chalk 500 feet beneath its busy streets, says the London Daily Mail.

The time has come, indeed, when tens of thousands of workers in the biggest, newest buildings in the city and west end can turn the tables on the countryman and say: "The country life may be all right, but give me the sparkling well-water of the city."

In an advertisement describing the opening of the new building of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in the heart of London, were the words:

"Drinking water is obtained from two artesian wells sunk to a depth of 450 feet into chalk. The water is of remarkable purity."

Mr. W. Webster, a director of Messrs. C. Isler & Co. Ltd., artesian well engineers, said to a reporter:

"Many artesian wells have been sunk since the form of supply was chosen for the new Northcliffe House. I should estimate that there are now 1,500 in London."

"Laundries, breweries, gas works, and factories in hundreds are now getting the large quantities of water they require from the huge natural reservoir which lies under London. Water board officials may well look askance at London's new buildings, for, fitted with artesian wells as most of them are, they have to pay no water rate.

"As large offices have to pay from £200 to £600 a year in water rate if they use the public supply — one business which installed an artesian well used to pay £4,000 a year, so that the saving is immense.

"The Bank of England has saved a £3,000 water rate by getting its water from a well."

CROWDING OF THE EARTH.

Sir George Knibbs Predicts Restriction of Population.

If the population of the world continues to increase at the present rate of one per cent. a year, it will within two centuries exceed the maximum which the earth can support and feed, says Sir George H. Knibbs.

Sir George is professor of physics at Sydney University and chief statistician to the Australian Commonwealth Government, and he gives his views in a book, "The Shadow of the World's Future."

The present world's population is about 1,950,000,000 now. If it increased at the rate of 0.884 per cent. there would be 7,125,000,000 inhabitants in 2128—200 years hence.

Sir George forecasts the time not so very far ahead, when man will be forced to become more vegetarian in his diet in order to economize the earth space available per head. For the same reason fish and sea products generally will be drawn upon to a very much greater extent. He continues:

"The extraordinary increase in the standard of living which has characterized the last few decades must quickly be brought to a standstill or be determined by the destructive forces of human extravagance. Very soon world politics will have to face the question of whether it is better that there should be larger numbers and more modest living, or fewer numbers and lavish living."

Some measure of birth control in some way or other is inevitable, he says, in view of the imminence of food shortage.

A PIOUS PIGEON.

Followed Last Communicant Up Six Steps to Altar.

Canon Gay, vicar of Christchurch, describes in his parish magazine the pious behaviour of a pigeon in the Priory church, says an article in Tit-Bits.

"While celebrating at the high altar," he writes, "I noticed a pigeon perched on the carved wood screen immediately over the head of one of the worshippers. She seemed curiously expectant, watching me with her head turned slightly sideways.

"At the administration, to my utter surprise, when the worshippers left their seats, the pigeon flew to the ground, and with great solemnity walked up the six steps to the altar rails immediately after the last communicant.

"To my further astonishment, she actually thrust herself between two kneeling worshippers. There were only a few inches to spare, and she remained in the sanctuary until the communicants returned to their seats. Thereupon, after walking around the server, she again followed the last communicant and returned to her perch."

Grand Old Man of Song.

The two most popular song-writers in the English language are Robert Burns and Mr. F. E. Weatherley, K.C., author of "Nancy Lee," "Darby and Joan," and other favorites. He recently celebrated his eightieth birthday. His father was also a barrister by profession, and, besides his two sons I have mentioned, "Thomas Adolphus," "They All Love Jack," and "The Old Bridge" are a few of his happy efforts which have been on everybody's lips at some time or other. He has written a new song for his eightieth birthday.

Population Increases.

Australia's population increased in the first quarter of 1928 by 27,866 to 6,262,720 persons, the natural increase being 20,348 and the gain by migration was 7,509, according to figures just issued. Births, deaths, and marriages numbered 25,122, 12,765, and 11,935 respectively.

THE ARTIFICIAL SILK OR RAYON INDUSTRY

Dominion Has Essential Materials for Large Development—Facilities for Research Important

Canada has the essential materials for a large artificial or rayon industry and its growth holds out great possibilities both in the enhancement in value of forest resources and in the development of an industry producing a highly manufactured product requiring skilled personnel. In her vast forest wealth is the raw material for the manufacture of cellulose and in her great water-powers lies the energy needed for the economical production of the cellulose and the important chemicals required in the manufacture of artificial silk. Great forest and water-power resources in close proximity to centres of population place Canada in an important position in the rayon producing field. The significance of such development may be indicated by the value of the world's production of rayon which in 1927 amounted in round figures to $300,000,000.

Careful consideration must be given to the development of this young industry in Canada. With the gradual perfecting of different processes of manufacture, economic considerations will necessitate a careful study of the future supply of raw materials. At present over half of the cellulose pulp used in the manufacture of viscose rayon is produced in Canada from Canadian spruce. A few years ago cotton was the only available source of cellulose of sufficient uniformity for rayon. Refinement in the methods of manufacture of sulphite pulp from wood has caused it to be favoured to-day but research work is continuing with a better cellulose as the object. The beautiful fibre of spruce is invaluable for paper but it is not absolutely essential for rayon. Chemical purity, rather than shape or size of fibre is the primary consideration in the pre duction of rayon. Cornstalks, straw, and waste hardwoods are all possibilities as sources of raw material.

Power resources are an important factor in the rayon industry. A ton of viscose rayon requires, besides a ton and a half of cellulose pulp, about two tons of caustic soda, plus considerable amounts of other chemicals. Caustic soda is generally produced by an electrolytic process, and can be readily manufactured in Canada. Ten per cent of the world's production of caustic soda now goes to the rayon industry. Cellulose acetate or "celanese" rayon requires large quantities of acetic acid, acetone, and related chemicals. One Canadian company manufacturing celanese produces all the chemicals required in its own plant.

In the light of the present status of the rayon industry in Canada, it is well to consider its history to date. It was not a chance discovery which brought to the world this beautiful textile material but rather long, patient research by chemists and engineers. Leon Berniaud, Count of Chardonnet, the father of the artificial silk industry, took out his first patents in France in 1884, and opened his first factory in 1885. Cross and Bevan, English chemists, secured the original patents for the viscose process in 1892 and for the acetate process in 1894. In 1904 the United States rights for the viscose process sold for $2,500; to-day, 80 per cent of the world's rayon is made by this method. The comparatively long interval between the discovery of rayon and its appearance on the market in commercial quantities was due: (1) to the great amount of development work of a chemical and engineering nature required before volume production was possible and (2) to the advent of the Great War which diverted the attention of chemists and engineers engaged on rayon research to the more immediate problem of explosives.

The future of the rayon and related industries in Canada is not only dependent on vast resources of wood and power, but also on facilities for scientific research in connection with raw material for manufacture. The Pulp and Paper Division of the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada by co-operative agreement between the Department of the Interior and the Pulp and Paper Association is now established in the same building in Montreal with the Department of Cellulose Chemistry of McGill University. Thus Canada is placed in a unique and favourable position for the development of this highly important industry.

THE BUGLER BOY V.C.

Jack Dunn Won Medal for Disobedience of Orders.

What becomes of V.C.'s? Most adult readers will remember Bugler Jack Dunn, V.C., who won the coveted honor at the age of fourteen in the Boer War. The writer of this article says a friend in Australia told of Mr. Dunn having to give up his post as chief steward of a liner journeying between Sydney and the Philippines because the line has changed hands.

Jack Dunn won the V.C. for disobedience, really. He was given the order to sound the retreat at the action of Modder River. The fourteen-year-old boy refused to blow it. He swam the river, and as he climbed out on the bank his bugle arm was hit by an enemy bullet. He put up the bugle in his other hand and blew the attack. The soldiers, inspired by the courage, swept the enemy back before them and won the action. After the war the music-halls supported him for a while.

BILLIARDS.

Considerable Transformation Since It Was First Introduced.

The game of billiards has undergone considerable transformation since it was first introduced. The game first became fashionable when recommended to Louis XIV. by his doctors.

In the early eighteenth century the table was square, with three pockets only on one side. In the middle was set up a small arch of iron, and beyond this was a mark, called the king, and the player had to drive the mark without upsetting either.

By a statute not very ancient, billiards was declared to be an unlawful game in England, and it was an offence, punishable by a fine of ten pounds, to keep a table in a public-house. The original game, which seems to have been a kind of croquet, was played on the ground, the players kneeling.

SUBSTITUTE FOR COTTON.

Would Revolutionize the Industry of the Old Country.

Experiments the results of which are likely to revolutionize the cotton industry of the Old Country, and the whole world are now being made in England with a view to finding a suitable substitute for cotton.

The subject has made considerable progress in Germany, and it may be said at once that a substitute (whether suitable or not) has already been found.

The small body of men who are pursuing the question in England are optimistic, it is understood, of future developments.

The raw material for this substitute is a cheap type of fibre from flax grown in England. When it is remembered that many millions of pounds are spent yearly on the importation of cotton from the United States, while flax and linseed can be obtained within the Empire, the subject assumes an added significance.

"It boils down to this: can you spin short fibre flax for use in the present machinery?" said a leading figure in the textile world.

"At present flax has got to be long fibre. The job is to get short fibre flax to spin like cotton. I believe it is quite possible to treat the rougher grades of flax to give a short staple material with some of the properties of cotton.

"The fibre of linseed is now burnt as useless, so it can be imagined what a wonderful raw material for Lancashire this will make if it can be treated successfully. And these materials can be obtained from India and Canada.

"The finished material will be considerably stronger than cotton, and in my opinion is bound to revolutionize the industry. Always providing, of course, that short fibre material can be adapted to the machinery that exists at present."

"BOBBY'S" UNIFORM.

British Policemen to Have Different Clothes.

In a short time the policeman as we know him to-day—"the man in blue"—may have given place to a gendarme with a black cape and a peaked hat, says an Old Country paper. It is understood that the police authorities are contemplating a drastic change in the organization of the police forces of the country, which will include the abolition of the present uniform and a lowering of the standard of height.

The uniform of the constable of to-day shows little alteration from that of a hundred years ago, and it is realized that it is unsuitable for modern conditions.

The Metropolitan Police will probably be the first to wear the new uniforms, for which designs will be invited; and provincial cities and towns will, it is expected, alter the style of their police uniforms and equipment. It is possible that in future each town and borough will have a distinctive uniform for its police.

The cumbersome helmets worn at present will be replaced by another form of headgear that will be neat and dignified.

Lowering of the standard of height will be a reform long overdue. Many men well fitted for this important profession are debarred from entering the force on account of their lack of inches. Ex-Superintendent Troest, who captured the native dancer, Jabez Balfour, after a thrilling race on horseback against a train in the Argentine, was under the limit of height, but was given special permission to enter the force.

GLASS YOU CAN'T BREAK.

Can Be Adapted to One Hundred Different Uses.

Inventors have been trying for centuries to produce unbreakable glass, and it is now claimed that a Liverpool professor and his son, working in collaboration with an Austrian chemist, have discovered the secret that has baffled so many others.

The new glass is not only unbreakable, it admits the health-giving ultra-violet rays, and can be adapted to one hundred different uses.

According to history, unbreakable glass was discovered before—in the days of the Romans. The inventor showed a glass cup to the Emperor Tiberius. He threw this cup on the floor, denting it in places, and then knocked it into shape again with a hammer.

"Does anyone else know of this secret," asked Tiberius. And when the inventor replied, "No," the emperor ordered him to be put to death. He was afraid the unbreakable glass might cause a slump in the value of gold and silver.

Need Our Flour.

Experiments carried out by a Calcutta biscuit manufacturer with some samples of Canadian flour shipped to Calcutta by a Canadian milling firm have been highly satisfactory, writes the Canadian Trade Commissioner in Calcutta, in the Commercial Intelligence Journal. Indian bakers have been experiencing heavy losses due to the high percentage of breakages in biscuits made entirely of Indian flour. Mixing flour by using Canadian and Indian flours breakage was reduced from 45.5 to 7.09 per cent. It is quite natural that as a result of such experiments, that in time, there will be a small but steady demand for Canadian flour in India.

Sir Thomas' Suit.

We hear of an amusing new story of Sir Thomas Lipton. On a recent visit to Madame Tussaud's the other day to see the new effigy of himself. He did not like the suit with which it was clothed. So he sent down one of his own yachting suits, and it is this which the figure now wears.

An Increase of 205,000.

The population of Great Britain and Ireland at the end of last year was estimated at 48,293,000; an increase of 205,000 on the previous year.

Rogers "Four Hundred" Highboy

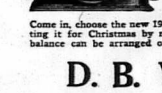
Developed this year as the result of a definite demand for a Rogers Highboy Model. Automatic Voltage Control, Rogers Output Filter and Phonograph "Plug-in" Jack. Genuine Walnut Cabinet. Price complete..... $250.00

Say it with a "Rogers"

If you're planning to say "Merry Christmas" to your family with a Radio—say it with a Rogers and be sure.

Years before any other electric radio was successfully marketed anywhere on this Continent there were thousands of Rogers-Batteryless Radios in every day use right across Canada. The Rogers has been tried, tested, perfected and more Rogers-Batteryless Radios are sold than all other electric sets combined. Just ask the owner of a four-year-old Rogers-Batteryless how he likes it and what service he has had!

There is nothing, in all the world of gifts, that will bring the spirit of Christmas into your home like a Radio. And the programs that will flood the air during the holiday season will more than compensate you for the small cost of a Rogers.



"Four Twenty" Table Model

Same radio equipment as the "Four Hundred" Highboy, without Speaker Genuine Walnut cabinet by Malcolm. Price complete (except Loud Speaker)..... $165.00

Christmas 1928

WE extend to all our Customers and Friends Best Wishes for a Happy Christmas and a Prosperous New Year.

The Royal Bank of Canada

1928 Christmas Seals

The 1928 Christmas Seals, in aid of the Muskoka and Toronto Hospitals for Consumptives, have just been issued. These handsome Seals, bearing the double-barred Red Cross, carry a message of hope to those who are afflicted with consumption. Every dollar received through their sale is used for the maintenance of patients.

The National Sanitarium Association is in need of funds to carry on the work of its hospitals in Muskoka and at Weston. Why not buy these Seals in lieu of others? Not only will you get good value in return, but your money will serve a greater end — for it will go to help someone in distress.

Look for the double-barred Red Cross on every packet. None others are genuine.

For sale by school children and banks, or direct from the Xmas Seal Department, Gage Institute, Toronto 2, Ontario.

RAILWAY FOR BERMUDA.

First Railroad on the Islands Will be Twenty-Nine Miles Long.

The insular government of Bermuda, caught in the rush of progress, has authorized the construction of a 29-mile railroad, the first on the islands.

The cost will exceed $1,000,000 and all the capital is British. The directors of the British Traction Company are the Marquis of Winchester, Lord Darlington, Arthur F. Hadley, Ernest T. Thornton Smith, Sir George Levenson Gower and G. C. Hamilton.

All are officials of British railroad companies. Ten miles will be completed this year and the system will be electrified from the start.

The question of better transportation in Bermuda has been a topic of partisan discussion for many years. The proposal to establish motor buslines instead of a railroad was finally rejected because of the old public sentiment against the presence of automobiles on the islands.

Proving Expensive Job.

Sydney's harbor bridge, estimated to cost £5,000,000, will entail an expenditure of fully £6,000,000, if present anticipations are fulfilled. The reason is that costs of labor and material have risen substantially since operations commenced. The bridge may be completed in 1931, which year is also scheduled for the completion of the main circle of the city underground railway, but the public view is that delays are possible, and therefore the British Empire Exhibition—proposed for 1931, in celebration of the accomplishment of these undertakings—may be [illegible]

CONWAY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The December meeting of Conway Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. T. Curren, on Tuesday evening, with a good attendance of ladies and gentlemen. President in the chair, the meeting was opened by the singing of the Institute Ode and Lord's Prayer in unison. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved, also the Treasurer's report, showing a nice little balance on hand.

Mrs. Phippen reported on the needs of furnishings for our room in the Hospital. After a brief discussion, on motion Mrs. Phippen and Mrs. P. Young were appointed a Committee to add some new furnishings to our room.

On motion the District fees were voted to be paid.

It was announced that part of our library had lately been moved from Mrs. Galt's to Mrs. G. Harris'. Both Mrs. Ham and Mrs. Keyes, librarian for Eastern section, expressed the idea that perhaps our members had lost track of the libraries, as there had been no call for books. However, with hopes that new books will be added with the coming of winter, we will expect to hear better reports.

Roll call was answered by many different uses of raisins both as food value and as a medicine.

Mrs. Clarence Davis gave us a most interesting paper "What We Should Know About Tea."

On motion of Miss Dennee and Mrs. Young, Mrs. Davis was tendered a hearty vote of thanks. A contest displaying many different articles donated by the members was then organized, the proceeds of which are to be used to spread a little Christmas cheer in our community. The singing of "God Save the King" closed the meeting, after which light refreshments were served by the ladies. It was decided that further looking forward to the next meeting, which will also be in the evening, at the home of Mrs. J. H. Young.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

"What!" said the indignant old gentleman. "You want to marry my daughter? Why, it was only a few years ago that you were caddying for me."

"Yes, sir," the young man replied; "but I don't intend to let that stand in the way. I hope I have learned enough to realise that a very bad golfer may make a fairly good father-in-law."

The Family Physician. The good doctor is always welcome, but it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

Mr. Hay Halfett, the Marylebone magistrate, taking a constable to task for using long words: "Creating a disturbance" is very impressive, but it is not explicit. Much better say how he was creating a disturbance.

Your Home Medicine Chest. — Among the standard household remedies that should always be on hand in your home medicine chest, none is more important than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Its manifold usefulness in relieving pain and healing sickness is known by many thousands throughout the land. Always use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for relieving rheumatic and sciatic pains, treating sore throats and chests, coughs, burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and sprains.

Lady from Next Door—"Do you mind allowing your daughter to play the piano all the afternoon to-day?"

Obliging Neighbour—"Why, certainly. I am delighted to think that you like her playing so much."

Lady From Next Door—"Oh, it isn't exactly that. You see my husband wants her to play. He is having the landlord in to look at the property, and he is getting all the things he can think of to help him get a reduction in rent."

Miller's Worm Powders are sweet and palatable to children, who show no hesitancy in taking them. They will certainly bring worm troubles to an end. They are a strengthening and stimulating medicine, correcting the disorders of digestion that the worms cause and imparting a healthy tone to the system most beneficial to development.

The race for the last word was getting hot. Hubby and wife were running neck and neck.

"You did!" he snapped.

"I didn't!" she retorted.

"You did!"

"I did not!"

"Well," flashed hubby, "one of us two is a very capable liar. But there is one thing which prevents me saying which one."

"Modesty, I presume!" retorted wife.

Nothing as Good for Asthma. Asthma remedies come and go, but every year the sales of the original Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy grow greater and greater. No further evidence could be asked of its remarkable merit. It relieves. It is always of the same unvarying quality which the sufferer from asthma learns to know. MERCHANT SAILORS.

Have Proved to Be the Life Blood of the Empire.

From the earliest beginnings of Britain's maritime supremacy up until the last great war, the merchant service has proved the life blood of the Empire, Admiral E. F. Brown told an assemblage of Canada's most distinguished soldiers at a dinner held in Toronto recently.

The story of the merchant sailor's part in the war is a heroic one," he reminded his audience. "He manned the transports which carried supplies and troops. Others did splendid work on the trawlers, the mine layers and the mysterious "Q" ships, those terrors to the submarine. Their deeds largely remain unsung, yet they were on a plane with the exploits of the British marines of old."

Speaking of the kinship of the merchant and fighting marine, Admiral Brown said: "Only in the last century have these two branches of seamanship become distinctly separated in identity. The merchant and war ships were little different in construction and the duties of the sailors manning these ships were much alike. Running engagements and hand-to-hand combats were then as familiar to merchant sailors as to man-o'-war seamen. Pirates and privateersmen made a life on the ocean wave a hazardous occupation in those days."

A rosy future for Canada was predicted by the veteran British naval officer. "The twentieth century belongs to Canada," he foretold. "Before the end of the century I expect Canada will have surpassed the point at which the United States now finds itself.

"But such prosperity will not come without trade by sea. An efficient merchant marine Canada must and will have, if she is to attain her destined position among the nations of the world. Sailors are necessary to commerce as is blood to a body. The British Empire would die should trade cease."

Herbert E. Barker, general secretary of the British Sailors' Society, under whose auspices Admiral Brown toured Canada, presented the Military Institute with a small metal bust of Lord Nelson, made of an alloy which contains copper removed from the great admiral's flagship, the Victory. The gift, which bears such a sentimental value, was totally unexpected.

DO ANIMALS SEE SPIRITS?

Instances of When They Are Thought to Have Seen Them.

Many people are satisfied that animals dream and many believe that they see spirits. Here are some recorded instances: A horse was to be put in a stable at an hotel, while the owner had his lunch. The horse would not enter the hotel yard, so the owner asked what was the cause. The reply was: "I expect he knows we have a dead man here, taken from the river this morning."

A third was seen bolting for his always logs (or straps), then to bark-ed and most unusual, then howled again. A person who was a clairvoyant, medium, said the dog was trying to get to the spirit of the lady who, even she was on earth, tought he to feed for many years.

A cat was seen sniffing all over a bedroom, and under the bed, etc. The cat was trying to find the spirit form that was moving about the bedroom.

At a lecture given at the Crystal Palace, London, a live rat was put in a glass tube, and the tube was sealed up at each end. The room was in darkness and an electric light was put on to the tube. When the rat died, a form, the same shape as a rat, came from the tube and went up in the air.

YOUTHFUL OLD FOLKS.

People Who Seem to Never Grow Old.

For forty years, Miss Clay, of Flintshire, Wales, has acted as auxiliary postman in her district, and during that time it is estimated that she has walked 200,000 miles. She has just retired under the age limit, but declares she could still undertake the long daily tramp with the letters.

Some of the "old guns," indeed, can give the youngsters points. When Lord Balfour was presented by old Parliamentary friends—and enemies—with a motor-car on the occasion of his eightieth birthday, he was one of the most youthful-looking men present.

But perhaps the most remarkable recent instance of continued youthful sprightfulness comes from the United States. A citizen of Indiana celebrated his fifty-seventh birthday by climbing to the top of a sixty-foot pole and standing on his head there for five minutes.

THE KANGAROO.

These Animals Are Believed to Give Warning of Danger.

The Australian aborigines of certain tribes hold a number of superstitions connected with the Kangaroo. These strange animals are believed to give warning of danger.

If a black-fellow of those tribes going along saw an old-man kangaroo hopping toward him it meant that an enemy was near and it was time to have his spear in readiness to strike. To dream of a number of "roos" were sitting around the camp was an omen of serious warning that danger beset the camp. At least one tribe during their initiation period boys were not allowed to drink out of a waterhole unless through a hollowed "roo bone."

Smokeless Fuel.

Experiments in the population of smokeless fuel from Kent coal have had satisfactory results, and the first unit of a 400 tons per day plant is to be installed. Production is expected to begin early in the year.

Sunday night after church

Both the Henderson boys are far away from the old home. But Sunday is still a very special day for Father and Mother, for every Sunday night after church the telephone bell rings and the old folks know that one of the boys is calling them from the distant city.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN LAND REGULATIONS

Minister of the Interior Solves Problem of Cancelled School Lands Sales

During his recent western trip, the Minister of the Interior has conferred with the Governments of the three Prairie Provinces relative to the administration of School lands which the Department handles as a sort of trustee for the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the revenue derived being set aside for educational purposes.

One of the vexatious problems with which the Department of the Interior has had to contend has arisen from the failure or inability of some purchasers to fulfil their contracts. In some of these cases a portion of the land is broken and sown and when the purchaser relinquishes his purchase, or the Department cancels the sale for default, this area becomes a potential weed menace, unless it is kept under cultivation. The Department has met this situation heretofore by issuing yearly cultivation permits at fifty cents an acre but the provincial authorities find that with this yearly type of tenure, it is impossible for municipalities to enforce their scheme of weed control, and that in many cases it has been impossible to collect the taxes. It is further apparent that fifty cents an acre is a very small return for the use of broken land and that the carrying charges of any sale at anything approaching average land value would be considerably more than fifty cents per acre.

Inasmuch as it is the duty of the Dominion Government to collect for School Lands Endowment the maximum amount that can b obtained for the purpose for which the lands were set aside, it has been decided that in future where sales are cancelled the lands will be valuated immediately and advertised for sale. On the date mentioned in the advertisement, the Agent of Dominion Lands for the district will proceed to the nearest town and hold the sale.

CAMDEN EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The December meeting of Camden East Women's Institute, which was held on the evening of the 7th, at the home of Mrs. H. Huff and Mrs. Love, was well attended by members and visitors. We are always pleased to have visitors at our meetings, because they by attending get a better knowledge of, and interest in, Institute work.

The Ode and Creed were followed by answers to roll call, each member responding by quoting "a Christmas Dinner Recipe".

Following the reading and approval of minutes, the correspondence was read. This was a letter acknowledging the receipt of money sent to aid the Navy League, and a short note introducing another "Blue Book".

Most of the business was discussing and planning for the next meeting, to be held at Mrs. Dunn's home, on January 4th, and the packing of the usual Christmas boxes for the aged and needy.

The following good programme was much enjoyed:—A paper on "Co-operation of Parent and Teacher", by Mrs. B. Amey; "Current and Local Events", by Mrs. Geo. Black; the delegate's report of the Women's Institute convention held in Kingston, and Mrs. E. Hamilton's demonstration of "Candy Making".

It was decided to have among the members an exchange of Christmas gifts—no gift to cost more than fifteen nor less than two cents. Names were drawn to decide to whom each is to give her gift.

A dainty lunch, followed by the singing of the National Anthem, brought a profitable and much enjoyed meeting to a close.

Q.—What is the difference between learning golf and motoring?

A.—In golf you hit nothing, and in motoring you hit everything.

ENTERPRISE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The November meeting of the Enterprise Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Sidney Wagar, on Friday, the 29th of November, with a fair attendance, considering the unfavourable weather.

The meeting was opened by the President, with the singing of the Ode, followed by "God Save the King", sung as a prayer.

A sum of money was donated for the material for Christmas candy, a box of which is to be sent to each "shut-in" for Christmas. A committee was appointed for the making of the candy.

Plans were made to have three "welcome" signs erected at the entrance to the village on the main roads.

It was decided to ask the Council to see that the speed limit for automobiles was enforced in the village.

Mrs. Dunn's paper on "How Much Can I Spend for Christmas", was much appreciated; also her paper on "Current Events".

Miss Reid read a very interesting paper on "Books", which all enjoyed very much.

The community expects to find the new bulletin board very convenient for announcing the various activities of the town.

Community singing was enjoyed, and ready served by the hostess, after which the meeting was closed in the usual manner, to be held again on the 3rd of January.

SELECT BREEDERS THIS FALL; HOUSE THEM SEPARATELY

Need a Rest Previous to Hatching Season

Breeders. The production may be improved in many ways, namely better breeding, feeding, and better management. There is a great deal that could be said about each of them, so we will limit ourselves to the question of breeders.

Those who expect to incubate eggs from their flock should turn their attention to the mating up of the birds in the fall. The birds which are most likely to be used as breeders should be selected and put in pens by themselves. The object is to give them a rest prior to the hatching season. Birds that have been laying heavily for a year are more or less out of condition and have commenced the rebuilding of broken down tissues to do. The size, health, and vitality of the chicks depends upon the health and condition of the parent stock.

Handle Every Bird

In selecting breeders, handle every bird to determine the vigor, condition, and production ability. Do not use any birds that are decidedly underweight or out of condition. Size and constitutional vigor should be the foundation of every breeding pen.

A good layer is broad and deep in body. This gives her room to consume lots of feed and ample room for the continuous development of yolks and production of eggs. Her back is broad, flat, and free of fat; the keel bone fairly long so as to support the internal organs. Looking at the bird, it gives you the impression of being flat-sided as contrasted with the round body of a poor layer.

While the greatest profit for the average poultryman is in the egg basket and not in the show room, it does not mean he should forget breed characteristics when selecting breeders. We all should strive to keep a pure bred flock.

Provide Good Quarters

Success in breeding depends to a very large extent upon the care given the birds. They should be housed in dry, comfortable quarters. A warm house, if damp, is much more objectionable than a dry house that is cold.

Proper feeding likewise plays an important part in the care of breeders. Hens given an over-stimulating diet, or undernourished so that they are in poor flesh at hatching time, produce poor hatching eggs. The eggs may hatch, but the chicks are small, weak, and unthrifty.

Blinks—I see it is predicted disease will be abolished in the next fifty years. What will doctors do then for a living?

Jinks—Oh, they'll still be kept busy putting pedestrians together again.

OBITUARY

Mr. Sheldon Young Joyce.
Sheldon Y. Joyce, for many years a resident of Napanee, passed away Tuesday evening, November 27th, 1928, at his late residence, corner of Bridge and Adelphi Streets. His death was a great shock to all.

Mr. Joyce was at active business as usual on the Saturday immediately preceding his death, but not feeling well and it may be that he did not realize how serious his condition was. He enjoyed the best of health during his life until a few months ago, after which he complained of not feeling as well as usual.

He did not know the seriousness of his condition until Sunday afternoon, November 25th, when he obtained medical advice. A sudden turn for the worse took place Monday evening, and he rapidly grew weaker and passed away Tuesday evening at 8.30 o'clock.

Mr. Sheldon Y. Joyce was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Joyce, and was born on May 30th, 1861, in North Fredericksburgh, on the old homestead, near the Anderson Church, and, he could well remember when that church was built. He spent his boyhood days in that neighbourhood and vicinity.

Mr. Joyce leaves to mourn his loss his widow, one daughter, and four sons, Mrs. Arnold W. Wylie, of Brampton; Mr. Percy S. Joyce, of Hamilton; Mr. Zina J. Joyce and Mr. C. Dwight Joyce, of Toronto, and Mr. Sperry C. Joyce, of St. Mary's; and five grandchildren; also one sister and two brothers, Mrs. Cartwright Hanley, Mr. William Joyce and Mr. John M. Joyce, all of Napanee.

Mr. Sheldon Y. Joyce was a member of the United Church, and a Conservative in his politics. He was highly respected in the community, and his passing will be severely felt by all.

The funeral was held at his late residence, on Friday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, and was conducted by Rev. Harry Pawson, of Trinity United Church. He was laid to rest in Riverside cemetery, by his four sons, son-in-law and brother.

The floral tributes from relatives and friends were lovely and numerous.

PLANTING TREES ON FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA

Widespread Interest in This Movement. — Nearly 8,000,000 Trees Ready for 1929 Distribution — Applications Being Received for Following Year.

Each year greater interest is being shown in the planting of shelterbelts on prairie farms in Western Canada and preparations now being completed for the 1929 distribution by the Department of the Interior from the Dominion Forest Service nursery stations at Indian Head and Sutherland, Saskatchewan, point to next spring as one of the busiest in the history of the work. The advent of the autumn freeze-up has brought to a close another very satisfactory season's operations. Approximately 8,000,000 seedlings and cuttings have been safely 'heeled in' for winter storage, and beginning in May these will be sent out to about 10,000 applicants. Last spring about 7,560,000 trees were shipped out from the the nurseries bringing the total to slightly more than 100,000,000 for the twenty-eight years since the inauguration of free tree distribution to prairie farmers by the Dominion Government. Reports of the inspectors indicate that at least 83 per cent of the plantations set out in these years are in good growing condition.

It is particularly interesting to note the greatly increased demand for conifers during the past few years. Such hardy evergreens as white spruce, Scotch pine, lodgepole pine, and jack pine have proved particularly adaptable for prairie planting. After they have become established they are able to withstand long periods of drought and do not require as much attention as common broad-leaved trees. During the first twenty years the height growth of the evergreen is about the same as that of the Manitoba maple but after that time they grow more rapidly and reach a very considerable height. Evergreens are used chiefly for planting inside of and to re-enforce already established broad-leaved belts by planting in single or double rows or in closely set groups or clumps. Thus they provide a much denser and more effective windbreak than if only species which drop their leaves in the winter were used, and they add colouring strikes a cheerful note in the winter landscape.

The facilities for growing evergreens at Indian Head are at present somewhat limited and as a result it is impossible to meet the demand for these species. On that account not more than 100 evergreen trees are supplied to each applicant. A nominal charge of $3 per hundred is made. Farmers are coming to realize that, contrary to the opinion once generally held, evergreens are not difficult to grow and a few hundred of these trees add to the general attractiveness and the festiveness of a farm plantation at all seasons of the year.

Throughout the Prairie Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, the effect of tree planting is seen in the well sheltered farmsteads, gardens and orchards. The growing of certain varieties of small fruits, both small and large, and of fine apples is becoming more general. Interest is spreading rapidly and the annual distribution is larger each succeeding spring. With arrangements completed for the 1929 shipment, applications are now being received from those who are planning to set out shelterbelts in 1930. Applications for stock for this work should be made not later than March 31st, 1929, to the Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head. Inspectors will visit the farms of applicants during the next summer and give directions as to planting and care of the young trees. The basis of this distribution is co-operation—the Government supplying the trees and planting advice, and the farmers the land and the labour—and the success that has attended the movement is due to the harmonious carrying out of this plan.

BATH

Mr. Bert Covert, of Wellington, was a recent visitor at Faber Covert's. — Miss Gwendolyn H. Wenig, Reg. n., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Wemp, and Mr. Eric Holt, B.Sc., youngest son of Mrs. G. W. Coppage and the late W. N. Holt, of Midleton, Ireland, were quietly married in the church of the Transfiguration, New York City, on December 7th. After a honeymoon trip to Porto Rico, Cuba, and other points, they will reside at Millertown, Newfoundland.—A highly esteemed resident of this place passed away on Sunday, after a long period of ill health, in the person of Mrs. Joseph Clement. The funeral was held in the United Church, Tuesday afternoon. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family. — The Xmas scheme at Sunnyside Cemetery, now under the management of the Deseronto Creamery Co., closed fog the season. — Mrs. Gordon Young has left to spend the winter in Florida, with her mother, Mrs. Dora M. Trotter. She was accompanied by her small daughter, Dorothy, and grandmother, Mrs. Eleanor Clapp, of Picton.—Rumours are afloat regarding the starting of a canning factory shortly in the near future.—Mr. Geo. Miller has moved on the James Shibley farm, formerly occupied by Saturday Incon.—Mr. Eskin Nelson, of Toronto, is renewing old acquaintances here. — Mrs. G. H. Chapman left on Tuesday to visit friends in Toronto.

THE KING'S ILLNESS

A new and favorable note was sounded in the only medical bulletin on the condition of the King issued from the Palace on Sunday.

Hitherto nothing had been said during the long illness about what nourishment His Majesty was taking, although the persistence of fever with the accompanying great weakness and emaciation had, until the past week, told its own tale. Now the physicians are able, with the contiguance of favorable if slow progress, to announce the welcome sign of a return of appetite with better sleep, two of the most important factors in building up the strength of their patient.

The visit of the doctors Sunday night at Buckingham Palace was comparatively short. At 8.45 p.m., they issued a bulletin saying: "The King's progress is following a favorable though slow course. The amount and quality of sleep are satisfactory and there is less disinclination to take nourishment." It was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, Lord Dawson of Penn, and the surgeon, Sir Hugh Rigby.

Continue Violet Rays.

Use of the ultra violet ray treatment continued to-day, from which it was inferred that it is having a beneficial effect.

Many hundreds of persons watched the changing of the guard at the Palace Sunday morning, and after church many walked to the bulletin which still held the terse announcement of Saturday evening. The physicians who signed Sunday night's bulletin, held a brief consultation Sunday morning but no formal statement was issued.

The Prince of Wales with his brothers and sister, and Queen Mary, attended a service in the Palace chapel.

Great satisfaction was felt at Buckingham Palace Sunday night over the progress of the King, more especially as it was understood that he is now sleeping naturally without the necessity of sedatives.

"Get a Lion?" Asked King on Night Prince Returned.

London, Dec. 22rd.—There have been many and widely divergent stories published in the press as to just what occurred on the night 12 days ago when the Prince of Wales reached Buckingham Palace, after his historic dash from the deepest African jungles to the bedside of his stricken father.

The correspondent to-day is able to give an authentic picture of the dramatic scene enacted in the royal sick room as recounted by the Prince himself to his friends.

As the Prince greeted his mother, the Queen, the Prince knew that his father had been delirious for days when he was not in a state of coma largely induced by powerful drugs.

There was very little hope at the Palace in those days when the doctors knew the King must die if they did not drain the abscess; but considered him so weak that he would probably never come out of the anaesthetic if they did use the knife.

Only the Queen, whether or not she realized the situation, never seemed to lose heart or confidence in her husband's eventual recovery.

It was not intended that the Prince should see his father on that night on which his race over more than 6,000 land and sea miles ended. The Queen told him that if he did enter the sickroom he would not be recognized but the Prince begged to be allowed just to tiptoe to the bedside. And this he was allowed to do while Sir Stanley Hewett remained by the half-open door of the royal sickroom.

Stood Looking at Father.

The Prince—not ten minutes after he had left the special train that brought him into London—stood looking down on his father. It was a meeting that all the resources of the British Empire and three other nations had been mobilized to bring about — before it was too late.

Yet it must have seemed to the Prince as good as too late. The King for days unconscious or delirious, had no knowledge that his heir had been breaking records speeding to him, forced by the Prime Minister to use the air and so making instead the fastest sea and land journey ever accomplished by any man.

There was silence. A young nurse, the only witness of the meeting, had arisen as the Prince entered. She stood motionless. She will have history to tell her children.

The King stirred uneasily, he opened his eyes. They rested on the Prince. They did not move. It seemed to Edward, he said afterward in telling the story to his friends, that there was recognition in those glazed eyes, even though he had been told that his father knew nobody.

The Prince saluted. It seemed a strange thing to do; but he could not take his father's hand; he might be mistaken; he did not wish to break the silence.

There was a slight movement of the head on the pillow, a faint voice came —almost a whisper :

"Did you get a lion?"

This time the Prince could not speak. He just gulped, and then nodded.

The head on the pillow turned again, the eyes closed.

The Prince tiptoed out and joined Sir Stanley Hewett at the door.

That was the turning point in King George's illness. He passed a good night he had had for more than five nights. In the morning the heartbeats were stronger, the pulse steadier, and after consulting with the Prime and the Queen, the doctors decided to take a really chance and operate.

The world knows the result.

What has been recounted above is true; it is not a tale of sentiment.

There may have been no connection between the King's recognition of his heir and the improvement that set in at once; but there can be no doubt that when this story is generally known a fresh chapter will be added to the legends of the British royal house.

OBITUARY.

Henry C. Barrett.

Henry C. Barrett, 2824 Dundas St., West, Toronto, Y. T. C. foreman, died suddenly on Saturday, December 15th, 1928. He was born near Kingston in 1858. His early days were spent as a contractor in the Bay of Quinte Valley. In 1911 he became associated with the Toronto Civic Railway as general foreman. Later he became a contractor, and returned to railway construction in 1920. During the heavy construction period of the Toronto T. C. he was foreman of construction, and finally became foreman of maintenance. At the time of his death in the department, "he was thought very highly of, and was very well liked by all his men. It seems a pity indeed to lose a man like him". He is survived by his wife, two brothers and three sisters.

A Requiem High Mass was celebrated in St. Helen's Church, Toronto, on Tuesday, December 18th. The remains were then taken to Centreville, Ont., where interment was made in St. Anthony's cemetery.

BEAVER SANTA CLAUS FUND

The readers of The Beaver and friends in Napanee and a distance have responded liberally to our annual appeal to the Santa Claus Fund. We have been delighted, and the hearts of our workers have been gladdened during the last week as the number of subscriptions mounted. This response to our urgent appeal of last week has enabled us to care for about fifty homes, where there are anywhere from two to five children. If you could see the wealth of happiness and comfort your contribution made possible, and the welcome our distributers received you would be amply repaid for your interest.

To one and all of our contributors, and to the merchants who gave us such valuable assistance, we say "thank you", not only on our own behalf, but on behalf of the large number of children who but for you would have had no share in the Christmas joy and festivities.

As soon as the books are audited and all accounts paid, we will publish a complete statement of the activities of this fund.

A. A. MACNAUGHTON WINS SCHOLARSHIP

McGill Graduate Recipient of Annual Award by I.O.D.E.

Alan Aylesworth Macnaughton, B.A., has been awarded the $1,400 scholarship for Quebec, provided annually by the I.O.D.E. to a university graduate in each province in order that he may pursue post-graduate studies abroad for a year. The award is derived from the War Memorial Fund of $500,000, and is known as the overseas post-graduate scholarship. The announcement was made last night following a meeting on Wednesday of the committee of selection.

Mr. Macnaughton graduated from McGill with first-class honors in economics and political science in 1926 and was the winner of two scholarships in those subjects. At present he is in his third and last year of law.

In executive activities he has resided over the faculty of law on the Students' Council of the University, and this year was chairman of the students' division of the Federated Charities campaign. Last year he was vice-president of the McGill Debating Union and for two years before his graduation was treasurer of the Arts Undergraduate Society.

He was captain of the 1928 McGill Rowing Club crews and was a member of the 1927 champion crews which won three Dominion championships at the Canadian Henley. He left Montreal this morning to spend the Christmas vacation at Napanee, Ontario. — The Montreal Daily Star, Friday, December 21st, 1928.

NEWBURGH

Mrs. E. Boyce, of Newburgh, and Mr. A. Hughes, of Odessa, were married on December 19th, at Trinity Parsonage, Napanee, the Rev. Harry Pawson officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes are at present residing in Newburgh, at their home on Concession St. Congratulations.

We were grieved to hear of the death of Mrs. (Rev.) Linstead's mother, Mrs. Grant, which occurred early Sunday morning, at her home in Odessa. Mrs. Grant frequently attended service in the Free Methodist Church here, where she made friends, and all sympathize with Mrs. Linstead in her great sorrow.

Miss Marguerite Wartman, who has been teaching at Flinton, is spending the Christmas recess under the parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. McGilvary Aylesworth are spending a few days with Reeve and Mrs. Aylesworth.

Mr. James Wales has been laid up with a grippe for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Denison and two daughters, of Napanee, visited on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Farley.

Miss Mitchell, B.A., of Norwich High School, arrived home on Saturday to spend the holidays.

Miss McSherry and Miss Briscoe are spending two weeks at Windsor.

Miss Blanche Symons spent part of Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. S. Yeomans.

Messrs. Fred Lovelace, of Yarker, and Percy Vanluven were in the village on Sunday evening.

Mr. Robin Fisher is spending Christmas in Newburgh.

Mr. Edward Files, of Oshawa, is holidaying in Newburgh.

Mrs. Scriver, of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. S. Shorey.

The "White Gift" service held in the United Church on Sunday evening was very interesting. The tasteful decorations added to the attractiveness. The response was generous. The music by the choir and the selection sung by the little girls were splendid.

DORLAND

We have enjoyed a variety of weather lately, but it seems at present as if winter was really here.—Hay Bay has frozen over for the second time this season, and there is a big epidemic of measles the usual Christmas entertainments were not held. — Mr. Jos. Bird has removed the remnants of the stone walls of his residence recently destroyed by fire, and has the foundation ready to re-build early in the spring.—High prices were paid for cattle at Mr. F. Bygott's auction sale on Thursday.—One of the oldest residents of this place passed beyond on Sunday evening, in the person of Mrs. John Switzer. Mrs. Switzer has not taken an active part in life for a number of years, and was most carefully cared for by her daughter, Miss Hattie. She is also survived by one son, Mr. W. J. Jewell, of Napanee. The funeral services, which were conducted by Rev. J. A. Plant, at 10 a.m., on Tuesday, were private.

HAWLEY

With the recent snow storm the weather has become more Christmas like.—Mr. and Mrs. I. Asselstine have returned home from an extended tour of the North West.—Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Pretts spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Sills, Gretna.—Mr. and Mrs. M. Shetler spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Day.—The Y. P. S. of Hawley will hold a meeting at the church on Wednesday evening, Dec. 26th. A social evening and election of officers.—The Xmas tree was well attended, and all reported an excellent time.—Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Day spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Nutt, of Gananoque.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Day and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Day, of Gananoque, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Day, on Xmas.—Mrs. P. F. Miller, Mr. K. Miller and Miss E. Miller arrived on Saturday to spend Xmas with the former's mother, Mrs. R. J. Gair.

Presentation and Address.

On Monday evening, Dec. 10th, 1928, about sixty of the friends and neighbours of the Anderson community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Baird, and presented Mr. Percy Hambly with a handsome club bag and a pair of fur-lined gloves, and the following address:

Dear Percy,—We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered on this the eve of your departure for the West, to wish you God speed. Little did we think when six years ago you went west with some of the other boys, that great Western land would hold you so long. We are glad you have found time and an opportunity to return and spend a few weeks in your home community, and now that you are returning to the West again, we feel we cannot let you go without some token of remembrance. An occasion like this it is easy to be reminiscent. We are reminded of the truly sportsmanlike way you conducted yourself as captain of the baseball team; we are reminded of the oft plays and the parts you played so well, and many other things which made us feel your loss. You went to the West a boy, you have returned a man. That manliness of character which marked you as a boy, has developed into four-square manhood, and wherever you go we will be proud to have you say you came from the Anderson community in old Ontario. We are sorry for the little misfortune which was yours in the West, which has caused you much pain and inconvenience and the partial disuse of your hands. We hope and pray for speedy and complete recovery. We beg you to accept as a slight token of our friendship and esteem this club bag and these gloves. We want you to think of them always not so much as a token of farewell, but more as a token of welcome which will be waiting for you in your old home and among your friends here.

INVENTED SODA-WATER.

Carbonated Water Business Started In 1807 by a Minister.

A monument to the inventor of soda-water has been suggested—not in the form of a bronze statue, but a fountain in every schoolroom, flowing with the beverage that carbonated but does not inebriate. The inventor was the Rev. Joseph Priestley, the discoverer of the chief element in the world—oxygen.

He was distrusted and ill-treated in England, on the grounds that he was a Republican, a Nonconformist, and a chemist, so a mob burned his home and laboratory in Birmingham. He sought refuge in Pennsylvania.

While preaching in a chapel at Leeds he lived near a brewery, and became interested in the possibility of utilizing the gas which came off the vats. When he moved away, he had to devise a means of preparing and collecting the gas, then called "fixt air." This led him to the invention of the pneumatic trough, which is still the main mechanism of the analysis and storage of gases. He also determined the solubility of carbon dioxide and employed it for charging beverages.

Priestley's experiments interested a Philadelphia physician, who induced a druggist, Townsend Speakman, to prepare carbonated water for his patients. Thus the soda-water business was born in 1807.

Mentality and Accidents.

An analysis of 75,000 industrial accidents, completed by an insurance company, revealed that a man who is mentally disturbed is as much of a danger to himself and his fellow-workmen as if he were physically disabled. Factory foremen would prevent accidents by studying the men, not merely their contraction. At least ninety-eight per cent. of the 75,000 accidents could have been prevented.

Wooden Clogs.

Cook Bakers is still an industry in Wales where the cloggers, hereditary craftsmen, work in the woods shaping the alder blocks into some semblance of a shoe sale, ready for the Lancashire factory where the finishing touches are added.

HOMESTEADING IN WEST

Increase In Every Month During 1928 Over Previous Years In Prairie Provinces.

The day of the free homestead in Western Canada is not over. The Toronto Star learns from the Department of the Interior that twice as many homestead were taken up during the first ten months of 1928, as against the previous year. There were 20,015 people in 11,521 families taking up 1,800,000 acres of free land.

The trend of the land-seeker is northward. There are still some homesteads being taken up in the southern areas of the west, but for the most part the homesteads sought are in the northern districts. In the ten months of 1928 11,521 homesteads were taken up as compared with 5,172 in the whole of the year previous.

The increase has not been spasmodic. In every month there has been an increase over the previous year, the gains ranging from a 32 per cent. increase in January to a 208 per cent. in October. In October there were 1,943 homesteads entered as compared with 487 in the same month of 1927. In Prince Albert, the Prime Minister's own riding, there have been 2,855 homesteads taken up as compared with 1,561 in the previous year. At Edmonton, for the central Alberta district, there were 2,240 as compared with 1,143. It is in the Peace River country and northern British Columbia, however, that the lodestar of the land seems to attract most. At the Grande Prairie and Peace river agencies there were 4,178 homesteads entered as against 894 in 1927.

The Peace River country extends over the border into British Columbia, and the trend there is northwestward as well as northward. In the Peace River block of British Columbia there were 515 entries as compared with 26 the year previous. By provinces the increase in Manitoba over 1927 is 19 per cent.; Saskatchewan, 72 per cent.; Alberta, 195 per cent., and British Columbia, 522 per cent. Ten per cent. of the homesteaders come from the United States, including every state in the union, but especially North Dakota and Minnesota.

TWO CURIOUS ORCHIDS.

One Flourishes Only In Swampy Forests.

A wonderful orchid recently discovered in Borneo, known as Arachnanthe Lowii, flourishes only in swampy forests, and has the rare distinction of bearing two different kinds of flowers on the same stem. Its flowers are borne on long flexuous spikes varying from 4 to 12 feet in length. The first, or the flower nearest to the main stem, is of a vivid orange yellow with small purplish brown dots; the rest of the flowers when are attached to the spike at equal distances are of a deep brown, bordered and streaked with yellow. As the name Arachnanthe indicates the markings of the flower somewhat resemble those of a spider.

In like manner another curious orchid (Syn Ruschia Cornuta) closely resembles a scorpion. It grows in Kandy, Ceylon's hill capital. A Lowii is an orchid well worth cultivating and orchid lovers both in India and Ceylon should not experience much difficulty with it. It takes some time, however, to establish itself and get acclimatized. It blooms in August-September, though not regularly every year.

PRINTING CLOTH.

Process Before Days of Printing Presses Was Laborious.

Cloth was printed before the bookprinting press was invented. It was a laborious process. The design for calico cloth was outlined on the surface of a wooden block the outlines were bounded by pieces of brass or copper, and the surface filled in with felt to hold the color, and sometimes designs of as many as three or four colors were printed by this method. When the block was completed it was dipped in a color box, and the pattern was then impressed upon the fabric by stamping by hand, and for each color to be printed the cloth had to be stamped by a separate operation.

It would take a man and one or two helpers a whole year to print as many yards of cloth as can be printed on a modern printing machine in probably a day or a little more.

Bachelor or Cowherd.

Our word bachelor is a corruption of an old mediaeval word for "cowherd." In these days almost the whole population existed by agriculture, and, the "bachelor" or "cowherd" was the signifier often, held by the youngest and poorest. Similarly in those days a "knight bachelor" was a knight of an inferior rank, as nowadays a Bachelor of Arts is one who has not yet been admitted to the degree of Master of Arts. The word's present meaning of an unmarried man is more than five hundred years old, and signifies a man who has not yet entered upon the full duties of manhood's estate. Our ancestors did not dream that middle-aged and well-to-do men should ever remain unwed

Atlantic Beats Falcon.

A prince of natural fliers, a peregrine falcon, has been beaten by the Atlantic.

In mid-ocean it came down upon the liner Minnewaska in an exhausted condition and was kept on deck of until the ship reached an English port, when the officers presented the bird to the Zoo, where it is now one of the most docile birds of its kind that has ever reached the menagerie.

Brandy for Birds.

In mid-Atlantic two exhausted stormy petrels were blown aboard the White Star liner Homeric, were revived by castor oil and brandy, and were released next day.

Bridegroom Feigns Reluctance.

Custom has imposed upon brides in Assam a considerable amount of trouble before their prospective husbands are safely tied up. On her wedding day, the bride is carishly attired in a gown flashing with brilliants, and with a band of jewels holding her veil. She goes to the house of the bridegroom to be. The door is open. The bride and her attendants rush in and search the house. The search continues until the bride discovers the seemingly reluctant bridegroom. When found he resists vigorously before the bride finally overcomes him and carries him off in triumph. The growing of tea is the sole occupation of Assam, and it is after the hustle and bustle of the harvest that the Assam man, or rather Assam woman, takes her mate.

Morpheus and Somnus.

Morpheus, the ancient Greek God of Dreams, was early pictured as an old man with wings. He held in his hands a vial or horn from which issued the sleep production liquor. Morpheus was the son of Somnus the God of Sleep. The name Morpheus is derived from a Greek word which means to shape or form, and the name was given to the God of Dreams because of the shapes or forms which he calls up before the dreamer. The word morphine, the name of a sleep-producing drug, comes from Morpheus.

Napoleon's House a Museum.

Napoleon's house on Aix Island, France, where the emperor spent his last three nights before surrendering to the British after Waterloo, has been converted into a national museum. The house contains the table on which Napoleon wrote his letter surrendering to the British. There can also be seen the bed where he slept during the last night in France.

Site of Monacan Town Is Found.

Two United States scientists have just returned from a trip of "exploration" a few miles west of Richmond, Va., and announce that they believe they have at last discovered the site of the former "Monacan town" which, in its day, was a well-known Indian village on the James river.

THE BLUE JAY.

Bird Is Worth Knowing and Worth Cultivating.

Bedtime story writers do not exaggerate the interestingly appealing characteristics of the blue jay. The bird is worth knowing and worth cultivating, not for its good qualities but for its sheer impudence of interest.

The blue jay and the redbreaded woodpecker are, barring always the robin, probably the two best known birds of northern latitudes. Both of them are tricky, but owing to the contrariness of human nature they are loved for their tricks. The redbreaded has a habit of bothering other birds, but it does not bother them one-tenth so much as the jay, and yet the latter probably does its bird comrades much more good than harm, for its voice is the alarm gong of every bird neighborhood.

Our Western jay is a much more friendly creature than the Eastern jay. Here the jays are birds of the dooryard. In the East they prefer places remote from men's habitations. In the old days the blue jay in the East was shot at sight because of the beauty of its plumage. It learned wisdom and became wary. Now that the Eastern jay is protected, it gradually, like its Western brother, may become man's familiar.

SCRAPS AND BONES

Leavings on Our Plates to Be Put t. Further Uses.

There are big profits to be made out of rubbish—or what most people consider rubbish. Scrap-iron dealers are often rich men. Now it seems although waste-food dealers are also doing well. A company has recently been formed in London, England, with the object of putting the leavings on our plates to further uses.

Some of the biggest hotels, restaurants, and clubs in London have contracts to provide this company with the food that is left on plates. This is no longer thrown into a big dump and removed to be burnt as hitherto. Now the leavings are placed at the restaurants in separate sterilized bins which the company supplies. Bones and fat from meat in one bin, fish heads and bones in another, vegetables in a third.

The bins are collected by lorries and taken to the company's factory, where 100 tons of waste food can be dealt with in a day.

On arrival the bins are investigated, and any dangerous matter is removed. Often forks, spoons, and knives are found with the leavings. These are at once sent back to the restaurants.

The waste food is put through a disintegrator, which reduces it to a desired fineness. It is then sterilized and put to a number of different uses. None of its nutritious properties are lost during the processes which it undergoes.

Some of the waste food is made into a feeding meal for poultry, cattle, and pigs. Incidentally, the meal which comes from fish leavings is so made that it does not taint the flesh of the animal fed with it.

Tallow for soap is also obtained from food leavings. Another product is bone charcoal, which is essential to refiners of sugar, wines, and beer. Yet another is a fat which is good for human consumption. This is made from clean market fats, which, again, are collected in special receptacles and do not come into contact with the waste food.

THE HOMELY TOUCH.

Army Recruits Entertain In a Tea Garden.

"Reading, reception and waiting-rooms are to be made as comfortable and home-like as possibble, in order to create in the minds of intending recruits an impression of sympathetic welcome to army life."

This instruction, officially issued in connection with a new scheme for revolution in the methods of attracting men to the forces in the Old Country.

A press representative who called at the Central London Recruiting Depot at Great Scotland Yard, found that some of the changes were already in operation.

Once past a red-coated door sentry, with fixed bayonet, we found under a glass roof a courtyard scattered with little green round-topped tables, garden chairs, and palms that gave it the appearance of a tea garden.

At the tables young men in mufti, who to-day will be in the King's uniform, were sitting with their friends, drinking tea or coffee or cocoa.

Some had brought their mothers or their "pals" with them.

There was, too, a well-stocked library, writing desks, pictures of famous soldiers round the walls, and young women making savory steakpies in the canteen.

"Things are vastly better now than they have ever been before," said the officer.

"BEEFEATERS."

Must Wear Whiskers on State Occasions.

"Beefeaters" have been a fixed institution at St. James Palace since the reign of Henry VII. According to King's Regulations they must have beards on State occasions. At certain intervals they have to report to the Palace adjutant for beard inspection.

In the middle ages Beefeaters used to protect and attend the sovereign, and it was their duty to taste and cook all food served to him. They also had to make the King's bed. The "Yeomen Bedhangers" stuffed the mattress and arranged the curtains, while the "Yeomen Bedgoers" rolled the bed to see that it was well made! The letters Y.B.H. and Y.B.G. are still affixed to certain names on the roll. Since their institution the costume of the Beefeaters has varied very little, and the large ruff round the neck still forms a very important part of it.

WOLF DOGS A MENACE?

Australia Fears They May Produce New Type of Marauder.

Pastoralists are wondering what they should do about the menace of the Alsatian wolf dogs that have been imported to Australia in large numbers during the past year. Many of the animals were taken to sheep stations and trained for sheep handling with indifferent results. Some of the "gone bush" and are a positive peril to the sheep industry in some sections due to the ravages of dogs.

The chief fear of the sheep men is that when the vogue of the Alsatian and the course stray dogs will mate with dingoes and produce a breed with the sagacity of the Alsatian and the marauding instincts of the wolf.

Totem Poles In Australia.

Indians of British Columbia are not the only people who erect totem poles and honor them as their family's most precious possession. In some of the more remote sections of Australia totemism is extraordinarily specialized, according to Prof. Donald Thompson, noted Australian anthropologist.

Often a native calls his totem "elder brother" or perhaps even "father," believing that he is descended from it.

TRAVELLER AND GOAT.

Young Man Had Interesting Experiences in Russia.

A young man touring Russia wandered into the densely-crowded market-place of Saratov one morning and saw a goat pushing its way through the people in a great hurry. By-and-by he heard someoncrying "Stop the goat! Stop the goat!" As the someone was an old woman the chivalrous traveller ran after the goat, thinking that it would be simple to catch the little animal.

But the nimble creature led the traveller out of the market-way and through the streets till he was hot and breathless. After a great hunt he managed to corner the quarry and drag her back to the market-place by the horns.

But the old woman was nowhere to be seen.

It was easy to lose sight of anyone in so great a crowd, and the traveller went through the market two or three times in vain.

The young man knew no Russian, but he was interested in Esperanto, and as he had the address of an Esperantist who lived in Saratov he decided to take the goat to his house.

Easier said than done! Nancy struggled violently, she barked, and people laughed. Finally the goat lay down in the street. A policeman came up and accused the traveller of stealing her, things were getting desperate.

However, by great luck the other Esperantist turned up, and as a result of his explanations the goat went to the police-station without the foreigner, and the goat was returned to the old woman.

EXPLOITING EARTH'S HEAT.

Vast Reservoir Will Be Tapped at No Distant Date?

In Italy and California, man is using natural steam from volcanic power stations, a move that marks the beginning of a new industrial era, says a writer in Tit-Bits.

If we dig down into the earth to a depth of about 25,000 feet we find a temperature of 200 degrees Centigrade, and at 150,000 feet we should find 800 degrees. In some areas, as at Bath, where the Roman conduits for utilizing hot spring water are still in use, there are temperatures even higher.

It is estimated that the heat stored within the earth is thirty billiontimes that obtainable from the world's remaining coal supply, and here is a vast reservoir that will be tapped at no distant date.

Contrary to general belief, it is said that the earth is not cooling—it is becoming warmer. Our problem is to burrow beneath the surface and extract heat from the rock layers by circulating oil or water in the depths.

Borings will be perpendicular, as in artesian wells, with a central return channel.

When we have mastered the problem of exploiting the earth's heat, we shall obtain power in any area at will, our residential districts will be free of dust and smoke, the polar regions will be colonized, and desert regions irrigated. Our world will be a pleasant place to-morrow!

THE LATEST FADS.

Some Film Stars Have Privately Printed Playing Cards.

Privately printed playing cards form the latest fad of some film stars seeking new luxuries.

They have special designs, some bearing futuristic patterns and others having engraved on them the owner's favorite photograph. One actress has had her cards printed in different shades: mauve, pastel blue, green, and grey being used instead of the enstomary red and black for the suits.

The idea is not a new one, for Sir Edward Davis, the art collector, once commissioned a well-known artist to design a set of playing cards for him.

Of curious collections there seems to be no end.

That amassed by Mr. Henry Ford is one of the strangest. He possesses one of the finest collections of old gin bottles in America.

The typewriter, are not the only feature of his "museum." In addition to ancient tandem bicycles, antique bedsteads, and odd musical instruments, he possesses a bath-tub in which a man was stabbed to death.

Mr. Henry Ainley, the actor, has a smoking-room the walls of which are covered with the lids of cigar-boxes he has collected.

A FOG FREAK.

Trees and Vegetation Catch Water From Drifting Fog.

Trees and other vegetation catch water from drifting fog, and often shed it on the ground below in imitation of rain. This is called fog-drip.

The legend of the rain-tree of the Island of Ferro is explained as a case of fog-drip, and the dewponds of the downs are not fed by dew, but to a large extent by fog drifting in from the sea and caught by plants around the ponds.

A scientist made the experiment of measuring fog-drip, by exposing two rain-gauges on Table Mountain, South Africa — one in the ordinary way, the other with a number of upright glass steam attachments. In such a way as to catch water from the mists and clouds floating over the mountain. In a single night the latter first gauge caught only four inches of water, and the other nearly eighty inches.

Japanese Air Company.

An air company with a capital of $5,000,000 is to be incorporated by the Japanese Department of Communications. The company will be subsidized by the Government and its purposes will be to transport passengers, mail and freight. The line is expected to start business early in the year.

He had got the "sack" and was packing about.

"What am I sacked for?" he said.

"I haven't done anything."

"That's what it's for," said the manager.

THE LORD MAYOR'S JOB.

Is Called Upon to Spend $75,000 of His Own Money.

The chain worn by the Lord Mayor of London is a most valuable affair. The diamonds with which this insignia is studded are valued at $500,000, and before it is handed over to the Lord Mayor he has to give a bond for that amount, covering its safe custody. This is the first expense which falls upon the new Lord Mayor. He is also called upon to spend something like $12,500 for his coach and horses, with the liveries of his staff of servants. The festivities involve an expenditure of anything up to $10,000, and then there is the contract for the catering at the Mansion House during the year to arrange.

Altogether, even reckoning the $50,000 he receives from the City a Lord Mayor needs to "put up" about $75,000 at the very least.

BREED SHEEP IN B.C.

Flocks on High Plateau Are Safe From Coyotes.

One of the most interesting and revolutionary changes in British Columbia's live stock industry, during the past few years has been the growth of sheep raising. Huge flocks have been driven in from Washington, Oregon and Montana, and many of the ranges which years ago were devoted to beef cattle are now affording pasturage for sheep.

More than 5,000 pure merino sheep are now pasturing on Hunter's range at an altitude of about 5,000 feet, too far for coyotes to bother the sheep. There are no cougar in high up, and the only enemies the sheep have are the grizzly bear. These only kill when hungry and their depredations are excessive hunters will soon thin their ranks.

To Spend $12,500,000.

Between now and the spring 1930 the James Maclaren Company of Buckingham will expend approximately $12,500,000 upon the construction of a development at Hull Falls, 23 miles north of Buckingham where 120,000 h.p. will be developed; a 25,000,000 cubic feet storage reservoir at Cedar Rapids, 20 miles north of High Falls, and a pulp and paper plant either at Masson or Buckingham, with a capacity of 600 tons daily, says an Ottawa despa.

HUGE SNAKE GARDENS.

Has Waterfall and Suitable Bathing Pools.

A new snake enclosure at the London Zoo is attracting much attention. It takes the form of a large rock-garden, with a waterfall and suitable bathing pools, not only for serpents, but also for terrapins and frogs. The largest open-air enclosure for snakes is that in the grounds of the museum at Port Elizabeth, which covers more than an acre of land. The inhabitants number over 200, and include such poisonous reptiles as cobras, puff adders, night-adders, mambas, etc. They are quite at home in this park, and move freely about. At dusk the majority retire into huts provided for them. Some, however, remain active by night as well as by day, while a few are completely nocturnal and only appear after sunset.

Pythons, many of them 15 feet long, who are among the guests of the London Zoo, spend most of their time submerged in the water of the moat surrounding the enclosure. A few of the inhabitants of the Zoo, especially the cobras, are cannibals, and attack and devour not only various harmless species, but also some of their most poisonous relations. Even puff-adders have been recorded as falling victims to the cobras' viciousness and voracity.

Mr. Fitzsimmons, the curator of the Port Elizabeth Museum, states that a cobra versus puff-adder contest may last as long as an hour, and that the latter does not give in to the more agile adversary until the effects of the injected venom of his enemy have induced complete paralysis. Not long ago a keeper, in the course of moving some of the snakes in the enclosure, was bitten on the hand by a large puff-adder. A special serum kept on the premises was immediately injected into the victim, and his life saved.

AN ELECTRIC CENTENARY.

Man Who Revolutionized Lighting Born 100 Years Ago.

One hundred years ago there was born in Sunderland the man who revolutionized domestic and industrial lighting by inventing the electric incandescent lamp.

He was Joseph Swan, and the foundation of his invention was laid in Newcastle, where, at the age of twenty, he joined John Mawson, a chemist. In 1848 he started experiments in carbonizing strips of paper, and by 1855 he was able to make them incandescent when an electric current was passed through them.

His great difficulty was in obtaining a perfect vacuum, but in 1877, hearing of Crook's radiometer, he got into touch with Charles Stearn, who had been making these instruments in Birkenhead, and in the following year a lamp which glowed satisfactorily was shown to the Chemical Society.

In 1879 Swan gave a lecture with demonstrations of electric light and lamps in Sunderland, and constructed an improved form of carbon filament of parchmentized cotton thread, carbonized in metal moulds. Incandescent lamps with this filament were produced.

The dates are important, as they establish the claim of Mr. Kenneth Swan that the credit for the invention belonged to his father.

OIL FOR MOTORS.

Sufficient Potential Motor Fuel For Another 2,000 Years.

Experts at a recent World's Fuel Conference, held in London, stated that there should be one automobile for every twenty people in Europe in ten years' time.

This would mean a big increase in the number of cars in practically every European country. Britain just now has one car to every forty-one persons; France has only one to 137 people.

In the world as a whole, the United States has one car for every five people. At the other extreme is Abyssinia, with one car to each 91,142 of population.

Many people are worried as to where oil will be found for running all the cars, if they go on increasing at the present rate. But it has been calculated that there is enough oil in existence, at a full company, and sufficient potential sources [illegible] to supply all needs for another 2,000 years.

Written on Glass.

[illegible] Londoner has recently received an old stained glass window from the Manor House, Abbots Bromley, Stafford shire, which bears an inscription alleged to have been scribbled on it with a diamond by Mary Queen of Scots on the day before her execution. The translation of the writing, which is in Latin, is as follows: "Mary, Queen of Scotland, passed through this town, September 21, 1586, on the way to Burton and Fotheringay."

As the inscription discovered some years ago at the Mermaid Inn at Rye, was written by the King of France, John, who was brought to England as a prisoner after his capture at the Battle of Poitiers. This inscription consists of the unhappy monarch's name and title, followed by a few words of gratitude for the kindly reception accorded him by the landlord of the Mermaid in his exile.

Divorce In England.

It is estimated that one-seventh of the divorces in England take place after five years of marriage, and more than half after ten or more years. Nearly half of the annulled marriages are childless, and in a third of the cases there is one child only. Three out of every five divorced persons remarry, the number of divorced men remarrying being considerably greater than the number of divorced women.

CAPITAL INVESTED.

Dominion Census of Canadian Trading Establishments.

A billion and a quarter dollars of capital is invested in the distributive services in Canada, conveying from the producer to the consumer the necessities, luxuries and other commodities of present day life. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has taken a census of the trading establishments in Canada as they existed in 1924, this census being a side issue of the 1921 general census.

The bureau estimates that it received returns from about two-thirds of the establishments, so that its figures are about two-thirds of the actual totals. There were 60 181 retail establishments, 2,782 wholesalers and 2,851 wholesale-retail. In addition there were about 25,000 service establishments such as tailors, restaurants, photographers, dyers, etc.

To bridge the gap between producers and consumers the capital mentioned was divided: Retail establishments, $914,950,250; wholesale, $476,559,444; retail and wholesale, $188,573,549. Thus 57.9 per cent. of the capital was in the retail stores.

The groceries stores were the most numerous, there being 12,640 with 11,115 other mental and general stores. The family breadbasket received most attention because in addition to the grocery stores and the grocery department of the general stores there were 3,671 confectionery stores, 2,727 butchers, 522 fruit and vegetables, 538 grocery-butcher shops and 48 fish stores. There were 82 hockey and chinaware establishments, 696 furniture, 2,486 stoves and hardware, 140 house furnishings, 125 sewing machines.

The general and departmental stores did by far the greatest business, their sales amounting to $494,708,911.—The groceries came next with sales of $220,290,427. Automobiles and accessories came next with $96,559,855, then dry goods, coal and wood and confectionaries.

MUSK BAFFLES NATURALISTS.

Popular Little Garden Product Loses Fragrance.

Musk, a popular and once fragrant little garden product of years ago, has undergone a change which naturalists are at loss to account for—it has lost its fragrance. What has happened no one knows, and there is no record of any other plant undergoing so complete a change in such a short while.

Now and again the plant breeder has produced varieties of roses and other flowers which, although beautiful in form, have proved to be scentless. In the case of the musk no attempts to "improve" the plant have been made and the loss of perfume is in no way due to human interference.

It is stated that the last examples of fragrant musk were grown not far from Thurso, and especially in towns along the East Coast of Scotland. One wonders whether anywhere in Britain there is to be found a musk plant with its original aroma of its old fragrance remaining. Strangely enough, it is not rare in Britain that musk has been lost to cultivation. Very much the same kind of thing has happened in the United States and other countries where the little plant was formerly prized on account of its delightful perfume.

WROTE SONG AS A JOKE.

Thomas Lonsdale Wrote Many Popular Songs.

Thomas Lonsdale, who died a few months ago at Southsea, England, was the composer of the old song, "Tommy, Make Room for Your Uncle," which was so popular a few decades ago.

For many years he was a race manager at the Coliseum, Portsmouth, and hold a similar post at the Alhambra, Brighton.

"Tommy, Make Room for Your Uncle" was written as a joke when Mr. Lonsdale was only seventeen.

"My mother one day said to me," Mr. Lonsdale said, "Tommy, your uncle is coming to-night, and you must make room for him.' I thought that a good idea for a song, and I wrote it that morning."

Mr. Lonsdale was the author of many other songs that were sung by Arthur Roberts, "The Great Vance," and George Leybourne.

Royal Sword of Scotland.

The great two-handed sword with which Robert the Bruce fought at Bannockburn has been handed down from generation to generation of the Bruce family who possessed Clackmannan tower. The last survivor of this brave's was Mrs. Catherine Bruce, a lady of remarkable character and strong Jacobite convictions, who was convinced that her possession of the Royal Sword of Scotland gave her the prerogative of conferring the honor of knighthood. She thus honored many visitors to Clackmannan tower, among them Robbie Burns, who visited her when she was a nonagenarian. As Burns rose to his feet he gallantly kissed the old lady's hand. "What ails thee at my lips, Robin?" the ancient dame is said to have asked.

Recluse Leaves Rare Paintings.

A rich store of art treasures was found recently in a big house at High Beech, in the heart of Epping Forest, England, where Adolphe Herman Louis, regarded by his neighbors as eccentric, died.

Louis made no will, and as no relatives have been traced, his residence and its contents will be sold by auction, and the crown will take the proceeds. His pictures include two by Corot and other artists represented are Constable, Herring, Leader, Graham and Mulready.

ODESSA

A wedding of much interest to the Odessa people was recently solemnized in Kingston, when Miss Margaret O'Neil, youngest daughter of Mr. John O'Neil and the late Mrs. O. Neil, and Mr. Lloyd Moore, of Switzerville, were united. The happy couple left the same day to visit the bride's sister, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Detroit. On their return they will reside in Switzerville, where the groom is a prosperous farmer. Their many friends wish them many years of happiness.

A very pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. George Lucas, Sr., last Friday, Dec. 14th, when a number of her relatives and friends arranged to have a birthday tea with her, as has been the custom for a number of years. The occasion was her ninety-third birthday anniversary. A very delicious supper was served, and many gifts were received. Mrs. Lucas is a wonderful woman for her advanced years, still retaining all her faculties, and enjoys the up to now events as in former years. All wished her many more birthday anniversaries.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper and daughter, Miss Bessie, of Centreville, are visiting Mrs. Cooper's father, John O'Neil.

Mr. W. H. Turnham has left his farm and taken up residence on York St., Kingston.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Emmons, in the evening, the President in her usual place. The meeting opened with Hymn, "I Want To Be a Worker," followed by prayer led by Mrs. Wm. Frink. The President read the 110 Psalm. The minutes were read and approved, with thirty-six members answering the Roll Call. Moved by Mrs. Atkin Snider, and seconded by Mrs. Benjamin, that we have a sale of articles and a social evening in the Sunday School room. Business meeting closed with Hymn and Lord's Prayer in unison, after which Mrs. Courtland Snider took charge of the programme, consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. W. S. Holmes and Mrs. H. J. Smith; readings by Mrs. Courtland Snider, Mrs. Shelly Denyes, Mrs. Nelson Smith and Mrs. Wm. Jones. Stump speeches, followed by contest. About forty-five were present, among them six gentlemen. The collection amounted to five dollars and forty-five cents.

OBITUARY

James F. Nichols.

A resident of Ottawa for more than twenty years, James Francis Nichols, formerly of Newburgh, Ont., died on Saturday, after an illness of only two days, of grippe.

Mr. Nichols was in his 78th year, and since coming to Ottawa had been employed steadily as papermaker with the E. B. Eddy Co. He was born in Highwycomb, Buckinghamshire, England.

He was a member of Prince of Wales Lodge, Newburgh, the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends, and attended Erskine Presbyterian Church. Those who knew him well regarded him with the highest esteem, and he enjoyed a wide circle of warm friends.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Agnes Andrew, three sons, D. A. Nichols, 57 Cambridge St.; James F., of Chicago, and William, of Winnipeg; and three sisters, Mrs. T. Smith, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. William Clifford, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Ada Packer, of Saginaw, Mich.

The funeral was held on Tuesday at 2 p.m., from the George H. Rogers funeral home, 172 Elgin Street, to Beechwood cemetery.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star have just announced a special offer of a three years' subscription for $2. Splendid value at the former price, this radical reduction should place the Family Herald on every library table in Canada.

J. G. HARRINGTON

SCOTLAND'S FIRST PRINTER

King James IV. Assisted Walter Chepman to Establish Printing Plant in the Year 1507.

Scotland's first printer, according to an article in the Edinburgh Scotsman, by James Baird, F.S.A., Scot., was Walter Chepman. He was assisted in this undertaking by King James IV. Early in life he held an office in the royal household of a clerical or literary character, but at a later period we find him engaged as a merchant in Edinburgh and joining with Andrew Millar, another merchant, they commenced business as printers.

It was owing to the desire of the king that Scotland was first favored with the installation of a printing press. The typographical business would seem to have been in full operation about the year 1507, as on the 22nd December of that year we find the Royal Treasurer paying 36s. for three printed books for the king.

The Cowgate was the place where that grand engine of knowledge was established, as appears from the imprese of some of Chepman & Millar's publications, and also from a passage in the "Tradition of Edinburgh," where the site of the house is thus made out: "In the lower part of the churchyard of S. Giles, adjoining the Cowgate, there was a place of worship known as the Chapel of Holyrood. Walter Chepman, the first printer in Edinburgh, in 1509 endowed an altar in this chapel with his tenement in the Cowgate." In the course of a few years Chepman & Millar produced a number of works, of which hardly any other copies are known to exist than those preserved in the Scottish National Library.

The privilege granted to them was of a rigidly exclusive kind, for at that early period the system of monopolizing knowledge was a matter of necessity. In January, 1509, we find Walter Chepman asserting the right of his patent against various individuals who had infringed upon it by importing books into Scotland, and the Lords of Council reinforced the privilege they had previously granted to him.

However, the troubles which befell Scotland in 1513, in consequence of the Battle of Flodden and the death of the king, appear to have put an end for some time to the progress of typography in Scotland. There is no further trace of it until the year 1542, when the national mind was beginning to feel the impulse of the Reformation. Nothing further is known of Walter Chepman except what is to be gathered from the above passage—that he was employed in [illegible] his property, to the [illegible] then it all probability [illegible] the end of his life.

WELSH BEAUTY SPOT.

antiful and Fascinating Spot for Tourists.

One of the most charming and interesting spots in North Wales often missed by tourists is the old tollhouse at Glyndyfrdwy, which is situated on the main Holyhead road, between that village and Corwen.

About 100 years old, the cottage consists of one storey containing four rooms and a bakehouse. The windows and doors are all back, on account of the toll-money once kept here. On the toll office opposite a skilled hand can still be seen, dating articulars of toll payable. This building is now used as a supply store for the cottage, which at present is leased to a Liverpool lady as a holiday resort. It is generally conceded that the old tollhouse is the best position from which to view the Vale of Llangollen and its everchanging beauties.

Motorists can be accommodated with spare parts, while the hungry tramp rarely pleads in vain for food. Incidentally one can watch a meeting occasionally of an Otter Hunt by the River Dee. Truly a beautiful and fascinating spot for the tourist.

EGG-PACKING PLANT.

Largest Warehouse In Europe Opened at Cheltenham, England.

The most up-to-date egg-packing plant in Europe, which will handle 5,000,000 eggs annually, has been opened at Cheltenham, Eng., by the British Minister of Agriculture. It is the property of the Gloucestershire Fruit and Vegetable Co-operative Marketing Society.

Eggs are collected from farms over a thirty-mile radius by the society's motor trucks and arrive in thirty-dozen boxes. At the station these boxes are loaded on a power conveyor and carried to the second floor. There a gravity runway takes them to operators, who test them while they pass over a candling light. They grade them in an apparatus of 600-egg capacity, grading by size to give them required weights, and pack them in non-returnable cases.

Were Wary of Spuds.

It was not until the latter end of the sixteenth century that the useful and now popular potato was introduced into Europe. It was not until two centuries had elapsed that it came to be regarded as a crop suitable for human consumption. During the second half of the eighteenth century, when Europe was visited with a series of bad harvests and the staple food crops failed, potatoes became universally popular.

The reason why the potato did not take on at first was that it was regarded as being poisonous, perhaps because it is related to the deadly nightshade, and for years it was cultivated mainly as a garden curiosity.

LAUNDRY WORK IN W. AFRICA.

Men Wash For the Men and Women for Women.

Ten shirts and half a dozen pairs of white trousers is quite a normal weekly wash on the west coast for anyone who would present even a passably respectable appearance, writes "a coaster" in the London Daily Mail.

Nearly all Europeans employ their own washman. Washerwomen are unknown as far as the white population is concerned, though they do a thriving trade in the somewhat sultry waters of creeks and lagoons, washing the long white "burnouses" of their menfolk, and their own candy, many-folded wraps.

The large firms, which provide servants for their employes, usually secure a whole-time man whose washday lasts from Monday to Saturday. There is always time for the clothes to be washed twice, a fact which the dusky knights of the soapsuds are not slow to turn to account.

The West African native yields to no one in his respect for dress. To be in the fashion he will even wear tinted glasses and cover his sunproof skull with a solar topee. When, therefore, the washman finds himself on Tuesday morning with half a dozen creamy trousers and the other in his hands, what is simpler than to hire them out for a couple of days? Scores of his friends will pay sixpence for the privilege of disporting themselves in a "white massa's" well-cut suit, and there will be plenty of time to wash them again on Thursday.

The possibility of recognising one's favorite trousers gracing the nether limbs of a not-very-hygenic-looking native is not a pleasant one. Quite apart from the idea of the thing, there is always the very real task of "dhobie itch" or "washman's rash" to consider.

Unfortunately there is very little chance of detecting these activities on the part of the commercially minded washmen. Suddenly to enter them and demand the instant production of one's entire wardrobe is simply to invite a helpless gesture in the direction of a mountain of linen in all stages of laundering.

The wise "coaster" soon realises that in this, as in many other phases of his life, it does not pay to be too inquisitive. Provided his garments are reasonably well laundered, he refuses to let his imagination dwell on the Jekyll-and-Hyde existence which they may be leading.

The Lombards.

Lombard street, the principal bank quarter of the city of London, takes its name from the "Lombards," so-called Italian goldsmiths and moneylenders, who settled there in the beginning of the twelfth century.

They were then commonly called "Longbeards," and the name of the thoroughfare was spelt indifferently Longbord and Langbeard. A century or later it had become corrupted into [illegible]bourne—that is, "long [illegible]his misleading title is [illegible] the ward in which [illegible]

FOR MEN AND WOMEN

New Emigration Camp In Wiltshire, England, Getting Into Shape—Will settle In Canada.

The breezy uplands round about Chiseldon camp, near Swindon, in Wiltshire, will become the scene of the first experiment in England in the training of whole families for life on the land overseas, says the London Daily Mail.

At the beginning of November last fifty men, drawn from the ex-service ranks and from those who are completing the last six months in the service, with their wives and children, moved into the camp, and in the spring they will sail for Canada.

So that they may be free to learn all they can about such matters as milking cows, making butter and cheese, and the care of poultry and other live stock, the wives are to be relieved of most domestic duties. Each wife will have a cow and a pig and a few fowls to look after.

The families will be catered for very much in the way they would be on board ship, the commandant of the camp, Col. H. J. Stibbard, explained. Barrack rooms are being converted for their use.

A special dairy, a cowshed, and a stock shed are being provided for the instruction of the women and children, for whom dairy and poultry instructresses will be available.

While the wives and children are thus preparing for their future busy life on Canadian farms, the husbands will be learning how to manage horses, cattle and sheep, how to plough, and, in short, how to become successful farmers.

The training centre is nearly 2,000 acres in extent and is equipped with farm buildings constructed by men who are receiving instructions in bricklaying, carpentry, and other trades as well as in farming.

Col. Stibbard, who originated the scheme as it is being carried out, pointed out that each of the families will go out to Canada to a farm of 160 acres. The husband will, in the first instance, gain knowledge of local conditions by working for one year on a neighboring farm. A loan of $1,500 will be granted by the British Government at the end of that year for stocking and equipping his farm.

The British Legion has devised a scheme to enable each man ultimately to own his farm by paying 15s a week. The Legion is also assisting in the provision of the families' passages to Canada.

Very Peculiar Birds.

The secretary bird, found in South Africa, is a most peculiar bird, not so much in its appearance as in its diet—the favorite delicacy being snakes.

These birds somewhat resemble an ostrich in appearance, and are very swift runners. Occasionally they use their large wings in flight, but not very often. Their wings are very strong and powerful, and they use them when attacking the snake, beating down the snake when it attempts to coil itself round its hunter.

DINKELBUHL

Oldest Franconia Town Celebrates Its 1,000th Anniversary.

The Bavarian town of Dinkelsbuhl, which claims to be the oldest town in Franconia, recently celebrated its 1,000th anniversary.

It was first fortified in 928, a few years after Conrad of Franconia had been chosen German king as the representative of the foremost of the German races. Since then it has known fire, famine and plague, civil war and siege, prosperity and hard times, first as a fortified town for nearly 500 years as a free imperial city, and since 1802 as part of the Bavarian state.

It is one of the most picturesque of South German towns, and its surrounding walls and towers have stood for many hundred years. Among its many ancient buildings the Deutsches Haus is the most renowned, a wood-framed building of the German renaissance, which is the ancestral home of the Counts of Dreschel-Deutsch. During the present celebrations the chequered story of its 1,000 years of existence was retold in pageantry, ex-wagers, peasants, soldiers, courtiers, and court ladies, princes and generals, moving slowly in grotesque array along the cobbled streets between the garlanded houses, unwound a film in which the main events were reproduced against their proper background.

One incident which is commemorated every year at Dinkelsbuhl, but this year with especial ceremony, is that of the siege of the town in 1632 by a Swedish general, who made the city elders tremble with his harsh demands. His heart was softened—so the story goes—by hearing a petition for mercy sung by the children of Dinkelsbuhl, for he himself had lost a son, and the town was thus delivered from the threat of fire and sword. Then there was a pilgrimage to the monument-bed of Christoph von Seldnau, a much loved writer of children's stories, who was born at Dinkelsbuhl in 1769. The passing of the city into the Bavarian state was the subject of a play performed in front of the Hallians, and the celebrations ended with folk-dances in the old market square.

RINGS WEIGH THIRTY POUNDS.

Dajanzi Women Wear Wedding Rings Around Neck.

The fashion of wearing the wedding ring around the neck is a custom which makes life a burden to the married woman of the Dajanzi tribe, dwelling about the Upper Congo. Great brass rings are worked round the neck of the wives. Many of these rings weigh thirty pounds, whose husbands are well-to-do would as much as thirty pounds.

Frequently one sees a poor woman whose neck is galled by the heavy weight, and in places the skin is rubbed off by the ring. This is a sure sign that the ring has been recently welded round the neck. After a short time the skin becomes callous and then the brass-encircled produces no abrasion.

The custom is a perpetual tax upon the married. In every village of women may be seen a number who are supporting the ring with their hands, and thus for a time relieving their weary shoulders of the burden.

A ring is never put round a woman's neck until she is believed to have attained her full physical development. Once on, it is no easy matter to get it off.

Women who increase largely in flesh after the rings have been fastened to their necks are in danger of strangling to death, and instances of this sort have occurred.

COLD WEATHER CLOTHES.

Nature Has Ordained Wool as Clothing for Animals.

Those people who swear by wool for winter wear have just received confirmation for their views from the British Ready Association. This body has been carrying out a series of experiments, as a result of which it seems that undyed wool gives a higher transmission of ultra-violet rays than either artificial silk or cotton.

Dr. Thomas Dalton, who was one of the pioneers of ultra-violet rays for certain diseases, usually advised patients undergoing treatment to wear a woollen garment, and he has recently expressed his agreement with "the common-sense view that nature has ordained wool as a clothing for animals."

Even a variety of heavy woollen fabrics of the flannel variety receive radiation from the sun, so that science seems to be of the same mind as those old-fashioned folk who have always told us that there is "nothing like flannels."

Apparently it's unwise to launch at "old wives' tales"—modern discovery has a knack of suddenly finding out the things the "old wives" have been saying all the time.

THE HERON.

Once Common Sight In France Are Diminishing In Number.

There are six heron colonies in all France, but these used to be many more. The gradual disappearance of these migrants from French shores has led to a public agitation for their protection. Not everyone protesting has the same motives. To some they are, not more than a valuable delicacy, but, nevertheless, out of this campaign there should result a larger number of these birds than Franco has known for many years.

The most important heron colony is near Saint Omer, in the forest of Clairmarais. On eight-two trees cling 109 nests, from which those with knowledge of these birds deduce that there must be more than 600 in the colony. The whole of France it is estimated that there are not more than 450 nests, as compared, for example, with more than 7,000 in Holland.

MOLTEN BRIMSTONE

Sulphur Magic Makes Paper as Hard as Rock — Two Hundred Other Novel Uses.

When you strike a match you are making use of one of man's oldest and a most versatile servants—sulphur. The Egyptians used it to help them paint their inscriptions. The alchemists of the Dark Ages used it in their attempts to change base metals into gold. Now this old element is being taught new tricks. More than 200 uses for native sulphur have been found in recent years.

New products include everything from tiny pots that bounce without breaking when dropped on the floors to cutting oils that mysteriously reduce the number of turns necessary to rub a gun barrel; from artificial marble and rainbow-hued pottery to pieces of lone-life railroad ties that appear to be made of petrified wood, from battery boxes, bowling balls and phonograph horns, to sulphur-impregnated concrete which approaches the strength of granite.

In making this super-strength concrete, the sulphur is not added during the mixing. The articles are made and then subjected to a bath of molten brimstone, at a temperature of between 140 and 160 degrees C. By the magic of this yellow substance, writes John E. Ledge, in the Popular Science Monthly, objects come out of the bath from four to eight times as strong as they went in.

Recently a paper tube with walls only three-sixteenths of an inch thick was impregnated with sulphur. Before the treatment you could break it over your knee. Afterwards, it supported the weight of a man. Paper mache, similarly treated, also offers a wide range of possibilities. Storage battery boxes and flower pots are among products made in this way. It is even suggested that waterproof sections of paper mache will be the next step!

One of the products of sulphur-treated paper which has interesting possibilities is a cap designed to fit over the tops of telegraph poles to keep wasp from entering the wood and hastening decay.

Just how impervious to water would such a cap be? The answer is found in a four-year-old snowball. In 1924, a snowball was dropped into molten brimstone. It came out with a sulphur shell around it. The snow melted within, but when the ball was put on the scales the other day, it weighed exactly the same as it did in the beginning. In four years, not a fraction of an ounce of the water had escaped through the thin sulphur shell!

THE RUBBER AGE.

The Quiet Home Is the Rubberized Home.

Rubber mats of all sizes and shapes, from doormats to table mats, put the soft pedal on everything from footsteps to plates. The rubber sink lining reduces the clatter of washing up, and it is now possible to obtain a sink tidy in rubber that is quite sanitary, being easily cleaned with boiling water. It will not spoil or chip the surface of the sink, as enamel tidies frequently do.

A rubber soap-dish that acts upon the suction principle is useful for both bath and sink. Slight pressure on the suction cup, and the dish is fixed firmly to the side of the sink. Even this can get out a little noise, as you may observe next time you hastily place a cake of soap in an enamel holder.

Rubber stops and wedges for rattling windows and banging doors are more efficient than other kinds, and just as cheap. Wooden wedges invariably get shaken out; rubber ones never.

Rubber household gloves give protection in more senses than one. No one need fear electrocution arising from leakage in electric cleaners and irons if a pair of good quality rubber gloves are worn whilst handling any such electrical domestic appliance.

FISHING BY TELEPHONE.

Look-Out Man Lets Fishermen Know When Tunny Appear.

A puzzling sight sometimes seen by visitors to the Mediterranean coast is a towering contraption like a very high ladder in the act of falling into the sea, and wired to stanchions set in the rock behind.

The little figure perched on the top is a fisherman, and by his side of a rod and line he has a telephone. He is the look-out man for schools of tunny, and a message from him to the little fishing village a few miles up the coast causes as much excitement as the firing of a five-alarm bell.

Tunny are often as big as porpoises, and they are lured by means of bait packed in nets into a tunny trap, a large net-walled enclosure in a sheltered bay, the "gates" swinging from tethered "gate-post" buoys. A few years ago only the oil from the carcasses was used for export, but now the flesh is tinned and sent to all parts of the world.

United States' Wealth.

The nation's wealth at the end of September is reported by the U. S. Treasury to have been $$$2,212,615,127, or $$$40.82 per capita for the estimated 118,720,000 population. Of the total money stock, $$$6,418,093,626 was in circulation outside of the Treasury. The actual per capita stock of money showed a decline from the $$$42.19 figure reported one year ago.

SPORTS IN GERMANY.

Will Power Is Emphasized Rather Than Enjoyment.

Sports in Germany are a very serious undertaking. They are physical culture, exercise of will power, fighting, writer the Berlin correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor. SCORPION HUNTS

Mardine, Asia Minor, Pays Bounty for Reptiles Which Infest the Town.

In the town of Mardine, in Asia Minor, which is surrounded by ancient fortifications, writes the Constantinople correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, one of the strangest hunts imaginable is engaged in by the inhabitants. The town is infested with innumerable scorpions and snakes, and the municipality pays rewards for all those captured and brought to the authorities. The hunt is carried out at night only.

The hunters carry small lanterns and search at the bases of the walls and elsewhere until daylight, when they proceed to the Town Hall with their "bags." There they patiently await the arrival of the official appointed to receive these creatures, who records in a register the number captured by each hunter and pays him the reward.

The scorpions are often caught alive and kept in wooden boxes, and during the long hours of waiting for the appearance of the official the hunters sometimes amuse themselves by getting pairs of scorpions to fight one another.

The extent of this strange sport may be imagined from the official figures furnished by the municipality. During 1926 no fewer than 18,785 scorpions and twenty-five serpents were captured. In 1927 the respective numbers were 17,545 and seventy-one, while during the past eight months of the present year the figures are 15,909 scorpions and nineteen snakes.

The scorpions are, of course, destroyed, but the snakes are preserved as food for the storks which periodically visit the town in large numbers. These birds usually migrate farther south in winter, but many remain and become quite tame. In cold weather they do not hesitate to approach the fires burning in the municipality courtyard to warm themselves.

The people give them snakes and other tidbits. The birds also know the butcher shops well and sometimes go there begging for scraps of meat. Some have a curious habit of standing patiently in front of such a shop and solemnly salaaming with their heads in supplication. This mute appeal seldom goes unrewarded.

STATUE TO A COW.

Gave Milk and Butter Produce of Ten Ordinary Cows.

A statue has been erected at Seattle, Washington, to the world's most wonderful cow, Segis Pieterje Prospect was her name; 23,922 quarts of milk and 2,865.18 pounds of butter in two years was her achievement.

Her owners, the Carnation Milk Farms, overjoyed at this astonishing performance, which is equivalent to the milk and butter produce of ten ordinary cows, caused the monument to be built, and the Hon. Hugh Kennedy, Chief Justice of the Irish Free State, presided at the unveiling ceremony.

It is felt, no doubt, that the presence of this imposing statue in the farms may inspire other and less gifted cows to emulate their noble sister.

Segis Pieterje -Prospect's three-year-old granddaughter is already following in her grandmother's footsteps, for her milk production during the past year has far exceeded the average.

Amazing Feats.

These are surprising days. Young girls and 12-year-old boys are doing amazing feats of mountain climbing. But more surprising than this is something a guide at Grindelwald told a correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, a short time ago. "Tomorrow," he said, "I take an English lady to the top of the Jungfrau. She is 72, and a few years ago she climbed the Schreckhorn."

Unlucky!

The superstition of lighting three cigarettes from one match arose from the custom of having three lamps on church altars in Russia. It was considered unlucky to light these three lamps from one taper, and the priests would not do so under any consideration.

RUSSIANS IN CHINA

"White" Emigres In Shanghai Concession Developing Industrial Zeal—Regaining Respect.

One of the most remarkable changes in Shanghai's international community during the last two years, writes a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, has been the rise from penniless to comparative affluence of the white Russians, who now number about 10,000 persons.

Two years ago the former subjects of the czar provided the chief problem for charitable organizations in Shanghai. Thousands had drifted there after the revolution in Russia, most of them without money and lacking training to earn their living, and elsewhere until daylight, when they proceed to the Town Hall with their "bags." There they patiently await the arrival of the official appointed to receive these creatures, who records in a register the number captured by each hunter and pays him the reward.

THE CLEANEST COOKS

High Caste Hindus Have Hygienic Rules for Cooking—Must Bathe Before Serving Meals.

Only in recent years have Western doctors and scientists begun to consider hygiene in relation to the preparation of food; but Hindus of high caste have been preparing their meals on hygienic principles for centuries.

Hygienic rules for cooking and eating were embodied in the Hindu religious laws to ensure their observance, and they are observed to this day by all except the unorthodox.

All cooking vessels must be of brass, spotless, and shining both inside and out. The kitchen is separated from the rest of the house, and no one is allowed there except the cook and the assistants.

The Hindu wife, who prepares the meals, must be an early riser. Before cooking her lord and master's morning meal she must bathe herself from head to foot. She then repairs to the kitchen in a clean garment still wet from the washing.

The food is newly prepared and cooked for each meal, and served on platters of freshly-plucked leaves sewn together with twigs. Any food left over is at once given to the poor, who are waiting at a distance from the kitchen. The leaf plates are thrown away.

No one eats without first bathing and putting on clean clothes.

While the husband eats the women stand by and serve, taking their own food afterwards. Hindus eat only twice a day. They do not drink until they have eaten. The wife fetches fresh water from the well and pours it into her husband's hands, from which he drinks, so that his lips do not touch the vessel.

If a paid cook is kept in a Hindu house he must be of the same caste as his employer or of a higher one. This ensures a correct observance of the rules. In Hindu restaurants, and in the Government prisons also, the cook is always a Brahmin—that is the highest caste. These rules were made by Manu, the great law-giver, in the second century.

HAILED AS PROPHET

Gen. Allenby Conforms to Hindu Arab Proverb.

Col. Peter Warren, who was rector of the army postal service with Gen. Allenby, told of Allenby's entry into Jerusalem in an address on the campaign at York, England recently. He said the general entered Jerusalem on foot through the Joppa Gate, and not on horseback through the specially made gap, as the former kaiser had done.

There was, he said, an old Arab proverb that the holy places and not revert to Christians until a prophet coming as a conqueror should enter on foot through the Joppa Gate, and until the waters of the Nile flowed into Jerusalem.

The Nile waters, explained Dr. Warren, were taken into Jerusalem by a pipe line by Allenby's quartermaster force, to replace the old supply of rain water in the tanks.

The Arab word for prophet is Nebi and the Arabs at once associated Allenby's name with it. Mr. Belloc coupled, with the arrival of the Nile water in the city, one reason why the general entered the city as he did.

"Coney."

For years we have heard of the enormous damage rabbits do in Australia. Women have, however, transformed this pest into a national asset.

Five years ago there was not a machine in Australia to convert rabbit skin into what is known as "coney." To-day a hundred women employ about fifteen hundred persons and $2,500,000 capital in the production of fur goods, creating a new local industry that is worth millions.

The fur garment in Australia has now been made a popular article instead of a costly luxury.

"Cheer up, old man," said the optimist; "things aren't as bad as they seem."

"No, but they seem to be," grunted the pessimist.

EMERY HILL W.M.S.

The December meeting of the W. M. S was held at the home of Mrs. H. Safford on Friday evening, the 7th, with a good attendance. The meeting, in charge of the President, was opened by singing Hymn 119, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Wilbert Winters. A reading was given by Mrs. John Mowers, "Borrowing From the Mite Box". After the usual business of the meeting the following officers were elected for 1929:

President—Mrs. Wilbert Winters.
1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. E. Price.
2nd Vice Pres.—Mrs. H. Kimmerly.
Cor. Secty.—Mrs. E. Winters.
Treasurer—Mrs. M. Hudgins.
Associate Helpers Secty. — Mrs. Bruce Russell.
Secty. of Christian Stewardship and Finance—Miss M. Stafford.
Literature Secty.—Mrs. Wm. Bell.
Missionary Monthly Secty.—Mrs. J. N. Mowers.
Strangers' Secretary—Mrs. O. Ashley.
Supply Secty.—Mrs. E. Stafford.
Press Secty.—Mrs. Wm. Pinney.
Organist—Mrs. Fred Henderson.

The meeting was closed by singing Hymn 299, and Mrs. H. Stafford offering prayer. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting by the hostess.

The next meeting will be a social evening at the home of Mrs. Wm. Pinney, on the 2nd of January.

YARKER

A sad gloom was cast over our village on Thursday evening, when we heard of the death of one of our residents, in the person of Mr. Miles Wilson. He had been in ill health for about nine months, but the end was not expected just yet. He bore his sufferings with great patience, never being heard to murmur or complain. His children were all home, his only son, Ray, of Montreal, just happening home a few days before. In religion he was a Methodist; in politics he was a Conservative. The many floral tributes showed the high esteem in which he was held. His funeral was largely attended on Sunday, in the Church, his Pastor, Rev. Mr. McKenzie, officiating. He preached a powerful sermon to a very large audience, and the Choir sang beautifully, "When My Head Reaches Honourn, besides his loving wife, four children, Ray, of Montreal, Blanche, of Kingston; Mrs. Clinton Smith and Mrs. Charlie Buck, Yarker. His remains were laid to rest in Camden East cemetery, to await the great resurrection morning.

After taking 1000 ZUTOO TABLETS Says they are Harmless

Mrs. (Dr.) Shurtleff, of Coaticook, says "I must have taken 1000 Zutoo Tablets. After trying every remedy within reach, I discovered them all four years ago for ZUTOO, which I have taken ever since. I find the tablets a harmless and efficient remedy for all kinds of headache."

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERY OF UNITED CHURCH MET

The Belleville Presbytery of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada met in John Street United Church, Belleville, on Tuesday, Dec. 11th, at 10 a.m., Rev. W. D. Harrison, of Deseronto, the chairman, presiding.

After the devotional exercises, the Religious Education Committee, of which Rev. G. W. Rivers, of Madoc, is convenor, gave its report.

At eleven o'clock the Committee on Missionary and Maintenance Fund made its report. Rev. Dr. Mallott, of Bridge St. Church, Belleville, being the chairman of the committee, in introducing the report of the committee, he pointed out that at the time of Union the three uniting bodies had each made their contributions along the lines of Missionary endeavor, colleges and education, and programs for religious education, Perisian funds, etc. The budget system was adopted to accomplish this task, a system which while familiar to some, was new to others. Yet we do not forget the place of the Sunday School in the life and work of Christ and His church, and education along all lines is still necessary if we are to be able to secure continual support.

The secretary of the commission, Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, then read the report of the committee in so far as it related to the matter of allocations for the various charges for 1929 and moved adoption.

Mr. Ackerman, of Belleville, spoke on the present condition of the Fund for 1928, showing that many fields were tardy in making returns, thus making necessary a large bank overdraft and consequently heavy interest charges.

Mr. Martin, Sr., of Stirling, supported the motion pointing out the fact that if all who professed Christianity were fully consecrated to the Lord, the Divine command could be met in one year.

At 2.15 p.m., the afternoon session opened. An interesting subject was introduced at this time by Rev. Geo. T. McKenzie, of Yarker, who presented on request of Presbytery, a review of Dr. Streeter's recent book on Reality. An interesting discussion followed the Presbytery Committee on Ministers' Reading Courses, was directed to have another such paper ready for next regular meeting of Presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Jones, of King Street Church, Trenton, gave the report of the Ministerial Relations Committee, in which he presented the new constitution covering the Pension Fund of the church, which he said would shortly be placed in the hands of all ministers of the church.

Rev. H. A. Bunt, acting president and secretary of the Bay of Quinte winter school, made announcement re the 1929 session of the winter school.

A motion of appreciation was passed to be presented to the Official Board of John Street Church, and Rev. Dr. Baker closed the session with the Benediction.

A THATCHED COTTAGE.

Only Dwelling-House of Its Kind In London.

In Grove lane, Camberwell, is a 300-year-old cottage that is reputed to be the only thatched dwelling-house remaining intact within the metropolitan area of London.

In the seventies of the last century it was the home of William Black. Here he wrote "Madcap Violet," and here he was visited by George Gissing, who was so delighted with the locality that he afterwards made Grove lane the residence of Nancy Lord in his novel, "In the Year of Jubilee."

At this period entomologists came there in search of stray specimens of the "Camberwell Beauty," now amongst the rarest of British butterflies, but which once bred so altogether too plentifully hereabouts that the local authorities were wont to pay sixpence a bushel for the dead caterpillars.

London's Lord Mayor.

The Lord Mayor of London occupies a position high above every other civic dignitary in the realm, and within city bounds yields precedence only to the sovereign. His title carries with it the rank and trappings of an earl, and during his term of office he is a member, ex-officio, of the Privy Council. He is not only chief magistrate of the City of London, but ranks also as a judge, and as such sits at Old Bailey. His elevation has to be approved by the King, and he is sworn in by the Lord Chief Justice in person. He is chairman of the Thames Conservatory, admiral of the Port of London, head of all the royal hospitals except Christ's, and holder of a host of minor offices. In one respect he claims authority even above the crown, for no troops may enter the City without his consent.

A Valuable Salt-Cellar.

The most important lot in a sale of old English silver in London, was an Elizabethan silver-gilt salt-cellar, dated 1589, sold by order of the trustees of the late Lord Dunraven, and forming part of the late Dunraven heir-looms.

The salt-cellar is of ree angular form, entirely embossed and chased with Hon's masks, fruit, and strapwork on a matted ground. Twelve inches high, it weighs nearly 23 ozs. It fell at £9,800.

SOME BIRDS ARE "DRY."

Get Moisture by Eating Succulent Vegetables or Taking Sap.

"Most birds drink water, but some are not known to drink at all," says E. H. Forbush, former Massachusetts state ornithologist and an authority on birds, in an article written for the Associated Press. Many years ago my grandmother told me that when the hens raised their heads towards heaven with each swallow of water they were thanking God. Many birds drink in this way. Swallows drink while in full flight by dipping down to the water.

"Most birds drink fresh water, but some sea birds take salt water daily. William Brewster, while on a trip to the Magdalena Islands, captured two young Kittiwake gulls. They were given fresh water, but would not touch it. One day some one left a bucket of salt water on the deck and the birds immediately plunged their bills into it and drank their fill. After that they were given salt water daily.

"On the other hand, black ducks, that live all winter along the coast, will drink only fresh water, while loons take either salt or fresh. However, loons and other birds that catch and swallow small fishes under water must take in some water with their food, which itself is rather salty, and some fish-eating birds are not known to drink.

"Some birds get much of their water by eating succulent vegetation and by sipping drops of rain and dew from the leaves. Woodpeckers, nuthatches and chickadees drink sap from trees as long as sap runs. They are fond of the sweet sap of the sugar maple but will take sap from almost any tree.

"Sapsuckers have become notorious by drilling for sap and other birds visit the workings of the sapsucker, among them the hummingbirds. As is well known, these tiny creatures drink also the nectar of the flowers.

"Many birds are fond of fruit juice, which, in part, slakes their thirst. Orioles, Tennessee warblers and Cape May warblers are addicted to grape juice, and where these birds are numerous in September they take their toll from the vineyards."

STRANGE RELIGIOUS BELIEFS.

Primitive People Believe that Animals Have Souls.

The idea has always been prevalent among primitive people that animals are endowed with souls that once inhabited human beings. When a likeness is recognized between an animal and a friend who is dead, the animal is addressed as the person and honored with some ship. Many tribes call the name of some lants.

The voter enters betwee pushes one handle which closes him in, and finds himself faced with a panel on which the names of the candidates are given over rows of little levers.

He pressed down the levers under the name he selects, and they remain down until he opens the curtains.

The act of moving the handle to part the curtains records his selection on a card at the back of the panel and sets the depressed levers back in position for the next voter.

The levers are interlocked so that two men cannot be voted for the same office, and the whole is so arranged that perfect secrecy is observed.

A Remarkable Ink.

A concern that once produced a marking ink had the following to say about its product: "It is remarkable for requiring no preparation, presently pre-engages peculiar public predilection; produces palpable, plainly perceptible, perpetual perspicuity; penetrates powerfully, precluding previous pre-requisite preparations; possesses particular prerogatives; protects private property; prevents presumptuous, pilfering persons practicing promiscuous proprietorship; pleasantly performing plain practical penmanship; perfectly precludes puerile panegyrics, preferring proper public patronage."

Odd Hours for Meals.

The Cuban is perhaps the world's most erratic eater. His morning meal consists of only a cup of strong coffee taken when he first gets up. At about 10 o'clock he will have more coffee with buttered toast.

At noon he forgets luncheon and at four o'clock has still more coffee and a light lunch. His real meal comes at night about nine o'clock, when dinner is a banquet and attended with all pomp and ceremony. There are no set rules of hours and coffee shops remain open day and night.

Gretna and Anderson W.M.S.

The W. M. S. of Gretna and Anderson met at the home of Mrs. Will Joyce, on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 13th, with a goodly number in attendance. The meeting opened with a Xmas hymn, "Joy to the World". The Scripture lesson, "The Visit of the Wise Men", was read by Mrs. J. Card.

Devotional Leaflet, "Life as a Stewardship", was read by Mrs. Dean. Two Xmas readings were given, "Why the Chimes Rang" by Mrs. Alkenbrack and "The Other Half of the Xmas Message", by Mrs. Ross Card. Mrs. S. Griffiths gave a reading on "Prayer". Rev. J. E. Beckel explained the chapter "Rolling Back the Map". THE LAKE OF DEATH !

O. G. Pike, F.Z.S., Pictures Animals Meeting Death In Pitch Lake 30,000 Years Ago.

In some parts of the tropics there are dread areas known as pitch lakes. In the centre you see a black fluid oozing up from an unknown depth, and there is nothing in this world quite so sticky as that dark slime.

It is thicker and far worse than the brown adherent gum on fly-papers. It is a hundred times more sticky than half-dried tar, so it is not to be wondered at that if a creature touches this slime it is impossible for it to escape.

In time the fluid hardens and forms a fine kind of asphalt, which is quarried in large blocks and used commercially.

Thirty thousand years ago there was a five-acre tract of this pitch between Los Angeles and the Pacific shore, writes Oliver G. Pike, F.Z.S., in Tit-Bits. This little patch of our big world was the scene of one of the most terrible tragedies that ever fell upon the creatures of the wild, but at the same time there was left behind a wonderful record, which helps us to understand the animals that lived in those days.

At that time California was a paradise for the beasts, and many interesting species flourished, species which are now extinct. The great plant-feeding mammals multiplied exceedingly, for rich, luscious food was abundant, and the big flesh-eating creatures which preyed upon them also increased. The whole country was getting over-populated; it was time for nature to intervene. But when we look back her methods seem too drastic, for a good part of that great colony of living things was wiped out by a terrible fate.

The rains which came yearly from the great ocean failed; the rivers and lakes began to dry up. The naturally sandy earth became like a desert; the vegetation failed; the forest trees began to wither. There was panic amongst the animals.

The birds moved quickly to more fertile climes, but the mammoths and other large creatures began a great trek southwards in search of water. Here and there they found a large lake, almost dried up, satisfied their wants for a few days, and then, this failing, the vast herds moved ever south.

As they travelled on they came at last to a gap in the mountains. Through this gorge, which is known now as Laurel Canyon, a cool breeze met them. It urged them to go forward, and through that great rift in the hills this struggling throng of half-mad beasts pushed on. Presently this thirsty army came in full view of the plain of Los Angeles, and about two miles ahead hundreds of wild creatures were gathered together, forcing themselves towards shimmering patches of water.

Between them and this bait was a small sea of sticky pitch. It looked solid, but as the thirsty mammals hurried on others pushed on from behind the trap and there was no going back. Those in front uttered piercing cries; they were slowly sinking in this terrible black pitch; those behind travelled over them to reach the water, only to take their places in the awful lake of death.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch swallowed them up, and the curtain was dropped on that tragedy of nature.

To-day it has risen, and in the solid asphalt perfect skeletons have been obtained of those interesting lost mammals that once roamed our world.

Oldest American Roadway.

The old spanish road, built across Mexico in the sixteenth century is believed to be the oldest road on the North American continent. It was built in the form of a letter "Y" with the lower point of the stem starting at Vera Cruz on the gulf. The northern prong touches the Pacific at San Blas and the southern tip at Acapulco. Because of this road the west-bound convoys from the Philippines were spared the dangerous navigation around Cape Horn. There is still evidence that this old trail was used by the Indians before the Spaniards broadened it from a pack-mule path to a highway.

Sleep Secrets.

The next time you say you have "slept like a log," don't be surprised if someone contradicts you and tells you that you awoke at least thirty times.

The average sleeper, it is said, awakens to a part of his environment about thirty-five times in an hour's period, and men are usually more restless than women.

"When a person falls asleep he loses most of his personal dignity. He begins to behave very much like a vegetable, and looks the part," says a research investigator.

Courtesy Rewarded.

While the consciousness of doing right is reward enough, it is interesting to note that a dividend in cash has come to one who expected it the least.

Fisherman Wrecked

Peter was a deep sea fisherman from one of the Maritime Provinces who came to Ontario, married and made his home here. Went in for commercial fishing, but he says the winter work here is even more trying than among the fogs and ice floes of his old fishing grounds. Of course, he was working harder because there were now two people dependent on him. Anyway, he caught a severe cold which brought on pleurisy, and hereupon he is a sturdy-willed Canadian lad he wouldn't give up, but fought on, at home for over a year. No use. The doctor finally gave him up and said he would have to take hospital treatment—his only chance. He did. Peter is in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, where doctors are trying to heal and restore lungs that are full of lead holes due to the ways of health and usefulness gain. A long road, but better ends than the fate that used almost inevitably to overtake the consumptive poor. Would you not like to help in this great work? A subscription would mark your interest.

Such may be sent to Hon. W. A. Charlton or A. E. Ames, 225 College Street, Toronto 2, Ontario.

MENDING RUBBER TIRES.

Carts Bogged in Main Street Show Need for National Scheme.

Russian country roads as anyone can testify who has had to drive there in a telega, or peasant cart, are among the worst in the world. Not only are they most primitive in construction, becoming impassable with the spring and fall rains and following up clouds of dust in the summer months, but they are very carelessly repaired.

Now a movement to provide the country with good roads has been organized. In the Russian Motor Union (Automobiles and Roads) a...its recent congress at Moscow, attended by delegates from all over the Soviet Union. Many stories were told of carts sticking in the mud in front of Government departments in large villages and of mail reaching villages near large cities after a delay of ten or twelve days.—Christian Science Monitor.

Solving Sky Secrets.

Small pilot balloons are kept at all observing stations at which the meteorological work is employed, save in Old Country paper. These balloons are used to determine the motion of the upper air currents.

Other balloons, to which special instruments are attached, are released on suitable occasions to register temperature and humidity at great heights.

These balloons mount higher and higher until they burst. This height may be anything up to fourteen miles.

Working on material deduced from these experiments, there is reason to believe the suggestions made on other evidence that the temperature of the upper air in the neighborhood of twenty-five to thirty miles above the ground, is almost the same as at sea-level.

EVOLUTION OF PIPE ORGAN.

Barber's Discovery Twenty Centuries Ago Foundation of Organ.

More than twenty centuries ago a barber made the discovery that in moving his mirror in the pursuit of his duties air was forced through the tubes of crude contrivance, causing a sweet, musical sound. So struck was he by this peculiarity that he set about making an instrument which was the foundation of the modern organ. After several experiments he made a water-flute, in which air was forced by bellows through an inverted cone which let to flutes controlled by a keyboard, the pressure being kept uniform by water.

After a thousand years a rival instrument made its appearance. This was of a similar pattern, but, instead of water, weights regulated the pressure. In 951 an organ was erected at Winchester. It had twenty-six bellows and ten pipes to each key. The two men who sat at the keyboard "blew and sweated enormously."

Later, a firm of organ makers in Germany succeeded in erecting the first really big instrument. The primary stops did not differ very much from those of to-day, although various novelties were introduced.

Among the innovations were the nightingale and cuckoo stops, while others represented cock-crowing and goat-bleating. Though these novelties have now fallen into disuse, an organ with one of these nightingale stops is still to be seen in Rome.

It was not until the nineteenth century that the problem of the regulation of air pressure was solved by the introduction of the hydraulic blower.

COMPULSORY CHURCH GOING.

Old England Had Its Blue Laws as Well as New England.

As late as 1864 a man rejoicing in the name of Isaac Walton was summoned for not going to church in London, England. His mistress had told him to go and he did not. The magistrate fined him $2.50. This was under the Canons and Constitutional Ecclesiastical, published with royal authority in 1603, the year Queen Elizabeth died. They were intended to make people go to church and the church wardens of those days had to see they were carried out.

Here are some of their duties: "They shall see that the Lord's Day be duly observed; they shall search ale-houses on Sundays, and if any persons are found therein during divine service they shall make them pay 2s. 4d. and also 1s. for being absent from church; and the master ... shall forfeit $2.50. ... shall levy the forfeiture ... The Palestinian birth figure is almost three times that of Sweden, which only averages 175 births to every 10,000 of the population, and is more than two and a half times that of its mandatary, Great Britain, with its 162 births to every 10,000 of the population. Moreover, the Palestinian birth rate is more than double that of the United States, which stands at 226 per 10,000 of the country's population. But even compared with Italy and Japan, both countries with a high birth rate, the Holy Land retains its lead.

The Moravian Chapel, Petter Lane, is the oldest place of Protestant worship in London, having been first used as such in the reign of Queen Mary, when the congregation met in a shed-like structure built over a disused saw-pit.

It possesses another unique distinction in that it is the only place of worship in the Metropolis, and probably in England, in which the preacher has to stand and deliver his sermons in one garden, his hearers seated in another, the boundary line between St. Bride's ... and that of St. Dunstan-in-the-West running directly in front of the ...

Thanks to You!

Now that the busy Christmas season has drawn to a close, we extend to you, on behalf of our many employees, most sincere thanks for your hearty response to our oft repeated request to shop early in the day.

Early shopping has enabled us to adhere strictly to our six o'clock closing rule through the Christmas season, and still achieve a satisfactory increase in business. This has, of course, meant greater comfort and less fatigue to the entire staff who have served you, and it has given more zest to their enjoyment of Christmas Day.

Again assuring you of grateful appreciation,

WHITE WOMAN IN ARCTIC

Mrs. B. A. Morgan Will Send Radio Weather Reports to Headquarters In the United States.

Radio weather reports of observations taken by a young woman at the coldest and most inaccessible weather station in United States territory at Point Barrow, Alaska, will enable warnings of cold waves affecting the north central states to be sent out several days earlier than has previously been possible, says Science Service.

Mrs. Beverly A. Morgan, wife of the Army Signal Corps radio operator at the tradiac post, has recently been appointed observer at Point Barrow. She is one of the six white inhabitants of the town. Arrangements have been made for the first time to radio observations from this station twice daily to weather bureau headquarters in the United States.

The recent opening of daily communication with this station makes forecasting data on weather conditions on the Arctic Ocean available for the first time. Most of the cold waves and other atmospheric disturbances affecting the northwestern States originates in that region of the Arctic. Observations previously taken at this station were sent by mail to the United States, reaching the forecaster's office months after they were made. They were, of course, useless in making the weekly and daily weather forecasts and valuable only as a matter of record. The Point Barrow is over 450 miles north of the other weather outposts sending in wire or radio reports.

Charles L. Mitchell, chief forecaster of the weather bureau, places great stress on the value of this new data.

"This daily contact will give us data which will enable us to trace the origin, force, extent, probable duration and intensity of each disturbance near the point of its origin, so that we will be able to predict its probable effect on crops, shipping and household arrangements many days before it will arrive," Mr. Mitchell said.

It is thought that the observations from Point Barrow will have a vital effect on making the weekly weather forecast for the various sections of the United States more complete, and allow the predictions on cold waves to be felt six or seven days after the report is issued. This is not always possible now.

Mrs. Morgan and her husband will live in the most primitive surroundings with only a few score people within hundreds of miles. Their only communication with the outside world, with the exception of their radio, will be a steamer once annually, sometimes twice a year. Sometimes even this powerful icebreaker is unable to penetrate to the post for months after her scheduled arrival. Shortage of food and other supplies has often caused hardship at the station, necessitating rationing of food. The temperature average 19 degrees below zero during the coldest winter months and has been known to reach 55 degrees below zero.

Despite these hardships Mrs. Morgan has pledged herself to make the routine observations twice a day regardless of weather, storms sickness or other conditions. Many of the instruments require considerable mechanical attention and Mrs. Morgan will perform these duties in addition to her work as observer.

Bureau officials are now considering some means of extending the observation system into Siberia and Islands in the Arctic Ocean.

OBITUARY

Mr. A. E. Paul.

After an illness extending over a period of many months, there passed away to the Great Beyond, on Thursday night last, one of Napanee's best known citizens, in the person of Mr. A. E. Paul, his death taking place at his residence, East Napanee.

Mr. Paul had been in failing health for a considerable time, and in the early summer, with Mrs. Paul, went to Hamilton, where they resided with their daughter, Muriel, until three weeks ago, and his condition becoming very grave, he expressed the desire to return home, and three weeks ago he was brought home in Martin's Ambulance, standing the long journey fairly well. Since his return home his health declined rapidly and his condition had been very low for the past week. There was no one in Napanee who was better known than Mr. Paul. The late Mr. Paul was a native of this county and for many years carried on a book, stationery, and wall paper store in Napanee. For a number of years he conducted an undertaking business, his partner being Dr. E. Meng, M.P.P. Previous to coming to Napanee he taught school in several portions of the county. The deceased was for many years a member of the Official Board of Grace United Church and was an active worker in the many departments of the church's work, particularly the Sunday School, where he was for a long time superintendent and in the choir where he occupied the position of choir leader.

On the death of Mr. Alfred Knight a few years ago, he was appointed Clerk of the Division Court. The deceased was a member of Union Lodge, No. 9, A. F. & A. M., Court Lennox, No. 78, Canadian Order of Foresters, and for nearly forty-five years a member of Argyll Lodge, No. 212, I. O. O. F. The late Mr. Paul was an ex-member of the Board of Education and of the Town Council, and while a member of the latter body rendered valuable assistance and aid in providing a bathing beach and bathing houses along the Napanee River adjacent to his home.

Besides his bereaved widow he leaves to mourn his loss, one son, Grant, of Napanee, and three daughters, Muriel, of Hamilton; Mrs. R. Telfer, of Humboldt, Sask., and Mrs. R. Holland, of Toronto, to whom the sympathy of the community is extended in their sad loss.

J. E. Robinson—Nominated by G. H. Switzer and H. L. VanLiven.
Mr. Robinson being the only nominee, was declared elected.

PUBLIC MEETING

The Town Hall was filled to capacity on Monday night, and the usual enthusiasm prevailed. The nominations closed at 8.30, and a public meeting was held to give those nominated an opportunity to address the electors.

Mr. W. A. Grange acted as Chairman.

J. M. Simpson, Chairman of the Finance Committee, was the first speaker. He explained to the electors the financial standing of the town. Although last year's Council spent considerable in the way of improvements, its deficits were lower than last year's, and the debenture debt was taking care of itself through the revenue from the Utilities and other sources. Mr. Simpson also spoke on the coming election, and as he was the oldest member in the last year's Council, he asked for the support that the electors had given him in the past.

Arthur S. Kimmerly was called on next and, being Chairman of the Streets Committee, gave an account of the expenditures incurred in repairing and building the streets of the town and connecting links. He also gave the electors a full account of the work that was done on several of the streets. He also stated that if elected he would serve the town in the best of his ability.

Mr. W. M. Howitt was called on next, and spoke of the elections in the past few years, and pointed out the prospects of Napanee. Mr. Howitt said if elected his slogan would be a better lighted front street and economy. He asked for the old support that he received in past years, and would serve the town in the best of his ability.

George J. Tustin was called on next, and thanked the electors for the support he was given in the past elections, and stated that the Reeveship needed a man in a position who could give his whole time to better the interests of the town.

C. A. Wiseman was called upon next, and spoke on the financial standing of the town, and his slogan, if elected, would be economy. As he was nominated for both Councillor and Reeve, he said he was undecided as to which position he would run for.

J. G. Daly was next to be called on, and being Chairman of the Town Property Committee, read an account of the expenditures of the town in regard to repairing its property. He stated that, if elected, he would serve the electors and ratepayers to the best of his ability.

Mr. W. H. Dunbar also spoke of the interest shown in the past election, thanked those who nominated him, and declined to run.

Messrs. E. O. Ungar, Chas. Loucks, Geo. Paul, H. Fitzpatrick and W. Perry also addressed the meeting.

EIGHT KILLED IN CAR AT CATARAQUI

Eight persons riding in a closed car bearing a Vermont license plate were instantly killed, at the crossing at Cataraqui at 1.30 p.m. Monday, when the automobile was struck by a Canadian National Railways train. There were no survivors of the crash.

Eight people were killed, the license number on the car, which was a Chevrolet coach; was Vermont 25-520, while on the cylinder head of the car was the number 345,453.

The party were driving westward and the car was struck with a terrific impact, being carried for a considerable distance on the front of the engine, while the mutilated bodies of the victims were scattered along the right of way for about half a mile. Here and there were pieces of clothing and other belongings of the occupants of the car.

The train was eastbound from Toronto to Montreal, the engineer being J. Whelan.

The dead have been identified as Alexander Dupuis, Cornwall, Ontario, formerly of Proctor, Vermont, on his way to Peterboro', where he was to take up residence; Edgar Rivet, Cornwall; Mrs. Dupuis and Mrs. Rivet, and two boys and two girls, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Dupuis.

Thomas Burtch, who lives in the vicinity of the crossing, was apparently the only eye-witness of the accident.

"I could see the train coming," said Mr. Burtch, "and I also saw the car. I noticed the driver of the car apparently put on the brakes and the car slowed down until it seemed to be going not more than fifteen miles an hour when the crash came."

Engineer Whelan stated that he did not see the car until the moment of the crash.

TOM WILSON.

Discoverer of Lake Louise Lives to See Monument to Himself.

Not long ago a sixty-ninth birthday was celebrated by an old-timer who knew "Canada in the days when it was almost a different world from the world of to-day—and partly, an undiscovered one.

Tom Wilson, earliest white guide in the Canadian Rockies, whose relief-portrait in bronze adorns a huge boulder at Yoho Camp, B.C., is the discoverer of lovely Lake Louise. Explorer, railwayman and "honorary Indian" (he is honorary chief of two Indian tribes), he was present when the last spike was driven into the C.P.R. transcontinental line—a spike of gold, driven by Donald A. Smith, afterwards Lord Strathcona.

"After Mr. Smith had hit the spike the last tap," Tom Wilson tells, "there was a moment of impressive and embarrassing silence, but this strain was broken when the conductor of the westbound train shouted, 'All aboard for the Pacific!' This broke the tension and cheers followed."

His own account of the discovery of Lake Louise is engrossing.

"It happened in August, 1882," he tells. "I was prospecting alone with three ponies to carry my stuff in the British Columbian Rockies, picking my trail as I went. Late one afternoon I happened on an encampment of Indians whose lingo I spoke. They were friendly and I decided to pitch my tent in their camp overnight. After supper as I sat with the Indians before the camp fire talking, I heard a distant rumbling which I took to be a snow-slide, and spoke about it to the chief. He told me it was from a mountain above a little lake. Once during the night I was awakened by another avalanche.

"In the morning, before taking the trail, I told the chief I would like to see that lake, and he volunteered to go with me. The distance was only about five miles from the encampment.

"I will never forget that morning when, after dismounting and climbing to the rimrock, I stood looking down on this beautiful body of water, rippling with an emerald sheen in the morning sunshine. Then and there I christened it 'Emerald Lake.' Afterwards, however, it was renamed in honor of Princess Louise, wife of the Marquis of Lorne, who was then Governor-General of Canada."

TO BOOST PINE-PLANTING.

Ontario Plans to Plant 20,000,000 Trees Annually.

Undeveloped and potential forest wealth of the Province of Ontario is officially placed at $600,000,000, according to a statement made by Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, during the course of a lecture delivered before the Royal Canadian Institute, Toronto.

Mr. Finlayson gave some other figures which indicate that the forest industry in Ontario is easily in second place, agriculture only providing in the aggregate a greater asset and producing a greater annual output.

The average return to industry from forest products of all kinds manufactured and sold, said Mr. Finlayson, is $125,000,000 per annum. In addition the industry has an annual payroll of $25,000,000 and the Province of Ontario derives an annual revenue in fees and dues of $5,000,000.

An industry with that much in capital investment and producing revenues to that extent," said the Minister, "is our second greatest source of wealth and therefore deserves great consideration.

"In the past we were so wealthy in timber that we have never made any attempt to formulate, until quite recently, a business policy that would conserve and foster our resource. On the other hand we cut and burnt good timber lavishly.

"Now, however, we are trying to get the people of the province interested in forest preservation.

"The means adopted to this end include distribution of young trees in old Ontario and replanting in new Ontario.

"Last year in old Ontario 10,000,000 young trees were distributed and planted and we hope in the course of the next five years to increase this annual new planting of pine to 20,000,000 trees.

"In New Ontario we are now trying to establish a forestry policy that will perpetuate the timber and pulpwood resources of the north."

DISCOVERER OF AUSTRALIA

Spanish Captain First Saw Fringe of Island Continent In 1606—Had Many Disappointments.

Through the courtesy of Dr. Rosenbach of New York, says an article in the London Times, we are able to impart interesting information regarding Pedro Fernandez de Quiros, the discoverer of Australia.

The documents which have recently come into Dr. Rosenbach's possession came to him from a private source in a South American city.

The document with which we are more particularly concerned is a commission given by Captain Pedro Fernandez de Quiros, in which he names the sailing masters, Manuel Noble and Gaspar de Gay, to command the ship San Pedro and San Pedro y San Pablo, about to proceed "on the discovery of the unknown austral regions of this South Sea, by order of the King, our Lord." The commission is dated Lima, July 27, 1605.

Quiros (or Quiroz) was born about 1565, and followed the life of a common sailor in his youth. Later he became a sea notary, and still later a pilot. He accompanied Mandana on his last expedition, and on the death of Mandana it fell to him to navigate the expedition to Manila, and later to Mexico.

While engaged in the voyage of discovery with Mandana he conceived the idea that a great southern continent existed, and, returning to Spain in 1599, after having made futile attempts in the Vice-regal Court at Lima, he was there able to convince the ruling powers of the feasibility of his plan. He went to Peru, where he arrived in April, 1605, with royal letters directing the viceroy to furnish him with ships and men.

He was ably seconded by the viceroy, Count de Monterey, and on December 21, 1605, set sail. It is related that on leaving the harbor of Callao his pilot came to him and asked him to lay down a course. Quiros asked the pilot in what direction they were then headed, and on the pilot answering him, Quiros told him "Let her go on as she is; God will take us somewhere."

The expedition discovered the islands which fringe the coast of Australia, and, the two small ships becoming separated in a storm, Quiros returned to Mexico, while the other ship went to Manila. Quiros, landing in Mexico, was coldly received by the crown authorities, but managed to make his way to Spain, where he landed with only a few coppers in his pocket, which he gave to the first beggar he encountered.

His experiences and sufferings during the years which followed, when he tried to convince the royal authorities to fit out a new expedition, are very pathetic. In 1613 he secured the desired permission.

Instructions were given to the new Vice-roy of Peru, Francisco de Borja, to despatch him on his arrival in Peru. Quiros accompanied the viceroy and, being taken sick with fever, died in Panama in 161?, thus possibly escaping many disappointments, of which he had already had so many. It will be seen, therefore, that while Captain Pedro Fernandes de Quiros came within sight of the great Australian continent, and actually discovered the outlying islands, he never reached the continent itself.

Unearth a Pict Village.

An ancient underground village, complete with streets and houses, has been discovered near the storm-swept Bay of Skail, on the mainland, in the Orkneys.

Prof. V. Gordon Childe, of Edinburgh University, who has partly excavated the village, described the discovery as being unique in Western Europe.

Several huts have so far been unearthed, with paved floors, stone shelves, and cells, where Picts of the early Christian period lived and died.

Each hut, goofed over with great stone slabs, are no more than four feet high, but a skeleton of a woman 6 feet 6 inches in height has been discovered.

Will War on Porpoises.

The Minister of Fisheries, Quebec, is planning a war of extermination against porpoises off the coast of Gaspe and along the south shore of the St. Lawrence. Its main feature will be the offering of inducements to fishermen to ensure purchasers and the provision of facilities to try out their oil, salvage their skins and perhaps utilize the carcases as fertilizer.

TO RECOVER HELIUM.

Texan Laboratory Is the Coldest In the World.

The "coldest spot in the world," erected through the engineering genius of the United States Bureau of Mines, will supply Uncle Sam's giant dirigibles of the future with helium, says a Canadian Press despatch.

The new Government plant under construction at Soxey, eight miles west of Amarillo, Texas, will recover helium from the natural gas of the Amarillo field by cooling it to a temperature of 290 degrees below zero. At this temperature all of the constituents of the natural gas, except the precious helium, are liquefied, permitting it to be drawn off as gas and compressed into tank cars for shipment.

Because of the extreme low temperatures necessary for the operation of the process adopted by the Bureau of Mines for its new plant, the laboratory has been called "the coldest spot in the world." At the low temperatures to be maintained there, atmospheric air will be liquid, carbon dioxide and mercury will be solids, lead and copper will take on the properties of steel, and rubber will be as brittle as glass. In comparison, such temperatures as are found at the North Pole would be unbearably hot.

The cost of production of helium in the new plant will be brought down to but a few cents a cubic foot, which is relatively cheap when compared with the rate of $2,000 per cubic foot for less than 100 cubic feet before the World War.

Helium has been looked upon by experts as the only safe gas with which airships can be inflated for flight.

The prized helium, announced to investigators by a bright yellow line when viewed through the spectroscope, was found in limited quantity in several smaller fields, but the greatest discovery so far is the Cliffside structure of the Amarillo field just west of Amarillo.

EAU DE COLOGNE.

Very Interesting and Romantic Story Told of This Toilet Water.

Behind the name of this well-known toilet water lies a very interesting and romantic story. It dates back to the time of Louis XV. of France, whose troops then occupied Cologne.

One day, the burgomaster received a present of perfumed water from a nun, who had been given the "receipt" by a poor Italian woman, Paula Feminis, whom she had befriended till she died. It was the only thing the poor woman had to give, and, so she said, was the intention of her dying father, who had worked it out in prison. The sister made some of the "perfumed and healing water," and her present became so much approved of by the burgomaster, and the French general, who had been worrying him about the smells of the city, that it was at first known as "eau de Paris," or "Paris water," and the nun was kept busy making it for the French. The money thus earned was given to the poor, but after the war was over, Jeanne became a profit-making scheme and the name was finally changed to eau de Cologne.

Some years after, however, an Italian, named Johann Maria Farina, arrived in the scene and claimed to be the inventor of "Cologne water." It was he who set up the shop, which has since become famous, even though the question as to the originator constantly crops up, the only thing that is certain is that the perfume was an Italian and not a German invention.

UNDERGROUND ROADS.

Interesting Scheme to Relieve Traffic Congestion In Paris.

The municipal council of Paris, France, has evolved a startling scheme to relieve traffic congestion. Architects have been called on to present plans for a series of underground roads. There will be foot space for pedestrians and inset parallel tunnels containing moving carpets for the rapid transmission of goods from one part of the city to the other.

It is easier to think of electrically driven automobiles passing through such underground thoroughfares than to figure out how the fumes from hundreds of ordinary cars are to be carried off. Nevertheless, the idea even in its inception is worth noting and as a result of the practical study being given the question by the architects a highly useful contribution to solving the problem of urban traffic should be made.—Christian Science Monitor.

Eighty-Nine Years Wed.

The oldest living married couple in the world is said to be found in Semlin, a little village in Serbia. Documentary evidence proves that Destrins Filienovic and his wife, Zivana, were already married and living in the village where they had spent their childhood days, in 1839. Demetrius was then over twenty-one, He is now fully 110, and his wife is 107.

The couple have lived together for 89 years, and are now surrounded by numerous children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. Both are in excellent health and in the enjoyment of all their faculties.

Chiefs Self-Rule.

In the great distant islands under the French administration at Tahiti natives still respect the authority of their hereditary kings and chiefs.

To Lay Dust.

Calcium chloride is now used for laying dust on dirt roads, parks, such as polo grounds, tennis courts and aviation fields.

A Beaver's Lungs.

Beavers have lungs large enough to hold an air supply for several minutes, which enables them to swim under ice.

$100.00 In Prizes For Best Letters

The Dr. Williams Medicine Co. Offer Twenty-Eight Prizes in a Letter Writing Competition.

Some years ago the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., offered a series of prizes to residents of Ontario for the best letters describing benefits obtained through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Hundreds of letters were submitted in this competition, and yet there must have been thousands of other users of the pills who did not avail themselves of the opportunity to win a prize. To all these another letter-writing competition is offered. Thousands have benefited through the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills whose cases have not been reported. These will furnish the material for letters to be written in this contest. There is no demand upon the imagination; every letter must deal with facts and facts only.

THE PRIZES

The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., will award a prize of $25.00 for the best letter received on or before the 28th day of January, 1929, from residents of Ontario, on the subject: "Why I Recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." A prize of $15.00 will be awarded for the second best letter received; a prize of $10.00 for the third best letter; and 25 prizes of $2.00 each for the next best 25 letters.

THE CONDITIONS

The benefit derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills described in the letter may be in the writer's own case, or that of some one in the writer's home.

More than one case may be described in the letter, but every statement must be literally and absolutely true.

Every letter must be signed by the full name and correct address of the person sending it. If it describes the case of some person other than the writer of the letter, it must also be signed by the person whose case is described, as a guarantee of the truth of the statements made.

The writer of each letter must give the name and date of the paper in which he or she saw this announcement.

Fine writing will not win the prize unless you have a good case to describe. The strength of the recommendation and not the style of the letter will be the basis of the award.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Co. shall have the right to publish any letter entered in this contest, if they desire to do so, whether it wins a prize or not.

The contest will close on January 26th, 1929, and the prizes will be awarded as soon as possible thereafter. Do not delay. If you know of a good case write your letter NOW. Observe the above conditions carefully or your letter may be thrown out.

Address all letters as follows:

CRUEL OX GOAD.

French Villagers Are Throwing Them Away.

An interesting campaign has been pursued with good results in the French newspaper Le Matin. It appears that in those parts of France where oxen are still used for many purposes a particularly unpleasant kind of goad has lingered through thoughtless habit. At the end of a piece of wood is a sharp nail and this is employed to prod the animal. Not only is it cruel but it is also unnecessary, but it injures the hide, writes the Paris correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor.

M. Louis Forest has denounced the employment of such goads in a series of excellent articles. Reports are now coming in which show that it only required an authoritative condemnation to induce the villagers to throw away their goads. In various parts of the country the folly of this traditional method has been pointed out by humane volunteers, and instantly there has been a general movement to discard the barbarous relic of other days.

WHALE NOT FISH.

It Is as Essentially a Mammal as a Cow or a Horse.

A whale is not a fish. It is a sea cow. Everyone knows that now, but still, an idea that a whale is a fish, says the Encyclopaedia Britannica, "To realize the fallacy of this notion we have only to remember that, despite its external resemblance to fishes, the whale possesses a mammal as a cow or a horse, and simply resembles a fish externally because it is adapted to inhabit in the same element; but there is no more on that account a fish than is a bat (because adapted to pass a great part of its existence on the wing) nearly related to a bird."

UKRAINIANS' CLUB.

Society's Aim Is to Educate People to Become Canadian Citizens.

Ukrainians of Toronto recently opened their own club house.

Formerly belonging to the Salvation Army, the building was acquired in 1927, and at a cost of $20,000 renovated and redecorated so as to provide facilities for the cultural work of the organization, in addition to the usual appurtenances of a club the building contains an auditorium large enough to hold five hundred persons, a stage at the rear end of it, a hall in the basement, a library and men's smoking and ladies' rooms.

The society was, established in Toronto in 1917 and chartered in 1925, and since that time has resided public halls for meetings, and its activities have been restricted for want of suitable accommodation.

There are about seven thousand Ukrainians in Toronto and the society, a hundred strong, intends to promote their welfare by educational courses and, for the women, instruction in domestic work. The hall will be used as a school-room where adults will be taught English; they will be urged to use the library, for which purpose a staff is encouraged to take up sport. Emphasis is laid on the importance of Ukrainians being naturalized, and it is one of the aims of the society to educate them to become Canadian citizens.

Another object is to foster the study of Ukrainian music and dancing, for which purpose a choir and an orchestra are maintained. In 1928 a performance of native dancing was given by eighty persons at the Canadian National Exhibition, a feature of which is the singing of the Ukrainian choir.

One Chance In 80 Billion.

Thousand-to-one shots have come off before, but it took Argue, of Manitoba, to produce the assembly one chance in thirty-six billion, says the Kenora "Miner and Western Round" column in the Manitoba Free Press.

C. R. Somerville, of that village, the Kenora Examiner reports, shipped a carload of No. 1 Durum wheat to the Canadian National box car No. 422, 171. This was on September 20. Eleven days later, on October 1, more of the same farmer's wheat left the Argue stn lon in the same freight car. He ele mad at its arrival in the head of the lakes and returned like a homing pigeon to its former destination. Railway statisticians worked out the probability of such a hazard arising up. It worked out to one chance in thirty-six billion.

Tobacco Yield High.

Production of tobacco in 1928 totalled 49,978,312 pounds from 45,153 acres. Of the total output the Province of Ontario accounted for 22,246,000 pounds from 32,654 acres; Quebec 5,545,325 pounds from 19,595 acres and British Columbia 180,200 pounds from 115 acres.

CAMDEN VIII. W.M.S.

The December meeting of Camden VIII. W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. E. A. Hannah, with a very good attendance, considering the prevalence of grippe throughout the community.

The Devotional exercises were conducted by the President, Mrs. B. Close, with Mrs. R. J. Wilson reading the leaflet "Life as a Stewardship". The importance leaflet on Chapter IV. of "Those in the Darkness", was read by Mrs. Thomas Wilson, and proved very interesting since we remember the visit of Miss Strathcona Rally of Miss Caswell of Chisamba, who is one of the missionaries referred to in the leaflet.

The minutes of the last meeting, together with several communications, were read and discussed. The roll was called and offering received.

At the last meeting of the year, the reports were then asked for.

The Recording Secretary reported ten monthly meetings held during the year, with an average attendance of 10.3, and two special meetings. For our Easter thankoffering service, the ladies of Enterprise W. M. S. very effectively presented a recitation, entitled "The Challenge of the Cross". Our Autumn thankoffering service was held in Croydon Community Hall, on Sunday evening, Dec. 2nd at which our Past District Superintendent, Mrs. Wesley Wagar, delivered a very thoughtful and inspiring address. Special music was prepared for each of these services, and our society feels grateful to all those who assisted to make our meetings a success.

The Treasurer gave a report of our financial standing, and as we have not yet reached our allocation, it is earnestly hoped that each of our ladies will contribute another dollar, thus enabling us to report our allocation for 1928 raised and forwarded before the books close on January 10th.

The Supply committee reported a sale of clothing and bedding valued at $9.00 sent during the year.

Mrs. R. J. Wilson, in a few well chosen words, conveyed to Mrs. Almore Hyland the sincerest sympathy of our society in the sudden loss of her brother. After singing three verses of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again", the regular meeting was closed, and Mrs. Close then asked our Past President, Mrs. Wilson, to conduct the election of officers for 1929. The following were duly elected:

President—Mrs. Bashford Close.

1st Vice President—Mrs. Ross McGregor.

2nd Vice President—Mrs. R. J. Wilson.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Almore Hyland.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Thomas Wilson.

Press Secretary—Mrs. Thomas Wilson.

Treasurer—Mrs. Samuel Doupe.

Assistant Treasurer — Mrs. Bert Lochhead.

Supply Committee—Mrs. W. J. Haggerty, Mrs. E. A. Hannah and Miss E. A. Reid.

Mite Box Secretary — Mrs. Adam Fingland and Mrs. H. King.

Associate Helpers Secretary — Mrs. R. J. Wilson.

Missionary Monthly Secretary—Mrs. Almore Hyland.

Strangers Secretary and Sick Committee—Mrs. T. Wilson, Mrs. Ross McGregor and Mrs. R. King.

Temperance Secretary—Mrs. Bashford Close.

Mrs. Samuel Doupe kindly invited the Society to meet at her home on January 3rd, for the first meeting of the new year. The Lord's Prayer in unison, brought the meeting to a close.

Annual Concert.

The annual concert which had to be postponed when the schools were closed before Christmas holidays, will be held in the Collegiate Gymnasium and Assembly Room on Thursday and Friday, January 2nd and 4th. School opens on Thursday, January 3rd, and those in charge of the different items on the program are hoping that every boy and girl will be present on the opening day. The parents and other friends of the school have always supported the annual concert in the past, and their encouragement is looked for this year again in spite of the adverse conditions under which the pupils have had to work.

Christmas Social Evening.

The annual social evening given by the pupils to the ex-pupils of the school was held on Thursday evening, December 27th, in the Assembly Room. The Social Committee had decorated the hall very tastefully, and the coloured hats and other novelties added to the effect. While the attendance was smaller than usual, everyone present enjoyed the evening, several remarking that it was the most successful in the history of these events. During the evening, the different universities represented gave their college yells, while all joined in that of the N.C.I. Refreshments were served by the girls of the school, after which dancing was resumed until nearly twelve o'clock, when the evening was brought to a close.

Athletics and Inter-School Activities.

Principal L. S. Beattie attended a meeting in Cobourg on Saturday, December 15th, at which a Central Ontario Secondary School Association was formed along the same lines as those of Eastern and Western Ontario. The Bay of Quinte, which was already organized was incorporated in the Central organization. The following basketball schedule was drawn up for the Bay of Quinte group for the boys.

BATTLE OF THE BROOK

Oliver G. Pike, F.Z.S., Tells How the Kingfisher Escaped From the Sparrow-Hawk.

Years ago, when I was a boy, a stream ran through beautiful and fertile meadows; on its banks were orchards, and along one side for several hundred yards there was a dark wood, in which, in the spring, we always heard the nightingale. Now a great suburb covers those once pleasant slopes, but the little brook still runs rally on, and in places there are a few trees and clear green patches on its banks, writes Oliver G. Pike, F.Z.S., in Tit-Bits.

Birds, and in fact all wild creatures, cling to their old haunts as long as it is possible. The beautiful kingfisher manages to survive in this ever-growing suburb.

My experience of this bird is that, if unmolested, he will enjoy the company of man. For as long as I can remember, a pair of kingfishers have made their nest on the banks of this brook every year. The water is not deep; the average depth would be about one foot, and in hot weather it will dry up altogether; but the kingfishers and their young manage to find sufficient food.

The young are always driven away in the autumn by their parents, to find fresh feeding grounds; for the latter, like many of its feathered friends, is very jealous of its preserves. When the young are reared and able to look after themselves, there is no love shown them by their parents. They must clear off and shift for themselves.

One autumn morning the kingfisher was having a pleasant time. He had found a small pool containing plenty of fish. He had captured and swallowed four, and was sitting on a sheltered twig, preening his feathers. He was satisfied with his toilet, he sat with his feathers ruffled, his eyes partly closed, no doubt waiting while his large meal digested. Now and again he nearly dozed right off, but it is never really safe to give up watching.

Suddenly he sat bolt upright, and like a flash disappeared under the bank. He was only just in time, for as he left the twig a great shadow seemed to flash by. The little branch on which he had been sitting was broken right off, and that alone showed how near had been his end. Instantly the small bird was up and out of the water, flying like a bright green arrow down stream.

Now we could see the cause of this commotion. Coming down from the sky, that big shadow again appeared, and we saw that it was a sparrow-hawk on the lookout for his morning meal. He had seen the bright little bird resting on the branch and thought it an easy prey, but he soon found that his breakfast would be difficult to obtain. But he made another attempt, and struck again.

The kingfisher timed his stroke to perfection, and at the right fraction of a second dived. The hawk, losing his balance, was carried on, and that gave the kingfisher time to double back. He passed us with the enemy close behind, but once more he dived, and his life was saved. On the third time he again came near us, and as he passed a few stones and loud shouts drove away the hawk, and our little friend disappeared round the bend of the brook.

AMUSED NATIVE CHIEFS.

Water Taps Proved Great Attraction to Africans.

The native African chiefs of Nairobi, who visited the camp of the Prince of Wales found much to interest and amuse them, but the water taps proved the greatest sources of attraction.

It was their delight to handle and fondle its bright brass tap, and to turn the water on and off, while their mystified dusky retainers stood around in an admiring circle.

When a mischievous young chief, unknowingly imitating the prank of thousands of small boys, got near his thumb against the opening of the tap and caused the water to squirt in a jet into the faces of those next to him, the joy of the onlookers knew no bounds.

Though ginger beer and fancy cakes tickled the palates of the chiefs, it remained for the camp water taps to send them into ecstacies of wonder.

RE COUNTY MINUTES

"I hold it true, whate'er befall;—
I feel it when I sorrow most;
'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all."

Tennyson's "In Memoriam" XXVII.

In the recent issues of this County Council two motions were "loved and lost",—or at least they were "lost". Their obituary was published in full in last week's Napanee newspapers, with an exhortation to the public to demand "whatever statements representatives" regarding their attitude toward said motions.

Both those motions I helped defeat for the following and other reasons:—

The first motion was an attempt to take the scalp of County Road Superintendent, Anderson. To blame him for all that was not quite satisfactory in County road matters in recent years, I did not think was just. He was acting under orders; he did what he was told to do. For twenty-two years he has been the servant of the County in the matter of roads; and one result of that long service is that Mr. Anderson has a most admirably intimate knowledge of every curve,—and well nigh of every rod of the County roads of Lennox and Addington. True the County has paid him to acquire that knowledge, none the less that knowledge is an asset of value to the County, of which asset it would have deprived itself had this motion carried. Experience is the best of teachers. It would not have been wise, in my opinion, for the County wantonly to throw away this acquired knowledge, which was always within call; nor would it have been British fair play for the Council to make a scapegoat of its Road Superintendent, and to kick him out into the wilderness, damnified not only with his own shortcomings, but also with the sins of commission and omission of all the Special Commissions on Roads of recent years.

Altho' possibly not all the members of recent Road Committees could claim to be "experts", they were all men of mature years, and—more or less—sound judgment. And they had also an engineer from the Highways Department ever ready to give them expert counsel.

The contract system is producing something worth while to show for the money spent. If the man working for a contractor does not give a fair day's work for his wage, he soon loses a job, whether he and his friends have votes or not. Under the old abandoned methods, appropriations of the County road moneys were made to each local municipality, to be expended under the eye of the local Reeve. This way may have been popular with some; but it did not always build good roads. And even a suspicion of any attempt to return to it, would at once put in peril of cancellation the Highways Department's subsidy of fifty per cent per annum.

Motion No. 2 starts off with a reference to what it calls an "Excessive County Rate". But we cannot have good roads without cost. In Ontario we have not as yet the old Egyptian method of producing "bricks without straw". As to having a Roads Committee of three rather than of five, that experiment this County tried in 1925. There was then at least not less dissatisfaction with the result than in any year since.

For my part, I cannot approve of the plan of having the Roads Commission composed of men that are not members of the County Council. The members of a County Council have the honor—and it is an honor—to have been chosen by their fellow ratepayers. Enjoying that distinction, the Reeves and Deputies ought not to wriggle from under the responsible task-work involved. Suppose, for a moment, the man from the South and the man from the North, and the Warden compose the Special Committee on Roads—one a member of the Council and directly responsible to the ratepayers, and two who are neither. Are those who are not Reeves necessarily made of better clay? Are the Reeves to thrust their lawful hands into the ratepayers' pockets, take the levy therefrom and hand it to non-elected men, saying, "You lay out this wealth, we are not fit?" Then the Reeves could stand aside, with idle hands in their own pockets; and with whatever was being done, find fault—helplessly. Those whom the people have by electing them to a Council office—whether it be School Trustees, Reeves, or Members of Parliament,—should do the duties as well as enjoy the honors. If they shirk their trust, the public can reach them. The members of the Dominion Parliament relieve themselves of the pestering of office-seekers, shunted the duty of selecting the lesser officials upon a Civil Service Commission. And the Commissioners have been in a position repeatedly to throw monkey-wrenches into the working machinery of responsible Government. The country has recently been agitated by a resultant scandal. A nameless penny-a-liner in a once great newspaper has had the effrontery blatantly to accuse a wise Minister of the Crown of malfeasance, and of falsehood! It seems to be the theory of some that all "politicians" are base and unfit; and that they grow worse with age. But it may be that Heaven's light is from the rule of Scribes and Pharisees.

GEO. ANSON AYLESWORTH.

Newburgh, 27th Dec., 1928.

LIGHT ON THE PAST.

Berbers Were Not the Original Inhabitants of Morocco.

From Rabat, Morocco, comes a report of the discovery of cuneiform writing dating back to the sixth century before the Christian era. The MSS. telling of how that the Assyrians or the Medes conquered and colonized Morocco, has been found. It is stated by Count. Odinot, a French explorer, twenty-two miles north of Fez, the Sultan's capital.

The inscriptions, which were discovered in subterranean galleries in the mountains, resemble in many respects the Babylonian writing found at Ur in Chaldea. Capt. Odinot believes that the inscriptions prove that the Berbers were not the original inhabitants of Morocco, but that the modern Moors are the descendants of the Assyrians, Medes, and Persians and great war-like nations of Biblical times.

PICTURE PUZZLED CRITICS.

Artist Asked That Picture Be Hung Right Side Up.

Modernistic and futuristic, and sometimes puzzles even the art critics.

For three weeks "The Fossil Hunters," an example of modern art by Edwin Dickinson of Province Cwn, Mass., hung in a choice position at the international exhibition of art at Pittsburg, Pa., while thousands wondered what the maze of black and blue print, as it appeared to the untutored eye, was intended to be.

Officials connected with the exhibition, as well as the critics, apparently understood the picture perfectly, so no one asked questions.

But imagine the embarrassment of the officials and critics when Dickinson wired a demand that his picture be hung right side up instead of sideways.

For Reeve—Chas. Anderson, Wesley Kimmerly, Stewart Mowers, Alf. McCutcheon, Robt. W. Paul, M. H. Sexsmith, Dr. A. C. Tummon.

For Councillors—Adam Scott, Fred Jackson, Elijah A. McQuaig, Donald Fitzpatrick, Milton Young, Harry Oliver, Milford Dupre, W. A McLeod, Claude Allenbarck, Jas. Haggerty, Stanley Sexsmith, H. S. Windover, Christie Hartin, Harold McCaul, Walter Pitt, Wellington Craig, Joseph Tate, Capt. A. S. Hughson, Fred Armstrong, John Belton, Stewart Mowers, M. H. Sexsmith.

The following resolution was moved by Mr. Stanley Sexsmith, seconded by Capt. Hughson, that whereas our esteemed Reeve and Warden, A. C. Tummon, 1928, has intimated his desire to be relieved of the duties of Reeve of the Township for 1929, and whereas, as in the opinion of this nomination meeting in session assembled that it would be a severe loss to Richmond Township for the said A. C. Tummon to retire at the present time; therefore be it resolved that this nomination meeting, in session assembled, do hereby request A. C. Tummon to remain in office for another year, and that those nominated for the office of Reeve be respectfully requested to drop out of the running, giving same to A. C. Tummon by acclamation. The vote was taken, which was almost unanimous.

ODESSA

The Christmas tree and entertainment held in the Town Hall last Friday night by the United Church Sunday School was a great success. It had a fair attendance and the concert was fine. The tree was well filled with gifts for the children and grown-ups. This annual event is always looked forward to with a great deal of interest.—The many friends of Mrs. E. O. Clark will be pleased to know that she is well and spending the winter with her son, Gladwin Clark, and Mrs. Clark in Huntington, West Virginia. Since she left nearly three years ago, she has spent part of the time with her son, Reginald Clark, Chicago. — Last Saturday about noon the home of Herbert Hegadorn narrowly escaped being burned. When the odor of smoke alarmed the family they looked outside and discovered smoke coming through the shingles near the chimney. It was thought that the fire had been there some time smouldering, as the fires had been running rather low during the warm weather. Considerable damage was done in cutting the roof and the siding. Only for sufficient help and prompt action the home would undoubtedly have been destroyed.—School closed last Friday and the teachers left for their respective homes: Miss Jacques, Woodstock; Mr. Cordick, Perth; Miss Leatherland, Inverary, and Miss Anglin, Kingston. — Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Swift and daughter, Catherine, spent Christmas with Mrs. Swift's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gleason, Almonte.—Mrs. Eddie Clark has returned from spending the past year with her daughter, Mrs. Reid, at Chilco, B.C. She spent the week-end with Mrs. Stanley Sproule, and after visiting relatives and friends expects to move her furniture to Toronto, where she will make her home. Her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Clark, has a position there and will be with her.—Mrs. Charley Timmerman has returned from visiting her brother, Samuel Winter, Yarker. Their brother, Fred Winter, Minneapolis, was also there, and visited with them. Mr. Winter left to spend Christmas with his daughter in New York. — Mr. Joseph Sproule is recovering from his recent illness at the home of his nephew, Stanley Sproule.—Mrs. George Oldman, Napanee, visited her sister, Mrs. Wm. Soles, last Thursday. — Miss Gladys Topliff, Pickering, is spending her holidays with her father, W. E. Topliff.—Miss Zita Kenyon, Toronto, spent the week-end and Christmas at B. L. King's.—Fred Sproule, Toronto, spent Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sproule.—Mr. and Mrs. David Marshall and son, Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brant, Toronto, also Mrs. Edith Mathews, Rochester, spent the week-end and Christmas with Mrs. T. C. Graham. — Charley Hamm, barrister and solicitor, Toronto, spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Hamm.—Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Aylesworth, Madoc, were also their recent guests.—Mr. and Mrs. Charley Dell and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sharpe, Bath, were guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sharpe, at the Dominion, for Christmas Day. — Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCormac, of St. Catharines, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Bond.

Columbia, a Great Icefield

The extension of 980 square miles made to Jasper national park, Alberta, in 1927, brought the Columbia icefield within national park boundaries. This giant icefield, one hundred and twenty-five miles in extent, which is the mother of more than a score of glaciers, is surrounded by a galaxy of giant peaks and represents the very climax of the scenic and alpine features of the Rockies.

OBITUARY

Dr. Chas. E. Wilson.

Contracting influenza following a prolonged illness, Dr. Charles E. Wilson, formerly of Napanee, died at the residence of his brother, John F. Wilson, 471 St. Clarens Avenue, Toronto, on Friday, Dec. 28th, 1928, in his 51st year. The deceased was born in Napanee, was the youngest son of the late Uriah Wilson, a former M.P. for the Napanee riding. He was educated in the public schools and at Toronto University. At the outbreak of the Great War, he volunteered for active service, and went overseas with the medical corps. He contracted asthma and other ailments with the result that he had been an invalid since his return to Canada. He was well known in military and fraternal circles, and held high rank in the Masonic Order. At one period he was chief medical officer of the Ancient Order of Foresters. Three brothers survive, John F. Wilson, Toronto; James A. Wilson and U. M. Wilson, County Crown Attorney, Napanee.

OBITUARY

Arthur Percy Scott.

On the morning of December 3rd, 1928, there passed away at his home on the Seventh Concession of Ernestown, Arthur Percy Scott, third son of the late George and Mary Scott, in his forty-eighth year.

The deceased had been ill for several months, and although at times his sufferings were great, he bore them bravely and patiently. During his long illness he was lovingly cared for by his wife and family. Medical skill and loving hands did all in their power to relieve him of his sufferings until he was called to the Great Beyond.

The late Mr. Scott was a man widely known and respected. He was a great lover of sport, especially baseball, and during his young manhood he was considered an exceptionally good amateur player.

With the exception of a short time spent in Western Canada, he had resided in the neighbourhood all his life. Those left to mourn a kind and loving husband and father are his sorrowing widow, formerly Miss Edna Robinson, one son, Bert, and five daughters, Helen, Mary, Dorothy, Verna and Leah, all at home. He is also survived by two brothers, Geo. on the homestead, and Harry, of Neilburg, Sask., and two sisters, Lillie, of Vancouver, B.C., and Mrs. Geo. Whitely, of Montreal.

The funeral, which was held at his home on Dec. 5th, was attended by a large concourse of friends and neighbours who gathered to pay their last respects to one who by his neighbourly acts had endeared himself to them. The service was conducted by his Pastor, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, who preached a very impressive sermon. At the close of the service the remains were taken to Cataraqui for interment. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful and included a pillow from Mrs. Jas. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hamilton; wreaths from Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Whitely and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Scott; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. England, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. W. Whan and Mr. and Mrs. H. Weiwmark, Smiths Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Aikenbrack; Ladies' Aid, Camden East; Mission Circle, Camden East; Trustees and S. S. No. 22, Ernestown; sprays, Mr. Geo. Hilley and family; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hyland and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peters; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Woodcock, Harrowsmith; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Higgs, Napanee.

NORSE NAMES IN SCOTLAND.

Possible to Tell From Which Parts Emigration Came.

Prof. Brogger, of Oslo University, in a lecture at Edinburgh University, commented on the striking fact that the majority of the place-names in the Shetlands and Orkneys were of Norse character. A scrutiny of the old Norse farm names revealed certain types of names which had been most used in the Shetlands, Orkneys, Caithness and the Hebrides. Names in Norway were not only chronological, but also indicative of the social position held by the families in Norway. Further, their geographical limit was sharply defined, and for that reason it was possible to conclude from which parts of Norway the emigration was greatest.

This proved to have been the southwestern coasts of Norway (Agder, Rogaland), and the northwestern (More). In the Agder coast districts in recent years a number of farm sites which had been examined proved to have belonged to an older Iron Age, and seemed to have been deserted in the seventh or eighth centuries. They were usually situated in districts which were no longer cultivated. In all probability a number of these remains were relics of the emigrants.

BRAW LADDIES.

Toronto Only City In British Empire That Has Two Kilted Regiments.

There are probably only a very few people in Canada who know that Toronto can boast of a very unique distinction in its military establishment. Although very often seen by the inhabitants it will be news to most people that it is the only city in the British Empire that has two separate kilted regiments, writes Jas. Kinneburgh in the Toronto Star.

Not even in Scotland can such be seen for although in that old land there are instances of separate battalions of the same regiment in one city yet two separate regiments are unknown in any one city.

Each regiment is affiliated with a home unit, the 48th Highlanders having the Gordon Highlanders and the Toronto Scottish having the London Scottish as the parent establishment.

Using the St. Lawrence.

Ocean steamship passengers using the St. Lawrence route in 1928 numbered approximately 30,000 more than in the year before, with every sign showing a gain. A total of 1,589 passengers crossed the Atlantic last season between this country and European ports, as compared with 168,583 for the 1927 season, owing an increase of 29,606 for 1928. The westbound figures are more than double the eastbound carryings, being 126,142, as compared with 115,657 last season, while those outbound numbered 62,046, compared with 52,926.

A GOLDEN "WHITE ELEPHANT"

Canadian National Railway Valued at $1,660,000,000.

Sir Henry's first year in charge of the Canadian National Railways was the year 1922, not the Montreal Herald. Even in that first year the system showed a small profit on operating account. Here are the surpluses during his term of office:

Year	Operation Surplus
1922	$ 2,885,711
1923	20,430,649
1924	17,244,221
1925	22,264,414
1926	46,483,192
1927	42,112,976
1928 (estimated)	50,000,000
Total	$211,422,193

These figures, however, do not tell the whole story. In 1920, with a capital of over $30,000,000, the system was a veritable white elephant. Every passenger carried and every pound of freight moved cost so much to the taxpayers above the charge imposed. Two years later, in 1922, however, when the earnings approached $2,000,000, the system had attained a value of $60,000,000, basing this estimate upon money being worth 5 per cent. On the same basis of valuation the system is worth today $1,000,000,000.

Verily Canada's white elephant has become a golden pachyderm.

BUSINESS PORT ONCE MORE.

Harbor of Queensborough, England, Active After Ten Years' Idleness.

The harbor of Queensborough, which has been lying derelict since the war, when it was used as a submarine base, has been reopened as a commercial port, says the London Daily Mail.

Its charter dates from the reign of Edward III., and it is claimed that from the manufacturers' and shippers' point of view it is the cheapest port in the United Kingdom.

Under the charter and subsequent parliamentary acts it enjoys immunity from the dues on shipping and charges levied under the Port of London Act.

The maximum charge for a vessel receiving or delivering a cargo or part of a cargo within the harbor is eight shillings.

Sir Hugh Bell, the ironmaster and colliery owner, addressed an informal assembly of business and railway chiefs at the port. He visualized the time when Queensborough would be able to deal with 1,000-ton cargoes in twenty minutes or less.

HAS UNIQUE PENSION

Founded Because King Charles Hid In Oak Owned by Recipient's Ancestor.

A pension, which dates back nearly 300 years is still being paid to Dr. Francis E. Walker, associate professor of English of the University of British Columbia. The story of how £9 5s. 6d. is paid to him as a share of the token of gratitude from King Charles II. of England for a reason from the Roundheads, was recently told by Dr. Walker, writes a Vancouver correspondent.

In the year 1651, it appears, Mrs. Elizabeth Pendrell Yates, from whom Dr. Walker inherits his pension, lived with her five brothers on the Pendrell property at Boscobel in the Midlands. She was unmarried at this time, living a quiet, life and little expecting that she would be the means of performing a service to the King of England.

Charles was at this time trying to make his way to France, to escape the Roundheads, who were scouring the country for him. He had been carrying on a warfare against Cromwell and had been defeated at the battle of Worcester. While the Roundheads searched the country for him, Charles came to the Pendrell home. Elizabeth, who had never seen the "King" before, was naturally excited. When he told her why he was there and that he must be hidden from his pursuers, she called her five brothers and they discussed the question of hiding Charles in some dark corner of the house.

This, however, was deemed an unwise move as they knew the Roundheads would look in the house first. At last a hiding place was decided upon. In the garden there was an old oak tree with a heavy trunk and unusually thick branches. Here it was decided was a place where Charles would be safely hidden. The "King" climbed into the tree and there he remained for a whole day while the pursuers passed and repassed beneath. After dark he climbed down and disappeared into the night.

Charles did not forget the kindness of Elizabeth and her brothers and when he became King of England in 1660 he awarded them all annuities in perpetuity. Elizabeth's share was £50 and during the years which have elapsed since, this amount has been distributed among the succeeding members of the family, so that Dr. Walker's share is quite small. This money the doctor spends on books.

Dr. Walker recently returned from a visit to his ancestors' home in England. Here he was given two little green shoots taken from what is said to be the tree in which Charles hid.

BUY LESS U.S. COAL

Canada No Longer Entirely Dependent on U.S. Anthracite—Lying Coke, British Anthracite, Etc.

The great change that has overtaken the anthracite market in this country is described in the second progress report of the Dominion Fuel Board. The report covers the period from 1923 to 1928. In 1922 the people of Ontario and Quebec were worried as to whether they could get enough fuel to keep them warm during the winter. Now the fuel companies are fighting for business. The report says:

"The disturbing conditions in 1922 were the extent to which the people of Ontario and Quebec had come to depend upon United States anthracite for domestic purposes; the general belief that this was the only available fuel suitable for this purpose; the limited reserve available in the United States, estimates as low as 25 years' supply having been made; the growing cost of the fuel; the interruption to supplies that had been experienced in 1902-3, at various times during the war and again in 1922, and the consideration by Congress of legislation that would place an embargo on the output of anthracite.

"In 1928 an altered situation exists," says the report. "There is now a superabundance of both foreign and native fuels for all purposes. Coke, British anthracite, low volatile coals, and fuel oil are strong competitors of American anthracite in the household fuel trade, and the range of Alberta and Maritime coals is being extended through special provisions to Ontario and Quebec. Though still using large quantities of American anthracite, we are no longer entirely dependent on this fuel, the producers of which are now fighting here to retain a declining market, as they are in their own country."

A comparative table of the fuels used in domestic heating in Ontario and Quebec in the two years under review follows:

Imports of American anthracite: 1923, 4,752,873 tons; 1927, 3,073,622 tons.

Imports of British anthracite: 1923, 207,282; 1927, 720,203.

Coke consumed for domestic heating: 1923, 276,000; 1927, 512,000.

Low volatile coals: 1923, 180,000; 1927,386,000.

After describing the investigations undertaken by the Fuel Board, the preface says:

"Although the use of alternative fuels has contributed to a reduced dependence upon American coals, the problem of Canada's complete fuel independence is still unsolved. The geographic handicap consequent on the location of our largest markets far from our great producing fields, but in close proximity to those of the United States, is one difficult to overcome.

"The Dominion Fuel Board cannot assume as its function the formulation of a national fuel policy, for this is a prerogative of Government, and any such policy, so far as it concerns complete fuel independence, must be determined largely by questions of national expediency, based, however, upon the most complete and accurate knowledge of all technical and economic facts obtainable. The board is endeavoring to secure and correlate these facts.

"The most important point still to be determined is the cost of transporting coal to Ontario and Quebec from Alberta and the Maritime Provinces, and to the Board of Railway Commissioners has been assigned the duty of determining this point by actual test.

"All the available technical data having been secured, the economic aspect of the problem has to be faced, and on this aspect great diversity of opinion has prevailed.

"Manifestly, coal cannot be hauled 2,000 miles from Alberta to Ontario at a cost lower than that of carrying it 500 miles to the same market from Pennsylvania and Virginia. Nevertheless, it has been maintained that the advantages to Canada of increased use of her transportation facilities, increased output of her mines, and consequent greater employment of labor, would more than compensate for the difference in transportation costs. The problem is one on which economists hold strongly divergent views, and on which the board is seeking further light."

"HURRY UP, GEORGE."

Quaint Little Story Is Being Told of King George.

A quaint little story is being told concerning an incident that occurred at the Duke of Devonshire's Yorkshire home.

The King frequently stays there on his way to Balmoral, and on one such occasion recently he encountered the duke's little granddaughter, Arabella Mackintosh, as he went down to breakfast one morning.

He stopped to speak to her and asked her what her name was.

"Arabella," she said simply, adding: "What is yours?"

"George," replied the King.

"Well, George, you had better hurry down to breakfast," said little Arabella, "or granny will give you no end of a scolding if you're late."

Britain's Many Beacons.

The demands made by aviators are turning Great Britain into a land of lighthouses, each lighthouse flashing out its Morse signal for the benefit of aircraft flying by night or through fog. Pilots will carry code books enabling them to note their positions from the signals of the beacons.

The Neon light at Croydon has been so successful that similar beacons are to be placed at intervals along the main air routes, the landing grounds having the more powerful lights.

Canada's Minister to Japan Example of Capable Business Man Giving Talents to His Country.

George Washington Stephens, Canada's Minister to Japan, is with Joseph Flavelle and Vincent Massey, the outstanding example among Canadian citizens of a successful business man who is ready and willing to devote his time to public service, says the Toronto Star Weekly.

Mr. Stephens, perhaps, is best known as a Montreal business man who for several years was chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commission. This was his first public service and he discharged it with such ability that the Canadian Government has never permitted him, since then, to return to St. James street. He is least known, perhaps, as a linguist and student of foreign affairs. Yet he speaks English, French, German, Italian and Spanish fluently—which is remarkable in a business man—and keeps abreast of public opinion in all these countries. Perhaps it was this accomplishment, coupled with his reputation as a business administrator, that caused his selection for the difficult post of chairman of the Saar Commission.

The Saar is a little valley taken, temporarily at least, from Germany by the Allies. Its population is German and French. Stephens found that all his arts of conciliation were needed to hold the scales evenly between them, for although technically he was only the chairman of the commission of three, yet, in fact, he was virtually in sole command. Of the other commissioners, one was French and the other German and they seldom were known to agree upon any question affecting the administration of the valley.

Five years in the Saar greatly enhanced Stephens' reputation and, by the same token, greatly improved the economic position of the little valley he had administered. Stephens returned home to Canada for a rest and perhaps a resumption of business. Premier King, however, had other plans for him and now he is to enter upon a career of diplomacy which may well involve great services to his country.

He goes to Tokio as the first Canadian Minister and he will not only be given charge over the entire trade of Canada with the Far East, including China, the Malay Peninsula and India, but he will also have to deal with a problem which has frequently threatened the peace of the world and which has all but defied the statesmanship of the Empire.

His great task is to carry out the Oriental exclusion policy of this Dominion, without offending the national pride of the Japanese, Chinese and the natives of India, and thus sowing the seeds of racial hatred and future wars. It is a task which will require all his talent and ability, but it is confidently expected in Ottawa that he will meet with the same success that he has done in the past.

BRITISH GUIANA FOR SALE.

Crown Ownership Simplifies Matter to Preserve Vast Resources.

As yet the nation of Venezuela has thought very little in terms of forestry, or forest conservation. The American Tree Association, in her large cities, especially the capital, Caracas, complete devastation has been the result. the coast and alone navigable the valuable species have been cut out, but a small beginning remains. So far that remains has been done, Venezuela has yet to set about planning any thing for the future, or restricting in any way the nation's timber supply. So far the spirits friendly to have protested those forests in accessibility, sparse population, climate and fear of disease has the white man out of the forest areas.

But because of the great resources possessed by a widespread exploitation of her trees is bound to come, and when it does Venezuela will learn, as other nations have learned, that it is much easier to destroy her forests than to recreate them.

Much more happily situated is the sister colony of British Guiana. Thus, the only British colony in South America, resembles the Orinoco section of Venezuela in that a great part of its area is covered with a thick, dense, unbroken carpet of timber growth but, unlike Venezuela, she has already begun to think in terms of making her timber wealth perpetual. Fortunately all of British Guiana's forests are under the ownership of the crown, and the colony has no problem of private ownership or private exploitation. It is unhampered in putting into effect whatever forest policy may seem most wise.

Accordingly several years ago British Guiana established a Department of Forestry, now under the leadership of a British forester with wide experience in India and Australia. The foresters there have gone about their problem in a plan-wise and logical way, realizing that these forests represent one of the most valuable resources the colony possesses. They have mapped off these sections which give promise of having early commercial importance, and each year they are sending crews back to estimate the amount and kind of merchantable timber they contain.

British Guiana is fortunate, too, in having large areas of valuable timber growing directly along the banks of streams that are navigable by ocean-going vessel. This is going to mean that much of the timber will be loaded directly on ships for export without expensive handling and re-handling.

CAMDEN EAST W.M.S.

The regular meeting of Camden East W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. George Black, on December 12th, with our President presiding. Hymn 264 opened the meeting, followed by the repeating of the Apostles' Creed in unison. Another hymn was sung, followed by a prayer for "The Unspeakable Gift", led by Mrs. Dickson.

Roll was called, ten members responding. Minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. Meeting was then open for business. It being the day for the election of officers, it was moved and seconded that a ballot be cast to leave all the old officers in place for the coming year. A few other matters of business was discussed. Collection was taken amounting to $1.15. A reading was given entitled "The Call of Justice", also a reading "Why I Want to Join the Missionary Society".

A reading hymn was sung, followed by "God Save Our Gracious King", remembering him in his illness.

Prayer by Mrs. Sherlock closed the meeting. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Stewart, on January 9th.

Missionary Monthly Secty.—Mrs. S. Haggerty.
Mission Band Supt.—Miss H. Reid.
Mission Band Financial Supt.—Mrs. D. Donevan.
Pianists—Mrs. Redden and Mrs. Huffman.

We extend our sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frizzell, who have lost their baby.—Misses Beatrice and Bernice Milligan accompanied their sister to Toronto last week, and spent a week there.—Miss Olive Blair arrived last Monday to spend the week with Mrs. S. Gilmour.— Miss Hattie Reid spent the holiday season with her sister, Mrs. Pressler, Napanee.— Mrs. Floyd and daughter spent Christmas with Mrs. Woodman, in Kingston.—Mr. and Mrs. Roy White have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. White, during the holiday season.—Mr. and Mrs. Clair Wagar and two daughters motored to Hamilton and spent the Xmas week with his parents and other relatives there.— We are glad to see Mr. J. Wallace back again, after spending his holidays with his parents in Toronto.—Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wilson and son and daughter have spent two weeks with her mother and other relatives in this vicinity.—Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Richmond spent one evening last week in Selby, at the home of G. E. Richmond.—On Monday evening, Dec. 31st, the members of the Y. P. U. had a special programme for the closing of the year 1928, and after the meeting was over at the R. E. Building, Mr. John Ehret invited all present to go to his home and watch the old year out and the new year in, and it is reported that everyone thoroughly enjoyed the taffy pull, which Mr. Ehret provided, and judging from the sound of the bells hailing the new year, there were some young people out after twelve o'clock.—The annual nomination of the Municipality of Sheffield was held on Monday, Dec. 31st, 1921. The Reeve and Councillors were elected by acclamation, as follows: Reeve, A. B. Carscallen; Councillors, T. S. Homes, Clare Wagar, Patrick O'Neil, and Chas. WEDDING BELLS

Lamont—McCabe.

A wedding of interest to many Napanee people took place in Belleville, at Christ Church, on December 18th, 1923, by Rev. W. C. Clark, when May Lamont, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lamont, of Yarker, was united in marriage to Gordon McCabe, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. McCabe, South Napanee. The bride looked going away gown was tan crepe with hat and shoes to match. On their return they will make their home in South Napanee.

OBITUARY

John VanAlstyne.

One of Napanee's oldest residents, in the person of Mr. John B. VanAlstyne, passed away on New Years Day, after a brief illness of pneumonia. Deceased, who was nearly 88 years of age, was unusually smart and active for a man of his age.

The funeral was held from his late residence, Thomas St., on Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. A. J. Wilson, owing to the illness of his Pastor, Rev. W. P. Woodger. Six grandsons of deceased acted as pallbearers. Interment took place in Riverside cemetery.

There are left to mourn three sons and two daughters, Charlie, of Napanee; R. W. and Harold, of St. Catharines; Mrs. Fred Shepherd and Mrs. Walter Cousins, of Buffalo.

Mrs. John Shangraw.

Death once more visited the community of Harrowsmith, and has taken from the home of John Shangraw, his wife, Annie Mary, who passed away on Sunday, Dec. 30th, after an illness of five days, due to pneumonia. Deceased was a highly respected resident of her community, and was of a kind and cheerful disposition, a good friend and neighbour, and a devoted wife and mother. She was always ready to give a helping hand in time of need and sickness, and will be greatly missed by the community. Mrs. Shangraw was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Fitzgerald, Centreville, and was born in Centreville, June 7th, 1903, and passed to rest at the age of 25 years and 6 months.

She was married to John Shangraw on February 8th, 1921. She is survived by her husband and a daughter, Naydene Grace, age 6 years, a son, Kenneth Lavern, age 2 years; a brother, George Fitzgerald, of Sydenham. The funeral service was largely attended at the home, and was conducted by Rev. Mr. Mackenzie, of Yarker, on January 1st. Among those who attended the funeral were Mr. J. Fitzgerald, Mr. F. Fitzgerald and Mr. W. Fitzgerald, all of Madoc, and Mr. J. Davy, of Ponty Pool. The beautiful floral tributes included wreaths from Mr. Shangraw and children and George Fitzgerald, Sydenham, and a wreath from Mr. Milton and Mr. Oliver Shangraw, and Mrs. E. Whitty, Sydenham; a wreath from the I.O.O.F. of Yarker; a wreath from the L.O.L. 532 of Colebrook; a bouquet from Mrs. W. Shangraw, of Colebrook, and Mrs. S. Freeman, of Yarker. The pall bearers were Earl Warner, Carmen Ashley, Wm. H. Kerr, Stanley Babcock, John Brown, Stanley Freeman.

ODESSA

Among the Christmas visitors were Douglas Bell, Montreal, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bell; Mrs. Sydenham, with her daughter, Mrs. Morden Vrooman.

Miss Marian Cairns, of Wyandotte, Michigan, spent the week end and Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cairns.

Albert Judge, Burford, spent a few days with his mother, Mrs. Jas. Judge.

Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman, of Sydenham, spent Thursday with the former's sister, Mrs. Lewis Snider.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cunningham have returned from spending the week end and Christmas with relatives in Morriburg.

Mrs. Ralph Benjamin left last Friday to spend a couple of months with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Briden, Minneapolis.

A very happy Christmas Day was spent at the home of Mr. H. J. Smith, when there was a re-union of the Watts family. Mrs. Watts had her three daughters, Mrs. H. J. Smith, Mrs. Jenkins, Rochester; Mr. Ettinger, Kingston, and two sons, Walter, of Elm Creek, Manitoba, and Stanley, of Rochester. Mr. Ettinger and son, Russell, and daughter, Miss Bessie, were also present from Kingston. Walter Watts and daughter, Doris, Elm Creek, and Mrs. Charley Watts, Rochester. It has been a great many years since the family had had the great pleasure of being together at their old home on this occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Watts left Wednesday for their Manitoba home, intending to visit the former's nephew, Carl Ettinger, and family, Hamilton, en route.

The nomination for the Municipal Council held in the Town Hall on Monday, was very interesting, and the large hall was well filled by men from all over the Township.

At the school meeting Robert Cairns was again elected for trustee. The staff of trustees are Nelson Smith, Stanley Sproule and Robert Cairns.

STRATHCONA

We are having some fine winter weather at time of writing, and the epidemic has almost disappeared from this vicinity. Almost every home was visited.—Miss Muriel Wilson, of Toronto, spent the holiday season at her home here.—Mr. R. Jordan, of 57 Hazelton Ave., Toronto, has been visiting friend Frank Tompkin's.—The Public School re-opened on Wednesday with Miss McGuire and Miss Fluke, of Newburgh, on deck.—Mr. George Miller, Campbellford, has been visiting with Mr. Harold Hoare. — The young folk of the village have been skating on the rink reservoir. — Mr. Chester Baker has been on the sick list for the last couple of weeks.—Mrs. McKinnon, Napanee, visited recently at Mr. Robt. McCarvey's.—The January meeting of the Mission Circle will be held at Mr. Wilfred Wilson's, on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock. All members and visitors cordially invited. — Mr. Will Shorey went through an operation for appendicitis on Monday, and at time of writing is doing as well as can be expected. Mrs. B. Finlay spent a few days recently at Moscow. — Sunday School next Sunday at 1.30 p.m. Don't forget the hour.

For a tight cough we recommend Rexall Bronchial Syrup. Pleasant and safe to take. 35c. a large bottle, at Wallace's Drug Store.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

THOSE ELECTED IN NAPANEE WERE:—MAYOR, W. M. HOWITT; REEVE, GEO. J. TUSTIN; COUNCILLORS, CHAS. N. LOUCKS, JOHN G. DALY, GEO. W. PAUL, J. H. FITZPATRICK, E. O. UNGER, C. A. WISEMAN.

The largest vote in the history of the town was polled at the Municipal Election in Napanee on Monday. The weather was very unfavorable, the morning being stormy and blustery, and the roads were very slippery. Keen interest was shown in the contest for the Mayoralty, which in no small measure accounted for the large vote. Mayor-elect Howitt defeated Mr. Kimmerly by 23, the plurality showing in no small degree the closeness of the election. Charles N. Loucks headed the poll with 789 votes, the largest number ever given a candidate for Councillor in the town. Mr. Daly, who had to carry the new Town Hall on his shoulders, emerged second on the list with 697 votes, and is to be congratulated on the manner in which the electorate stood behind him, as he received 40 more votes this year than in 1928.

Following are the returns:

NAPANEE

	West Ward		Centre Ward		East
For Mayor,—	No. 1	No. 2	No. 1	No. 2	Ward	Total
W. M. Howitt	93	125	110	135	141	604
A. S. Kimmerly	147	137	108	104	85	581
Majority for Howitt						23
For Councillors,—
Chas. N. Loucks	123	180	150	164	172	789
John G. Daly	156	160	133	131	117	697

J. H. Fitzpatrick	132	94	86	97	81	490
E. O. Unger	125	106	80	73	71	455
C. A. Wiseman	50	106	76	123	85	440
J. V. Topping	69	106	70	93	86	423
V. Cowling	142	85	67	66	62	422
Wallace B. Perry	39	76	60	85	94	354

The first six Councillors are elected.

Mr. W. A. Grange, our genial Town Clerk, officiated at the compilation of the returns, and after that duty had been completed he called upon the candidates to address the electors.

Mayor-elect Howitt, who was called upon first to address the electors, said he had very little to say. The election had been conducted in a fair and square manner. He hoped to get the support of the citizens generally in conducting the business of the Council during the ensuing year. He did not expect any reduction in taxes this year, and closed by thanking the citizens for the vote given him.

Mr. Kimmerly said it was his lot to stay at home. The election had been a good scrap, and he would assist Mayor Howitt in any way he could. He also thanked ex-Councillor Simpson for dropping out of the race and giving him a show. He had no grievance, and thanked the electors for the support given him.

Councillor Loucks could not express his thanks and appreciation in words for the magnificent vote given him. He hoped his work during the year would prove worthy of the confidence reposed in him.

Councillor Daly appreciated very much the large vote given him, and he promised to put forth his best efforts during the year in the interests of the taxpayers and the welfare of the town. He said we could not expect much reduction in taxes this year. He closed by wishing the citizens generally the Compliments of the Season.

Councillor Paul had been before the electors in the past in the capacity of a defeated candidate. He was proud of the splendid vote given him, and gave all the credit to his friends for the support they gave him during the contest. He would do his very best to safeguard and further the interests of the town.

Councillor Fitzpatrick was very grateful for the confidence reposed in him by his friends and the electors generally. He would do just as he had promised, and trusted that his work in the Council during the year would not be a disappointment to his supporters.

Councillor Ungar was very proud of his election. While his stock had gone down on the market since a year ago, still he was thankful to all who supported him. He strongly invited the ratepayers to attend the meetings of the Council during the coming year.

Councillor Wiseman thanked those who voted for him, but stated that it goes to show that a candidate should have an organization, which he did not have. He had done a little canvassing in his own ward, but outside of that the vote given him was unsolicited personally.

The defeated candidates, Messrs. Cowling, Toppings and Perry, were not present when called upon to address the electors.

Ex-Councillor Simpson was present and briefly addressed the gathering. He had been asked by several why he had dropped out of the Mayoralty contest, as he had declared at the nomination meeting that he would be a candidate. After giving the matter due consideration the next day he felt that a representative could not be chosen wisely in a three-cornered fight, and therefore had dropped out. He said he would be a candidate for the Mayoralty for 1930.

Reeve-elect Tustin thanked the electors very much for giving him the high honor of representing them as Reeve during the coming year by acclamation, and said he would endeavour to look after the welfare of the town in a businesslike manner.

The meeting closed by all standing and singing "God Save Our King".

NORTH FREDERICKSBURGH

A number of people around here have had the La grippe, but all are improving at time of writing.—Miss Joy Paul has resumed her duties as teacher, after spending the holidays at her home near Newburgh.—The Y. P. S. had their annual election of officers on Friday evening, with a fairly good attendance. — Mr. Nelson Arnold, of Mannville, Alta., arrived last week to spend some time visiting his sister, Mrs. Walter Doidge, also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Arnold, Roblin, and other friends and relatives.—Mr. J. S. Mowers, of Carman, Man., is visiting his sister, Mrs. E. Rikley, and other friends in the village.—Mrs. M. Bacon has returned, after spending some time with her son, Mr. Alex. Garrett.—Much sympathy is extended Mr. J. Gonn and daughter, Mrs. F. L. Amey, in their recent bereavement.—Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Mowers and family spent Sunday the guests of her brother, Mr. Archie Denison, Napanee.—Mr. Ernest Tack spent a few days last week visiting friends here.—The United Church is observing the Week of Prayer, which started on Sunday evening.—Miss Hazel Martin returned on Sunday to attend Normal School at Toronto.—Mrs. Amy Doidge spent New Years with her brother, Mr. Milton Doidge, Mount Pleasant. — Mr. Frank and Mrs. Mary Foley have returned to their duties, after spending the holidays under the parental roof. — Mr. Donald MacMillan was renewing acquaintances one day last week in the village.—Miss Fannie MacAuley is spending some time with relatives in Toronto.—Much sympathy is extended Mr. Walter Lasher and family, in their sad bereavement.

DORLAND

The weather over the week end was extremely rough and stormy. Bay of Quinte had quite an ocean over, but Prince Arthur's Landing broke it up. Several have walked across Hay Bay.

All those suffering from the prevailing epidemic are convalescent, with the exception of Mr. J. R. Allison, whose condition remains critical, and has slight hopes are entertained for his recovery.—Word was received on Sunday of the death at Port Perry of Mr. Allison's brother, Mr. Edward Allison.

Mr. C. F. Allison left on Monday to attend the funeral.—Mr. P. E. Foster returned on Sunday, after attending the funeral of his only brother, who passed away on Wednesday at his home near Richmond.—The schools, which remained closed last week, on account of the number who were ill, opened on Monday. — The January meeting of the W. M. S., which was to have been held on the 3rd of Mrs. T. N. Davis, was postponed a week.

DERNIER-MILLIGAN.

BRITISH LIFE-SAVERS.

Coasts of Old Country Now Boast Fleet of 207 Lifeboats.

"It is extraordinary how little the average man in the street knows about the wonderful life-saving service which is going on every day, and has been going on every day for 100 years, and has been responsible for the rescue of over 61,600 lives," writes George T. Shaw, secretary of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, in the London Daily News.

"Our coast is the busiest coast in the world, and it is a dangerous coast. The Royal National Lifeboat Institution was established in 1824. At that time there were on the coast some 30 lifeboats, the fruit of private benevolence, without permanent support, public or private, the crews without organization or training or reward.

"To-day the coast is guarded by 207 lifeboats, of which 69 are motor lifeboats, the latest product of the development of science in boat building and engine construction; 87 are self-righting lifeboats, and 51 are of the non-self-righting type, of her the Watson or the Liverpool kind, each boat being selected by the crew after careful examination by a deputation appointed by them.

"Something like 2,000 men are trained to man these boats, and another 2,000 men—and women—are trained to launch them. They are all volunteers; but the institution rewards them for every launch in which they take part, whether it is successful or not.

"It compensates them for injury, and if they lose their lives it provides pensions for the widows and dependent children and relatives.

"It has been the steady aim and policy of the Council and of Management to give the men who risk their lives in this noble service the best instruments of life-saving that science can devise and money can supply, and the public has ever been generous in its support of an undertaking in which the very best qualities of our race are expressed; and expressed, not in one supreme effort, as in war, but in a constant year-to-year, day-and-night output of heroism, endurance and humanity.

"The lifeboatmen of Britain," concludes this writer, "have given back to Britain thousands of lives, and have given an example of trained, organized and heroic effort in the service of humanity which has been, and is, a model to every lifeboat service in the world."

GOLFING ON A VOLCANO.

Sport Enthusiasts Construct Courses In Peculiar Places.

Enthusiasm for sport has impelled lighthouse-keepers to construct golf courses on two of Britain's loniest islets. One is on Bardsey Island, where the three keepers get excitement and health from playing over its nine holes.

The roof of a London parish hall has a cricket pitch, a tennis court, goal-posts for football and hockey, and also a handstand. And the roof of a famous West-end store has a miniature golf course on its roof.

Situated on top of Adelaide House, London, is an eighteen-hole putting green 220 feet above a reet level. In close proximity is a large school with a cricket pitch on its roof.

Honolulu possesses one of the world's queerest sports grounds in the Hole-in-One Golf Club, with its nineteenth hole tee on the edge of a live volcano; while an equally strange golf course is that at Jinja, on Lake Victoria, over which the Prince of Wales recently played. The hippopotamus is such a frequent visitor that balls may be removed from its tracks without penalty.

A nine-hole putting course in a New York recreation ground, with bunkers and hazards consists ing of broken drain-pipes, old gas fittings, and so on, takes some beating for queerness.

MATCH-MAKING MARVEL.

Machine Turns Out Twenty-Four Million Matches Per Shift.

A new match-making machine capable of turning out twenty-four million matches per shift is to be introduced into England. In one chain of operations a green, unseasoned log of birch or aspen straight from the forest is transformed within an hour into matches, counted in, boxes with printed covers, and packed in o cases ready for shipment.

Each match is square, with advertisements on two sides—printed as part of the productive process.

One million match-books per day are produced by another machine. Strips of veneer are fed an omatically into the machine, which cuts, prints, and turns out the matches in booklets inside an advertising cover. There is an advertisement on each match.

Home-Made Hooked Mats.

The parcels of home-made hooked mats and rugs from rural districts in the Maritime Provinces, and the sale of the same to summer visitors, has become quite an industry. Several Digby mat buyers recently returned from a buying trip with upwards of 2,300 mats and rugs from Prince Edward Island, while another gathered 562 from the rural parts of New Brunswick. Some of the handy industry runs to over 25,000 rugs annually, most of them going to United States points. Some of the finer mats are worth hundreds of dollars.

"SPRUCING UP" SUBJECTS

Afghan King Sets Example of Sartorial Perfection and Gives Chiefs New Raiment.

The first thing that made the Afghans sit up and take notice, following King Amanullah's return from his long visit to Europe, was his summons to the head men of all the villages. The chiefs, obeying, came to Kabul in their best clothes, consisting of flowing robes, turbans, rope shoes and baggy red trousers. There were 700 of these picturesque fellows gathered in the royal courtyard when Amanullah appeared on a balcony, immaculate to dark gray frock coat, silk hat, fancy striped trousers, white spats, patent leather shoes, yellow gloves, cane and grey top hat, says the Baltimore Sun.

The tribesmen stared in amazement at their monarch, who stared back with the smile of a man who knows that he knows what's what. The chiefs, the whole 700 of them, were then directed to file past and corresponds in Afghanistan to the army quartermaster's stores and here they found the real surprise of the party.

Each giant Afghan was handed first a frock coat, then trousers, hat, boots, etc; in fact, a complete set their king's gorgeous outfit. And as he gathered his stuff together, like a rookie getting his first issue, the chief was marched on to where 100 tailors waited ready to fit and cut and baste the clothes.

And while they were waiting for the final fit along came a greater surprise. Every man Jack of them was ordered to repair to a barber and come back clean shaven; this little touch showing that the king had had his eye on Americans as well as Englishmen, when deciding to dress up his children. Finally, washed and shaved and dressed up, the chieftains were given a three-day party intermingled with Rotarian-like discussions on improving the kingdom along "service" lines. The police had a busy time keeping the frock-coated warriors from sitting down on their haunches on the grass and in the streets and thereby spoiling the new finery.

The next thrill the visitors were treated to was a sight of their women-folk—and everybody else's women-folk—running around town by the king's orders, unveiled. But take it all in all, they had a great time—until the king took their clothes away at the conclusion of the party.

As the monarch explained to his disappointed subjects, this make-up would have to be kept in the best of condition. Otherwise, with all the good intentions in the world, a village headman was quite likely to go out goat herding or threshing or some similar Afghan sport in the new clothes and get them all spoiled. Eventually, promised Amanullah, business suits, golf suits and overalls would be distributed for purposes of work and play. For the present the ceremonial clothes would be kept in Kabul so that they would be in shape for "big doings" when the chiefs came into town for that purpose.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

Has Fallen Off $1,000,000 In Last Twelve Months.

Canada's trade with Russia has fallen off $1,000,000 in the last twelve months, but there is no likelihood at present that diplomatic relations will be reopened with the Soviet, the Toronto Star learns on good authority.

There have been no furthr negotiations along this line since Canada followed Great Britain's lead in May, 1927, and broke off relations with Russia.

F. C. T. O'Hara, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, expresses the opinion that the breaking of relations had not affected the Dominion's trade with Russia very much but could not state why the Dominion's sales to Russia had gone down by $1,000,000.

There are Russian consular agents in Canada, the Star was told by the officer of the external Affairs Department an itrade matters are dealt with by Russian office in New York. There is nothing to prevent Canadians and Russian trading with each other and it is reported that Russia made heavy purchase of wheat in Canada not very long ago.

HUGE COPPER PLANT.

Rhodesian Company to Spend Twenty Million Dollars.

The Roan Antelope Copper Company in northern Rhodesia is installing on a huge constructional and development program involving an expenditure of no less than £4,000,000 during the next two or three years. When completed, this company will take high rank in the list of the largest copper producers in the world.

A crushing and treatment plant of 5,000 tons per day capacity, together with a large smelter, is now being designed in London and construction work is to be immediately. The grade of the ore at the mine is estimated at from 3.5 per cent. upward, so that when the new scheme is in swing the output per annum should be not less than 50,000 tons of metal, yielding a net profit of nearly one million pounds.

Are Not Frozen.

Eggs, said to be almost indistinguishable from English fresh eggs, are now being imported from Australia and New Zealand. During the voyage they are not frozen, but kept cool by currents of air passing through the holds where they are stored.

Discovery of a high grade Tungsten ore at India Path, six miles from Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, has been made.

Influenza's Victims

Left Weak, Miserable and a Prey to Disease in Many Forms.

One of the most treacherous diseases afflicting the people of Canada during the winter months is influenza. It almost invariably ends with a complication of troubles. Its victims suffer with alternate fevers and chills, headaches and backaches. It leaves them an easy prey to bronchitis and pneumonia. Indeed, the deadly after effects of influenza may leave the victim a chronic invalid. You can avoid influenze entirely by keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If you have not done this and the disease attacks you, you can banish its deadly after effects through the use of this great blood-building, nerve-restoring tonic.

Here is proof of the power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills over this terrible. Mr. F. H. McMullen, Belleville, Ont., says:—"Some years ago, following a severe attack of influenza, I was left in such a weak condition that my friends thought I would not get better. I developed nervous indigestion, and my blood got thin and watery. In this weakened condition I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these did what other medicine had failed to do — brought me back to health and strength. I can honestly say I think them the best blood builder and nerve tonic known, and I shall always praise them."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

REDUCE BUFFALO HERD AT ELK ISLAND PARK

Another Instance of Canada's Success in Bringing Back the Buffalo

A gratifying feature of Canada's adventure in bringing back the buffalo is the way in which the different herds continue to multiply and to expand beyond the capacity of their once ample grazing ranges. The case of the main herd at Wainwright, Alberta, in which there was an increase from about 700 head to 17,000 head in eighteen years has often been cited. This year 1,688 young buffalo were sent from Wainwright to the Wood Buffalo park near Fort Smith, Northwest Territories, and of the herd at Elk Island park, two hundred animals have been slaughtered and their carcasses and hides disposed of commercially. That two hundred buffalo could be disposed of without wiping out the entire herd at Elk Island park will surprise most people who have not closely followed this experiment. Nor is this surprise to be wondered at. When the original herd was purchased from Michael Pablo, speedy action had to be taken to receive them. Seventy miles of stout wire fencing, such as encloses the Buffalo park at Wainwright, could not be erected overnight and the first shipment received from Montana was placed in Elk Island park, a fenced wild animal enclosure, fifty-one square miles in area, about 37 miles northeast of Edmonton. As soon as the fencing at Wainwright was completed the shipment was moved to the Buffalo park but about fifty head which could not readily be rounded up were left at Elk Island to roam with the deer, wapiti, and other animals there. These few animals throve like those at Wainwright and this summer a survey showed that the fifty buffalo had increased to about eight hundred. This number, considering the other animals in the park, was felt to be beyond the grazing capacity of the area and the disposal of two hundred was deemed advisable.

Unexpectedly keen interest has been shown by citizens in the fact that nutritious buffalo meat in limited quantities and a few choice robes and heads are from time to time available but attention is chiefly centered in the success achieved in bringing back the buffalo in the prairie regions and in the establishment of a great herd in the far north where the one-time king of the plains will play a large part in the development of Northern Canada.

OBITUARY

Little Master Glen Mowbray.

We extend the deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Mowbray, in the loss of their infant son, Glen Oliver, age 4 months, who died on Wednesday, December 26th, at 10 a.m. pneumonia and pleurisy. Besides his sorrowing parents, the babe leaves one sister, Miss Gretta, and three brothers, Masters Delbert, Joe and Mac; also grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mowbray, at home, and Mrs. Ida Mac Donald, Point Anne. The funeral service took place from the parents' home on Friday, Dec. 28th, at 10 a.m. and was largely attended by sympathetic friends and neighbours, interment taking place in Greenview cemetery, Napanee. Rev. H. Polley officiated. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The pall-bearers were Masters Dorland Turnbull, Jimmy Stapley, Hilton Toppings and Wilfred O'Sullivan.

BAY CIRCUIT WEST W. M. S.

The December meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Bay Circuit West was held at the home of Mrs. C. B. Parks on the second Wednesday of the month.

The meeting opened with the Christmas hymn, "Joy to the World". Mrs. Newton Parks read from Isaiah and Luke of the prophesy and fulfillment of the birth of Christ. The President, Mrs. J. B. Gould, gave the Society $25.00, making herself a Life Member. Rev. Mr. Beckel expressed the grateful appreciation of the Society to Mrs. Gould for her generous gift and untiring services during the past year. Mrs. A. C. Parks was elected President and Mrs. Gould Vice President, with all other officers re-elected.

Rev. Mr. Beckel then gave a very interesting talk on the 3rd chapter of "Drums in the Darkness".

After the close of the meeting Mrs. C. B. Parks gave

HOW HONEY MAY BE USED

(Experimental Farms Note)

Honey, once the world's only source of sugar, is still the best and purest of Nature's sweets. Not only is honey sweet, but it is also a valuable energy producing food, and as such, deserves a place on the daily menu of every Canadian home. It is especially good for children because it satisfies their natural craving for sweets and also supplies the necessary energy for their play or work.

Honey is the nectar of flowers gathered and modified by the honey bee. Approximately it consists of 85 per cent invert sugars, 18 per cent water, small quantities of mineral matter and volatile oils. Honey varies in color and flavour according to its source, but all is of equal value as a sweet or food. All Canadian honey granulates sooner or later, depending upon the proportions of the invert sugars present. Unfortunately, granulation is often taken as a sign of adulteration. This, however, is not the case, as granulation indicates purity and does not in any way affect the quality of the honey.

Honey may be used in many ways, the most common way being as a bread or for dessert. Tons of honey are now being used in the manufacture of bread, cakes, cookies, etc., and many a housewife has found that when honey is used instead of sugar in the making of such articles, a better flavour is produced, and that the product will keep fresh and moist for a much longer period. Honey mixed with peanut butter or cheese also makes an excellent filling for sandwiches, and as a sweetener for cereals, fruit drinks, ice cream, etc., it is unsurpassed. Honey can also be used instead of sugar for preserving fruit and in the making of candies, and will impart a flavour all its own. In almost any recipe that calls for the use of sugar, honey may be wholly or partially substituted and the palatability and food value of the product increased by so doing.

C. B. GOODERHAM,
Dominion Apiarist.

Honey Ousts Glycerine?

Belief that honey will take the place of glycerine in the industrial world has been expressed by S. H. Kelty, assistant professor of entomology at Michigan State College. Kelty based his prediction on the fact that honey and by-products of the hive already are being used in the manufacture of dozens of articles.

"People are beginning to realize more and more the value of honey," Kelty said. "Its value lies not only in its usefulness as a food, but in other qualities that are just becoming known. Manufacturers of shaving cream, rubber goods and lotions have substituted honey for glycerine in their products with good success."

"Money matters," runs a headline in a contemporary. We quite agree — it does.

NUMBER "3101"

Second of the Two Largest Passenger Locomotives In the British Empire Is Ready.

No. "3101" is the second of the largest passenger locomotives in the British Empire to be turned out of the Angus shops within two months. Recently, twenty-five hundred men, all of whom had made some contribution to her design or construction stopped and looked from their tools as she moved. It was a great moment; for them, as they took as much pride in her, each one of them, as did the office boys and stenographers who swarmed the platform of Windsor Station, Montreal, when "3100" made her appearance.

The largest passenger locomotive in the British Empire! In speaking to the layman, those gentlemen who have been so busy are very apt to draw attention to this feature. Size is impressive. One might gather too, when Canadian Pacific officers and employees speak with enthusiasm and justifiable pride of them, that a race between the locomotive departments of the railways of the world had just been terminated by an overwhelming victory for the Canadian organization.

This is hardly the case. As a matter of fact, while the size is a consideration in locomotive design, it is by no means the primary consideration, and while the mechanical departments of all railways watch with considerable interest the development of other lines, the problems of the different roads with respect to power requirements are so different as to leave no ground for comparisons of efficiency. The "3100's" are the largest passenger locomotives in the British Empire, but to the designer and the operating departments of the road, this is incidental. What is more important is the fact that they have succeeded in producing a locomotive capable of efficiently carrying out what is required of it under all conditions, at the same time keeping within the weight and other limitations placed upon it by road-bed gauge and other conditions. They have broken ground in several features, which have required the courage of their convictions, and theirs is the gratification of the successful pioneer.

While the design and construction of the "3100" was no one man's job, to one man fell the job of reducing the requirements to a final analysis, coalescing the many ideas and forming one which would embody the whole. "My job," he says as he looks with satisfaction and affection at the photograph on the wall.

C. H. Temple, whose final and crowning achievement after forty-four years of service with the company was the creation of this mechanical giant, sat in his office on the tenth floor of Windsor Station. He was Chief of Motive Power and Rolling Stock. The Angus plant was five miles away. He visited the plant occasionally to see that various parts conformed to his ideas and he received daily detailed reports concerning production progress, but until the moment of the great thrill, when the turning of the great wheels for the first time proved that the combination of a hundred theories was workable, his main vision, one which pierced the shell, was through blueprints and drawings through logarithms and tables which covered the floor in part of an inch and discovered ratios of this and that which were vitally interesting to him but not very comprehensive to the lay mind.

MEN DO WOMEN'S WORK.

Baroteselland Men Have Their Peculiar Customs.

Like most African tribes, the Barotse have their peculiar customs. Some of these customs are referred to by Stuart W. Stirke, Native Commissioner, Northern Rhodesia, in his recently published book "Barotseland."

The Barotse "Kotla," or Parliament, it may be stated without making any invidious comparisons, sits daily. There is also the Chief's Privy Council, the "Sikalo," which sits in two shifts, by night and by day. Privacy is carried almost to extremes, since "conversation is held entirely in whispers."

In the Parliament the "junior member of each division speaks first," and the "Nyambi," or Prime Minister, winds up the debate. Answers in signed by clapping hands. When a matter is settled "word is sent to the chief, who sends word back by the same man as to his approval or otherwise." In the event of disapproval the Prime Minister "goes to the chief and explains of matter and urges his acceptance of the ruling of the Kotla." It all sounds like our own parliamentary manoeuvres in the time of, say, George III.

"Triplets," says Mr. Stirke, "are very rare and are considered bad. One is killed and two left alive, the reason being that the mother has only two breasts."

The final division of labor between the sexes is reversed among the Alunda tribe. "These people will often assist they are the slaves of their womenfolk," says Mr. Stirke. "The average Lunda woman's daily work is nothing. All they do by wading along the sides of streams, pushing a large wicker basket in front of them. The Alunda use the hoe as well as the axe, and tend their gardens, grind meal and porridge, plaster their huts and build the spot that is generally supposed by other African tribes to be women's work only."

If very close relatives in Barotseland meet, in addition to shaking and kissing hands, they "spray each other with spittle." Men widdershin with their wives, as a man who does so is considered greedy, on the principle that being enough than his wife he will "grab the largest and best portions."

A remarkable fact about the Barotse language is that it is to-day an "almost artificially manufactured tongue which had come into existence during the last fifty years—Sikololo." The real Siseli or Siluyi language—which is the original Bechuana—driven of a hundred years ago brought with them—is, Mr. Stirke says, "gradually dying out, and to-day is known to but a few of the blood royal, sons of indunas (officers of state) and the like."

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL.

Third In Direct Descent to be an Expert In the Field of Speech.

Behind the telephone and the radio loud-speaker of to-day's ands the stalwart figure of Alexander Graham Bell, the Scottish-Canadian whose genius laid the foundations for the perfection of these two wonderful electrical instruments.

In her recent book, "Alexander Graham Bell," Catherine Mackenzie tells us that Alexander Graham Bell "inherited the telephone. Indeed, the chapters relating to his father, Alexander Melville Bell, and his grandfather, Alexander Bell, give new proofs to those who need them of the basic truth of the theories of heredity." Alexander Graham Bell was third in direct descent to be "an expert in the field of speech."

Around Alexander Melville Bell's theory of "visible speech" George Bernard Shaw wrote his play "Pygmalion." And in 1860, Meiville Bell and his brother David published "Bell's Standard Elocutionist," which in all years since "has never had a rival" and remains "the last word on the subject." From the time he was a very little boy, Alexander Graham Bell listened eagerly to his father's and grandfather's theories, which indirectly were to bring about his invention of the telephone; the invention also of the phonophone and the modern phonographic record.

Mr. Bell was one of the first believers in aerial flight and carried on many experiments in it even before the year 1896, concentrating later on a device for getting a flying machine off the water and bringing it back to water again, which had its ultimate development in the American airplane. Most of these experiments were made at Beinn Bhreagh, the manorial Bell home in Cape Breton.

And in 1908 he became a self-appointed committee of one to advance aviation in America. "And advance it he did." He even believed and prophesied that airplanes would one day wing across the Atlantic. But this, to his contemporaries generally, was simply another proof, to be accepted regretfully, of the illusive tendencies of advanced age.

In the story of Alexander Graham Bell's work in behalf of the deaf ("which indeed should have its own book"), viewpoints of his life are opened which many readers of this biography will not have shared before. Miss Mackenzie dissipates the popular fallacy that it was on account of the deafness of his wife—heroine, as he the hero, of a romance than which in all fiction is none more charming, and few as life-long—that Mr. Bell invented the telephone. However, his wife's and his mother's deafness, she thinks, could not have been without influence. The reader will agree with her that the work of Alexander Graham Bell, "the deaf every child who is deaf should have full opportunity of being educated on the pure oral system to speak and to read the lips," should make him renowned as an educator "even if he had done nothing else."

CHAPLAIN OF TRAMPS.

Minister Has "Who's Who" of England's Weary Willies.

Rev. J. P. Bacon Phillips, of Burgess Hill, near Brighton, a former rector of Crowhurst, Sussex, is the self-appointed chaplain of the tramps of the Brighton road, writes a correspondent of the London Mail.

He knows them all and has compiled a "Who's Who" of the road between Cuckfield and Brighton. Rev. Bacon Phillips, who is 72 years of age, told me:

"I have gone out on to the high road daily for several years to look for and help these tramps, and my experience has shown me that 80 per cent. of them are well worth assisting.

"I do not preach to them. I chat and smile with them and console them. At a wayside coffee stall I always insist that they have a cup of tea, and for pipe-smokers I carry a supply of cherry-wood pipes and some tobacco.

"I keep a careful note of names, descriptions and general particulars of every tramp. Some are never seen again; others frequently appear in my notebooks.

"The young tramp of to-day is a nuisance. The roads are too full of men of from 18 to 26 years of age."

First Fountain-Pen.

Who invented the fountain-pen? Lewis Waterman was a late comer in the field when he applied for a patent in 1883.

Excavations in an Egyptian tomb dating back more than four thousand years, according to the journal of the Patent Office Society, revealed an early form of fountain-pen. The primitive instrument consisted of a section of reed of the diameter of a lead pencil, about three inches in length and mounted on a long piece of copper.

The nib of the pen was cut away to a fine point like an ordinary quill pen. The narrow tube of the reed served to hold in reserve a small quantity of the writing fluid, whatever it may have been.

Making Rail Smoother.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has just completed tests, with success, of a process for increasing the smoothness of railway travel and at the same time lengthening the life of the rails. The process fills with gravel the dips or hollows where the rails connect are fused by electric are welding, and then rolls the rail to a depth of one-eighth of an inch and fuses thereon a deposit of 5 per cent. nickel which is almost 50 per cent. harder than the rail itself.

Sheep-Raising In Quebec.

The growing interest in sheep-raising among the farmers of Quebec is leading to the establishment of many new flocks.

There are now 16,000 bison on reserves in Canada.

A Problem For Young Mothers

Stomach troubles cause most of the distress of babyhood and childhood, and are the greatest problem that a young mother has to solve. The treatment for these digestive disturbances that make baby cry continually and disturb his sleep must be quick and effective, and, above all, perfectly safe.

The absolutely safe treatment for disturbances of baby's tender stomach and bowels is found in Baby's Own Tablets. Thousands of mothers have had their problem solved through them. They are guaranteed to be free from all injurious drugs and cannot possibly do harm to even the youngest babe—they always do good.

Baby's Own Tablets regulate the stomach and bowels, banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and promote that health-giving sleep which is so necessary to the welfare of the baby or growing child. The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RAIN FALL IN 1928 WAS OVER AVERAGE

Year Just Closed Was Second Wettest in Last 39 Years.

The year 1928 was the second wettest year in the past 39 years, according to a statement issued by F. W. Baker, official weather observer at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Total precipitation was 42.88 inches, which was only exceeded in 1902, when 42.94 inches was recorded. The yearly average for Ottawa is 34.60.

During the past six years, this average has always been exceeded. June last year was exceptionally wet and similar characteristics were observed in July, August, September and October. The total rainfall for these months was 20.63 inches, as compared with the average for these months of 15.79 inches.

DENBIGH

(For last week.)

The two weeks' special meetings in the Matawatchan United Church, on the Denbigh Mission field, were most successful. Over forty young and old, made definite decision and united with the church. Rev. P. A. Scott, minister in charge, was ably assisted by Rev. H. C. and Mrs. Brown, Evangelists, Newbord, who rendered most effective services. The powerful appealing sermons were heart-searching and convincing, while the solos and duets of the Evangelists, accompanied by the violin in the hands of Mr. Brown, contributed much to the success. Mr. and Mrs. Brown are to be commended for their safe, sane and effective methods, and were heartily invited to return in the near future. All praise and glory rightly belongs to God, the giver of very good and perfect gift. The meetings will not soon be forgotten.—At the recent Official Board meeting, Rev. and Mrs. Scott were given a hearty invitation to return for the seventh year.—The Ladies' Aid, organized a year ago, reported a very successful year at their December meeting, having raised upwards of three hundred dollars. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Mrs. P. A. Scott, re-elected; Vice President, Mrs. Chas. Stein; Secretary, Mrs. K. G. Adams; Treasurer, Mrs. Anna Lane. They decided to hold a box social Valentine night.—The mild weather of the last few days has about destroyed the previous excellent sleighing. Autos are now running as usual.—Dr. Adams is a very busy man these days, owing to the Flu epidemic at Matawatchan. Church services have been withdrawn.—The Christmas Trees and entertainments in the United and Lutheran Churches were most enjoyable and successful.—Mrs. Anna Lane entertained for Christmas dinner Rev. P. A. and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Petzold and Masters Ethel and Gerald.—Mr. Alex. John, Sr.—Mr. Aubrey Lane, student at North Bay, is spending the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Anna Lane.—Miss Hornby, teacher of the Centinuination School, has resigned and Miss Kennedy has been engaged to fill her place.—Miss Katie Bell Stuart, teacher of Denbigh Public school, is spending her vacation at her home in Douglas.—Rev. P. A. and Mrs. Scott were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rodgers, for Christmas supper.—Miss Evelyn Smith has removed from the Ready house to Mr. E. W. Petzold's house, formerly the home of Mr. and Mrs. Petzold, Sr.—Born, on Nov. 28th, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. John, Jr., a son.—Born, on Nov. 29th, to Mr. and Mrs. William Yarrick, a daughter. — Miss Stuart provided an excellent program for last day of school, which was much enjoyed by the visitors. Mrs. Dr. Adams acted as chairman. The scholars were made happy by the many presents of Miss Stuart, who had the Christmas tree loaded. She also provided a delicious lunch for all the scholars after the programme. Miss Stuart is an excellent teacher and much appreciated.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Benjamin Badgley.

There passed to her eternal rest on Friday morning, Dec. 28th, one of Marlbank's esteemed residents, in the person of Mrs. Benjamin Badgley, in her 55th year. The deceased had been in failing health for a number of years, but the end came unexpected. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, one daughter and two sons, Ernest, of Marlbank, and Roy, of Niagara Falls, and five daughters, Mrs. A. Lavack, of Napanee; Mrs. Ira Bonell, of Yarker; Mrs. W. Hart, of Collins Bay; Mrs. S. Carons, of St. Catharines, and Miss Irene Badgley, at home.

The funeral was held on Sunday morning from the home in Marlbank to the Roman Catholic Church in Erinsville, and interment was made in the R. C. cemetery at White Lake.

Last year gas killed four thousand, nine hundred and fifty-two persons. Thirty inhaled it, nine hundred and seventy-two lit matches over it, and four thousand stepped on it.

An author of 18 has had his first novel banned by the public libraries. We hope that he won't let this early success turn his head!

All-Metal Light Airplane.

The first all-metal light airplane to be manufactured in Canada is being turned out by the Reid Aircraft Ltd. and has stood up satisfactorily under tests. It is designed for the use of training schools, private owners and transportation companies, where economical transportation of single passengers or an equivalent weight is required.

Saves $60,000,000 a Year.

By substituting aircraft for infantry in Iraq Britain has saved at least £18,000,000 a year. In 1921 the garrison comprised thirty-three battalions, costing £20,000,000 a year. Now there are five R.A.F. squadrons, costing less than one-tenth as much.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. (Rev. Dr.) Wilson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Barr-Wilson, wife of Rev. Dr. J. P. Wilson, B.A., B.D., passed away on Saturday afternoon, at her late residence, Bridge St., Belleville, following an illness of about two weeks' duration. Mrs. Wilson, who was in her 70th year, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer, of Shelburne, former residents of this district.

Before coming to Belleville about eight years ago, she lived in Toronto being the widow of the late Dr. John Barr, M.D., who for many years was Conservative member for Dufferin in both the Local Legislature and the Federal House.

Mrs. Wilson had been closely affiliated with the United Church of Canada, being formerly a Methodist. She was always public-spirited and supported liberally every good cause. Being a woman of rather a retiring disposition and although a comparative new-comer to Belleville and one who travelled extensively, yet she has made a host of friends in Belleville by whom she will be greatly missed.

Mrs. Wilson leaves to mourn her loss—her husband, Dr. Wilson; her nieces, Mrs. Norman Trebble, Ottawa; Mrs. Thomas J. O'Flynn, Shelbourne; Mrs. (Dr.) Cameron Wilson, Napanee; Mrs. (Rev.) H. Frost, and Mrs. J. G. Robinson, of Cleveland.

Vick's Vapo Rub, at Hooper's Drug Store.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal holds a record for subscribers renewing voluntarily and continuously year after year. After all it is not surprising when one considers the quantity and quality feast the readers are given each week and at a price ridiculously low—$1 a year or three years for $2.

Cash prices eliminate charges incidental to credit financing—therefore they are lower. Come and see.

BIRDS' NESTS

Ornithologist Tells How Wild Birds Construct Their Homes—Frail and Lasting.

"If you do not believe it is quite a task to build a bird's nest, try it," says E. H. Forbush, former Massachusetts state ornithologist, and an authority on wild life, in an article prepared for the Associated Press.

"See if you can build the simplest kind of nest of twigs or sticks in the crotch of a tree," he says, "and if you succeed, notice how long it remains there before the winds blow it away.

"Herons and doves build mere platforms of sticks, so frail that often you can look through the interlacing forks from below and see the eggs; yet these frail domiciles will withstand the storms of two or three winters. The reason for this is that the birds do not pick up rotten sticks from the ground, but break sound ones off the trees, and then so interlock them that they hold together.

"The most primitive nest that can be built is a mere hollow in the sand. Common terns, or mackerel gulls as they are called by the fishermen, when nesting on sand bars where there is little grass, scratch out a make such a nest. They breed sometimes in colonies of hundreds, and when the nesting fever comes on, each prospective mother bird chooses her spot and turning 'round and 'round, makes her little webbed feet fly, throwing out jets of sand in all directions, and so in a few minutes most of them have formed the little hollow that is to receive their eggs.

"But some, not satisfied with such primitive accommodations, gather grass or seaweed and, working with bill, breast and feet, soon have constructed a very warm and comfortable nest.

"Most wild ducks build a warm thick nest of grass, lined with down from their breasts, and usually well concealed under bush or tree or in rank grass or other vegetation. When the eggs have been laid, the mother bird plucks more down from her breast, and folds it together in the form of a little blanket, attached at one side of the nest. Then when she leaves the eggs, unless suddenly startled, she spreads this carefully over them, thus concealing them and keeping them warm.

"Some birds shape their nests with mud which, drying, keeps out the cold wind. The robin's nest is composed largely of mud, lined with grass. In lining it the mother bird works the grass into place with her feet as she sits in the nest, and turning around she works behind her feet while smoothing up the opposite side with her breast.

"The eaves swallow flutters down over some muddy spot, picks up a dab of mud in her bill, works it over with the saliva of her mouth and plasters it under the eaves of a barn or under some shelf on a cliff and, clinging there, holds it with her breast until it dries, then brings other mouthfuls until she has made a little curved shelf on which she can stand.

"Then her mate brings more mud or both birds bring it until the nest assumes the shape of half a cup. Some of these nests are rooted over and shaped like a retort, with a bottle-neck entrance; they then are lined with grass and feathers."

HUGE CALIFORNIAN DAM.

Fourth Largest Dam in the World Is Being Put Across the Mokelumne.

The fourth largest dam in the world is being constructed across the Mokelumne river, in California. Three large gangs of laborers are working in three shifts to save 1,000,000 people, living in nine cities on the eastern shore of San Francisco Bay, from the danger of water famine.

The new dam is to be named after a former governor of California, Dr. George Pardee, who has been chiefly responsible for the East Bay's new water works. The Pardee dam will complete the scheme, which will have cost 170,000,000.

Containing 700,000 cubic yards of concrete, the dam will hold back enough water for 2,000,000 people and will develop enough power to pump the water over the hills to arid areas beyond, whose people were in constant danger of water famine. The other three larger dams are the Assuan, on the Nile, the Arrowrock of Idaho, and Muscle Shoals of Tennessee.

"Apaches."

The apaches of Paris received their name in a peculiar manner. About a quarter century ago, Buffalo Bill took his Wild West Show to Paris, and the inhabitants of that metropolis saw real Indians for the first time. The latter were feared because of their fierce appearance, and were called "appash" in the French language. After Buffalo Bill and his savages had departed, there were numerous hold-ups and murders in Paris, and the ferocity of the crimes was associated in the minds of Parisians with the American Indians who had recently visited them. Newspaper reports dubbed the cruel murderers "apaches," and the name has endured to the present time.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear Daddy, Gordon Storey, who died on January 6th, 1925.

What a home without a father?
What are all the joys we meet?
When your loving smile no longer seen
For your love remains with us.
For you were the kind of father,
Your loved ones would never forget.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of Mother, Mrs. Harvey Bradshaw, who died January 9th, 1919. Also of Grandma York, who died January 19th, 1926.

Ten years ago, dear mother,
When we stood beside your bed,
Our hearts were sad and broken,
When we saw that you were dead.
You were always true, dear mother,
Through the years you struggled on,
And those dear hands that worked so hard
Made our home, that now is gone.

The Bell Telephone Company and its Bill in Parliament

THE Bell Telephone Company is bringing before parliament this session a Bill regarding its authority to seek new capital.

No grant or subsidy from parliament is involved. It is entirely a matter of authority to offer new shares for purchase by investors, from time to time in the future as new capital is required for the growth of the system.

There are three reasons why the telephone company is asking parliament for this authority. Each of these reasons is important.

the first reason

The telephone system cannot extend to meet the growth of the country unless there is a steady supply of new capital year after year.

IN a progressive country like Canada the telephone system never stands still. Each year there are thousands of new telephones in new homes and offices.

For the next five years the definite needs which the system is under public obligation to meet mean spending over $120,000,000 in new plant.

Year after year, in good times and bad, new money is needed for more telephones if the system is to keep pace with the country. And of this money a great part can be supplied only through the purchase of new shares by investors.

the second reason

Necessary plans cannot be made unless there is assurance that money may be obtained in the future to complete them.

IN the telephone business it is essential that plans be made for years ahead.

There must be cables and conduits and central exchanges before new telephones can go in. To wait until people are clamoring for service is too late.

Such projects in the past have been undertaken because the company has been confident of securing money from investors to put the new equipment into full service.

But if the company is not able even to approach investors, its assurance vanishes and to prepare for the future becomes impossible.

The telephone system does not need, and will not seek, all the seventy-five million of new capital provided for in its amendment now, nor next year, nor the year after.

It may not need it all for a good many years. But it does need now the assurance that it will be able in the future to go into the market for new money when it is required.

the third reason

The company's present authority to seek new capital is almost exhausted.

WHEN the telephone company began in 1880 it had authority to sell shares to investors up to half a million dollars, but with the growth of the system this authority has been extended by parliament.

This has happened, on an average, every eight years since 1880. The last amendment by parliament was in 1920. Another amendment is necessary now because, of the seventy-five million of shares set in 1920, less than ten million now remain for the company to offer to investors.

With over $120,000,000 to be spent during the next five years—a substantial part of which must be provided by sale of new shares—this margin of less than ten million represents neither the steady supply of new capital nor the assurance of the future which the company must have to serve the public with efficiency.

eight years from now

IF there had not been an amendment in 1920 with the right to raise new capital, Ontario and Quebec today would be struggling with a telephone system so hopelessly behind public requirements that all branches of business would suffer.

The telephone company does not want that state of affairs to prevail eight years from now. The Bill is to prevent it.

BOXING FOR HUSBANDS.

Red Indians of South America Have Pugnacious Women.

Not only does the girl in some districts of Indo-China make the proposal, but with her also lies the initiative for divorce. When divorce occurs, the wife retains the home, the children, and one-third of the property.

Even more favored is the girl of the "maternal kinship" tribes of Assam. She proposes, and if the man accepts the marriage takes place and the husband must live with his wife's people. The wife may divorce her husband when she pleases. She not only keeps the children and her own property, but her divorced husband's property as well.

If a husband divorces his wife he must still surrender his entire property and the children to her.

The girl of Bonda Porjas, in Southern India, resorts to a severe test when selecting a husband. The chosen man has to accompany her into the jungle, where she applies fire to his bare back. If the pain draws a yell from him he is rejected. She takes him only if he suffers in silence.

In Borneo, among the Kalabit tribes, it is always the woman who conducts the courtship. It is the custom, too, if a marriage is celebrated between a Furan man and woman for the husband to leave his own family and join his bride's people.

Very pugnacious is the courtship conducted by the young woman of the Cherotí and Ashluslay Red Indians of South America. She courts the selected youth at dances, and if a rival enters the field she settles the issue by fighting her with punchers made of bone or with tapir-skin boxing gloves.

CHAPELS IN HOTELS.

New York Hostelry First to Have Retreat for Meditation.

A medieval traveller setting forth on a long journey found at the wayside a chapel for meditation and prayer, or at a monastery found an inn as well as spiritual sanctuary.

Modern business has now taken a leaf from the past. A simple ceremony recently in one of the leading hotels of New York spelled the first of the "meditation chapels" which are to be built in all the hotels of this chain, operated by a former Canadian.

The doors of the chapel will never be closed. It is an exquisite little sanctuary, a beautiful and cloistered retreat in a great metropolitan building. It has been designed for worshippers of all faiths.

Commenting on the innovation, the president of the hotel corporation said, "I don't think so much of putting Bibles in the rooms—not to speak with any lack of veneration for the Bible—but I believe, rather, that a hurried, harassed and driven person, as most of us are these days, needs a retreat like this where he may worship his own God in his own way.

"The chapel has been planned to provide a retreat of peace and beauty for Roman Catholic, Jewish or Protestant worshippers—or those of any other faiths. For this reason, we have consciously and carefully avoided including the symbol of any particular faith.

"These chapels will be placed in all the hotels of our system and in any other building which I may happen to control."

ETHER WAVES.

Travels Through Air a Million Times Faster Than Sound.

Sound travels through the air at the rate of one mile in five seconds. Ether waves have a velocity a million times greater.

Big Ben can be heard to strike four miles from Westminster. Owing to the difference between the speed of wireless and air waves, in many parts of London it may be heard to strike twenty-two times when the 11 a.m. time signal is being broadcast from Daventry—through a loud-speaker and through the air. There is an interval of 4½ seconds between each stroke of Big Ben.

At one mile, the first two strokes by wireless would be heard before the first by sound waves, and after the last by wireless two would arrive though the air. At four miles, five would be heard by wireless before the first by sound waves, and the last by wireless would be followed by five carried by air waves.

Flowers on Icebergs.

The top of an iceberg is the last place one would look for a garden, or indeed any sort of vegetation, but strangely enough, plants blossom and flourish upon these mighty glaciers.

The reason for this is the fact that very often moss attaches itself to the berg is at rest. This moss decays and forms a crude kind of earth. Birds flying across deposit a pollen and buttercup seeds; and soon almost what might be termed meadows come into being on the top of the glaciers during the brief northern summer.

The brilliant red poppy grows everywhere among the ice and snow during that period of the year.

Make Roads from Rubbish.

Salt Lake City has splendid roads that have been built of rubbish. The material is levelled by means of a drag — stoves, baby carriages, bedsteads, etc., being placed by hand.

The dump is then rolled with a 15-ton steel roller, which so smashes everything that it packs even more easily than dirt as a foundation for a screened gravel surface.

Monument to St. Francis.

A very beautiful monument to St. Francis of Assisi has been erected in the ancient cemetery at Milan, Italy. St. Francis was the founder of the religious order of the Friars Minor, usually styled the Francis-cans. He was known for simplicity, amiability and extreme beauty of character and was noted for his love of nature.

In the past, scores of thousands of buyers seeking the greatest dollar-value, have purchased Plymouth—on the basis of simple comparison and contrast with other cars in its price range.

At these new lower prices, the contrasts that Plymouth presents—in all-round economy of operation and upkeep, combined with full-size, weatherproof hydraulic 4-wheel brakes, modern engineering, impressive power and performance—are even more conclusive, even more emphatic of the Chrysler management's determination to give quality and value far in advance of anything else in the lowest-priced field.

This most significant reduction in Plymouth prices is thus in keeping with Chrysler ideals, while passing on to purchasers the benefits that accrue from hugely increased production.

See the Plymouth! Drive it—and try to match it in quality and value. We believe you will find these new low prices remove Plymouth further than ever from any other offering in the greatest motor car market.

A CLOCK PLOT.

Employes of Naples Arsenal Steal Ancient Bronze Clock.

Few clocks can have had an adventure such as that which recently befell the ancient bronze clock of Naples Arsenal.

This building is being pulled down to make room for a wider road. The clock, which has marked the comings and goings of generations of arsenal workers, was taken down and carefully locked up in one of the rooms which had not yet come under pick and axe. Its final home was to have been St. Martin's Museum.

When the day came for its removal to the museum, the authorities discovered that the ancient timepiece had vanished. The police found that the thieves were three men employed in pulling down the building. Piece by piece they had dismounted the clock and taken it to a local dealer in antiques, who had driven a bargain with a collector for its speedy removal to America.

The plot was discovered in time. All the pieces were found, and are have been put together again.

All Done by a Pigeon.

Returning home to Philadelphia from his vacation, Robert Ranaford opened his front door and pushed on the light. Such a scene of destruction met his eyes, that he hurried to the nearest drug store to call the police. Two answered the call and with drawn revolvers and cautious steps, searched the lower part of the house for vandals. They found nothing but confused wreckage. Upstairs they found lamps overturned, bureau scarfs pulled off and in the bathroom, bottles broken on the tiled floor. In the back room they discovered the culprit—a very tired and very hungry pigeon asleep on the bedpost.

When it was assured that no valuables were missing, it was concluded that the bird had sought shelter in the fireplace chimney and had been unable to find its way out again.

Electric Rock-a-Bye.

An amusing example of misplaced ingenuity in the ranks of the inventor is furnished by a recent patent which seems to demand an up-to-date electrical version of the old "Rush-a-bye, baby," nursery rhyme.

The device is intended for moving a perambulator to and fro, and comprises an electric motor adapted for connection to the lighting supply of a room, operated by means of gears and a crank, and a connecting rod of adjustable length secured to the handles of the perambulator.

Ancient Observatory.

A prehistoric astronomical observatory, which it is estimated was constructed in 1181 B.C., has been unearthed at Buetzow (Mecklenberg). The observatory is in the form of circles of stones, which served for the observation of the annual circuit of the sun and also as a calendar.

CAR HAD VERY NARROW ESCAPE

The Cataraqui level crossing of the Canadian National Railways came within an ace of being the scene of another fatal accident on Thursday, when John B. McGall, tobacconist, of Kingston, figured in the near accident. He was returning to Kingston from Peterboro, and owing to the icy condition of the highway, in making the turn at the village of Cataraqui he slowed down the speed of his car to about 15 miles an hour. At the same time he heard the whistle of the C.N.R. train No. 14 in the distance and decided to stop some distance from the crossing so that he could see the speed with which the train passed the crossing. The pavement was slippery and Mr. McGall had to practically "feel his way" along cutting down the speed of the car to about ten miles an hour. When several hundred feet from the crossing, he applied the brakes, with the intention of stopping entirely, but to his surprise the car kept sliding along the road.

Immediately he turned the car so as to go to the side of the road, but the car kept on going sideways, towards the crossing. Shutting off the ignition and making almost a superhuman effort, Mr. McGall was able to jam the front wheels to one side so that the car slid into the ditch at the side of the road, a drop of some three feet.

Sabadilla Powder For Lice on Cattle!

From what we have read about it and have learned from farmers in our own locality, it is superior to anything yet discovered. Goes twice as far as the ordinary lice powders. Sold and recommended at Wallace's.

"How long is it since you were in the police court?"

"Twenty years, your worship."

"And where have you been since then?"

"In prison!"

Greenie—"Are animals very fond of you?"

Collins—"Goodness yes! Why even now there's a wolf at my door!"

Now You Can Get Delivery On The Famous "Four-Twenty" ROGERS Batteryless RADIO

Only $165 Complete (except Speaker)

The Biggest Value in the Whole Field of Electric Radio

IT would have been nice, of course, to have had a Rogers in time for the Holidays—but even some of the folks who ordered sets early were disappointed this year. The flood of orders from those who wanted Batteryless Radio was more than the Rogers factory—even with its enlarged facilities—could cope with, temporarily. Now, however, you can get delivery on practically any of the new, 1929 Models—including the famous "Four-Twenty" Model shown above.

This Model "Four-Twenty" Rogers is, just as our headline states: "The biggest value in the whole field of electric radio."

The model that preceded it was first introduced to the public in 1926 and outsold all other electric sets in 1927 at $225! The present price of $165 is only possible because of Rogers greatly increased production and you can rest assured that if any other comparable electric radio could be sold at this price you would soon hear about it.

Ask Us To Show You . . .

Test this famous model as to distance, selectivity, volume, tone-quality (any way you wish) in your own home at our expense. If it doesn't perform to your entire satisfaction send it back. If it does—and it will—we'll make it easy for you to keep it.

I Would Not Like to Be Without Them

Says Ontario Man of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. N. Shafer Used Them for Pains in the Back Caused by Severe Colds

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 10th, (Special) —During the winter months colds and chills double the work of the kidneys. It is therefore necessary to strengthen them and safeguard yourself against serious results. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a reliable Kidney medicine.

Mr. N. Shafer, 31 Irvin St., Kitchener, writes :—"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills on different occasions and found them very effective for pains in the back caused by severe colds. I keep them on hand all the time and whenever I feel the need I take them until the pain leaves. I am past fifty and would not like to be without them."

MAD MILLIONAIRES

"Coal Oil Johnny" Spent $8,750,000 —Gambler Threw Away Forty Thousand Francs.

Having won a few thousand francs at the Casino in Cannes recently, Charles Channel, of Chicago, stopped to a hotel balcony and threw over a fistful of five- and ten-franc notes.

Surprised pedestrians scrambled for the money, and the street was a seething throng of milkmen, waiters, cab-drivers, street-sweepers, and servants. When the supply of small bank notes was exhausted the fifty- and hundred-franc notes began to come down. By this time 40,000 francs had been dropped and the scene had become almost a riot.

About this time Herman Theras, a waiter, was giving a $1,250 dinner at a hotel where for years he had been employed. He was celebrating his new fortune of $1,125,000 the result of speculation.

Sixty years ago John W. Searles, "Coal Oil Johnny" went about with bank-notes pinned to his coat and trousers. In his apprenticeship days as a spender he would pay $1 for a shine and $10 for a shave. He is supposed to have spent $2,750,000 in less than two years.

"Coal Oil Johnny" was catapulted into his millions through a succession of what looked like sad misfortunes. His parents died when he was a child. He was adopted by an aunt and uncle, the McClintocks. His uncle died when Johnny was twelve. His aunt was a poor widow until she discovered that her humble home was perched above oil wells.

Then money came in so fast that the widow McClintock had little time to change her mode of living. She stored it in safes and continued her housework. While trying to hasten a fire with a dash of oil one morning, she was burned to death. Johnny was twenty. He found $625,000 in cash in one safe, and his property gushed every time a drill was sunk.

When he was twenty-one he sold his oil well for $1,250,000. With an acquaintance, Seth Slocum, and two shabby haversacks, stuffed with money, he set out. Became a hotel clerk offended him. Johnny leased the hotel for a day, paying a few thousand from a greasy haversack. His first act as proprietor was to sack the clerk. His second was to place a large placard outside announcing open house with food and wine free.

He would buy a jewellery store's supply of diamonds and give the jewels to casual acquaintances. A cabman told Johnny his wife had been bothering him for a diamond brooch. Johnny bought the cab for $2,500 and was driven around the block. Then he gave the cab back. His champagne bills became public scandals.

In less than three years the young oil king was at the end of his tether. He lived to be an old man, and he never earned more than $2.50 a day.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Two Englishmen were out riding in India when suddenly there dashed out from the jungle a native running for his life, hotly pursued by a large leopard.

"He's making a race of it," remarked one of the Englishmen. "D'ye think we can spot the winner?"

"The winner," came the dry retort, "is spotted."

The Terror of Asthma comes like a thief in the night with its dreadful throttling, robbing its victim of breath. It seems beyond the power of human aid to relieve until one trial is made of that remarkable preparation, Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Then relief comes with a rush. Life becomes worth living, and, if the remedy be used persistently, the disease is put permanently to route. Take no substitute.

After Jimmy's tooth had been taken out, he held up his hand and said eagerly to the dentist : "Give it to me, please."

With a smile, the dentist wrapped the tooth in paper and handed it to Jimmy.

"But what are you going to do with it?"

"Take it home and cram sugar into it and watch it ache!" was the reply.

"You did!" exclaimed his mother proudly.

"Yes, Mrs. Blank kept asking me if I had enough."

It Rids Pain Begone.—When neuralgia racks the nerves or lumbago cripples the back is the time to test the virtues of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Well rubbed in it will still the pain and produce a sensation of ease and rest. A trial of it will establish faith in it.

For Scalds or Burns.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a standard remedy for the prompt treatment of scalds and burns. Its healing power quickly relieves the pain and aids a speedy recovery from the injury. It is also an excellent remedy for all manner of cuts, bruises and sprains, as well as for relieving the pains arising from inflamation of various kinds. A bottle in the house and stable saves many a doctor's and veterinary's fee.

A man who was city-bound on a street car was accosted by the conductor as follows :

"Well, sir, I hope you arrived home safe last night."

"Why, of course I got home safe; why shouldn't I?"

"Well, it's like this. While you were in this car last night a lady got in and you offered her your seat."

"What of that? Whilst I recognize the equality of the sexes, I nevertheless also recognize that the age of civility is still alive."

"O course, sir, just as you say, but I thought it a little peculiar as only you and the lady were in the car at the time."

ERNESTTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The December meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Leo Crowe, with such a crowd in attendance that the resourceful hostess had to improvise seating by bringing in boards and putting them across chairs. Mrs. T. G. Creighton, 1st Vice President, presided, and Mrs. Willie Kelly was appointed Secretary Treasurer, taking the duties of Mrs. Gordon Young, who is spending the winter with her mother in Florida. The business part of the meeting was followed by a humorous recitation, excellently given by Mrs. A. C. Sharp. Miss Goring, who so kindly came up from Kingston, gave us a very fine address on pioneer days in our immediate neighbourhood, telling us the interesting story of the barter of Amherst Island in the early days. Mrs. Sidney Sproule, of Odessa, gave a unique demonstration, that of making French pastry, and we must add her description and she did it, and also how delicious the tarts were. They truly were the variety that melts in one's mouth. A vote of thanks was tendered Miss Goring and Mrs. Sproule for the very interesting parts they took in the programme.

The January meeting will be at Mrs. G. B. Sharpe's, the roll call being "What makes a man easy to live with". The demonstration is "A well balanced evening meal for four", with Mrs. Irvin Sharp and Mrs. Harry Mott in charge.

The debate, "Resolved, that a hundred acre farm is better for a boy than a College education." To be debated by Mrs. Fred Lawrence and Miss Mildred Detlor, and Mrs. Leo Crowe and Mrs. Prichard.

A very pleasant and successful social evening was held early in December, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sharp, who proved themselves delightful host and hostess.

CAUSES A VACUUM

C. B. Howdell, A.R.I.B.A., Tells Why Explosions Occur During a Tornado.

Following violent windstorms in which great property damage is done, eyewitnesses have been known to relate that some buildings actually seemed to explode during the gale. By many these recitals have been accepted as the products of disordered fancy during a crisis. However, science now tells us that explosion of buildings actually does occur in some types of atmospheric disturbance.

Charles B. Howdell, A. R. I. B. A., writing for the Yorkshire Post, remarks that "a tornado is a windstorm with a very, very rapid rotary motion," in which "the swirling or twisting motion produces a vacuum," or a state close to nothingness. Hence, the explosion of buildings at or near the suction force of this vacuum. Mr. Howdell is writing in the Post to explain queer freaks of the recent gales in the Old Country, and sets forth, in part, as follows:

"Every one knows that the normal air pressure is just under fifteen pounds per square inch, or roundly a ton per square foot. Incidentally, each one of us goes through life with a constant load of fourteen tons, due to air pressure. We do not experience inconvenience, because it pressure permeates our whole system.

"Under ordinary conditions, buildings, inside and out, are subjected to the same atmospheric pressure, in addition to the various loads which they are designed to carry. A rapid and excessive change of any of the condition will cause damage to those parts not strong enough to withstand such an attack through changed conditions.

"The passing of a tornado produces unexpected explosions. Plate glass windows are blown outward, not inward. The facts are that the tornado produces a vacuum; the air pressure on the outside is removed for the moment.

"The plate glass window in the path of the 'twister' is suddenly subjected to an inside air pressure of anything up to one hundred tons. Naturally it gives way. The air inside is released, and so there is an explosion. A terrific draught is produced, and immediately models and millinery are wafted into the street, in a more or less disheveled condition.

"Ordinary office and house windows in their turn have to withstand an inside pressure or explosive force of 20 or 30 tons. They fall. Window boxings, frames, sashes, glass and blinds float out into the street and add their quota to the wreckage already littering the pavement.

"It will thus be seen that the devastating forces let loose by the momentary and local vacuums produced by the occasional tornado are much more destructive and dangerous than the direct 'blows' of an ordinary windstorm.

"If such storms become frequent in this country, architects and engineers will be called upon to secure roofs against 'inward pressure outward'."

MUSEUM IN CELLAR.

Ancient Musical Instruments Stored Under Royal College of Music.

Hidden away in an underground salon below the Royal College of Music, South Kensington, is one of London's little-known museums.

It is a museum of ancient musical instruments, telling the story of melody-making throughout the centuries.

Few trouble to see this interesting collection, though many of the exhibits, in addition to their historic value, are veritable works of art.

In one case is a guitar said to have been presented by Mary Queen of Scots to her minstrel and favorite Rizzio.

It is of tortoiseshell with ivory mother-of-pearl and ebony inlays, and its ten inches bear fleur-de-lys shape betray a French origin.

One of the gems of the collection is a clavycytherium, or upright spinet, which dates from the end of the fifteenth century, and is believed to be the oldest keyboard instrument in existence.

It is of Italian origin, and its woodwork is decorated with the carving and painting of mediaeval masters.

Jelly-fish Mystery.

Where do the jelly-fish that are to be found swimming about in the huge fresh-water tank which houses the large Victoria Regia lily in the Botanical Gardens, London, come from? They were first observed in 1850 and their appearance was a mystery.

For three years they inhabited the tank, and then, in 1853, they disappeared as suddenly as they had come. It was thought at first that the draining of the tank for six months in the year was the cause of the mystery, for no jelly-fish like being out of water.

Now, after an absence of forty-five years, the jelly-fish are once more swimming in the tank in which they were first found. Why this family of jelly-fish has never been found at any other place except Regent's Park.

Britain Shows the Way.

Britain has held the speed record for the Atlantic trip ever since the starting with the exception of the period between 1897 and 1907, when the "blue riband" went to German boats.

The fastest liners in the world at present are the Mauretania (25½ knots) and Majestic (25 knots), both British built. Then come the Praesident (24 knots), a French vessel, and an American, the Leviathan (24 knots).

COAL UNDER OPTION.

Areas Said to Contain 210,000,000 Tons of Bituminous Coal.

Dr. H. A. Baker, Newfoundland Government geologist, who spent several months examining coal areas on the west coast of the colony, estimates there are 210,000,000 tons of bituminous in the district recently optioned by International Paper Company to the St. George's Coal Fields Limited.

These deposits are located in the vicinity of middle Barasois river, Bay St. George and close to tidewater. The coal areas were originally held by Hon. Philip Cleary and contained about fifteen square miles. For some years previous to 1914 they were held under option by Lord Joicey and later reverted to the crown. In the fall of 1914 they were staked by Thomas J. Freeman, who organized the St. George's Coal Fields Limited. The company did considerable development work, uncovering several of the outcrops along the middle Barasois. In 1927 some three thousand feet of drill holes were put down under supervision of the president.

At present every pound of coal used by International at its giant paper mills at Corner Brook, Bay of Islands, is purchased from Canadian and United States producers. Thousands of tons are consumed annually and should the company's expectations be realized, on further development of the Freeman areas, a tremendous saving in operating expenses will result.

During the winter months shipment of paper by water from Corner Brook is a standstill owing to drift ice blocking the port. The directors of the company are considering plans for the erection of terminal at Port aux Basques, which would give free access to the sea practically all the year round.

CANADA'S NET DEBT.

National Debt Reduced Nearly Hundred Million In Eight Months.

Ten years after the war Canada paid interest on a staggering war bill to the extent of over a hundred and seven million dollars in the eight months from April to October of 1928. In that same period, however, the national debt has been reduced by nearly a hundred million.

Revenue from taxation applied as war measures brought in during the eight months nearly fifty millions from excise taxes, over fifty-five millions from income tax and nearly a million and a half from other war taxes. The expenditures that can be directly attributed to the war exclusive of interest on war debt include pensions of $24,361,977, soldier land settlement $923,455, soldiers' civil re-establishment $4,220,957.

The net debt of the Dominion has been steadily decreasing since 1924. It was enormously increased in 1920 but then the increase grew less yearly until in 1925 the tide turned.

Since 1925, $1the sum $43,483 of war loan bonds in the hands of the public have been redeemed from the surpluses out of ordinary revenue. Last year alone $53,000,000 had been redeemed.

The bulk of the revenue still comes from customs and excise duties, the customs in the eight months yielding $146,206,914, which included $43,508,675 excise. In the last complete fiscal year the customs and excise revenue was $214,386,715, income and business profits taxes $57,527,078, excise taxes $90,222,931. The excise taxes were highest in 1924 when $120,676,375 was collected.

ANTHONY ETRICKE.

Left £1 a Year For Tomb's Upkeep Which Is Still Paid.

Amongst the many curiosities to be found in Wimborne Minster, in Dorset, is the quaint tomb of Anthony Etricke, the first recorder of Poole, and the magistrate who committed Monmouth after Sedgemoor.

He was for some reason offended by the Wimborne people, and so made a vow that he would not be buried in their church or out, under the ground or over. To carry this out he cut a niche in the wall and placed there his coffin with the date 1693 inscribed thereon, believing he should die in that year. He did not die, however, until 1703, when he was buried in the chosen spot in such a way that his body was neither above the ground or below, in the church or out. The date 1702 was then written over the other in gold.

He left £1 a year for the tomb's upkeep, which is still paid.

Horses' Convalescent Home.

What becomes of the overworked horses of London? Some of them find their way to Welbeck Abbey as the guests of the Duchess of Portland. The sight of a horse struggling with a load beyond its strength is too much for a sincere lover of animals.

The duchess often stops and buys a stray overworked horse in the street, and sends it to her rest home in the Midlands, where some of these animals are to be found frisking about the fields fit and fat and strong, and ready for work again.

Roman Castle Discovered.

A Roman castle has been discovered by the Duke of England Excavation Committee at East Walbottle, near Newcastle. It is one of those that once existed at every mile along Hadrian's Wall — the Roman defence across the north of England from sea to sea to keep back the Scots. The castle measures fifty feet by sixty and contains an internal building fourteen feet square.

NATURE'S HERBAL BALM

Plants That Get Lit Up.

A German gardener has discovered a plan for injecting phosphorous into plants, thus making them luminous at night. The experiment was demonstrated at the Berlin flower show, when a large number of carti, of all shapes and sizes, were inoculated, and that as the luminous quality concentrates in the spines, they appear to be dotted with brilliant points of light that radiate in the darkness like glowworms.

ENJOYABLE BANQUET
One of those delightful gatherings which tend to knit the happy relationships existing between the management and staff, was exemplified on Thursday evening, December 27th, when Mr. C. A. Wiseman, the well known Chevrolet and Oakland dealer, tendered a dinner to his staff, their ladies and a few invited guests in the showrooms of his garage.

The showrooms were beautifully decorated with Christmas trees and streamers, which, combined with the very prettily arranged tables laden with an appetizing menu, provided a delightful setting for a most enjoyable dinner, to which all did full justice.

There were in all about forty present, and the dinner being concluded a very jolly evening was spent in contests, games and music.

About twenty years ago Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wiseman and son came to Napanee. It is of interest to note that Mr. Wiseman introduced the Chevrolet automobile to this territory and as a dealer appointed by General Motors of Oshawa, attained such marked success that he was compelled to erect more spacious and modern buildings which now stand as one of the most up-to-date and well equipped garages between Toronto and Montreal, and a credit to the town.

The banquet was greatly appreciated by the staff and guests, and their appreciation was voiced by giving Mr. and Mrs. Wiseman three rousing cheers, and singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow", at the close of the evening's festivities.

OBITUARY

John Fish.
John Fish, formerly of Napanee, passed away in Windsor, on Monday, Dec. 31st, after undergoing an operation. The remains were brought to Napanee, to the home of his sister, Mrs. Patsy Culhane, and the funeral service was held at St. Mary Magdalene Church, on Thursday afternoon.

Deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Levi Fish, and was born in Napanee forty-eight years ago.

The deceased was in the employ of Messrs. J. F. Smith & Son, in Napanee, for many years, later going in business for himself. His widow and family are left to mourn. A brother, Lewis, and sister, Mrs. Culhane, reside in this town.

THE WORLD FAMOUS WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS
A musical triumph unsurpassed by any company of singers that has visited Napanee in many years was achieved by the Westminster Glee Singers in their magnificent programs which were given in the auditorium of Grace United Church on Saturday, December 29th, afternoon and evening. The concerts were held under the auspices of the U. E. L. Chapter I.O.D.E., and the attendance although not as large as it should have been, was very gratifying, there being about two hundred present in the afternoon and possibly four hundred in the evening.

The organization is one of the most remarkable of its kind ever heard on this side of the Atlantic, and the concerts were indeed a revelation as to what can be accomplished by an association of all male voices. The company consisted of eight men representing tenor, alto and bass voices, also seven boy sopranos. The delightful combination of boy sopranos with the more mature notes of the altos and tenors, and a solid foundation of deep basses, made the event one to be long remembered by the music lovers of Napanee.

Their voices are individually fine and exquisitely blended, and under the skilful direction of Mr. Edward Branscombe, achieve magnificent results. The encores were frequent and the appleuse and reception which the members of the company received were well merited.

OBITUARY

William Rankin.
William Rankin, former Police Magistrate for the Town of Napanee, passed away on Thursday evening, in the Kingston General Hospital. Mr. Rankin had been in the Kingston Hospital for several months, and a few weeks ago was brought home to Napanee, but the illness of Mrs. Rankin necessitated his return to the hospital. Mr. Rankin came to Napanee a number of years ago from Cobourg to take the position of Chief of Police of Napanee. He held this office for several years and on the death of the former Police Magistrate, Mr. Jas. Daly, he was appointed Police Magistrate of Napanee, which office he held until the appointment of the late G. P. Ruttan as County Magistrate, when Mr. Rankin retired. Deceased was a member of Union Lodge A. F. & A.M., which body took charge of the funeral, which was held on Saturday in St. Mary Magdalene's Church. Surviving are his widow, who is in poor health, and one daughter, Mrs. Hawley, of Toronto.

George Whittington.
George Whittington, a former well known resident of North Fredericksburgh, but who has for some years made his home in Napanee, died at the Campbell House, on Monday of last week. The late Mr. Whittington was a farmer at Dimpey Hill. Two sons, Messrs. Grant and Bruce Whittington, remain. The funeral took place on Wednesday.

—Jas. J. Bird, Sillerville, wishes to thank the parties who so kindly gave assistance the night of the fire in which he lost his dwelling house. Also the Lennox and Addington Fire Insurance Co. for the prompt and courteous manner in which they paid over the insurance. 2a

—A very pleasant surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Henderson, at their home in Camden East, when a party of fifteen, composed of their three children with their families and Mrs. Henderson's only living brother, Mr. George Perry, of North Bay, arranged to have New Year's dinner with them. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson were taken completely by surprise. The occasion was a Birthday party also, as F. H. Henderson, their younger son's birthday was on that date.

—The Christmas services on Christmas Day at St. Mark's, Deseronto, passed off well. The decorations were in excellent taste; the flowers on the altar lovely. The music was good and filled with the triumphant spirit of this glorious season. The stupendous thought that the Christ-Child was being worshipped and adored in Sacrament, Hymn and Anthem in millions of churches all over the world, in mighty Abbeys, Cathedrals and magnificient Parish Churches to the humblest Church on Prairie, Veld and Bush, brought that grand thrill which must always fill the heart of every loving Christian man, woman and child on the birthday of our Blessed Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

WILTON
Many cases of the Flu are still reported.—Mr. Arthur Simmons has been very ill again, and not able to return to his studies in Toronto, as expected. —Mrs. Robinson, of Kingston, has been spending some time with her cousin, Mrs. Byron Ruttan.—Mr. W. SELBY

Election for the Township of Richmond was held here on Monday of last week. Dr. A. C. Tummon, our former Reeve and Warden, was re-elected with a good majority. — Rev. Mr. Brackel, of Bath, was here on the special speaker on Tuesday night, at the series of prayer services. His address on "Efficiency in Church Communion" was very helpful and interesting. —At the service on Friday night the choir was taken by our former pastor, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, of Newburgh. We were all glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Anderson with us again. The attendance was fairly good at both services. —The many friends of Mrs. Chas. Anderson will regret to learn of her painful accident when she fell on the ice on Monday last, dislocating her shoulder. We are glad to say she is progressing as well as could be expected at time of writing.—Mrs. Geo. McFarlane is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Martha Bradshaw.—Mrs. Harry Gourlie and son, Keith and Baby Gwen, spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Ephie Robinson.—Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Robinson and two children, of Cape Vincent, N.Y., are visiting his brothers and other friends here.—Mr. and Mrs. E. Mr. Malcolm having been engaged as mail carrier for the winter months.—Miss Greta Dudgeon, of Napanee, spent the week-end under the parental roof.

TAMWORTH MISSION BAND

The regular meeting of the Tamworth Mission Band was held on January 12th, at the home of the Press dent, Marion Richmond. The meeting was opened by singing from the Palm Hymn, "We're Bound to Take Angola". Miss Reid made the Scripture lesson very interesting, taken from Mark 21st, 12th verse. Eldon Richmond gave a report of the Mite Boxes. Next hymn was "Dark Angola", after which all joined in repeating the Lord's Prayer, in unison. The business of last meeting were read. There were fourteen members present and seven members of the Band recited portions of Scripture, which Miss Reid, leader of the Band, had given them to learn. While Miss Mac Greer was out of the collection Gertrude and Reggie Richmond sang a duet. Miss Reid told a very interesting story on Africa. The closing hymn was "I Thihk When I Read That Sweet Story of Old". The meeting was closed by all repeating the Mizpah benediction. The Band members then spent a pleasant hour in games, and a dainty lunch served by the President, brought the meeting to a close.

Mayor Howitt's Address.

Napanee, Ontario,
January 14th, 1929.

Gentlemen,

Following the custom of my predecessors as Mayor of the Town of Napanee, I wish to present to you, at this first meeting of the Council, some observations in respect to the trust that the ratepayers have seen fit to put in our hands for the year 1929.

In the first place, I wish to congratulate you upon your election and the seal of confidence the ratepayers have, by their votes, placed upon you in asking you to manage the affairs of the municipality for the coming year. The task we are about to undertake should be taken seriously and earnestly and I am quite sure if we, throughout the year, regard ourselves as trustees for our citizens, we will properly acquit ourselves and will, at the end of the year, be ready to transfer to our successors in office the affairs of the town with a consciousness of public duty efficiently and economically performed.

The several Standing Committees have been well and chosen, and I would suggest that each committee do at once meet and acquire a knowledge of the specific duties devolving upon each of you respectively, having regard, not only as to the work done in previous years, but also in respect to the work that must be done this year. I would also impress upon you that as our parks are well laid out, a small amount of our expenditures are already fixed, you must not lightly undertake any work involving large expenditure without most careful consideration and especially I would point out to the Streets and Town Property Committees that you must cut your expenditure to the minimum if we are to finance the year at a reasonable mill rate.

Few towns of our population are so well kept and presentable as Napanee and we must keep it sanitary and wholesome, but for the next three or four years, at the end of which time some of our debentures will have been fully paid, we must not lightly undertake any further improvements entailing large expenditures.

Our Town Hall has been made a credit to us and our permanent improvements are a satisfaction to ourselves, but should also be a perpetual invitation to the surrounding country and to tourists to visit us and trade at our well equipped stores and factories.

Our parks are well laid out, well distributed, and should be a source of great pride and except for small expenditures on the Wallace Park and Springside Park, should not require this year any substantial outlay.

You must bear in mind also that we are starting this year with a very considerable overdraft. This was caused by an unexpected expenditure to properly complete the Town Hall. There are also some unsettled financial matters with the County, which, I trust, the Reeve will be able to equitably adjust with the assistance of the Finance Committee.

In conclusion, I would admonish you to study carefully our rules of procedure so that our meetings may be conducted quickly, harmoniously, and in a businesslike manner.

Yours, &c.,
W. M. HOWITT,
Mayor.

Moved by Reeve Tustin, seconded by Councillor Fitzpatrick, that His Worship's address be received and filed, and that the local press be requested to print the same. Carried.

Stevenson will now be librarian in the absence of Mr. Wemp.—Mrs. Earl McClelland is seriously ill.

THE LATE GEORGE W. GIBBARD

On Saturday morning Napanee lost one of its most prominent and public spirited citizens, when Mr. George Gibbard, President of The Gibbard Shops, Ltd., passed away. Mr. Gibbard was a comparatively young man, just in his prime, and it looked as though he might have many years of active life before him. But death came and cut short his busy, effective career.

Mr. Gibbard was born in Napanee, November 28th, 1864, the only son of William Thomas and Annie Elma Gibbard, and the grandson of John Gibbard, the founder of the business of John Gibbard & Son, in the year 1836. This business has continued all through the years on the site of the first factory. It has changed its name twice, first to that of the Gibbard Furniture Co. of Napanee, and later to that of the Gibbard Furniture Shops, Limited.

The late Mr. Gibbard entered the business with his father, at the age of eighteen years, and six years later assumed control, and at the time of his death was President of the Company. During this period the business has developed to not only one of the oldest but one of the largest furniture manufacturing industries in the Dominion.

One of the outstanding features in the success of the business has been and is the continued loyalty and cooperation of the employees, and in many instances through successive generations. The loss sustained in the passing of Mr. Gibbard has been very clearly manifested by the many tangible expressions of love and devotion of the present employees.

Mr. Gibbard, although a busy man, found time for public service. For fifteen years he was a member of the Napanee Board of Education. Through his efforts a branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses was established at Napanee, and he was also instrumental in forming the Napanee Rotary Club, and was its first President. He was a member of the Executive of the Chamber of Commerce of Napanee. His fraternal associations included, among others, membership in the A. F. & A. M., I. O. O. F. and C. O. F. In politics he was a staunch Liberal, and a member of the Ontario Club, Toronto. In religion he was an active Methodist and Unionist, a member of the Official Board of Grace Church, one of the founders of which was his grandfather, John Gibbard. To local and provincial Religious Educational work and to special Missionary enterprises, he contributed generously. As a member of the new Albert College Board, his deep interest was very practically expressed.

The deceased leaves as his immediate family, his wife, Marguerite Hall; his son, Ernest, and daughters, Marjorie, Betty and Jean; three sisters, Mrs. Manly Cryderman, Edmonton; Mrs. Charles Roberts, Preston, and Mrs. Percy Laidley, Napanee.

In the passing of Mr. Gibbard, Napanee and community loses a man whose place will be hard indeed to fill. His organizing genius combined with a deep interest in the welfare of the town and community made him a veritable, power for good. He was a man of strong characteristics, with marked gifts which enabled him to lead men. He was always on the side of what he deemed best. He gave liberally to every good cause, and never spared either his time or money to forward that in which he believed.

In Grace United Church, the Rotary Club, the School Board, and the United Church of Canada, he filled a place of leadership that will be difficult, if not impossible, to fill.

The full benefit of his time and talents only to organized social welfare, but in ways too numerous to mention he assisted men and families which he felt needed a helping hand, and many men and women and little children of all classes and walks of life in the community will grieve the passing of Mr. Gibbard as a real friend. The large number of floral tributes received from all over Ontario was an indication of the widespread and diverse character of his contacts which Mr. Gibbard had made in his social, political, business and religious activities.

To his immediate family and relatives the community expresses its deepest sympathy.

The funeral was held from his late home, Dundas street, Tuesday afternoon, at two o'clock. The service at the house was of a private nature for the family and immediate relatives. It was conducted by the Pastor of Grace Church, Rev. W. P. Woodger, assisted by Rev. C. E. Cragg and Rev. C. W. Bishop, Principal of Albert College. After prayer by Dr. Bishop, Mr. Archibald Wiseman sang "There is a Land". Mr. Cragg and Mr. Woodger spoke personal words of comfort to the bereaved and read Whittier's "When on My Day of Life the Night is Falling".

Mr. Gibbard's S. S. Class of young men carried the flowers to the waiting hearse. The pall bearers were men who either as employees of the business associates had been closely related to Mr. Gibbard—Messrs. Fred LaSalle, Roy Moore, Edgar Bagshaw, Albert Goode, J. H. Moffat and Jack MacPherson. They gently bore the casket to the hearse. The cortege then moved and proceeded down Dundas street to the church.

Grace Church was filled an hour before the time of the funeral. The employees from the factory met the cortege from the house and followed the remains into the church, where the interior of the auditorium had been reserved for them. The Town Council, the School Board and the Official Board of Grace Church were all present and occupied seats reserved for them.

The service at the church was deeply impressive. On the platform besides the Pastor of the Church were Dr. Bishop, Principal of Albert College, and three former Pastors of Grace Church, Rev. E. N. Baker, Principal Executive of Albert College; Rev. C. E. Cragg, of Oshawa; and Rev. A. J. Terrill, of Almonte.

"We Would See Jesus" was sung by the Choir and congregation. This was followed with prayer by Dr. Bishop. Scripture was read by Mr. Woodger, and Mr. Reginald Wiseman sang a solo. Brief words of appreciation were spoken by the former Pastors. Dr. Baker, who had been pastor 42 years ago and who baptized Mr. Gibbard, brought regrets from Rev. J. P. Wilson, also a former Pastor, who was unable to attend because of ill health. He spoke of the many generous and kindly qualities in the life of the deceased.

Mr. Cragg pointed out four qualities in the life of Mr. Gibbard which had made him a real Christian gentleman. First, his deep interest in the welfare of all his men; second, his deep sympathy with people in difficulty and suffering; third, his loyalty to the church, and, fourth, his service to the whole community.

Mr. Terrill spoke of Mr. Gibbard as a strong restless mind that thought things through, and of his knowledge of the joys and sorrows of many people and conditions.

Mr. Woodger summed up in brief, affectionate terms all that Mr. Gibbard had meant to the church, and with a note of optimism said that he believed would have been that of Mr. Gibbard himself, he called on those now living to carry on his unfinished work.

The place which Mr. Gibbard occupied in the hearts of the congregation of the church was evident by the large number present, Mr. Farnsworth, Mr. Wills of Selby, Mr. Beckel, of the Circuit; Mr. Anderson, of Newburgh; Mr. Seymour, of Morven, besides all the clergy of the town.

After the service the cortege reformed and proceeded to Riverside Cemetery. All the employees, along with the Town Council and Board of Education followed on foot, while hundreds of others went by car.

During the time of the funeral all the business houses in Napanee were closed and the whole town's business ceased in respect to one of their loyal and public spirited leaders.

NEWBURGH

Mr. Robert Tate, an aged resident of this place, was taken to the hospital at Kingston, suffering from a complication of diseases.

Mrs. William Wesse, of Wesley, visited with Mrs. J. S. Yeomans on Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Orison Benn and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bowerman.

A recent issue of the Whig-Standard contains an account of the death of Mrs. Blanch Taylor Hudson, which took place at her home in East Syracuse, N.Y. Mrs. Hudson was a daughter of the late Joseph Taylor, and resided in Newburgh many years ago.

The Newburgh Dairy Company held its annual meeting in the hall on Thursday afternoon. The officers of last year continue to transact the business for the coming year.

Miss Marie Gannon has returned to her home in Toronto, after visiting her cousin, Miss Marjorie Sutton.

Mr. Max Miles has returned from Detroit, where he spent two weeks.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. of the Free Methodist Church was held in the church on Wednesday, in the absence of the President, Mrs. Bray took charge, and a very profitable meeting was held.

Rev. C. F. Johnston, of Woodlawn, Penn., will be the special preacher at the District Quarterly meeting in Kingston from January 24th to 27th, in the Free Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Bowerman were at Moscow on Monday, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Patterson.

Our sympathies are extended to Mrs. W. W. Adams in the death of her mother, the late Mrs. Pillar, whose death occured on Thursday afternoon. A short service was held at the house on Saturday morning, after which the remains were conveyed to Russell by train, where interment took place. The deceased lady was a member of the Anglican Church, and was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends, who regret to hear of her passing.

The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Newburgh United Church met on Wednesday afternoon, January 9th, at the home of Mrs. Hanes. In the absence of the President, the Vice President, Mrs. John Wartman, took charge of the programme. The doxology was sung and the Lord's Prayer offered, after which the business for the day was taken up. Mrs. Johnston and Miss Paul volunteered to prepare the programme for the February meeting. Miss Eliza Paul was appointed Assistant Strangers' Secretary to help Mrs. Wartman. The hymn, "Joy to the World," was sung and prayer was offered by Miss Paul, after which Mrs. Wartman read the Missionary leaflet on Stewardship, in which the giving of time, strength, skill, money and all of life was stressed. Mrs. Johnston conducted a questionaire on the Blue Book, which showed some of the work done in the mental hospitals, hospitals and city missions of the dominion. A hymn was sung and prayer offered after which a social time was spent over the tea cups, where all enjoyed pleasant intercourse. The ladies thanked Mrs. Hanes for her kind hospitality, and the meeting closed.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Blanche Taylor Hudson.

The funeral of Mrs. Blanche Taylor Hudson, who died on Monday, December 31st, 1928, took place at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, at her home, 502 West Manlius street, East Syracuse, Rev. Isaac C. Swift, retired, officiating, and burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery. Mrs. Hudson was a native of Newburgh, Ont., being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor, and had a wide scope of friends in Napanee and vicinity. Her death was due to a stroke which she suffered on Nov. 2nd. Deceased, who had resided in East Syracuse forty-four years, is survived by her husband, William E. Hudson; a daughter, Mrs. Lewis Manzer, of Liverpool, N.Y.; three sons, Carl R. and Keith P. Hudson, of East Syracuse, and Ross M. Hudson, of Syracuse, and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Myers, of Rome, and Mrs. Harry E. Parris, of Rochester, N.Y.

AGATE

Works of Lapidary's Art Come Down Through Ages from Earliest Civilization.

"Petrified wood" is in most cases "agatized wood" and is thus a variety of agate. Its formation is similar to the process producing the beautiful amygdules, but it usually occurs in beds of volcanic ash. In past ages vast quantities of the fine volcanic dust drifting down like snow have buried forms of upright and fallen trees in strata, tightly packed volcanic, says Nature Magazine. Sealed away from the air, the wood has decayed very slowly. Infiltrating waters burdened with their load of silica derived from the surrounding ash have made of each microscopic cell of the wood a tiny amygdule-like series of agate layers.

The result is a perfect preservation of the structure of the wood. The ash wears away and leaves the landscape dotted with fallen trunks or upright stumps of forest monarchs transformed to bright colored agate and jasper.

The history of these gems is woven closely with the love of ornament and superstition of primitive peoples. The Sumerians, the earliest inhabitants of Mesopotamia, first used them for cylinder seals, signet rings and beads. Greece and Egypt, in ancient times, regarded them as capable of healing wounds inflicted by spiders and scorpions, Pliny relates in his Natural History.

The Magi of Persia used the agates for stopping the storms and hurricanes and changing the course of rivers, the magazine points out. One kind made athletes invincible; others helped pearl divers. As ornaments, the stones were used for beads, scarabs, rings and figures by the Persians, and Pliny mentions a beautiful stone possessed by the great Pyrrhus, on which, it was said, nature had carved the Nine Muses and Apollo holding a lyre.

Oriental nations used these gems for signet or finger rings, getting their best ornaments from the workmen of Limodra and later from Cambay. The "bat's-eyes" so-called, were used for money in some countries. The art of coloring was crudely practiced on this continent at an early date.

Mahomedans regarded the stones as marvellous—they would stop the flow of blood, they brought joy, increase the supply of human milk during nursing time. China, in the past, held agate next to jewels in its esteem and believed that the stones were the transformation of the blood of depraved spirits. Asiatic wine vessels have been found in old tombs and it is recorded that in 662 A.D. an agate tree, three feet high, was sent by the country Tokhara as a gift to the emperor. Hairpins, arrowheads and cheese-cutters have been made from the mineral. Mexicans have been the snuff boxes.

Practically all the agate mines were known to the ancients, and under essentially the same conditions which they

Spain Plans Tunnel Under Gibraltar Strait — Engineers Go To Africa to Study the Project.

Madrid—The long cherished and often-expressed desire of King Alfonso of Spain for a tunnel beneath the Straits of Gibraltar, to link Europe and Africa by rail, has been brought measurably nearer with the announcement last week that a commission of technical experts had left for Algeciras to study the project for several months.

Should the commission report favorably, the government would begin immediately the construction of the tunnel, which must be at least eight and one-half miles long.

The announcement also said that only Spanish money and Spanish contractors would be used to accomplish the engineering feat.

Whether or not the Rock of Gibraltar, the British stronghold guarding the entrance to the Mediterranean, will be pierced is not yet known, but it is likely that a way will be found to select a site beyond the British territorial confines.

Previous estimates of the cost ran as high as 250,000,000 pesetas (about $40,500,000), but this sum appears slight in comparison to the strategical value and economic importance the tunnel would command for Spain. While the project would consume at least six years, it would ultimately outrival the German dream of a Berlin-to-Bagdad railway, for it would connect with the French Sahara railroad, now under construction, and with the Cape-to-Cairo railway.

The road would open a new outlet for the interior wealth of Africa, permit travellers to take a train at Cape Town, South Africa, and go through to Paris or to Constantinople or to Tokio.

Belgium, France, Great Britain and, of course, Spain and Portugal, would immensely benefit, for shipments from their Colonial possessions in Africa could be freighted direct with a great saving in time.

The problem facing the engineers lies not so much in the length of the straits or the fast currents prevailing, but rather in the depth ranging from about 310 metres to 390 meters at the best sites.

While the straits proper call for only eight and one-half miles of tubes the tunnel itself may have to extend for about thirty-three miles.

EMPEY HILL.

The regular monthly meeting of the Empey Hill W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. W. Pinney, on Wednesday evening, Jan. 2nd. Owing to so much sickness there was a small attendance. The meeting was conducted by the new President, Mrs. Wilbert Winters. After the regular business was concluded, a social half hour was spent, followed by refreshments.—The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held on Tuesday evening, January 8th, at the home of Mrs. H. Kimmerly, with a large number of members and visitors present. The new President, Mrs. O. E. Ashley, presided. After the regular business, a contest was held, which was enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served by the ladies. The two societies are to hold joint meetings during the remainder of the winter, the next one being held at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Winters, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 5th.—There is a lot of sickness in the neighborhood.—Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Russell spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Roy Stafford.—Mrs. Wm. Jackson, Selby, spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. M. J. Winters.—Mrs. Pinney is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Roy McMath.—Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ashley and Mr. and Mrs. A. Pinney motored to Kingston on Wednesday.

ENTERPRISE W. M. S.

The annual meeting of the W. M. S. of Enterprise was held at the home of Mrs. Dan Wagar, on Dec. 12th, the President, Mrs. H. A. Carscallen, presiding. After the devotional exercises, the reports were given, showing good work done and progress in all lines.

Mrs. Carscallen, after two years of faithful service as President, asked to be relieved, and very unwillingly her request was granted.

The officers for 1929 are as follows:

President—Mrs. H. A. Carscallen.

Vice President—Miss Carrie Jackson.

Second Vice—Mrs. Reuben Dopkins.

Treasurer—Mrs. Percy Raymond.

Recording Secretary—Miss Libbie Reid.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Geo. Nelson.

Associate Helpers Secretaries—Mrs. Mellow and Mrs. Bert Dopkins.

Missionary Monthly and Literature Secretary—Mrs. Geo. Nelson.

Strangers' Secretary — Mrs. Harry Jackson.

Mission Band Leaders—Mrs. H. A. Carscallen and Mrs. Clayton Dopkins.

Flower Committee—Mrs. Ard Jackson and Mrs. Clayton Brown.

On January 7th, 1929, the W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Harry Jackson, for the regular monthly meeting, with a nearly number in attendance.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises by the President, Mrs. H. A. Carscallen. The minutes of the last meetings were read and approved. The Treasurer read a report, showing an increase from last year in our offering.

Our President, Mrs. Bunt, gave a reading "The Home Former". The key note was how to use our blessings and opportunities of the New Year, followed with a Questionaire on the annual report. Mrs. Nelson and Miss Salisbury agreed to arrange where we hold our next four meetings.

The meeting was closed by repeating Mizpah.

Had Terrible Trouble With An Aching Back

Ontario Lady Used Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. C. Mason Gladly Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills.

London, Ont., Jan. 15th, (Special)—If we could show you the actual proofs, results attained in thousands of cases suffering from Kidney Trouble, Rheumatism, Backache, etc., it would convince you that Dodd's Kidney Pills are an excellent kidney remedy. One more tribute showing the efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills comes from Mrs. C. Mason, 723 Queens Ave., London, Ont. She writes:—"A few years ago I had trouble with my Kidneys. A friend advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, which I did, and they surely relieved me. I would gladly recommend them to anyone. I had terrible trouble with my back aching. Six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me."

Other sufferers of backache tell of pains relieved and health restored through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They act directly on the Kidneys. They strengthen the kidneys and put them in shape to strain the impurities out of the blood.

A HIGH GRADE MASH IS LESS EXPENSIVE TO USE IN THE LONG RUN

The Hens Lay More Eggs And Are in Better Health

The average poultryman would undoubtedly find it to be more economical and more profitable to use a good commercial mash put out by a large, reliable manufacturer than to attempt mixing his own.

This is his pipe dream, for it has been proved many times. In a recent issue of the American Poultry Journal, Frank L. Platt, Editor, tells in an editorial of a visit to a poultry farm where two pens of White Leghorns were fed a home-mixed egg mash and two other pens in the same house of the same age and quality received a high-grade commercial mash. The home-mixed mash was the common college formula, consisting of equal parts of corn meal, ground oats, wheat bran, wheat middlings and meat scraps.

Briefly, the birds on the commercial mash ate 7½ less feed, laid 1½ dozen more eggs per bird, weighed ½ pound more per hen, and were in better health. The answer is easy as to which of the two mashes was the more profitable. A good commercial mash may cost more than some cheap mash, but it is well worth the difference.

Manufacturer Has Advantages

The larger feed manufacturers have many advantages over the individual poultryman when it comes to building formulas, buying ingredients, and mixing them together. Some companies maintain a poultry experiment farm where you may find a dozen or more feed experiments under way almost all the time. College-trained men are in charge of the experimental work. In some of the more recent findings in nutrition the feed manufacturers have led the way. They have their own laboratories and chemists analyzing each ingredient as it arrives at their mill. The quality and percentage of proteins, carbohydrates, fats and minerals in their feeds are the same from one season to another. The large quantities in which each ingredient is bought puts them in a position where they can get lowest prices and insist upon quality goods.

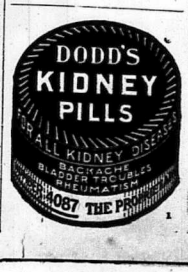
Large machines do the mixing. No poultryman can do as good a job mixing feed by hand as the feed manufacturer can do with the assistance of machinery. Besides many regrind the mash so that every mouthful is the same whether taken from the top of the sack or from the bottom.

Change in Ration Hurts Production

The trouble with mixing your own mash is getting the same quality of ingredients each time. To-day the quality of a certain ingredient may be extra good, for example, the percentage of protein in meat scraps runs high, while next time all you can get is a low-protein meat scrap. You are also likely to have difficulty in getting all of the ingredients called for in the formula. A change in the ration we all know interferes with the egg production of the flock.

Difficulty in getting the ingredients has also very markedly limited the variety used in most of the home-mixed mashes. Experts recommending a simple formula appreciate that it is not the best mash but know it to be superior to oats and corn and water. True enough, but a good commercial mash has been demonstrated to be superior to a simple home-mixed ration.

If you are doubtful that it pays to feed a good commercial mash, there is only one way to convince yourself. Select one of them and feed it to your hens for six months to a year. Now is an excellent time to start. In feeding a commercial mash be sure to follow the manufacturer's feeding directions. They have made a thorough study of the feed and know just how the best result may be obtained. Keep careful record and at the end of the six months or the year you will be in a position to judge the economy of a good mash.



THE BEGGAR OF CARCASSONNE

W. G.—In Manchester Guardian. He is worth the definite article, for besides being the most interesting exhibit in the place he has a function of his own. His is the altar where one sacrifices at the shrine of disillusionment. As you turn up from the Route Nationale you are in a twentieth-century atmosphere of blue smoke, heavy grey dust, and roaring cars. The station cafe is full of chauffeurs—you, coldly watchful, like a hostile gendarme. You swing to the right over a bridge and through an archway, and the thirteenth century swallows you up. Before you rises a street, cobbled, steep and narrow, so that if you take your handlebars as near as you dare to the wall your sidecar mudguard will brush the armour of the gossips who sit at their doorsteps across the way. Darkness is falling, and lamp and candle show shifting patches of yellow light on stone walls in murky interiors. Ridges of stone stand up, a yard apart, from the cobbles, where the horses of Simon de Montfort scrambled for foothold as their riders spurred up to the chateau. Probably you will follow that street as it winds, doubles, ascends, drops, and insinuates itself between two gable ends into the tiny six-by-four Place de l'Eglise. Then a swallow-tailed waiter will materialise out of an hotel disguised as a castle, and the thirteenth century will vanish. You would have done better to do penance handsomely where the beggar sits at the gate, and then turning your sacrilegious motor-cycle round, ride off to where you might watch the silhouette of the city against the sunset.

The Beggar Knows His Customers.

The beggar appears to realize his mission. He graduates his supplications accurately according to the rank of the almsgiver. To limousine folk he is tremulously pathetic, pushing back his sparse grey hair, dropping his eyelids, and turning his face up so as to get a good light on the wrinkles. People in open cars he accosts confidently, as one gentleman touching another. This method, it appears, succeeds equally well with the young sprig of nobility in the clamorous sports model, the commercial traveller in the miniature two-seater, and the bulky bourgeois taking the fresh air with wife and sallow baby in the scarred Ford. From pedestrians he demands charity for the love of God with a hint of severity. He keeps the true orderly-room manner for motor-cyclists. The beggar occurs throughout France, as a scientist would say, in a pure state and evenly distributed. His appearance and disposition are coloured by his environment. On the steps of cathedrals he borrows a kind of debased religious ecstasy from the associations of the fabric, he patters prayers sotto voce with one eye on you and the other on his patron saint, as if he were appraising your value to the last centime. As a rule the older the beggar the older the beggar. There is a withered crone sitting outside the castle at Chinon who looks old enough to remember the coming of Joan of Arc. Half a franc will purchase from her a blessing which will last till you get out of earshot. The beggar at the amphitheatre at Arles has a heavy jowl and a cruel eye, and his leering scowl suggests that he is gloating over the details of the last Retiarius v. Secutor tie. He gives no blessing, which is probably as well, for even the best disposed recording angel would hum and haw over a testimonial from such a quarter. At Marseilles the beggars are sturdy, with a lean, keen, salt-water look about them, the look of men who are hungry for other things than food. But the beggar at Carcassonne, notwithstanding the changes of demeanour dictated by circumstances, preserves that dignity which we associate with butlers and ambassadors—and that in spite of his spectacular trousers, which we may suspect to be an article to excite compassion.

Carcassonne Neither Dead Nor Alive.

He is an untouched ruin. The architects who go up and down seeking what they may restore have overlooked him. They might have washed the dirt out of his wrinkles, trimmed his nails, crammed him into a new pair of trousers, and exhorted the poor wretch, in the great name of Viollet-le-Duc, to look as young as possible. He would then be as unconvincing as his companions. A stone Shrubbery, like Carassonne, once the first shock of surprise at finding it complete has passed, excites the sensation which Gulliver found so unpleasant. Not that a mediaeval town has no business to be alive, but Carcassonne, like Poe's patient who was hypnotised in articulo mortis, is neither alive nor dead. It is painfully clean and orderly. It is a museum exhibit, and all its fifty-three towers, with their guard-houses, turrets, and other fripperies, stir the soul less than a Roman concrete stone unearthed from beneath a city street or a Gaul grave-mound.

THE ISLAND OF THE STAIRS

Being a True Account of Certain Strange and Wonderful Adventures of Master John Hampden, Seaman, and Mistress Lucy Wilberforce, Gentlewoman, In the Great South Seas.

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Copyright, 1912, by Cyrus Townsend Brady

PROLOGUE.

Here's a tale of the sea and the treasure isle, of long hid gems and bad men's guile, of perils on land and wave well met, 'spite storm and mutiny's awful threat.

The way of a man with a maid is told as they voyage the seas in quest of gold—the man so brave and the maid so fair. For her sake naught he will not dare.

From English fields to south sea shore their path they follow while billows roar, but it leads them safe to their goal at last, with their love and their treasure tightly clasped.

CHAPTER I.

Wherein I Bait the Duke Over the Dead.

I CANNOT say that I was greatly surprised when I stumbled across the body of Sir Geoffrey in the spinney, which is not for a moment meant to convey the impression that I was not shocked. I had expected that Sir Geoffrey would come to some such sad end; therefore I say that I was not surprised. But as I stood over him in the gray dawn, looking down upon him lying so quietly on his back with the handsome, silver mounted, ivory handled dueling pistol which had done the damage still clasped in his right hand I was fascinated with horror.

Sir Geoffrey had carefully put his bullet through his heart. It was less disfiguring and brutal, less hard on those left behind, less troublesome, more gentlemanly. His sword lay underneath him, the diamond hilt protruding.

I guessed that he was glad enough after all, that the end had come, for there was not that look of pain or horror or fear which I have so often seen on the faces of the dead, but his features were calm and composed. He had not been dead long. As I bent over him I noticed that he had something in his left hand. A nearer look showed it to be an envelope. I drew it away and saw that it was addressed to Mistress Lucy. Thrusting it in the pocket of my coat, I rose to my feet.

At that instant I heard steps and voices. Now I had nothing on earth to fear from anybody. The death of Sir Geoffrey was too obviously a suicide for any one to accuse me even if there had been any reason on earth for bringing me under suspicion. The letter which I carried in my pocket addressed to Mistress Lucy would undoubtedly explain everything there was to explain. Something, however, moved me to seek concealment. I am a sailor, as you will find out, and can act quickly in an emergency by a sort of instinct.

Sir Geoffrey lay on the side of the path through the spinney, and beyond him the coppice thickened. The path twisted and turned. From the sound of the footsteps I judged that men were coming along it. I instantly stepped across the body and concealed myself behind a tree trunk in the heart foliage of the undergrowth. I could see without being seen and hear as well.

I did not expect that any of the guests of the castle would make their appearance at that hour. The loud steps stopped. Two men, one of whom had been pointed out to me as Baron Luffdon, in the lead, followed by an other who was strange to me, sudden ly appeared. A voice which I recognized as Luffdon's at once exclaimed in a sweetrock tones:

"By gad, he's done it! Here's a pretty affair!"

"Oh, I don't know," said the second; "it might be worse!"

"Worse for him? Great heavens, man, he's dead!"

"Worse for us."

"What d'ye mean? I don't understand."

"He might have shot himself before we knocked him."

"Oh, I see!"

The two stepped a little nearer. The first speaker, Lord Luffdon, one of the young bloods who had been having high carouse with Sir Geoffrey for the past week at the castle, bent over him.

"Well," continued the drawler nonchalantly—as for me, I hated them both, but the latter speaker the more, if possible, for reasons which you will presently understand—"this relieves me greatly."

"What do you mean? After such a sight as we had to come upon—this is enough to unsettled any man."

"Pooh, pooh, man; you're nervous!"

"Well, I don't know how it relieves you. And after all's said and done, Wilberforce was a gentleman, a good player and a gallant loser."

"Exactly, and he lost his all like a gentleman."

"And you got it, at least most of it."

"Patience, my friend; you had your share."

"I don't know but I would give it back to have poor old Geoff with us once again," said Luffdon, with some heat.

"That is a perfectly foolish statement, my buck," returned the other. "Somebody was bound to get it. Wilberforce has been going the pace for years. We happened to be in at the death, that's all."

"Well, how does it relieve you, then? Do you think Wilberforce would have attempted to get you to support him?"

The drawler laughed.

"Of course not. This"—he pointed to the dead body—"is proof enough of the spirit that was in him. But, of course, I cannot marry the girl now."

"You can't?"

"Certainly not. Her father a bankrupt, a suicide"—

"But the castle and this park?"

"Mortgaged up to the hilt. Speaking of hilts"—he stooped down and daintily avoiding contact with the corpse, drew from the scabbard the diamond hilted sword—"this belongs to me. It's worth taking. You remember he staked it last night on the last deal."

"Good God, man," protested the first speaker, "don't take the man's sword away! Let him lie with his weapons like a gentleman."

"Tut, tut! You grow scrupulous, it seems. We will provide a cheaper badge of his knighthood, if necessary."

"And about the girl?"

"'Tis all off."

"You will have some trouble breaking your engagement with her, I am thinking."

"Not I. To do her justice, the girl has the spirit of her father. A whisper that I am disinclined to the match will be sufficient."

"Aye, but who will give her that whisper?"

"We will arrange that some way. Truth to tell, I am rather tired of the mine. She bores me with her high airs. She does not know that she is penniless and disgraced. And as for her good looks, 'tis a country beauty, after all."

"Poor girl!" began Luffdon, whose face, though bloated and flushed, still showed some signs of human kindness.

At that point I intervened. I could bear no more. When they spoke so slightingly of my mistress it was more than I could stand. I burst out of the brush and stood before them—mad, enraged all through. I will admit that I lacked the composure and breeding of these precious two. They started back at my sudden appearance, from which he of the sow speech speedily recovered.

"Now, who may you be, and what may you want?" he said.

"Who I am matters nothing," said I, "but what I want matters a great deal."

"Ah! And what is it that you want that matters so?"

"In the first place that sword."

"This?" said the man, holding Sir Geoffrey's handsome weapon up tight by the blade.

"That," said I.

I am accustomed to move quickly as well as to think quickly, and before he knew it I had it by the hilt, and but that he released the blade instantly I would have cut his hand as I withdrew it. He swung round and clapped his hand on his own sword, a fierce oath breaking from his lips, his face dark as thunder.

"Don't draw that little spit," I said, "or I will be under the necessity of breaking your back."

I towered above both of them, and I have no doubt that I could have made good my boast. The man had the courage of his race and station. He faced me undaunted, his hand on his sword hilt.

"Would you rob me of mine own?" he asked calmly.

"I might do it, and with justice," I replied. "You had no invitation to rob the living or the dead."

"Zounds!" cried the first man, "it was in fair play; we risked each what we had, and Sir Geoffrey lost."

"Yes; I see," I replied. "Having paid with everything else, he had to throw away his life. I heard what you said. You wonder how Mistress Wilberforce is to learn the situation. You wonder who is to tell her. I will."

"That is good; well thought of," said the drawler with amazing assurance. "I could not have wished it better. You are doubtless some servant of the house"—

"I am no man's servant." I interrupted in some heat.

"Somebody born on the p— — ho prudishly cherishes a puke's virtue in admiration for the lady of C—."

I flushed like a girl at this. I never was good at the dissimulation that goes on in polite society.

"Tell her, my man, tell her," he cried, "tell her that she is a beggar and her father a suicide and that I have all her property without her. She can go to your arms. She is not meet for the Duke of Arcester."

So this was Arcester! I had heard of him, as I had of Luffdon, two of the most debauched, unprincipled rakes, idlers, fortune hunters, gamblers, men about town, in all England. I stepped closer to him and struck him with the palm of my hand. His sword was out on the moment, but before he could make a pass I wrenched it from him, broke the blade over my knee and hurled the two pieces into the coppice.

"I can match you with swords," said I. "I have fought with men, not popinjays in my day all over the world, and I know the use of the weapon, but I would not demean myself, being an honest man though no gentleman, by crossing blades with such a ruffian."

"By God," cried the man, "I will have you flung into the mill pond. I will clap you in jail. I will"—

"You will do nothing of the sort," said I. "There is no man on the estate who would not take my part against yours, especially when I repeat what you have said about Mistress Lucy."

"And who would believe you?" queried the duke, whose anger was at a frightful height to being thus braved

"Don't draw that little spit."

and insulted. In his agitation he tore at his neck cloth. "I would be your word against mine, and"—

"For the matter of that, my word will not be uncorroborated," I interrupted swiftly.

"What do you mean?"

"This gentleman"—

"By gad," said Lord Luffdon, "you are right to appeal to me and you were right to strike Arcester. I'm sorry for the girl and for Sir Geoffrey and ashamed for my friend."

"Would you turn against me in this?" cried the duke.

"I certainly would."

"God," whispered his grace hotly, fumbling at the empty sheath, "I wish I had my sword!"

"There is Sir Geoffrey's sword," said Lord Luffdon, who did not lack courage

Have you heard about Pepsi Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

The pastilles contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and penetrate down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

While no liquid or solid can get to the lungs, and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and healing commences.

Give the children Howard's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil! Contains 50 per cent oil, is pleasant to take and very easily digested. Builds up the system, and fortifies against colds. 35c, 60c, and 90c., at Wallace's.

WILTON

Old King Winter has begun his reign in real earnest. — Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. H. Stover, who had the misfortune to fall and break her hip. — The January Institute meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Simmons on Tuesday last.—Mr. and Mrs. Guy Simmons and Arthur spent an evening recently at Mr. Stewart Lake's. — Mrs. Glass of Napanee, visited at Mrs. Hannah Stover's. — There was no school on Monday due to the illness of the teacher, Miss Alkenbrack. Mr. Nelle Snider has returned home after spending some time with his son James, of Syracuse. — Mr. and Mrs. Byron Rutan spent Saturday last in Napanee.

Hess' Stock Food is made from the formula of one of the greatest living authorities on the care and feeding of animals. We are authorized to refund on every pail of Hess' Stock Food that does not obtain the results advertised. Wallace's, sole agents for Napanee.

CROYDON

The rain which fell on Saturday put the roads in bad condition for traffic.—Anyone wanting blacksmith work done will do well to give the Coulter Bros a call, as they do first class work. They are in Mr. King's Shop.—We are glad to see all the sick around again after an attack of the Grippe.—Mr. Fred Galbraith is all smiles, It's a boy.—Miss C. Nolan left last week to spend the winter months in Rochester, N.Y.—Donald Close is gaining after an attack of pneumonia.—Mrs Duncan Paul of Hartney, Manitoba, has returned home after spending a few days here and calling on her brother, Mr. Archie Black, who has been seriously ill in Kingston. — A sad gloom was cast over the community on Friday, when Miss Marion Doupe passed away. Her death was a shock to all that knew her. She took a weak spell and failed to recover from it.—Mrs. W. B. Close is spending some time with her brother, Mr. Archie Blair in Kingston Hospital. — Miss Lillie and Willa Lyman have returned to Toronto after spending the holidays with their father and sister. — Mr. Jack Dewey spent an evening recently at Mr. James Lacey's. — Mr. Herbert and Etta King, spent their holidays under the parental roof.—Mr. Harold Hughs spent Sunday evening at Mr. Ed. Hart's. — Mr. Wm. and Richard Coulter spent Sunday at Glenora.—Everyone enjoyed the party at Mr. Henry Lacey's Thursday evening. — The elections passed off quietly, Mr. Judge being elected Reeve for the coming year.

One or two applications of Walladerma (winter balm), will convince you that this is a wonderful preparation for chapped hands or roughness of the skin. It dries in thoroughly and is not a bit "sticky". 25c. for a generous sized bottle, at Wallace's.

HAWLEY

The W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Clement on Wednesday, with a good attendance. Owing to illness in the President's family, Mrs. I. Asselstine took charge of the meeting. — Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hill spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. M. Shetler.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Parks and Mr. and Mrs. A. Galt were suddenly called to Roblin on Thursday by the serious illness of Mrs. Volney Woods. — The Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Eli Fretts, on Thursday, January 17th. Come prepared to answer the roll call with suggestions for this year's work and bring your thimble also. — Mr. and Mrs. R. Ackerman were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Smith on Friday evening.—Mr. and Mrs. Ford Papple and Norman Garrison, Brantford, made a flying call on friends on Sunday.—A gloom was cast over the community on Friday morning when the sad news of the death of Mrs. Volney Woods was received. Much sympathy is extended to Mr. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Meyers and Miss Agnes.

Boots Iodized Throat Tablets (containing Iodine, Carbolic Acid Mentholated), are unequalled for sore throat or as a preventative of diseases originating in the throat. 25c. a box at Wallace's.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On Tuesday, January 8th, the first meeting of the Women's Institute was held, with a large attendance. Mrs. Ham, in her usual capable manner, conducted the business. Mrs. Hagarty, once more, in a very admirable paper reviewed the news of the day.

Of special interest to all was a travelogue around the world as told by Mrs. J. W. Robinson, beginning at New York, from where the ocean liner sailed, with bands playing, and crowds cheering, she described her experiences in such a graphic manner that every one in the audience imagined they too were taking the trip of 28400 miles during the months of January to April. The first port of call was the Madiera Islands, with its lovely views so dear to the housewife's heart. A short stop at historic Gibralter was followed by inland trips to places of unusual interest in the countries of Southern Europe, and also Egypt, in Africa, India, Java, China and Japan, afforded the party an opportunity to visit many places of interest in ancient history and modern industry. In mid Pacific, the port of call was the tropic Hawaiian Islands, so dear to the heart of all tourists. A trip through the Panama Canal, for which the toll was $10.000, brought the touring party to Cuba. A few more days' sail ended the world's cruise, when the liner again docked at New York, after a four months' trip with twenty-six ports of call.

Mrs. Robinson's vivid description of each place of interest was supplemented by many humorous experiences. Her narration of her visit to Monte Carlo and the journey into the African desert, where the party spent a night at the home of a wealthy sheik, and each one present an echo of the thrills which she experienced. The time was all too short to describe a globe encircling cruise, and the ladies owe Mrs. Robinson a debt of gratitude for her wonderful address.

Arrangements were then made for the ever popular Mother and Daughter banquet to be held on January 31st. A very attractive programme with a Department speaker, is being prepared.

Rexall Cherry Bark Cough Syrup is a combination of Wild Cherry, Ipecac, Senega, Squills, etc.—medicines recognized by medical authorities as best for relieving stubborn coughs, and colds. May be given to children in smaller doses. Small size 25c., medium 60c., and family size $1.00. Wallace's sole agents for Napanee.

OBITUARY

Miss Sara McGuin.

The many friends of Miss Sara McGuin were shocked to hear on Thursday morning, January 10th, 1929, that she had suddenly passed away that morning. She had been in her usual health until the evening before, when she complained of not feeling very well. A Doctor was summoned, but he did not consider her case serious, but in the early morning she was taken suddenly worse and passed away. She was the older daughter of Mr., F. C. McGuin, and formerly resided at Morven and Napanee, but a short time after the death of her mother, she moved to Philadelphia, to reside with her sister, Mrs. J. C. Perry, who survives her. The remains were accompanied to Napanee by her nephew, Mr. Fred Perry, and niece, Mrs. Kathleen Perry Ashton, and interment took place in the family plot at Morven. Rev. Mr. Seymour, of Morven, conducted the burial service.

NAPANEE BEAVER

SOME GOOD BARGAINS IN USED MOTOR CARS

By J. V. McAree.

It has been argued that dollar for dollar a man gets better value for the money he spends in an automobile than for anything else he buys, and it is also a fact that pound for pound a motor car is cheaper than tub butter. We have heard it said that there are no bad cars any more, that there are merely some cars that are better than others. The same remark has been applied, with a good deal of optimism, to whisky. Writing in Collier's, Walter Davenport suggests that the best value of all may be found in used cars. We pause here to salute the genius who invented this phrase to describe a second-hand car; it has meant hundreds of millions to the industry. A second-hand car suggests something almost as undesirable as a second-hand mattress or a second-hand toothbrush, but a used car, somehow or other, conveys the suggestion of a trained car, a car that has been deftly and smoothly broken in almost a refined car, not a bounder still smelling of the enamel hardly dry upon the metal work. Well a new car becomes a used car as soon as the new owner takes his seat, slams the door and steps on the gas. If he paid $2,000 for it, and drives it around the block it becomes worth—to the dealer from whom he has bought it—about $1,500.

Bargains in Used Cars.

But it may still be worth $2,000. Certainly it is just as good for all purposes, except sudden re-sale, as it was when he was writing his cheque for it, but its market value has declined this much because it is a used car. This suggests, as Mr. Davenport argues, that a man may pick up a better bargain in a used car than in a new car. So far as value to the dealer is concerned, a car has depreciated in value between 30 per cent. and 40 per cent. after a year of normal wear. But it has not been driven more than from 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. of its normal possible mileage. Therefore if you buy a car at from 60 per cent. to 70 per cent. of its usual cost after it has been in use for a year you are buying between 85 per cent. and 90 per cent. of its original mileage. This is obviously a bargain, and is not the sort of bargain that is to be had in any new car. Speaking generally, the person who buys used cars from a reputable dealer is just as likely to be satisfied at the end of the year as the man who buys a new car. Statistics collected on this points by a large Detroit manufacturer showed that 85 per cent. of purchasers of used cars were satisfied while only a few claimed that they had been the victims of misrepresentation by dealers.

Dealer's Reputation Important.

There is no longer anything to be apologetic about in buying a used car, for a banker mentioned by Mr. Davenport buys two used cars a year for $3,950 each which cost a year earlier $5,000. But it is much easier to be fooled when buying a car whose history is unknown. There may be hidden deficiencies unsuspected by the dealer who buys the car and therefore not communicated to the purchaser. Should this happen in a new car the purchaser has redress, but if the used car is not guaranteed for a certain length of time it may be difficult to locate the responsible person. Therefore, the writer says that the greatest attention should be paid to the reputation of the dealer, and this being satisfactory, it is a wise thing to spend $10 for the advice of a motor mechanic who will spend a couple of hours examining the car to be purchased. He can give it a thorough examination in that time and can at least assure his client if he is getting value for his money. If the dealer is not cordial to the mechanic, a wise move is to go to some other dealer.

The Engine is the Car.

The main thing one is buying in a car is an engine. The least important things are enamel, paint and upholstery, yet it is these non-essentials that are likely to impress the unsophisticated purchaser, just as it may be the flower holder that charms his wife and makes her forget to count the wheels. Another important point to observe is whether the frame has been knocked out of alignment as the result of an accident. Too much play of the front wheels is a suggestion of worn axles. Run the car in reverse and slow it down. Then listen to clicks from the rear end. Cars that growl and chatter behind the buyer's back are to be avoided. Start the engine, advises Mr. Davenport. Then plunge the accelerator down all the way. The engine will race. Then, as suddenly, release the accelerator. As you do this, place the palm of your hand on the top of the gear-shift rod. If the rod vibrates or wobbles freely you are feeling piston slap, which means that the cylinders are too large. Not too much attention should be paid to the speedometer, for it is quite possible to doctor up these important little devices so that they will show whatever mileage is desired.

Used Car Problem.

It is estimated that only about one-tenth of the new motor cars sold in the United States last year, and we presume the same percentage would apply to Canada, were what is known in the trade as clean deals. That is to say, deals in which no other car was traded in. That provides one of the great problems of the business, both for the manufacturer and the dealer. The latter must be very cautious in what he allows for used cars, and knows that if he allows more than 40 per cent. of the value of the new car for the old he is looking for trouble and menacing the five per cent profit which each car should yield. Some manufacturers, on the other hand, knowing what a great percentage of the dealer's business involves used cars, will deprive a dealer of the agency if it should be proved that he misrepresented a used car, even if it should not have been a car of this manufacturer's make. In some places dealers unite to buy old and almost worthless cars and scrap them rather than have them running about the streets spoiling the sale for more valuable cars, and perhaps, because of their unsatisfactory performances, spoiling possible customers for any kind of used car.

THE MORNING PASSES

By Rowland Cragg
In Manchester Guardian.

With the first early passing footsteps Shamus uncurled himself from his corner at the foot of the stairs, stretched himself, and settled again with his head on his paws. He knew the footsteps, knew to expect them; all was well. He dozed lightly. Presently there were others, also known and to be expected, but the sound of them brought him sharply to his feet, alert, ears pricked. It was the man from the end house, whose clothing carried scents that always attracted the dog. The man was a corn dealer, a fact beyond Shamus's comprehension, but he did know that about his clothing were the scents of horses, of grass, of hay, something that suggested open spaces and clean, fresh air. The man moved down the street with haste—he was late,—and something of his urge was sensed by the dog. He padded restlessly to the closed door, listening uneasily until the sounds died away.

It was time now, he knew, that his own household should be moving. At a run he went up the stairs, crouched at the closed door of the bedroom and breathed loudly through the narrow opening at the bottom of the door. There was a yawn; he snorted heavily through the opening. A laugh, and a voice "Hullo, old alarm clock; on time again." Together man and dog padded to the bathroom, but the dog remained outside. Bathrooms, he had learned, were no places for dogs, for doors had an unpleasant habit of closing of themselves, imprisoning the explorer. They were, therefore, to be avoided.

Shamus and His Dog Friends.

There were occasional times when the master took his old hat off the rack in the hall. A hat shapeless from exposure to rain and sun and wind, and all the weather that blows. When that happened there was tumult and racket and all manner of wild noises, and great times in the open to follow. With undying hope Shamus watched his master each morning, hope that slowly ceased away as if out at the end of a dropping tail when another hat was taken. Then it was he would abruptly turn, enter the drawing room, and from a chair watch the form of the man disappear down the street. Half an hour later he was free to set out for adventure. The mornings were always promising. There was a change that the Cairn terrier might escape the servants in the big house in the next street and have an hour or more of freedom. Failing him there was a bull terrier of questionable ancestry with whom he has established friendly relations, and a young Airedale, awkward and disproportionate of leg, was but one of half a dozen other dogs to be encountered.

It was the Cairn, perky in his freedom, whom he met, and together they made for the field where houses were fast springing up. Here was newly sawn wood with an alluring scent, there were breakfast scraps from the workmen, shells of houses in which to play a glorious game, and beyond was a shallow brook where they could trace a sometime presence of water rats, though they never glimpsed these wily people. Still, it was great fun to splash about the water, to lie in the shallows to dry themselves in strenuous rough and tumble work in the fields afterwards. It was play that tired the Cairn soon this morning, and with a tail that told of weariness he made for home.

A Friendly Call on Baby.

Shamus, drifting homeward also, found a warm spot in the sun in his own gate, and, stretching himself along the pavement, kept an eye on the street. He knew, when a door banged, that Mrs. Mason was starting out on her shopping. She was one of the inhabitants of the street he endured, and stolidly suffered her when she stopped and patted his head. He was more interested in what was happening across the way. It was a perambulator that came poking out of a gate, with a nursemaid, and he strolled across to meet them. His forepaws were on the side of the vehicle, his ears pricked. There was a laughing crow, a tiny hand, grasping air, dropped on his cold nose, and the little fingers sought to close on it. He licked them, his tail wagging, until the girl shooed him off. He padded back to the gate. Presently the street was empty. The clink of trowel on brick was the only sound in the quiet air, and it soothed him. The sun was warm. He dropped his head on his paws and slept.

Shamus Resents Intruders.

What little drift of wind warned him that his enemy was coming would have registered nothing to human senses, but it brought the dog instantly to his feet, teeth baring, hair rising, legs held stiffly. As if on stilts, he moved along to where a lean brown dog was emerging from a narrow entry into the street, a dog which moved stealthily, which is not the manner of honest dogs, and bluecing about it furtively. There had been encounters between the two, beginning with a fight of which the street still talks. The postman is the best authority to quote. He tells the story vigorously and with appreciation.

"Aye, it wor a reight fight, an' all," he will explain. "I saw it all, an' wouldn't ha' missed it. Shamus had joined me, as he allus does, an' when we'd gotten to his gate there wor that brown cur digging up bones in the garden."

From which it would appear that the brown dog had committed the unforgivable and unforgettable sin of raiding another's treasury.

"Well," to quote the postman further, "Shamus rolled him over i' no time. They brake through t' fence into t' next gardens, fought across t' entry and into t' next garden, find a toothwore, and finished i' t' parson's garden seven houses off. Then t' brown 'un went, and could hardly turn t' corner, he wor going that fast."

Dinner Time in Dogland.

There was no fight this morning; the brown fellow had too good a start, and seeing it was hopeless Shamus returned. On his way back he caught a fresh scent, and had his cat well treed when footsteps sent him flying into the street again to meet his master. Together they entered the house. Shamus flung himself across the hearth, his posture suggesting weariness, but eye and ear alert. The noise of plates told him that the midday meal was served. He rose and shoved a cold nose reminderfully against his master's hand. A well-spent morning.

NORTHERN CARIBOU CHANGING HABITS

Are Increasing Rather Than Decreasing in Numbers Count Tolstoi Believes.

Fires and the slow creeping in of civilization are responsible for the changes in the habits of the immense herds of caribou that roam the Barren Lands according to Count Ilia Tolstoi, grandson of the great philanthropist and writer, who reached Winnipeg over the Canadian National Railways after nearly five months in the wilderness of the North West Territories. Count Tolstoi was in charge of the expedition sponsored by the American Museum of Natural History to study the migration of the caribou. He was accompanied by Horace Ashman and W. J. Casel, photographer. When Count Tolstoi and Mr. Casel reached Winnipeg from The Pas with them was George Yandle, Arctic trapper, who has not seen civilization for fifteen years, his first reaction to it was a pair of fancy spats with zippers.

"The caribou of the Barrens have made more changes in their habits in the past three years than they have done for a century," Count Tolstoi said. Some scientists and old timers were of the opinion that the herds were decreasing, but he believed that they were increasing, but were moving farther away in their great sweeping circles; on this trip he saw herds numbering thousands of heads but the big herd did not come within the ken of the explorers. Count Tolstoi strongly advocates the use of airplanes for the study of caribou migration.

The party left Winnipeg for the North on August 14th and went from Sturgeon Landing a thousand miles by water as far as Reindeer, Neullin and Windy Lakes; ninety-seven portages were necessary.

The return was made with dogs bought from the Eskimo. "Wonderful animals these Eskimo dogs," said Tolstoi. "I am taking five of them back with me to New York. We did 800 miles with them in, about a month and after two days rest made the 40 miles from Sturgeon Landing to The Pas in seven and a half hours." There were no misadventures on the long trip into the wilds.

The most humorous incident was probably the reception of 18 Eskimo trappers in the small tent and a debauch of raisins and chocolate.

Count Tolstoi, who came to America to study animal husbandry at Ames Iowa has no ambitions in literature. "I dare not with a name like mine," he says. He likes the outdoors and hopes to give his life to exploration and particularly the study of animals. Some day he hopes to get back into the Barrens to spend two or three years studying the fascinating caribou.

"I believe there are great possibilities in them," he says. "They are as tame as sheep and should be easily domesticated. We were able to obtain excellent motion pictures of them."

NEW STAMPS ARE ISSUED BY CANADA

Canada's new pictorial stamp issue was completed when the four larger denominations went on sale Tuesday. The stamps are stated by post office officials to be regarded by philatelists as the finest produced in any country. Each section of Canada is represented. The one dollar stamp carries a picture of the Parliament Building and is significant of the central part of the country. For the Maritimes the 50-cent denomination shows the schooner Bluenose winning the international fisherman's race. The Quebec Bridge appears on the 12-cent stamp. The Prairies are typified in the 20-cent stamp by a picture of a western wheatfield. The ten-cent stamp bears a representation of a mountain in British Columbia with totem poles on the border.

The lower denominations carry the Kings head. All numerals are larger than in previous issues. The stamps are stated to be among the finest examples of the engraver's art. Under the microscope the windows in the Parliament Buildings may be counted, and figures of horses in the British Columbia stamp, though much smaller than a pin head, are replete with detail.

The Bell Telephone Company and the Northern Electric

THE relationship between the Bell Telephone Company and the Northern Electric Company is direct and definite. It consists of—

1. ownership—the telephone company controls the Northern Electric by owning 51 per cent of Northern Electric shares.
2. contract—the telephone company has a contract with the Northern Electric by which the latter sells equipment to the telephone company at favorable prices.

The telephone company thus has direct control of its source of supplies. Without control there would be constant risk of being forced to pay high prices for apparatus or of being unable to secure consistent standard of equipment.

If either of these conditions prevailed the result would be higher rates or poor service for telephone users.

Apart from this protection there are two definite results secured. These are: first, dividends; second, low prices.

1. dividends from Northern Electric

THE Northern Electric has developed from a small beginning to an outstanding Canadian success.

In 1928 its total business was more than $25,000,000 which is four times its business in 1914.

48 per cent of this total was with the Bell Telephone Company. 11 per cent was with other telephone companies and 41 per cent was in general electrical business in Canada and abroad.

In all this total of success the Bell Telephone Company participates as majority shareholder. 51 per cent of all dividends paid by the Northern Electric have come back to the telephone company's revenues.

In the fifteen years since the Northern Electric was incorporated the telephone company has received from it in dividends over two-and-a-half million dollars.

These have contributed to operate the system in place of equal sums subscribers would otherwise be called on to pay.

The dividends paid by Northern Electric represent an average annual return of only 5.7 per cent on the capital stock, surplus earnings having been devoted consistently to extend plant and equipment.

2. low prices from Northern Electric

THE contract between these two companies stipulates that the prices which the Bell Telephone Company pay for equipment shall be as low as, or lower than, the lowest prices paid to Northern Electric by its other customers.

The other customers of Northern Electric include every telephone system of importance in Canada and business from them has been secured in open competition with British and American manufacturers.

It is thus the lowest price level of this competitive business which governs the prices paid by the Bell Telephone Company.

The Board of Railway Commissioners in 1926 made a detailed inquiry into these prices and their judgement was that "—the agreement and supplementary agreement which govern their relations are distinctly advantageous to the Bell Telephone Company."

Proof of this is seen in comparing costs of building the telephone system and rates paid by subscribers with those of other systems.

The average cost of building other systems in Canada, England, Brazil and the United States has been $227 per telephone. The cost in Ontario and Quebec has been $189 per telephone, or 17 per cent less than the average.

And the rates which telephone users pay in Ontario and Quebec are the lowest in the world for comparable service.

A large factor in obtaining these low costs and low rates has been the arrangement and relationship between the Bell Telephone Company and the Northern Electric Company.

Reduced by Asthma. The constant strain of asthma brings the patient to a dreadful state of hopeless exhaustion. Early use should by all means be made of the famous Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, which more than any other acts quickly and surely on the air passages and brings blessed help and comfort. No home where asthma is present in the least degree should be without this great remedy.

An American was prowling around a Scottish churchyard. His eyes caught an epitah, "Lord, she was thin."

"Say, sexton, what dye think of that?" he asked.

"That's all right, sir; the sculptor went over near the edge of the stone and did na leave room for the 'e'."

Miller's Worm Powders, being in demand everywhere, can be got at any chemist's or drug shop, at very small cost. They are a reliable remedy for worm troubles and can be fully relied upon to expel worms from the system and abate the sufferings that worms cause. There are many mothers that rejoice that they found available so effective a remedy for the relief of their children.

He went to the club, leaving with his wife a lady friend whose activities as a scandal-monger were well-known in the neighborhood. When he returned he poked his head round the door and said: "That old cat's gone, I suppose?" There was a most dreadful silence, in which he encountered a stony glare from the lady in question; then his wife said sweetly, "Oh, yes, dear; I sent it to the cat's home in a basket the first thing this morning."

Two lawyers, when a knotty case was over,
Shook hands, and were as good friends as before.
"Say," cried the losing client, "how come you
To be such friends, who were such foes just now?"
"Thou fool," one answers, "lawyers, tho' so keen

Sweet and palatable, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is acceptable to children, and it does its work surely and promptly.

A man mortgaged his home to buy an automobile. Then he went around and tried to mortgage the car to get money to build a garage.

"How are you going to buy gas?" curiously inquired the man of whom the loan was asked.

"Well," replied the other slowly, "if I own a house, a car and a garage, I should think any dealer would be willing to trust me for gas."

A Remedy For Earache. — To have the earache is to endure torture. The ear is a delicate organ and few care to deal with it, considering it work for a doctor. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil offers a simple remedy. A few drops upon a piece of lint or medicated cotton and placed in the ear will do much in relieving pain.

A young lady from Paris was visiting New York, and one day she wanted to buy an sponge pour la bain —a bath sponge—and she inquired of her hostess how she should ask for it in the shop.

"Ask," her hostess said, "for a big bath sponge to take home with you."

So the young lady visited a fashionable drug store and walked up to a good looking young salesman, and smiled prettily and said:

"Ref you please, will you kindly take me home and geeve me a beeg sponge bath?"

The Many Purpose Oil.—Both in the house and stable there are scores of uses for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Use it for cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, the pains of rheumatism and sciatica, sore throat and chest. Horses are liable very largely to similar ailments and mishaps as afflict mankind, and are equally amenable to the healing influence of this fine old remedy which has made thousands of firm friends during the past fifty years.

A teacher in a local Sunday School was testing her scholars' knowledge of the Ten Commandments. Coming to the last one. "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house; thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife," the teacher asked:

"Can anyone tell me why Moses wrote down house before wife?"

"Because a house is harder to get," replied one of the boys.

Thousands of Mothers Use No Other Medicine

Baby's Own Tablets Are The Ideal Remedy for Babies and Young Children.

Canadian mothers are noted for the care they give their little ones—the health of the baby is most jealously guarded and the mother is always on the lookout for a remedy which is efficient and at the same time absolutely safe. Thousands of mothers have found Baby's Own Tablets a remedy in Baby's Own Tablets and many of them use nothing else for the ailment of their little ones. Among them is Mrs. Howard King, of Truro, N.S., who says:—"I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers of young children as I know of nothing to equal them for little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

age, enfolding his own finale as he spoke and making as if to draw it.

"No," said I, master of the situation as I meeded to be, "there will be no more fighting over the dead body of Sir Geoffrey. You and Lord Lufdon can settle your differences elsewhere."

On second thought, there will be no further settlement," said Luftdon, regaining his coolness and thrusting back into its scabbard his half drawn blade. "His grave and I are in too many things to make a permanent difference between us possible."

"I thought so," I replied.

"By gad," laughed Luftdon, "I like your spirit, lad! Who are you and what are you?"

"The late gardener's son."

"Do they breed such as you down here in these gardens?"

"As to that I know not, my lord. I am a sailor. I have commanded my own ship and made my own fortune. I come back here between cruises because I am devoted to"—

"The woman?" sneered the duke. And I marveled at the temerity of the man, seeing that I could have choked him to death with one hand.

"Mention her name again," I cried, "and you will be beside your victim yonder!"

"Right!" said Luftdon approvingly.

"I come back here because I am fond of the old place; it is my home. My people have served the Wilberforces for generations. Their forbears and mine lie together in the churchyard around the hill yonder. You can't understand devotion like that," said I, turning to the duke, "and it is not necessary that you should."

"And indeed what is necessary for me, pray?" he sneered.

"That you leave the place at once."

"Without speech with my lady?"

"Without speech with any one. There is a good inn at the village. I will take it upon myself to see that your servants pack your mails and follow you there at once."

"I will not be ordered about like this!" protested the duke.

"Oh, yes, you will," said Luftdon. "The advice he gives is good. We have nothing more to do here. Don't be a fool, Arrester. You have got everything you wanted in this game, and it is only just that one should pay a little for it. What's your name, my man?"

"Never mind what it is."

"Are you ashamed of it?"

"Hampdon?"

"Hampdon, you may not be a gentleman," said Luftdon, "but by gad you are game, and were I a prince of it"

He had played a man's part so I clasped it.

And so they went down the path, leaving me not greatly relishing my triumph, for I had to tell Mistress Lucy all that had happened.

The scarlet of my lady's riding coat as she galloped up the tree covered road attracted my attention. I quickened my pace, and we arrived at the steps of the hall at the same instant. She was alone, for she had evidently chosen to ride unaccompanied.

I stood silent before her with that curious dumbness I generally experience when first entering her presence, while she drew rein sharply. She was a little thing compared to me—indeed, small compared even to the average woman, but in one sense she was the biggest thing I had ever confronted. I was almost afraid of her! I who feared nothing else. What she thought of me was of little moment to her.

It was Mistress Lucy's regular habit to take a morning gallop every day. It was that usual custom that caused her to look so fresh and young and beautiful, that put the color in her cheek and the sparkle in her eye.

She nodded carelessly, yet kindly, to me. It was her habit, that careless kindness. When she was a little girl and I had been a great boy we had played together familiarly, but that was long since over. Then she looked about for a groom. The steps that led to the terrace were deserted. Sir Geoffrey of late had grown slack in the administration of affairs on account of his troubles, and no one was present. Mistress Lucy stared at me, frowning

CHAPTER II.

Wherein I Break the News.

"MASTER HAMPDON," said Mistress Lucy at last, "since nobody else seems to be about, suppose you attempt the task."

She loosed her little foot from the stirrup and thrust it out toward me. I am nothing of a horseman. I was very early sent to sea, and I have a sailor's awkwardness with horses. Naturally, I did not know how it ought should be dismounted. I stepped over to her, seized her about the waist with both hands, lifted her bodily from the saddle and set her down gently on the grave. She looked at me very queerly and gave a faint shriek as her weight came upon my arms. Indeed, I have no doubt that I held her tightly.

"I dare say there is not a man among my father's friends or mine who could have done that, Master Hampdon," said she smiling a little and looking flushed and excited.

"'Tis a great feat," said I stupidly enough. "I have lifted bigger"—

"Women?" flashed out Mistress Lucy, slightly frowning up at me.

"Things," I replied.

"It amazes me," she said. "I have never been dismounted that way before. However, you always were stronger than most men, even as a boy. There seems to be no groom about. The pixie is wretchedly served. Will you take my horse to the stables?" she asked me.

There was a certain flattery to me in that request. If I had not shown her how strong I was in all probability she would have thrown me the bridle and, with a nod toward the stables to indicate her wishes, would have left me without a word.

"Have you seen my father this morning?" she asked as I paused before her.

As luck would have it, while she spoke a sleepy groom came round the house. I flung the reins to him, bade him take the horse away and turned to my lady.

"Madam," said I, my voice thickening and choking, "I have seen your noble father this morning."

There was something in my voice and manner, great enough food that I was, that instantly supposed her that something was wrong. With one swift step she was by my side

"Where?"

"In the spinney."

"What does he there at this hour?"

"Nothing."

"I don't understand."

"Sir Geoffrey,"— I began, racking my brains what to say next and how to convey the awful tidings.

She made a sudden step or two in my direction, then turned toward the coppice, her suspicions fully aroused.

But now I ventured upon a familiarity—that is, I turned and caught her arm.

"I will see him myself," she began resentfully.

"Madam," said I swiftly, "you can not."

"Master Hampdon," she said, "something dreadful has happened"

I nodded.

This was breaking it gently with a vengeance, but what could I do? She always did twist me around her little finger, and I was always more or less helpless before her. I admit that, I am still, for that matter, although she will not have it so.

"What is it? Is my father—what is he doing in the spinney? He never rises at this hour!"

"Mistress Wilberforce," I said, "you come of a brave stock, and the time for your courage is now."

"Is my father dead?" she asked, after a sudden, awful stillness.

I nodded while she stared at me like one possessed.

"Killed in a duel?" she whispered I shook my head.

"Mistress," said I, "he died by his own hand."

"Oh, my God!" she cried, clapping her hands to her face and reeling back.

I caught her about the waist. She had no knowledge that she was held or supported. Of course, all her interest and attention were elsewhere. She did not weep or give way otherwise. She was a marvelous woman, and her self mastery and control amazed me, for I knew how she had loved her father.

"When? Why?" she gasped out.

"I was early awake," I answered—and I did not tell her it was my habit to see her gallop off for that morning ride—"and I heard a shot in the spinney. I hurried there and found Sir Geoffrey"—

"Let us go to him."

"No," said I. And I marveled to find myself assuming the direction of affairs, as I had been on the deck of my own ship, "that you cannot. It is no sight for your eyes. I was coming to the castle to tell you and to send the servants to bring him. Meanwhile you go into the hall and summon your women and"—

"I will do what you say, Master Hampdon," she whispered, and very forlorn, very despairing. "My father! My dear, good father!"

She turned, and I, still supporting her, we mounted the steps of the terrace. Suddenly she stopped, freed her self and faced me.

"Lord Luftdon and the Duke of Arcester," she explained, "they are staying at the castle. They must be notified."

"Madam," said I, "they already know it."

"And why, then, have they left the duty of telling me to you? Where are they? Summon them at once!"

"They are gone." I blustered out, my rage at the duke reviving.

"Gone!"

"Having won everything from Sir Geoffrey, they have left him alone to his death!" I retorted bitterly.

"Impossible!"

"I ordered them off the place," I said bluntly.

"You?" she flashed out imperiously. "And who gave you the power to dismiss—my father's friends?"

"I heard what they said, being hidden myself."

"And what did they say?"

"It concerned you, mistress."

"The Duke of Arcester," she promptly began, "is my betrothed husband. I will hear no calumny against him."

"Madam," I said, "your engagement is broken."

"Broken!" she cried in amaze.

"The duke declared himself too poor to marry the penniless child of a disgraced man—his words, but mine, believe me."

She turned so white and reeled so that I caught her again. I even shook her while I cried roughly:

"You must not give way."

"It is a lie, a dastardly lie!" she panted out at last.

"It is God's truth," said I. "He repudiates you."

"No man could be so base," she persisted. "He swore that he loved me."

"I would it were otherwise, madam, but he is gone, leaving that message for you."

"And he made you his messenger?"

"I volunteered."

"Why? Why?"

"Because he is a low coward."

"And you stood by and let him insult me, your patron's daughter, your mistress?"

I told her what had happened in the spinney.

"In all that," she said in a certain strained way, "you acted as a loyal servitor of the house, and I thank you."

"I am to give orders to have his baggage sent to the inn at once," said I.

"And Lord Luftdon?"

"He came to your defense as if he were still the gentleman he had once been. But he owes heme with his friend. His baggage will also follow him."

"I will attend to that for them both," said Mistress Lucy, growing strangely and firmly resolved again, and even I could sense the tremendous constraint she put upon herself. "Knought of Arcester. I am well rid of him and of his companions. Summon the servants to bring my father's body to the castle. I suppose the coroner will have to be notified."

"Yes," said I; "I will attend to that."

"Of all my friends," said she ruefully, "you seem to be the only one left, Master Hampdon."

"I have been your faithful servant always, Mistress Lucy," I answered as I ordered her into the hall.

I delivered my little mistress to her woman, who came at my call, and then I summoned the butler and steward and told them what had happened. In a moment all was confusion. They brought the body of Sir Geoffrey back to the castle, which was no longer his. As the duke had said, it was mortgaged to its full value. Everything that he could get his hands on had been sacrificed to his passion for play.

After the inquest and after a due interval for decent respect for the dead there was a great funeral, of course, during which what little ready money there was available was of necessity spent. The gentry came for miles around. Even Luftdon was there in the background, although Arcester had the decency to keep away. I was there, too, finding a place among the upper servants of the household. I happened to be immediately back of Mistress Lucy. From under her veil she shot a furtive, grateful look at me as she came in.

Sir Geoffrey, except Mistress Lucy, was the last of his race. The brave, old Wilberforces at last been reduced to this one slender slip of a girl. Kith or kin, save of the most distant, she had none, nor did she enjoy much acquaintance. She had never been formally introduced to society. Sir Geoffrey had loved her and had been kind enough to her in his careless, offhand way, but she had been left much alone since the death of her mother some years before, and she had grown up under the care of governesses and tutors. The neighboring gentry had assembled with much show of sympathy, but I knew that Mistress Lucy felt very much alone, and I rather gloried in the position which made me, humble though I was, her friend.

It was over soon enough—the show and parade. No one spoke to me save Lord Luftdon.

A Stomach Restorer

Good Advice From One Who Had Suffered Much

Discomfort after eating, gas pains in the intestinal tract, pains around the heart, sour risings in the throat called heartburn, are common symptoms of dyspepsia. It is a condition often neglected until it has done permanent harm, yet the treatment is simple. The gravest contributing cause to this trouble is thin blood. Good blood and plenty of it is required by the stomach to function properly. If the blood is thin the stomach becomes sluggish, food lies undigested, gas forms causing pains, often around the heart. Instead of getting nourishment from the blood the system gets poison. The proper treatment is to enrich the blood, and there is no other medicine can do this as promptly or as effectively as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The sole mission of these pills is to make new, rich, red blood, which reaches every organ and nerve in the body, and does not only banish indigestion and dyspepsia, but also all other troubles having their origin in weak, watery blood.

The splendid results following the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is shown by the case of Mrs. Lucy Hodgkins, a former resident of Dorcept, N.S., but now living with her son at West Bethel, Me. Mrs. Cushing says: "I have no hesitation in strongly recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For years I was a great sufferer from indigestion. Always after eating I suffered from pain in my stomach and other distressing symptoms that accompany this ailment. I tried different doctors while residing at my old home and also at West Bethel, but without getting relief. I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so and I must say that I felt from the very first day I started to use the good friend who gave me the advice. I soon found the pills helping me and by the time I had taken nine or ten boxes, I was completely restored to good health. Though I am now in my 76th year I am feeling as well and smart as I did at 25, and am enjoying life once more."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BEATING THE TRAIN AT THE CROSSING

Those who are tempted to drive recklessly over railways should read, mark and learn a short paragraph contained in the report of Hon. Frank Oliver to the Railways Commission concerning grade crossing fatalities.

"In nearly every instance inquiry has disclosed that these fatalities have been caused by attempts by motorists to beat out the locomotive."

This report was made after careful study into the circumstances surrounding crossing accidents. Despite all safety first propaganda astounding carelessness is still shown daily. Joy riders are not diminishing, nor are there any statistics in evidence giving hope that the man at the wheel is realizing the tragic fact that lack of care not only imperils his own life but the lives of other trusting human beings, who, believing in his skill and ability, have entrusted their safety to him. It is incomprehensible how motorists will persist in trying to "beat the locomotive." Innumerable instances are in evidence as to the tragedy of such folly. Coroners' juries are constantly bringing in verdicts that much greater care ought to be exercised by those issuing driving licenses. Obviously there must either be laxity on the part of many officials of the rules guiding them, or the rules themselves must be inadequate. There must be redoubled effort on the part of organizations which preach care on the part both of drivers and pedestrians

Annual Collegiate Concert.

The annual concert which has been postponed twice, will be held in the Collegiate Gymnasium and Assembly Room on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, at 8 o'clock. The program in the gymnasium will consist of calisthenics, dances, Indian club swinging and apparatus work. In the Assembly Room the musical part of the program will be presented by the Orchestra, and the Glee Club, while the Dramatic Club will present "The Pound of Flesh", selected from the play "The Merchant of Venice".

Basketball.

On Friday evening last the local Collegiate boys were defeated in their opening basketball game by Albert College. The score, which was 15-8, is a fair indication of the class of basketball played, and which made the game a very interesting one for the spectators. The visitors adopted a defensive style of play which proved invincible to the Napanee boys. The teams were very unevenly matched in weight and height, and while the Napanee defence did excellent work, the forwards were unable to work the ball through the opposing defense who were taller and heavier. The failure of the taller boys of the school to turn out for basketball has weakened the chances of the Napanee team against heavier opponents. The line up for Napanee was :—
Guards—Asselstine and McPadden.
Centre—Kinkley.
Forwards—Robinson and Merritt.
Subs—Deane, Herrington, Oliver and Vick.
Referee—W. J. Barley.

AYLSWORTH RE-UNION

In the year 1788, Bowen Aylsworth, one of the United Empire Loyalists, settled on the farm granted to him by the Crown. This fine old homestead of 200 acres is situated about three miles north of the historic Village of Bath, in the Township of Ernestown, in the County of Lennox.

This farm has always since been owned by descendants of this pioneer, Bowen, by being passed down through successive generations, until today it is owned by David Aylsworth, of Napanee, with his son, David Fraser Aylsworth, occupying it.

Bowen married Hannah Perry, and fifteen children were born to them. Many of these and their descendants have scattered throughout Canada, and some of them to the United States.

Recently some of the descendants met at the home of David Aylsworth, in Napanee, when it was decided by those present to hold an Aylsworth and connection reunion some time during next summer.

In order to promote and organize this reunion an "Aylsworth Reunion Association" was formed, and the following officers were appointed:—

Honorary President—Hon. Sir Allen Aylsworth, K.C., K.C.M.G., Toronto, Ont.

President—David Aylsworth, Thomas Street, Napanee, Ont.

Secretary—Fraser Aylsworth, Madoc, Ont.

Advisory Committee—David Fraser Aylsworth, Bath, Ont.; Morley Aylsworth, London, Ont.; Dr. Ralph Aylsworth, Trenton, Ont.; W. R. Aylsworth, Reeve Kingston Township, Cataraqui, Ont.; Mrs. Emma Burritt "Yellow Gables," Napanee, Ont.; Mrs. William Deroche, Napanee, Ont.; Mr. B. George Hamm, Odessa, Ont.; with power to add.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Lowry.

One of Napanee's best known and much respected residents passed away on Friday last, in the person of Mrs. John Lowry, at the advanced age of 84 years. Although the deceased had been in poor health for a number of years, her illness was of the short duration of ten days only.

The late Mrs. Lowry, whose maiden name was Connelly, was a life long resident of this town and county. Her husband, who predeceased her about five years ago, was prominent in municipal affairs, he being a member of the Council for many years, then Reeve, and was then elected Mayor for two terms.

The late Mrs. Lowry, who had a host of friends, was a faithful member and attendant at Trinity United Church. She leaves to mourn her loss one son, Joseph, of Montreal, and two daughters, Mrs. William Burns, New York City, and Mrs. E. J. Pollard, of Napanee.

The funeral service was held at the family residence on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. James Gonu.

After an illness of but two days God called to her rest on December 27th, 1928, one of Selby's oldest citizens, Katherine Pile, beloved wife of James Gonu. Had she lived until February 8th Mrs. Gonu would have been ninety years old, but in spite of her advanced years she was able to care for her own house to the last, and had never used glasses, even for reading or sewing. Less than a week before her death she and her husband went to the home of their daughter, Mrs. F. L. Amey, to spend the rest of the winter. On Tuesday Mrs. Gonu was taken ill with influenza, and in spite of loving care she passed away two days later. While of a retiring disposition Mrs. Gonu was a most interesting conversationalist, and delighted in telling of the old days when she came to the thriving Village of Selby over sixty years ago. Mrs. Gonu is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. F. L. Amey, Selby; and a son, Charles, of Bell Rock. Two sons, William and John, predeceased her several years ago. She also leaves two brothers, Dr. A. J. Pile, Amelias-burgh; Charles, Palace Road, and Stanley at the old home, Switzerville Road. The funeral service was held at the house by the Rev. H. W. Foley, of the United Church.

Norma Joycelyn Frizzell.

Deepest sympathy goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frizzell in the loss of their daughter, Norma Joycelyn, aged ten months, who died on Friday, January 4th, 1929, of acute bronchitis. Besides the sorrowing parents the baby leaves eight uncles and seven aunts, also one grandfather. The funeral was held from her parents' residence on Saturday, January 5th, at 2 p.m., and was largely attended. The remains were placed in the vault for interment next spring. The pallbearers were Messrs. Patrick Whalen, Patrick Way, Tommy Hinch and Martin Shea.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Volney Woods.

One of the saddest deaths recorded here in some time, occurred at three o'clock Friday morning, Jan. 11th, 1929, when Marjorie C. Meyers, beloved wife of Mr. Volney Woods, of Robbin, passed away to the Great Beyond.

The deceased, who was 32 years of age, contracted a severe cold a few weeks ago, which later developed into pneumonia. During the past week she was attended by three nurses, and everything that human agency could do to resist the dread disease was done, but of no avail.

The late Mrs. Woods was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyers, and was born at Hawley, which is about seven miles from Napanee.

A few years ago her parents, disposing of their farm, came to Napanee to reside, and shortly after the deceased went to New York to train for a nurse. After graduating she returned later to Napanee, where she followed her chosen profession with much success until her marriage to Mr. Woods, a few years ago. Since her marriage she, with her husband, resided in Roblin.

Her death has cast a gloom over the whole community in which she lived and beloved by a wide circle of friends. She was a member of Napanee Chapter, No. 151, Order of the Eastern Star, and was always ready to assist in every way the social activities of the Order.

Besides her bereaved husband and parents, she leaves to mourn her loss an only sister, Agnes, to whom the sympathy of the entire community is extended.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyers, Bridge street. Although the funeral was of a private nature the home was filled with relatives and friends from Napanee, Hawley, and Roblin. About twenty members from Napanee Chapter, No. 151, Order of the Eastern Star, were present. A very appropriate and feeling eulogy was given by Rev. A. H. Oliver, of the Roblin United Church. The floral tributes were beautiful, representing the relatives, friends and fraternal societies. Following the service the cortege proceeded to Riverview cemetery, where the interment took place.

James Stark

A former well known and highly respected resident of Napanee passed away at his home in Mitchellton, Sask., on Tuesday morning, January 8th, 1929, after an illness of eight weeks of pneumonia.

Deceased, who, with his family, resided in Napanee for many years, went West in 1909 and homesteaded. He made such a success of his venture that two years ago he sold out there, and they have successfully carried on farming until at the present time they have about five hundred acres of land, two-thirds of which is under cultivation.

The remains were brought to Napanee on Saturday last, accompanied by his sons, William and Robert. A short service was held at Mastegs & Tierney's funeral parlors, after which the casket was placed in Riverside vault, interment taking place on Monday afternoon.

Deceased, who was in his sixty-ninth year, leaves a widow and two sons, William and Robert, to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father.

The many friends of the family in Napanee and vicinity extend sincere sympathy to the bereaved ones in their irreparable loss.

Peter Windover.

There passed peacefully away at his home in Marlbank, on Friday, Nov. 30th, in his 71st year, Peter D. Windover. Deceased had been ailing for some time past, and was a great sufferer, although he was able to be around by times until the past two months. Besides a widow, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. F. D. Knoll, of Marlbank; also three step-children, Mrs. A. Busby, of Port Colborne; Raymond Young, of Port Colborne, and Fraser Young, of Strathcona. The funeral took place at West Plain United Church, on Sunday, Dec. 2nd, which was conducted by Rev. Mr. Oliver, and was largely attended.

FARM FOR SALE

10% Cash—Balance in 25 Years

The Soldier Settlement Board of Canada offers for sale by Public Tender, 86½ acres, pts Lots 38 and 39, Concession 4, Township of Ernestown, County of Lennox and Addington. The purchaser of this property must rely on his own inspection and knowledge of the farm and not on the above or any other particulars or representations made verbally or in writing by employees of the Soldier Settlement Board. Terms of sale are 10 per cent. of the purchase price in cash on acceptance of the tender, and the balance in twenty-five equal annual instalments, with interest at 6 per cent. per annum on the months-in-principal. Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque for $100. If tender is accepted, this sum will be credited to the purchase price of the land. If tender is not accepted the money will be returned to the tenderer. Tenders will be opened at Toronto, Ont., on February 25th, 1929. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. If the land is not sold on the date above mentioned, the Board will be prepared to receive offers to purchase until such time as it is finally disposed of. Tenders should be in plain envelopes marked "Tender for the purchase of 86½ acres, pts. Lots 38 and 39, Con. 4, Township of Ernestown, County of Lennox and Addington." COLLEGIATE ANNUAL CONCERT

In spite of the heavy rains on Thursday and Friday evenings, the gymnasium and assembly room of the Collegiate were well filled at each performance of the annual concert. Those who attended felt well repaid for the inconvenience caused by the disagreeable weather, as every number of the long program was well given.

In the gymnasium, the girls, under the tuition of Miss McLaughlin, gave a number of excellent dances. The "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" and the "Irish Lilt" were done in suitable costumes, while in the other numbers the girls were dressed in the Collegiate blue middy and skirt which is fast gaining popularity at the school. The school swinging by the senior girls was much appreciated. The boys' gymnastic class, with Mr. Barley as instructor, gave an exhibition of calisthenics, tumbling and apparatus work which received hearty applause. The boys are more or less limited in the type of work they can give in the gymnasium, and while most of it had been seen in the preceding years, the audience appreciated the enthusiasm which the boys displayed.

In the Assembly Hall, the program was musical and dramatic in character. The Orchestra maintained its reputation for providing high class music under the capable leadership of Miss Wilson. The boy's chorus of the Glee Club rendered two selections of a comic nature which contained pleasing harmony. The major part of the program was given up to the presentation of three scenes from "The Merchant of Venice", under the direction of Miss White, the cast were word perfect in their parts, and displayed real dramatic ability. Munro Beattie, as Shylock, gave a wonderful interpretation of the revengeful Jew, while Shirley Colclough delighted the audience with her striking presentation of Portia. Both these parts were long and heavy, and the presentation of both roles showed histronic ability rarely equalled by amateurs. Gordon MacGregor, as Gratiano, won warm applause by his splendid comedy acting, while Ernest Sexsmith was a typical Antonio. Dorothy Wilson as Nerissa, Albert Herrington as Bassanio, Tom Webb as Salanio, Maurice Kinkley as Salarino and William McFadden as Tubal and the Duke rounded out the well balanced cast which have not been excelled for some years. Edith MacMorine gave the narrative connecting the three scenes. The scenery gained much to the play and great credit is due Miss Grange and the stage committee. Mr. Chas. A. Gates, of Kingston, supplied the costumes and make-up which gave a real period setting to the plot of the story. The programme, with names of the pupils taking part follows :—

COUNTY COUNCIL

R. J. CAMPBELL, REEVE OF KALADAR, ANGLESEA AND EFFINGHAM, ELECTED WARDEN

Council met in the Council Chamber, in the Court House, on Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. W. G. Swayne, Bath, opened the session with prayer.

Mr. R. J. Campbell, Reeve of Kaladar, Anglesea and Effingham, was unanimously elected Warden for 1929.

His Honor Judge Madden installed the newly elected Warden, after which Mr. Campbell thanked the Council for the honor conferred upon him and his municipality, and hoped with the hearty assistance of the members, to faithfully discharge the duties of the office.

Congratulations were extended to the new Warden by ex-Wardens Johnson and Tummon, and the members of the County Council.

Moved by Messrs. Tummon and Clark, that the Reeves of North Fredericksburgh, South Fredericksburgh, Bath, Richmond, Ernestown, Amherst Island, Napanee, Newburgh and Denbigh, constitute the Roads Committee. Carried.

Messrs. Carscallen and Smith introduced an amendment, that the Roads Committee consist of three members, and be elected in open Council, and consist of the Reeves of Camden, Ernestown and Richmond. Mr. Carscallen submitted figures to show that a considerable saving would be made by appointing but three members. Lost.

Mr. Carscallen asked for the yeas and nays.

Yeas—Messrs. Carscallen, Miller, Judge, McLaughlin, and Smith—5.

Nays—Messrs. Aylesworth, Both, Campbell, Clark, Elliott, Hitchins, Loyst, Johnson, Tummon and Tustin—10.

On motion the Warden and Reeves of Richmond, Sheffield, Napanee, and Adolphustown, were appointed a Committee to take up the claim of Mr. McCutcheon, for damages.

On motion the caretaker was instructed to have the Grand Jury room put in condition for use as a committee room during sessions of Council.

Council adjourned.

COUNTY COUNCIL

Council Chambers,
Napanee, Jan. 21st, 1929.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor Howitt presiding.

Members present—Reeve Tustin, and Councillors Loucks, Daly, Wiseman, Fitzpatrick, Unger, Paul.

The minutes of the last session were read, and on motion were confirmed.

Communications

From the Carters of Napanee, asking that they be given some protection from outside competition.

Moved by Councillor Loucks, seconded by Councillor Unger, that the above matter be referred to the Market and Police Committee, to report to the Council at its next meeting. Carried.

From D. Chambers, applying for the position of caretaker of the Town Hall. He explained to the Council that he was out of work, with the exception of looking after the fire truck, and that if he had other work, such as caretaker of the Town Hall, he could carry on.

Moved by Councillor Paul, seconded by Councillor Unger, that the above communication be left in the hands of the Fire and Water and Town Property Committees, to report. Carried.

From J. M. Simpson, asking damages for injuries sustained by Mr. Benj. Johnston, through falling on an icy walk.

On motion the above communication was referred to the Streets Committee, to investigate and report.

Reports

Councillor Daly, Chairman of the Finance Committee, reported that the programme for the radio concert over CKGW, Toronto, from 10 to 11 o'clock on Wednesday evening, January 23rd, had been completed. Those taking part will be Misses Mary Daly and Mary McGrath, and Mr. Reginald Wiseman. There will also be a five-minute address.

Councillor Daly further reported that two weeks from tonight he will bring in a statement of the Clerk of the condition of the finances of the town, and asked the committees to go easy on expenditures, until that report is presented.

On motion the report was adopted.

Councillor Unger, Chairman of Streets, reported that they had encountered some trouble with surface water during the storm, but the expense had been light.

On motion the report was adopted.

Councillor Paul, Chairman of Fire and Water, reported that he had intended to have a statement of the requirements of the fire brigade for 1929 to lay before the Council at this meeting, but, owing to illness, he had been unable to do so. He would present the same at the next meeting.

On motion the report was adopted.

Councillor Paul, Chairman of Printing, By-Laws and Parks, reported that he had received a price of $190 for the printing of the minutes of the Town Council in pamphlet form, which could be handed around at the close of business for the year.

Moved by Councillor Paul, seconded by Councillor Daly, that the minutes of the Town Council be printed in pamphlet form. Carried.

Councillor Wiseman, Chairman of Town Property, said he would have a report for next meeting.

Reeve Tustin, Chairman of Market and Police, reported everything very quiet. He referred to the matter of a place for the carters to stand, and said that Mr. Aselstine complained that the carters would not stay on the west side of the Campbell House yard, and if they did not do so they would have to find a new stand. Mr. Aselstine also asked for the rental fee of $30.00 for last year.

Moved by Councillor Paul, seconded by Councillor Pitzpatrick, that the matter be referred to the Market and Police Committee, with power to act. Carried.

Councillor Fitzpatrick, Chairman of Light and Social Welfare, reported that he did not know there were so many poor people in the town. He thought there should be some employment arranged for all able bodied men, such as opening up the stone quarry. As far as the lighting system is concerned, he had made a complete survey and thought the town was well lighted, with the exception of Dundas street.

On motion the report was adopted.

Moved by Councillor Paul, seconded by Councillor Daly, that the matter of Fitzpatrick's report, be referred to Streets and Social Welfare Committees, with power to act. Carried.

A by-law appointing Mr. P. Gleeson as a member of the Board of Education, was given its several readings, signed, sealed, numbered and finally passed.

Councillor Wiseman asked what the town's liability is as to slippery streets, which was answered by the Clerk.

Accounts.

Wheeler; 3rd Vice Pres., Mrs. Robert Simpkins; 4th Vice Pres., Miss Verna Kellar; 5th Vice Pres., Miss L. Baker; Secty., Mr. Perry Gerow; Treas., Mr. John Yeomans.

Mrs. M. Clancy, who has been ill, is improving, and returned from Deseronto on Saturday evening, and is now at her home, South Main St.

Mrs. William McGill is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. F. Gerow.

Mr. Fred Sexsmith, of Selby, visited with Mr. Lawrence Dark, on Monday.

The Free Methodist Church received the news of the death of their beloved Bishop Sellew, of Jamestown, New York.

Mrs. R. Nugent, of Wesley, spent last week with her sister, Mrs. W. Baker.

Mr. William Nugent is better, after being ill at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Baker.

On Saturday evening about forty members of the United Church met in the League room to say "Au Revoir" to Mr. Jim Yeomans, who left on Monday for Schenectady. After enjoying a few games, Miss Estella Pero arose and read an address to him, while Miss Shorey, the League President, presented him with a club bag. Mr. Jim Yeomans thanked his friends for their gift. A dainty lunch was served, after which all departed to their homes, wishing Jim every success in his new place of abode.

From February 4th to March 1st, Courses in Agriculture and Home Economics, will be held in the new Hall, Newburgh, under the direction of Mr. A. D. Ritchie, Agricultural Representative, and J. A. Goldie, B.S.A. This is a rare opportunity for the young people of this district. Hours, 9.30 to 12 a.m. and 1.30 to 4 p.m.

We have recently received word of the death of Mrs. Charles Thompson, Toronto, who was for many years a resident of Newburgh. Many friends and relatives in the community will regret to hear of her death.

Mrs. R. McGill, of Centreville, was recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Baker.

Mr. King, of Shannonville, was a guest at the Dunwoody home during the week end.

Miss Annie Gandier visited her brother, Mr. E. Gandier, during the week.

The Rev. Foster Hilliard, B.A., a Missionary Teacher, on furlough from Japan, gave a very interesting and informative address on the Japanese, in the United Church, on Sunday evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Datus Denison, on Wednesday of last week. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Geo. Wartman. Mrs. Ward Wartman gave a splendid address on Citizenship.

The Rev. T. H. P. Anderson attended a meeting of the Home Missions Committee and the Missionary and Maintenance Fund Committee, in Belleville, on Monday a week ago.

Mrs. Hughes entertained a few of her Newburgh friends on Tuesday evening last, when a pleasant time was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vanalstyne, of Palace Road, visited Mr. and Mrs. Parley on Sunday.

Mr. Farley has received news of the death of his nephew, Mr. Roy Dafoe, V.S., of Ogemaw, Mich. Mr. Dafoe was a victim of the flu, and leaves to mourn his loss a widow and five children.

DORLAND

The weather continues very changeable. Sunday's rain and Monday's mild day night washed away what snow had survived the mild weather preceding, and left the ice with water.—The weather on Thursday was very disagreeable for the funeral of the late Wilfred Hart, who passed away at his home on Tuesday evening. Owing to the illness of the Pastor, Rev. J. A. Platt, the service was conducted by Rev. Jas. E. Beckel, of Hay Bay. Mr. Hart leaves to mourn, three sisters, Miss Amanda Hart, Mrs. Robert Sissins and Miss Geraldine Hart, all of Dorland.—Mr. J. B. Allison, who has been ill for the past three weeks, has recovered sufficiently to be moved to the home of his son, Mr. A. W. Allison. —On account of the small number in attendance, on account of roads and weather, the January meeting of the Ladies' Aid was postponed.—Mrs. Allison is glad to learn that Mr. Platt is on the road to recovery, although unable to take his work just yet.—Some little excitement was stirred up on Thursday morning, when an unknown man was found completely along the road. He was taken in charge by Chief Barrett, and it was learned that he was an inmate of Rockwood Hospital.

TAMWORTH

Our Reeve, Mr. A. B. Carscallen, is spending a few days this week in Napanee, attending County Council.—Mrs. Adam Milligan spent two days last week in Kingston, taking treatment for her eyes.—The Young people of the United Church held a social play, entitled "The Road to the City", on Wednesday night, Jan. 30th. If you do not attend this play you will surely miss a great treat. Admission, adults, 35c.—Miss Grace Beckstead is spending a few days with friends in Kingston.—The funeral of the late George Murphy, of Detroit, was held last Tuesday afternoon, in the United Church here.—Misses Madonna Dowling and Patricia Ward spent last Tuesday evening with Miss Mae on Richmond.—We are sorry to lose one of the young ladies of the village, in the person of Miss Della Walters, as she was joined in holy matrimony to Mr. Harry Amey, of Yarker, on Saturday, January 19th.—The Sunday School has been changed from morning to 2 o'clock in the afternoon, during the cold weather.—The United Church service will be held next Sunday at 11 o'clock, as the will be Sacramental Sunday.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Soulful Lady—"There are times, Mr. Simply, when I feel convinced I was on earth in ancient Egypt."

Young Mr. Simply—"Well, I say, y'know, it's jolly rare for a girl to joke about her age like that."

The most obstinate corns fail to resist Holloway's Corn Remover. Try it.

Mrs. Brown rejoiced in her first banking account. When she was paying in for the first time she came to the word "specie" on the slip. She thought for a moment and then entered against it—"Female"!

All mothers can put away anxiety regarding their suffering children when they have Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to give relief. Its effects are sure and lasting.

Jack—"How did you come to marry a girl you didn't particularly care for?"

Tom (gloomily)—"I attribute it to the fact that she wanted me worse than I didn't want her."

Stop the Cough.—Coughing is caused by irritation in the respiratory passages and is the effort to dislodge obstructions that come from inflammation of the mucous membrane. Treatment with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will allay the inflammation and in consequence the cough will usually stop. Try it and you will be satisfied.

A grammar school boy handed in the following composition on "Cats":

"Cats that's made for little boys to maul and tease is called Maultease cats. Some cats is rekernized by how quiet their purs is and these is named Pursian cats. The cats what has very bad tempers is called Angerie cats. And cats with deep feelin's is called Feline cats. I don't like cats."

Its Quality Sells It.—The fact that so many thousands of intelligent people continue to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil speaks volumes for its healing efficiency. Ever since it was first introdroduced it has grown steadily in public favor, owing entirely to its manifold usefulness in relieving and healing sickness. As a specific for cuts, burns, scalds, and various inflammatory pains its record is beyonr reproach.

Senator Borah, discussing an unsatisfactory answer that had been made to a charge of corruption, smiled and said:

"It reminds me of the English butler. His employer said to him:

"Heuston, I bet you've been at my Scotch."

"Hexcuse me, sir," said Heuston, in his haughty way. "Hexcuse me, but I don't bet."

Miller's Worm Powders were devised to promptly relieve children who suffer from the ravages of worms. It is a simple preparation to destroy stomachic and intestinal worms without shock or injury to the most sensitive system. They act thoroughly and painlessly, and though in some cases they may cause vomiting, that is an indication of their powerful action and not of any nauseating property.

Brandon was almost broken-hearted about his heavy losses on the Stock Exchange, but he found there was plenty of sympathy for him at the club.

One member was particularly kind. "Cheer up, old chap!" he cried. "You mustn't worry too much about a little bad luck. Come along to my office in the morning and I'll give you a few pointers."

Brandon, however, was not easily cheered.

"Very kind of you," he began. "But it isn't pointers I'm after; it's retrievers."

Relief From Asthma. Who can describe the complete relief from suffering which follows the use of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy? Who can express the feeling of joy that comes when its soft and gentle influence relieves the tightened, choking air tubes? It has made asthmatic affliction a thing of the past for thousands. It never fails. Good druggists everywhere have sold it for years.

The family doctor had called in a famous physician to hold a consultation. The sister of the patient made up her mind to find out exactly what they had to say about the case, so she secreted herself behind the curtains in the room in which the doctors were to talk the matter over. The two medical men came in and carefully closed the door behind them, and the woman behind the curtains overheard the following conversation: "What do you think of her?" asked the family doctor. The great physician replied: "I think she is the ugliest woman that God ever made." And the family doctor said: "Oh, but you haven't seen her sister."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Dennee.

Fortified by the rites of the Holy Catholic Church, and surrounded by a loving family, there passed to her eternal reward on January 7th, 1929, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Dennee, in her eighty-ninth year, and since her marriage a life-long resident of South Fredericksburgh.

The late Mrs. Dennee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Donnell, was born at Lindsay, Ont., and at an early age moved with her parents to Kingston where her father taught languages. Still her resident there her early marriage with the late John Dennee, of Bath. Death claimed her devoted husband sixteen years previously, and she leaves to mourn a kind and gentle mother, two sons and six daughters, Mrs. F. Duffy, of Hamilton; Mrs. C. D. Brown, of Bath; Mrs. C. J. Coy, of Syracuse; Miss Helena Dennee, of Syracuse; Misses Ethel and Josephine, at home; Mr. Eugene Dennee, of Kingston, and Mr. John Dennee, at home. Another daughter, Sister Mary Veronica (Maud) predeceased her mother some years ago.

The funeral took place from the family residence on Thursday, January 10th, to St. Lucy's Church, Bath, where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Lacey, of Desoronto.

The high esteem in which the deceased was held was evidenced by the many spiritual and floral offerings and kind sympathy extended to the family. R. I. P.

New Health For Tired-Out Women

Found in the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

Anaemia comes on gradually, beginning with languor, indisposition to mental or bodily exertion, irritability and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes the palpitation of the heart, headaches, frequent backaches and often disturbed indigestion and an inability to obtain rest at night. Cases of this kind, if neglected, become more serious, but if taken in time there is no need to worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are free from any harmful or habit-forming drug, are just the tonic needed to remedy this wretched state of health. These pills actually make the rich, red blood that stimulates and strengthens every organ and nerve in the body. Thus strength and activity return, the appetite improves and restful sleep is had. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can and will do is shown by the case of Mrs. D. B. Panning, Seal Harbor, N.S., who says:—"I was in a badly run-down condition. I was pale, my appetite was very poor, and the least exertion would leave me completely tired out. In fact I was hardly able to do much work about the house. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking a few boxes can truthfully say I had gained greatly in health and strength and was able to go about my work with no sign of the former weakness. I cheerfully recommend them to all others who may be in a run-down condition."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

63,669 CANADIANS DIE FROM GREAT WAR

Plaques and Scrolls Issued to Next of Kin Reveal Total.

A total of 63,669 Canadians lost their lives either during the great war or died subsequently from causes directly attributed to war service. This is disclosed in the figures of plaques and scrools that have already been issued from the Department of National Defence, Ottawa, to the next-of-kin of the nation's fatal war casualties. It is more than ten years since hostilities ceased; yet many of those plaques remain unissued, while thousands of war medals continue to repose in the department unclaimed. This situation is not peculiar alone to the Great War; for of 11,900 Canadian Service medals not yet delivered to their owners about 10,000 are for the Fenian Raids of 1866 and 1870, and for the Red River Rebellion of 1870. It is pointed out by G. J. Des Barats, Deputy Minister of National Defence, that only those who received the bounty in connection with the Fenian Raids are entitled to the medal.

With regard to the Great War, the department has issued 376,787 British War medals, 221,624 Victory medals and 73,943 stars (the 1914-1915 star). There remain unclaimed 60,992 War medals, 26,439 Victory medals and 1,789 stars. Additional to these, there are 75 decorations that have not been delivered, including one Distinguished Conduct medal. The others are Military medals and foreign awards.

To the mothers and widows of deceased soldiers there have been issued 60,195 Memorial crosses.

From time to time the department has sought to get in touch with those former service men who are entitled to those medals but who have not yet received them. Postcards are sent to the last given address, urging the men to apply to Ottawa for their medals, but in thousands of cases it is indicated that the men have moved and their present whereabouts are unknown.

USING THERMITE ON ST. LAWRENCE

Burning out of the ice on the St. Lawrence River will be attempted by Dr. Howard T. Barnes with whom the Government has made an agreement, according to an announcement from the Department of Marine and Fisheries the purpose being to free Montreal harbor from the grip of winter earlier than usual, and to prevent the flooding of the country between it and Sorel.

"While the work will be necessarily only in the form of an experiment, its results may be far-reaching," a statement issued from the department says. "The Government is prepared to pay the costs of the work."

While the winter has been comparatively mild up to the present, and the danger from flooding when the ice jams on the fast ice towards the sea is consequently less than during 1928, the effects of Dr. Barnes' experiments will be to prove the practicability of further and future thermite "ice burning."

The work will pe under the personal supervision of Dr. Barnes. No estimate of its cost was made by the department, although it was said that it might cost anywhere from $1000 to $100,000.

DO YOU WANT ORGANIZATION?

Bath, Ont., R.R. No. 1,
January 14th, 1929.

To the Milk Producers,
Patrons of Farmers' Dairy,
Napanee District.

Gentlemen,—You are aware that the Farmers' Dairy has instituted a campaign for milk of a higher standard, and you are also aware of the demands now made. Perhaps you have or have not realized that this is just the thin edge of the wedge, and more regulations are sure to follow. We are only a short time away from the tuberculin test and rigid herd inspection. Now all these things are only in line with the progressive sanitary measures demanded by all large fluid milk consuming centres. It will be futile for us to blame the Farmers' Dairy, but we can rest assured that unless we, the producers, adopt measures and organization to protect our rights, we will get inadequate renumeration and find ourselves with greater investment, more labor to perform and higher costs. The individualism of the past is useless, our personal protests are unheeded, and a large amount of dissatisfaction exists over tests and prices.

There is only one way we can effectually guard our rights, and that is organization, but the problem is to organize. We will be forced to organize finally, for all else is organized with which we deal, so why delay. A start has to be made in all things, so I have taken the responsibility of urging you now.

Do you want organization? If so, will every producer who reads this, write me his views. If sufficient desire is shown, I will proceed to arrange and call a meeting in the Town of Napanee. The situation now rests with you. Tell your neighbor and have him write too.

It is not my desire to malign the Farmers' Dairy in any way, but to so organize ourselves as to have some control of prices in relation to cost.

Respectfully submitted,
W. L. HAIGHT,
Bath, Ont.

Wonderful reports on the results obtained from using Sabadilla Powder for lice on cattle, make us feel confident that this is unquestionably the surest and safest powder known. Farm journals and Government experts advise its use. Finely ground Sabadilla Powder for sale at Wallace's.

Says Ontario Man of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. M. Hay Suffered With Acute Pains in His Back

Stratford, Ont., Jan. 22nd, (Special)—"About four years I suffered with acute pains in my back," writes Mr. M. Hay, 71 Front St., Stratford, Ont. "Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend. I bought a box and found great relief. From that day on I have never been without them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills purify the blood, and pure blood carried to all parts of the body means new health and increased energy all over the body. Dodd's Kidney Pills are an excellent tonic, and now is the opportune time to take them. During the long, weary winter months the system becomes weakened and gets in a run-down condition. Dodd's Kidney Pills work with Nature by encouraging and assisting the kidneys—to cast out everything impure or diseased.

Dodd's Kidney Pills can be obtained from Druggists everywhere, or The Dodds Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto 2, Ont.

ADOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The January meeting of the W. M. S. of the U. E. L. United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Jesse Magee, on Thursday, January 10th. This meeting was to have been held at the home of Mrs. L. Davis, the first week in January, but owing to illness in the family, had to be postponed. The new officers for this year were installed and took charge of the meeting. The officers are:—

President—Miss Hattie Magee.
1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. R. Carr.
2nd Vice Pres.—Mrs. W. J. Magee.
Rec. Sec.—Mrs. L. Davis.
Cor. Secty.—Mrs. R. Humphrey.
Treasurer—Miss Annabel Magee.
Strangers Secty.—Mrs. B. Humphrey.
Supt. Christian Stewardship—Miss Lilian Carr.
Supt. Mite Boxes—Mrs. R. Carr.
Secty. Temperance Education—Miss Audrey Ruttan.
Press Reporter—Miss Margaret Magee.

The meeting opened by singing of a hymn, after which Miss Annabel Magee read the Scripture lesson.

The matter of the sacred drama, entitled "The Crucifixion of the Cross" was discussed, and was decided to be given later, when the community have recovered from ill health. Mrs. A. C. Davis and Miss Margaret Magee were appointed delegates to the Convention to be held in Trenton. The Study Book, "Drums in the Darkness", was omitted, as Mrs. (Rev.) Plant, who had charge of it for this month, was not able to be present.

Mrs. Blake Humphrey then sang a solo very sweetly, after which the following Festivals reported: Literature Work, Mrs. John Humphrey; India, Mrs. John Magee, and Miss I. Carr, for China. Roll call, a verse of Scripture, then followed. Another hymn was sung, and the meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, to meet in February, at the home of Mrs. John Duffett. The hostess served refreshments, and a generous offering was received.

"Well, at least, I can say I'm a self-made actress."

"Don't bother to apologize, dear. I'd just make the best of it."

CHINA FLAPPER REFUSES ORDER

Chinese girls thus far have disregarded the government's suggestion that they economize in the matter of dress.

If the authorities had their way all the women and girls would adopt a uniform of black skirts and plain jumpers, but, so far as North China is concerned, the campaign started by the Southerners has made little or no headway.

Individuality in dress is a sign of progress, the "flappers' contend, and they go ahead spending as much as their pocketbooks will stand silks and flesh-colored cotwcb stockings in their effort to keep up with the fashions.

The old-time cloth slipper has been replaced to a large extent, by the leather sandal, cut in western style and usually flat-heeled, Manequins and "super flappers" are about the only ones here to attempt to wear high heels, which do not fit the average Chinese foot.

One of the most conspicuous toilet additions adapted from the west is the colored silk and lace handkerchief which smart Chinese girls carry at all times and which invariably matches the color of the dress.

Out here in the East, too, the girls and women are endeavoring stenuously to keep their slender figures. As a rule, it seems, Chinese girls do not take on weight quite as readily as do their American and European sisters, when a Chinese woman becomes fat, the popular "tube" dress is not at all becoming and this serves as another incentive to her to retain her slender figure, regardless of her longing for cakes and pastries.

The Chinese mother takes pride in helping to make her daughter appearancen as slight and graceful as possible With this aim in mind, girls between tea and twelve years old are kept tightly bandaged by their mothers until thy reach maturity

DURING the last four years, over a hundred six-cylinder motors—of every conceivable type . . were built by Chevrolet engineers and tested on the General Motors Proving Ground, before the present motor was developed and pronounced correct.

At the same time, the frame, springs, brakes, wheels, axles, steering mechanism and other parts of the car were being developed, so that the entire chassis represents a finished product of balanced design to which Fisher Body craftsmen have added the smartness and luxury of handsome new body designs.

THE ISLAND OF THE STAIRS

Being a True Account of Certain Strange and Wonderful Adventures of Master John Hampden, Seaman, and Mistress Lucy Wilberforce, Gentlewoman, In the Great South Seas.

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Copyright, 1921, by Cyrus Townsend Brady

"You seem to be a man of sense, Master Hampden," he whispered, drawing me apart after it was all over, "and I noticed the way Mistress Wilberforce looked at you when she first came in. I have still unspent some of the proceeds of our last bout at the table with her father that could be conveyed to the lady, and"—

"She would burn her hand off rather than accept anything," said I promptly.

"You speak with authority?" he asked, looking at me strangely.

"I have known her from a child," said I, "and her father before her. It is not in the breed to take favors, sir."

"But this is restitution, although we won it fairly. Sir Geoffrey was the most reckless and even the most foolish gambler I ever played with. We took advantage of that, but there was no cheating, so, as I am a gentleman."

"Under the circumstances, then," said I, "there is nothing further to be said."

"But what will the poor girl do?" he persisted.

I shook my head. I did not know how to answer that question, for I did not know what she would do. Nevertheless I was touched and pleased with his interest. The man had some good in him still. Association with such a scoundrel as Arrester had not yet wholly ruined him.

"It is too late to make reparation now, although the wish does you honor, my lord."

"Well, Hampden, if you have a chance to tell her what I wanted," he said, "please do. I should do it myself," he continued, "only since her refusal to accept blackguard Arrester she will not admit me to speech. If I were a bit younger and not so confoundedly in debt I would marry the woman myself."

"She is meet for a better man, my lord," said I, exactly as I had answered the duke.

He looked at me curiously for a moment and then laughed loudly.

"Doubtless," he said, "you may tell her that too."

With that he turned on his heel and walked away, and I saw no more of him. I stood about on the terrace until the last of the gentry had gone. My lady spoke to me:

"Master Hampden," she began wearily, "will you come into the house? Master Ficklin, the lawyer, is here waiting to go over my father's papers with me. You have stood by me manfully, your people and my people have been"—she stopped a moment. "friends," she added, "for 500 years. I have no one else with whom to consel. Come with me."

CHAPTER III.

In which I Deliver a Letter.

SIR GEOFFREY'S will, as Master Ficklin read it, was a simple affair. It left everything, of which he died possessed, to his daughter. Unfortunately, he died possessed of nothing. The document was mere waste paper. Everything was mortgaged, every family portrait gone. Mistress Lucy appeared to have no legal right to anything in or out of the castle, save the clothes she wore.

"The point is," Mistress Lucy said, as Master Ficklin bowed deferentially toward her, "that I have nothing."

"Nothing from your father, madam."

"But my mother's estate?"

"I regret to say," said Master Ficklin, "that most of it has been converted into money and lost by your father. There is left in my hands, madam, only a matter of some 12,000 out at interest, which you, being now of full age"—

"I was eighteen on my last birthday."

"Exactly, so that it is at your present disposal."

"What shape is it in?"

"It is invested in consols."

"Can they be realized upon?"

"Instantly."

"To advantage?"

"Most certainly."

"I thank you, Master Ficklin, for your provident care of my little fortune. It is most unexpected," she faltered.

"Believe me, Mistress Lucy, it is a happiness to do anything for you," said the old attorney, rising and gathering up his papers and bowing low before her. "You may command me in every way."

"Thank you, Master Ficklin," said Mistress Lucy, "you touch me greatly, but I need nothing at present. My father made me an allowance and generally paid it. It was a generous one, and, living alone as I did, I did not spend it. I have a few hundred pounds in my own name at the bank, and with that for temporary use and my mother's legacy I shall lack nothing."

"But where will you live, Mistress Lucy?"

"It matters little," she answered listlessly.

"My sister and I," said the old attorney, "live alone in the county town. The house is large. If you would accept our hospitality until your future is decided we should be vastly honored."

"I accept your kindly proffer most thankfully," was her reply. "I have been invited to various homes here and there in the county, but I prefer to go to you."

"Good," said Master Ficklin briskly. "That is settled then. I am empowered by those who hold the mortgage to tell you that the pictures of your father or mother or anything strictly personal they waive their claim to."

"Thank you," said Mistress Lucy. "I shall take but small advantage of their generosity."

"I know that," answered Master Ficklin, "and now I will return to the town. If you will be ready about 2 o'clock" (it was then about 2) "I will return and fetch you to our home."

"I shall be ready. Goodby."

The little lawyer bent over her hand and left the room. I sat dumb and silent during the whole interview, although I had listened to everything with the deepest interest. As usual, it was she who broke the silence when we were alone again.

"Master Hampden," she began, "to what a sorry pass am I reduced! What shall I do now?"

"My lady," said I, "the sorriest part of the pass to which you have been brought is that you have in me such a poor counselor, a rough sailor, but one who would, nevertheless, give his heart's blood to promote your welfare, or do you any service."

Now, as I said that I laid my hand on the breast of my coat, and as I bent awkwardly enough toward her—I could not even bow as gracefully as the little attorney just departed—I felt the paper which I had taken from Sir Geoffrey's hand and which I had entirely forgotten in the hurry and confusion of the days that had followed his death. I stood open mouthed with surprise and shame at my care less forgetfulness, and stared at her.

"What is it?" she asked, instantly noting my amaze.

"I am a fool, madam, a blundering fool," said I, drawing forth the paper, "here is a letter addressed to you which I should have delivered at once." I continued, extending it toward her.

She tore open the envelope as she spoke and drew forth a letter, unfolded it and there dropped from it a little piece of parchment which I instantly picked up and extended to her, but she was so engrossed in the letter that she did not see my action and paid no attention to my outstretched hand.

I looked at the parchment I held in my hand. It was evidently the half of a torn sheet which had been torn in two. The right half was in my possession. A glance showed me that it was a part of a rude drawn map of a portion of an island, although lacking the other half of that I could not be quite certain. It was lettered in characters which were very old fashioned, and some figures in the upper left hand corner gave a latitude. The outlines of the map and the letters and figures were all very dim and faded.

My lady's letter was a short one, for she looked up from it presently, her eyes filled with tears, the first I had seen there, and for that reason I was glad she should enjoy this relief. I suppose the fact that she was so alone and had no one else indowed her to me tenderly

ANNUAL MEETING OF V. O. N.

The annual meeting of the Napanee Branch of the V. O. N. was held on Thursday evening, January 17th, in the Public Library.

Following are the officers for 1929 :—
Hon. President—Mrs. F. F. Miller.
President—Mrs. Geo. Switzer.
1st. Vice President—Mrs. W. H. Millsap.
2nd Vice President—Mrs. W. Smith.
3rd Vice President—Mrs. Geo. Gilbard.
Secretary—Mrs. C. B. Creighton.
Treasurer—Miss Mary Leamy.
Conveners—
Women's Finance Committee—Mrs. C. I. Mayhoe.
Men's Finance Committee—Mr. J. M. Simpson.
Relief Committee—Miss Josephine Leamy.

Report of Secretary for 1928.

During the year we held eleven regular meetings, with an average attendance of twelve.

We are very fortunate to have Miss Laidler as local nurse in charge, whose efficient work is greatly appreciated.

In April a Guest Tea was given by the Order. At different times throughout the year members opened their homes for several tables of Bridge, which added to our funds. In July a large Bridge party was put on at the Golf and Country Club House, from which the proceeds were very gratifying to the committee. The usual Tag Day was held on the second day of the Fall Fair.

By the energetic work and influence of Mrs. J. Leamy, a Carnival was put on in November at the Armouries. Through the generosity of members of various societies in helping in the booths and in donations, a splendid amount of money was cleared.

The Relief Committee has lessened the suffering throughout the town. Sewing meetings are held each Monday afternoon at the Town Hall.

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors held at Ottawa in June was attended by Mrs. Geo. Switzer, our President, who brought back a very helpful report.

The Child Welfare Clinic is a very important branch of the Nurse's work, and has been fairly well attended each Thursday afternoon. Since a room has been provided for these meetings in the Town Hall, we hope for a better attendance.

The thanks of the Committee are extended to the Town Council and Board of Education for the annual grants; to the local press for generous help and co-operation at all times; to all organizations and individuals who have contributed money, whether in large or small sums; indeed, to any and all who have helped us by their interest and support, we give cordial thanks.

BEAVER SANTA CLAUS FUND FINANCIAL STATEMENT

The Beaver takes pleasure in presenting herewith a statement covering the activivities of the Santa Claus Fund for the year 1928. Mr. A. MacGregor has audited the books and his attestation to their correctness is appended.

This fund which has been sponsered by the Beaver for a number of years, has grown into importance with the passing seasons. Many children would miss the joys of Christmas season were it not for the money that the friends supply, and for the devoted and interested work of the women who, under the direction of Miss Leamy, survey the town and prepare the parcels. If those who have given to this fund could have seen the eagerness with which the parcels were awaited and received on Christmas Eve they would have been amply repaid.

As the years pass the work becomes more systemized, and a careful record is kept of all who receive help. Every application is personally investigated and all deserving receive their share of the benefits of the fund.

This past season the Beaver assisted 60 families, and gave a Christmas Stocking with useful and warm articles to 167 children. The individual gifts have been acknowledged through the columns of the Beaver. The amount of materials purchased and distributed are as follows—

Meat, lbs	240
Mincemeat, lbs	60
Flour, lbs	290
Beans, lbs	124
Peas, cans	60
Tomatoes, cans	60
Potatoes, pks	60
Onions, lbs	180
Cabbage, heads	60
Butter, lbs	60
Christmas Stockings	167
Toys	167
Caps and Hats	42
Mittens, pairs	20
Sweaters	40
Hose, pairs	139
Knit Dresses	4
Scarfs	4
Trousers, pairs	9

The Financial Statement which follows shows a slight balance to the credit of the fund. The balance is spent during the January sales when many bargains are possible, for the purchase of material for next season.

Financial Statement

Cash on hand from 1927	$167.67
Receipts, 1928	294 61
Total	462.28
Expenses, 1928	274.02
Balance on hand	188.26

Statement of Auditor

Napanee, Jan. 21st, 1929

I hereby certify taat I have examined the books of the Beaver Santa Claus Fund and checked over all receipts and expenditures.

I have found them accurately and well kept, vouchers, for all expenditures, and the amount on hand agree. with the balance as shown on the bank book today.

A. MacGREGOR.

CAMDEN EAST

Mr. Stanley Tompkins, of Manitoba, arrived at his home here and found his father and mother seriously ill. Dr. Huxtable is attending them, and Miss O'Hara a nurse. — The congregation meeting of the United Church was held in the United Church hall on Wednesday evening of last week. Reports of last year's work by the various branches of the church were brought in.—The heavy down pour of rain on Friday night last was so severe that it flooded most every cellar. Mr. J. Burns, a farmer who resides on the old Simmo farm, lost sixteen head of cattle, the water coming in such a rush into the stable. He went to feed them in the morning as usual and found them all drowned. Mr. Burns has the deepest sympathy of the community in his heavy loss.—A baby boy has come to stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Jeffrey. Congratulations.—Mr. P. E. Histed had the misfortune to lose his barn by fire, on Thursday morning. The barn was not far from the house. Much sympathy is extended to the family in their loss. —Mrs. William Edgar has been engaged for the past week in nursing Mrs. G. Jeffrey and baby.—The Ladies' Aid of the United Church will serve an oyster supper in the Church Hall, on Friday night, Jan. 25th. Everybody come and enjoy a first class supper.

ODESSA

Ralph Benjamin received word that his brother, Harry Benjamin, had passed away at his home, Sacramento, Francisco, are left to mourn his loss. Francisco, are left to mourn his loss. three sisters, Mrs. Darien and Mrs. Brown, Alexandria Bay, and one brother, Walter, and one brother, Ralph Benjamin, Odessa.—Daley Boyce has purchased the Sidney Sproule residence and property recently vacated by Fred Benjamin, who has moved in the Morrison home.—Rev. Mr. Linstead has moved from the Morrison house to the C. W. Lucas cottage on Church St.—Ezra Babcock, Wilton, has moved in the William Frink cottage on Educational Drive.—Mrs. Frank Elson is spending a few days with her father, Mr. Barney Wood, who is seriously ill.—The mercury dropped to 15 degrees below last Monday morning, the lowest of the season.

YARKER - COLEBROOK WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Yarker-Colebrook Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. C. Amey, on Wednesday, Jan. 16th, with thirty members and five visitors present.

The meeting opened by singing the Ode, followed by the Institute creed. Secretary's and Treasurer's reports were then read and approved. A number of letters were then read from the shut-ins, who were remembered at Xmas; also from those who were remembered during their illness.

It was decided for our Institute to accept Camden East's invitation to their meeting at Mrs. Black's, on Friday, Feb. 1st. Plans were then made for a two weeks' course to be taken in February, on "The First Aid". The roll call was well responded to by "Current Events" by all. A reading by Mildred Hamilton was then given, "Unfortunate Bess", which was enjoyed by all. Mrs. McKnight then favored us by another reading. "His Last Hymn"

The programme was then brought to a close by another reading by Mildred Hamilton, "My Folks Think I Lisp". "God Save the King" was sung, and a very dainty lunch was served by the hostess and Social Committee, after which a social half hour was spent.

The next meeting is to be held at Mrs. D. H. Smith's, on the first Wednesday in February.

CAMDEN EAST PRESBYTERIANS

The annual business meeting of the Presbyterian congregation at Camden East was held on Wednesday evening, the 16th inst. Mrs. Guy kindly lent her home for the use of the congregation for the purpose. The meeting was largely attended, practically all the members being present. Reports were heard from the committees associated with the various branches of the church's work, and showed the work to be effectively and satisfactorily accomplished.

The Treasurer's report disclosed that after all obligations had been met for the year, such as salary, general upkeep, repairs, budget, synod and Presbytery dues, besides voluntary offerings to missions and other benevolences, and notwithstanding the fact that in a number of cases the amounts given were in excess of that which was allocated to this congregation, yet there was a substantial surplus to form a credit balance with which to begin the new year.

Resolutions were passed, tendering the sincere appreciation and thanks of the congregation to all those holding office for real and diligence displayed, and the efficient way they had lent their services to the church's work and interest.

When the business programme was concluded, the ladies served refreshments, and the last hour was spent socially.
